GARDEN GROVE — The new $870,000 administration building, representing a dream of the new Garden Grove Unified School District, actually is a nightmare.

The five-story structure, at 10371 Stanford Ave.—scheduled to be completed this month but which will not be finished until September — has been officially labeled by the California State Architectural Board as "a critical problem."

Both the state and the architectural firm are concerned with the problems in the construction of the building which include:

— 1. The floors of the building, which according to the state building code are supposed to be of concrete 4½ inches thick, vary from three to four inches.

—2. The floor-mounted electrical outlets instead of being flush with the floors extend upward because of the thinness of the floors.

—3. The ceilings slope and the whole building is twisted and the walls are not in plumb (or straight).

—4. The walls lean out anywhere from ¾ of an inch to 1¼ inches, thus reducing their strength.

— 5. The supporting structural columns are not straight and thus lose their strength by as much as 40%, according to one estimate.

— 6. The storm drains have not been properly installed and have not been placed over waterproof wood as they are supposed to have been, according to state code.

Concerned over the construction problems, the California State Architectural Board has authorized an independent civil-engineering survey which is expected to be completed within the week.

"We have inspected the building at various times and realize that there are problems surrounding the project," states Seymour Lester, area inspector of the state board.

"When the study is complete we will move to

THIRD PICTURE OF MARS FROM MARINER 4

This is the third picture of Mars made by Mariner 4 as it flew past the Red planet last Wednesday. This picture was released Saturday by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena. Area shown is southwest of Trivium Charontis on the western edge of the Amazonis desert. JPL says small features are two miles across, while the large feature in the center is approximately 12 miles across.

McNamara, Rusk Split on Manned Orbiting Station

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Behind a curtain of secrecy and before a backdrop of fear, top-level U.S. officials have been debating the military-versus-diplomatic factors in a proposed Air Force manned space program

The argument, principally between Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, is over a plan for the Air Force to develop and operate a manned orbital laboratory (MOL) program.

A decision by President Johnson is expected within a month.

The Defense Department believes that a military MOL program is urgently necessary because of growing evidence that the Russians have been developing a military space capability. Soviet leaders have raised the spectre of being able to bombard earth with nuclear weapons launched from hard-to-hit satellites.

The Soviet aspect of the debate was heightened Friday when it was announced that the Russian put a 13-ton "space station" into orbit.

* * * *

THE STATE Department fears that a U.S. military manned space program may harm the nation's image of using space only for peaceful and defensive purposes.

McNamara and Rusk clashed on the issue at a recent meeting of the National Space Council, a high-level advisory body chaired by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration and another member of the five-man space council, have agreed that the military should run the MOL program, but want to use NASA hardware.

The council, which issued only a cryptic and uninformative statement after the session, is believed not to

U.N. Plea Drafted by Morse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., disclosed Saturday he had prepared for President Johnson a plan for a request to the United Nations to intervene in Viet Nam. And he predicted an overwhelming majority of member nations would back a Korean-type U.N. role.

The alternative to a U.N. takeover, Morse said, is that "American boys are going to die by the tens of thousands in the next 24 months in a massive war in Asia" that will lead to a nuclear holocaust.

* * * *

MORSE said that within the past three weeks he prepared, at President Johnson's request, a confidential memo on his views of the legal aspects of an appeal to the United Nations.

Also at the President's request, Morse continued, he submitted this memo to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and discussed it at length with him.

IN RESPONSE to a reporter's suggestion that the Soviet Union would be certain to veto such a proposal in the Security Council, Morse said neither he nor Rusk knows whether the Soviet Union actually would veto—and noted that Russia did not veto the Korean action.

'Dangerous Gamble' Hit by Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin warned Saturday that the Communist world is prepared to meet every American raise in the stakes of what he called the "extremely dangerous" U.S. gamble in Viet Nam.

"The United States must realize that in both physics and politics, each action causes a corresponding counteraction," Kosygin said in a speech in the Latvian capital of Riga.

"Each new aggressive action in Viet Nam undertaken by the Americans is meeting and will inevitably meet a corresponding rebuff from the forces of national liberation and the Socialist states."

* * * *

KOSYGIN'S comments were believed to be substantially the same as those conveyed to Washington through U.S. Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman earlier in the week.

Washington has said that Harriman's talk with the premier Thursday was of interest but did not change the situation.

The Soviet government chief's hostile remarks on Viet Nam ended a short-lived lull in anti-American attacks by top Soviet leaders.

Kosygin and Communist Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev completely omitted Viet Nam from major speeches in Volgograd and Leningrad last weekend. The lull appeared to coincide with the arrival Monday of Harriman on a working-vacation visit.

But Kosygin returned to the Viet Nam theme with a vengeance, accusing the

French Say U.S. Jet Intercepted

PARIS (AP)—French and American authorities Saturday night investigated reports that an American jet photo-reconnaissance plane had been intercepted by a French fighter in the prohibited area above the French atomic plant of Pierrelatte.

U.S. Air Force officials said information available was that the RF-101, called by Communist governments a "spy plane," on a training mission from the Ramstein Air Force Base in West Germany, had not been "intercepted," but had merely been "identified" by a French patrol.

The incident, according to U.S. Air Force officials here, occurred in mid-afternoon Friday. They said the plane returned to its base normally.

THE AMERICAN officials asserted the plane had been in the general area of the Rhone Valley south of Lyon, but they said information available Saturday night was that the U.S. plane had not entered the prohibited zone around Pierrelatte.

U.S. officials said the plane was on a prearranged training flight from Ramstein to France and return. They said it was forced to deviate, because of a thunderstorm, from the flight plan previously filed with French authorities.

The Paris newspaper Le Monde said the French fighters, Vautour all-weather interceptors, forced it to land near Pierrelatte.

American sources denied the Le Monde story that the U.S. plane had been forced to land at a nearby field.

The French News Agency, in a later story, said the plane was caught and "invited to return to its base in Germany."

Marines Hit Cong, Kill 11

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines broke up a "sizeable Viet Cong force" Saturday only eight miles southwest of the Da Nang Air Base where Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is expected to visit this morning.

An American military spokesman said the bodies of 11 Viet Cong dead were counted on the battlefield. He said Marine casualties were "light."

The clash occurred as two platoons of American Marines, numbering about 70 men, came under Viet Cong mortar attack in the course of a routine patrol around the base.

MARINE infantry, air and artillery power was then brought against the Viet Cong as the Marines made a clean sweep of the area, near the village of La Chow.

New Mars Photo Suggests Craters

PASADENA (AP)—Two more of Mariner 4's close-ups of Mars were released Saturday and the latest showed markings reminiscent of those on the moon.

The second and third photos, like the first, displayed broad, bright areas that probably are deserts. There was no sign of "canals" some astronomers say they have seen; no evidence of any form of life.

But the third and closest shot showed what obviously are bumps or depressions. They strongly resemble some of the shallow craters depicted in close-ups of the Moon by Ranger spacecraft.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which built and guided Mariner, told a news conference that no more of an expected total of up to 21 pictures will be released "for a matter of weeks."

During this period, he said, engineers and computers will vastly improve the quality of the first three shots, and others yet to be relayed to Earth as Mariner heads into orbit around the Sun.

Pickering called the transmission of the photos across 134 million miles of space "a magnificent success" and a fitting climax to the United States' $200-million Mars - exploration program—a prestigious first exceeding Russian deep pace efforts.

Here is a description of the pictures released Saturday:

L.A.C. Says:

Mississippi, the Closed Society

This is the title of a book published by James W. Silver, a history professor, in that state's university. He has for over a decade been a controversial citizen of Mississippi because he has opposed the Closed Society attitude that there is a natural division between the whites and Negroes—and that the whites must rule and any one who disagrees with this adamant attitude is un-American and is ostracized in the Mississippi Closed Society.

It is easy to understand why he is placed in this position. His writing is as intolerant of the segregationists as he charges them with intolerance toward civil rights for the Negro. It is a well documented series of conditions that prevail in politics, social life, business operation and newspapers in his state. It is a tragic picture of a state where, it is probable, the greatest intolerance is shown.

He gives a vivid account of the demonstrations and violence when the Negro James Meredith was admitted to the university. He refers to Meredith as a splendid character with great courage. He is not impressed with his intellectual abilities, but pictures him as a hero, which he undoubtedly was as he subjected himself to violence for a cause.

The book was written in 1964. It causes one to wonder what the author now thinks of the speech recently made by Meredith. He was speaking at the University of Khartoun in the Sudan. He told his audience that American Negroes must overthrow the U.S. government if they can't win equality. He said that our system of justice is corrupt and that neither the President nor congress, or the majority of white Americans want the Negroes to have freedom to vote.

This is quite a different picture than that given by his friend, Professor Silver, who told of the U.S. government using all its forces to place this Negro in the University. Meredith was correct as concerns the government in Mississippi. But he was wrong as far as the great majority of Americans are concerned. By his speech he has set back the civil rights movement as do all who condemn Americans as a whole in their determination to guarantee the civil rights of all Americans.

The recent demand by Dr. Martin Luther King that the U.S. negotiate with the Communist Viet Cong to stop fighting in Viet Nam is disturbing. President Johnson has offered, with no conditions set out, to negotiate with the North Viet Nam government. Dr. King does not add to his civil rights support by entering into this foreign affair issue.

The greatest problem is that so much intolerance is shown on both sides by leaders of the two sides. Those demanding civil rights often would take them away from others as the Rumford Housing Act did until it was modified by Prop. 14 last year. The other side, such as the Mississippi Closed Society, deprives the Negro of virtually all his rights to vote or to attend schools of his choice. The Closed Society book should be read because it does show the worst side of segregation. But it should be compared with those equal rights given in all but a few states in this country. We have a long way to go, but we have come a long way.—L.A.C.

NEW KINSEY REPORT

No Sex Crime Link to Dope Addiction

NEW YORK (AP) — A new Kinsey report says that narcotics and pornography have little to do with sex crimes.

"The 'drug-crazed sex-field' or the 'sex-crazed drug addict' are figments of journalistic imagination," says the report based on interviews of prisoners by the late Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey and his associates.

They also found that rather large proportions of the men reported little or no sexual arousal from pornography.

Criminals respond more to the sight of a woman than to pornography, the report says, just as "the sight of an actual pot of stew is more stimulating to a hungry man than a picture of a roast of beef."

THE REPORT, entitled "sex offenders," will be published July 28 by Harper & Row. It is a statistical analysis of interviews with 1,356 white men imprisoned for sex crimes in California and Indiana.

The interviews were conducted between 1941 and 1955 by Kinsey and others. Kinsey died in 1956.

The principal author of the study is Dr. Paul H. Gebhard, Kinsey's successor as head of the Institute for sex research.

While drugs are a minor factor, the report says that alcohol is a major one.

The authors found that 77% of the men who threatened or used force on little girls were intoxicated, as were 54% of the rapists of victims over 15. However, they found that drunkenness rarely does more than "release pre-existing desires."

THEY SUGGEST that society may ultimately "solve many of its sexual problems" by confining sex law to:

"1. Cases where force or threat was employed.

"2. Cases involving sexual activity between an adult and a child.

"3. Cases of sexual activity or solicitation so open as to constitute a public nuisance."

"What two or more consenting adults do sexually in private should not be governed by statute law," they said.

The authors found that sex murders of children are "extremely rare," that older women are more immune to rape, and that it is "quite uncommon" for a child molester to be a senile man.

Little girls are more frequently harmed by adult friends and acquaintances than by "mythical strangers lurking in concealment," the report said.

The President's wife, Lady Bird, and members of the White House staff also joined him for the quick helicopter flight to the mountain retreat in western Maryland.

The White House had declined to identify Johnson's guests "as a matter of policy . . . on personal and private occasions." But the President told newsmen their names later after he recorded a televised statement on his new Teachers Corps proposal in the White House theater.

Graham and Steinbeck sat with reporters during the recording session. Introducing them afterward, the President singled out the newsmen with whom Graham had sat and told him, "I don't want you to become an evil man."

Graham said it was his first trip to Camp David as a friend of the Johnsons.

Humid air spawned thunderstorms in virtually every state Saturday and record chill gripped parts of Dixie.

Funnel clouds maneuvered over Baldwin, Wis., Moline, Ill., and Putnamville, Ind. Severe thunderstorms were forecast through late evening in areas of Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska.

Rain eased the four-year drought in parts of New England and the Appalachians. Newark, N.J., had 52-mile winds, heavy rain and hail during a thunderstorm which broke a heat wave.

Drought stricken central Florida also got needed rain with Ocala and Vero Beach each reporting more than half an inch.

Lyons, Neb., had hail the size of softballs which shattered windows and car windshields. Hail the size of hen's eggs pelted Norwalk, Iowa and Grand Rapids, Mich.

* * * *

WALNUT-SIZE hail was reported at Lincoln, Neb., and golf-ball size hail accompanied 58-mile wind at Lansing, Ill. Duluth, Minn., had hail 1½ inches in diameter.

Lightning was blamed for fires which destroyed a broom factory in Waterloo, Iowa, a monument company plant in Elmwood, Ill., and a junior high school in Terre Haute, Ind. The rubber boots he was wearing apparently saved the life of farmer Wade Beals, 77, when he was struck by lightning near Effingham, Ill. Beals was in critical condition.

Another lightning bolt at Terre Haute, Ind., toppled a tree onto a car and 50-mile winds smashed a garage, trapping a horse inside.

Bowling Green, Ky., clocked winds at 46 miles an hour during a thunderstorm which dropped ¾-inch hail. Evansville, Ind., had ¾ of an inch of rain.

L.A.C. Says:

Mississippi, the Closed Society

This is the title of a book published by James W. Silver, a history professor, in that state's university. He has for over a decade been a controversial citizen of Mississippi because he has opposed the Closed Society attitude that there is a natural division between the whites and Negroes—and that the whites must rule and any one who disagrees with this adamant attitude is un-American and is ostracized in the Mississippi Closed Society.

It is easy to understand why he is placed in this position. His writing is as intolerant of the segregationists as he charges them with intolerance toward civil rights for the Negro. It is a well documented series of conditions that prevail in politics, social life, business operation and newspapers in his state. It is a tragic picture of a state where, it is probable, the greatest intolerance is shown.

He gives a vivid account of the demonstrations and violence when the Negro James Meredith was admitted to the university. He refers to Meredith as a splendid character with great courage. He is not impressed with his intellectual abilities, but pictures him as a hero, which he undoubtedly was as he subjected himself to violence for a cause.

The book was written in 1964. It causes one to wonder what the author now thinks of the speech recently made by Meredith. He was speaking at the University of Khartoun in the Sudan. He told his audience that American Negroes must overthrow the U.S. government if they can't win equality. He said that our system of justice is corrupt and that neither the President nor congress, or the majority of white Americans want the Negroes to have freedom to vote.

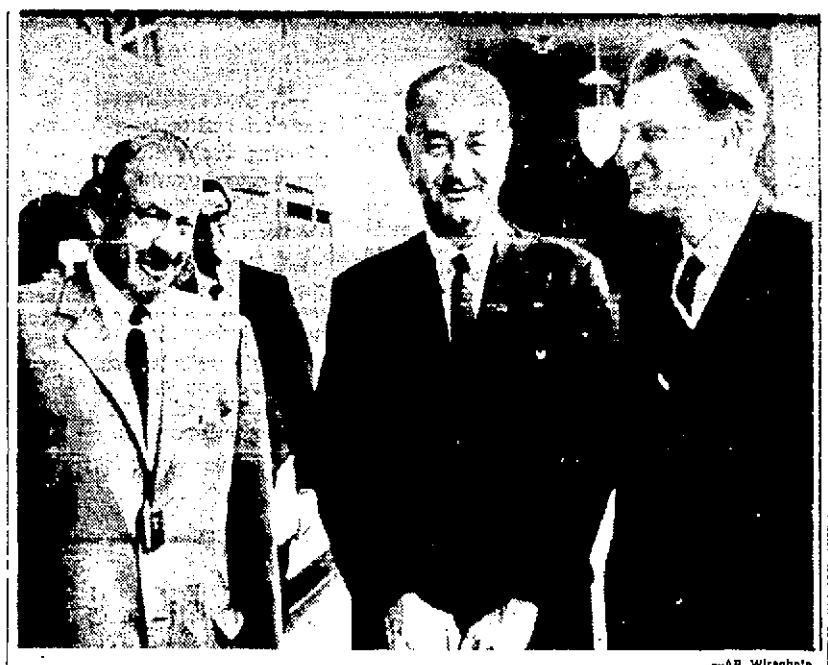

This is quite a different picture than that given by his friend, Professor Silver, who told of the U.S. government using all its forces to place this Negro in the University. Meredith was correct as concerns the government in Mississippi. But he was wrong as far as the great majority of Americans are concerned. By his speech he has set back the civil rights movement as do all who condemn Americans as a whole in their determination to guarantee the civil rights of all Americans.

The recent demand by Dr. Martin Luther King that the U.S. negotiate with the Communist Viet Cong to stop fighting in Viet Nam is disturbing. President Johnson has offered, with no conditions set out, to negotiate with the North Viet Nam government. Dr. King does not add to his civil rights support by entering into this foreign affair issue.

The greatest problem is that so much intolerance is shown on both sides by leaders of the two sides. Those demanding civil rights often would take them away from others as the Rumford Housing Act did until it was modified by Prop. 14 last year. The other side, such as the Mississippi Closed Society, deprives the Negro of virtually all his rights to vote or to attend schools of his choice. The Closed Society book should be read because it does show the worst side of segregation. But it should be compared with those equal rights given in all but a few states in this country. We have a long way to go, but we have come a long way.—L.A.C.

PRESIDENT WITH WRITER, PREACHER

President Takes Author, Preacher to Camp David

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson flew to Camp David, Md., Saturday with evangelist Billy Graham and author John Steinbeck and their wives as his weekend guests.

The President's wife, Lady Bird, and members of the White House staff also joined him for the quick helicopter flight to the mountain retreat in western Maryland.

The White House had declined to identify Johnson's guests "as a matter of policy . . . on personal and private occasions." But the President told newsmen their names later after he recorded a televised statement on his new Teachers Corps proposal in the White House theater.

* * * *

JOHNSON SAID he would return to Washington late today or Monday.

Graham and Steinbeck sat with reporters during the recording session. Introducing them afterward, the President singled out the newsmen with whom Graham had sat and told him, "I don't want you to become an evil man."

Graham said it was his first trip to Camp David as a friend of the Johnsons.

* * * *

BEFORE HIS departure, the President spent a busy morning during which he:

—Spent several hours planning strategy with staff members and considering ambassadorial and other high-level appointments he hopes to announce next week.

—Discussed immigration matters with aide Jack Valenti and made plans with assistant Horace Busby for his next cabinet meeting.

—Noted that a new commemorative stamp went on sale Saturday marking the 700th anniversary of the birth of the Italian poet and philosopher Dante Alighieri. He congratulated "our entire Italian-American community for sustaining in their new home the revered ideals and traditions of the old."

Schoolgirl Lobs Rolling Pin 135-Feet

STROUD, Okla. (AP)—High school senior Anita Jenkins broke the world rolling-pin throwing record Saturday with a pitch of 135 feet, 8 inches.

The heave came during the International Brick and Rolling Pin Throwing Contest, conducted by telegraph annually among Stroud, Okla., Stroud, Canada; Stroud, Australia; and Stroud, England. Canada's Stroud is defending champion.

Official results of this year's meet will be tabulated and announced later.

Miss Jenkins exceeded the listed world record of 119 feet, 6 inches set by Beryl Abbott of Australia in 1963 on each of her three throws. Her other distances were 129-3 and 127-2.

10-Year-Old Driver of Pickup Kills Two

RAGLAND, N.M. (UPI) — A pickup truck, driven by a 10-year-old boy, collided with an automobile near here Saturday and injuring three others.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Pacheco of Clovis, N.M. State police identified the driver of the pickup truck as Rex Rush, 10, son of Odus Rush of McAllister, N.M. Young Rush, alone in the truck, received head and internal injuries.

Boy Shows How Girl Broke Arm, Fractures His

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Talk about breaks! The Regis Mooney family in suburban Gates got two in less than an hour.

Daughter Marianne, 7, fell Friday from a clothespole on which she was swinging and suffered a fracture of her left arm.

Half an hour later, son Michael, 5, suffered a fracture of his left arm on the same pole in the same way as he re-enacted for a baby-sitter how his sister's accident occurred.

Marble Found in Watermelon

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A Lafayette family was deep into watermelon eating when one of the youngsters discovered a marble in the red meat.

Dr. H. K. Riley, University of Southwestern Louisiana horticulturist, said it is possible the marble lodged in the blossom and then was enveloped when the melon matured.

Reapport Amendment Passage Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prediction of favorable action when the Dirksen amendment comes to a vote in the Senate Judiciary Committee next week was made Sunday by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Murphy is a co-sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment on reapportionment introduced by Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill.

NEW KINSEY REPORT

No Sex Crime Link to Dope Addiction

NEW YORK (AP) — A new Kinsey report says that narcotics and pornography have little to do with sex crimes.

"The 'drug-crazed sex-field' or the 'sex-crazed drug addict' are figments of journalistic imagination," says the report based on interviews of prisoners by the late Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey and his associates.

They also found that rather large proportions of the men reported little or no sexual arousal from pornography.

Criminals respond more to the sight of a woman than to pornography, the report says, just as "the sight of an actual pot of stew is more stimulating to a hungry man than a picture of a roast of beef."

* * * *

THE REPORT, entitled "sex offenders," will be published July 28 by Harper & Row. It is a statistical analysis of interviews with 1,356 white men imprisoned for sex crimes in California and Indiana.

The interviews were conducted between 1941 and 1955 by Kinsey and others. Kinsey died in 1956.

The principal author of the study is Dr. Paul H. Gebhard, Kinsey's successor as head of the institute for sex research.

While drugs are a minor factor, the report says that alcohol is a major one.

The authors found that 77% of the men who threatened or used force on little girls were intoxicated, as were 54% of the rapists of victims over 15. However, they found that drunkenness rarely does more than "release pre-existing desires."

* * * *

THEY SUGGEST that society may ultimately "solve many of its sexual problems" by confining sex law to:

"1. Cases where force or threat was employed.

"2. Cases involving sexual activity between an adult and a child.

"3. Cases of sexual activity or solicitation so open as to constitute a public nuisance."

"What two or more consenting adults do sexually in private should not be governed by statute law," they said.

The authors found that sex murders of children are "extremely rare," that older women are more immune to rape, and that it is "quite uncommon" for a child molester to be a senile man.

Little girls are more frequently harmed by adult friends and acquaintances than by "mythical strangers lurking in concealment," the report said.

Rain, Hail Pelt Most of Nation

like a long, shallow depression, or valley. The picture covers an area 175 miles by 310 miles, was taken from an altitude of 9,500 miles.

NO. 2—This photo, covering an area 186 miles by 550 miles, lies just north of the area covered by frame No. 3 and midway between the deserts Elysium and Amazonis. No major surface markings are visible in this frame, which overlaps into the area covered by the first picture.

Picture No. 1, released Thursday, was man's first close-up photograph of another planet.

It shows a chunk of the edge of Mars and beyond that the dark void of space. It apparently is of a desert area known as Phlegra. It shows some smudges and surface markings. Details are not quite as sharp as in the two later photos, because it was taken from an altitude of 10,500 miles, at the start of Mariner 4's 25-minute north-to-south camera run last Wednesday night.

The first three pictures presumably could have shown evidence of life on Mars—had the evidence been in the form of objects two or more miles across.

They showed very few surface markings, and none of these seemed to indicate life. This strengthened belief that Mariner's shots are not likely to answer the ancient question of whether life actually does exist on the planet most like earth . . . and that further probes are needed.

Dr. Robert Leighton, chief of the team of scientists chosen to study the photographs, said he could see no evidence of any long, narrow features which would correspond to the network of canals some astronomers have seen on Mars and which have promted speculation there were intelligent beings on that planet.

Leighton, a California Institute of Technology physicist, said none of the dark areas which some scientists have believed to be vegetation will show up before frames seven and eight, which are not due to be released for weeks.

As he spoke, Mariner 4 was transmitting its sixth picture. Transmission of the picture, coming in at a rate of one every 10 hours, is expected to continue through next week.

Mariner Project scientist R. K. Sloan said earth telescopes looking at Mars when Mariner flew past reported very little haze. He said the spacecraft apparently had excellent photographic conditions.

Dr. Bruce Murray, Caltech planetary scientist, said he doubted that any of the smudges or markings was caused by haze or clouds in the martian atmosphere. "These may be something in the spacecraft's television or transmission systems," he said.

Dr. Pickering said that despite the lack of evidence in the first three photographs, he still was confident that unmanned landings planned in the 1970s would find some simple form of life on Mars.

Dr. Murray was asked what he regarded as the significant features of the first three photos.

He said he thinks there are two, possibly three.

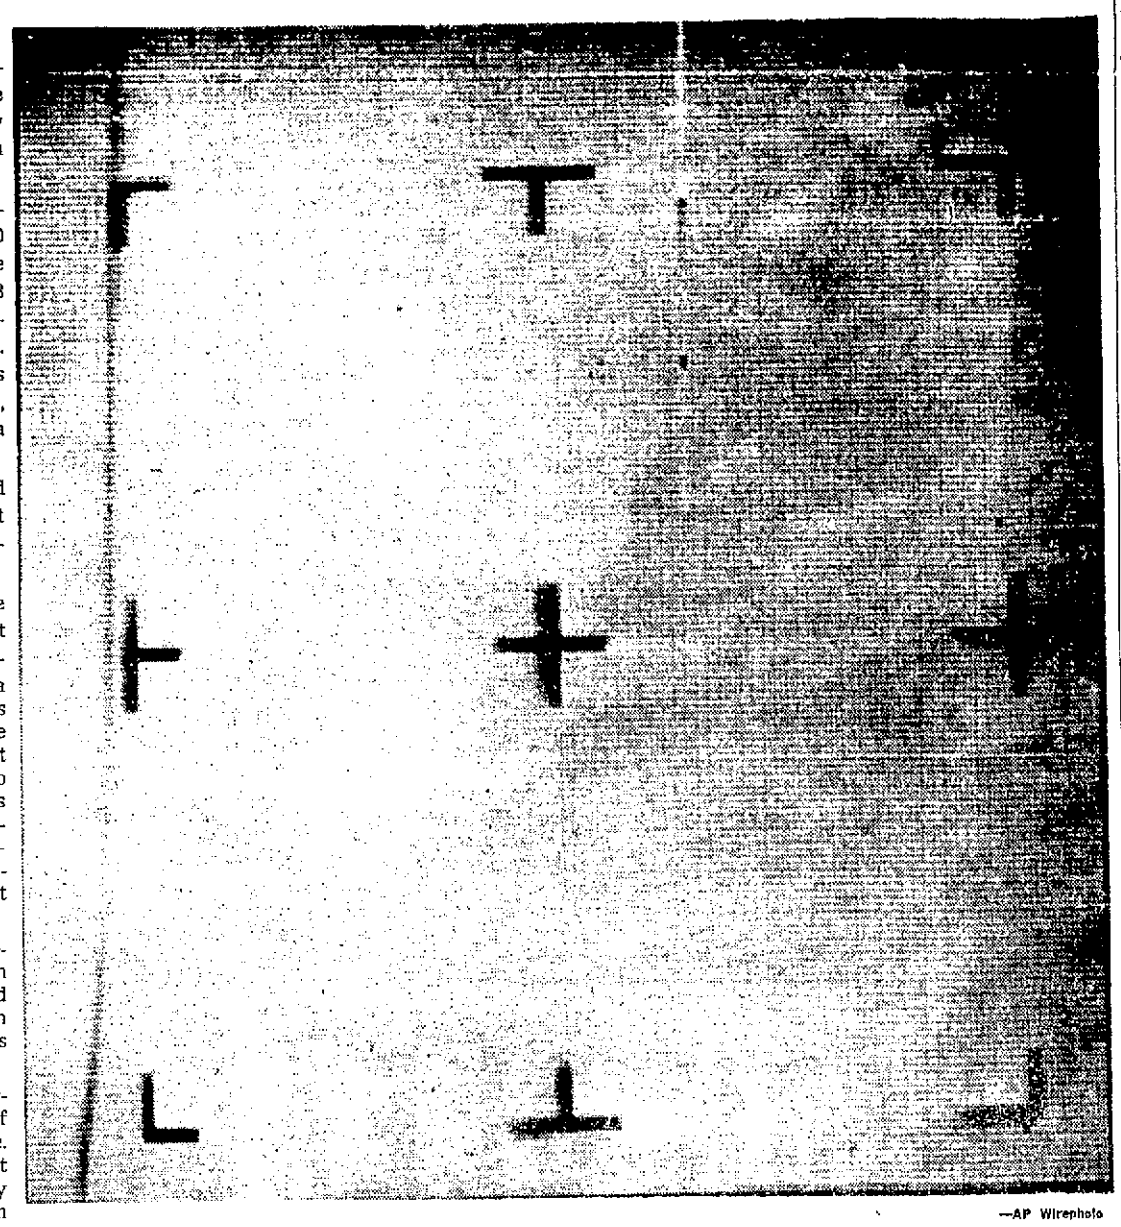

One, he said, is a two-mile-wide bright spot in Picture No. 3. He said it is the "first distinctive surface feature determined on Mars."

* * * *

THE SECOND, he said, is a 12-mile-wide dark spot in the area where Pictures 1 and 2 overlap. This feature, he said, showed on both pictures and matched up when they were overlapped — indicating it is genuine and not a smudge caused by an irregularity in the camera system.

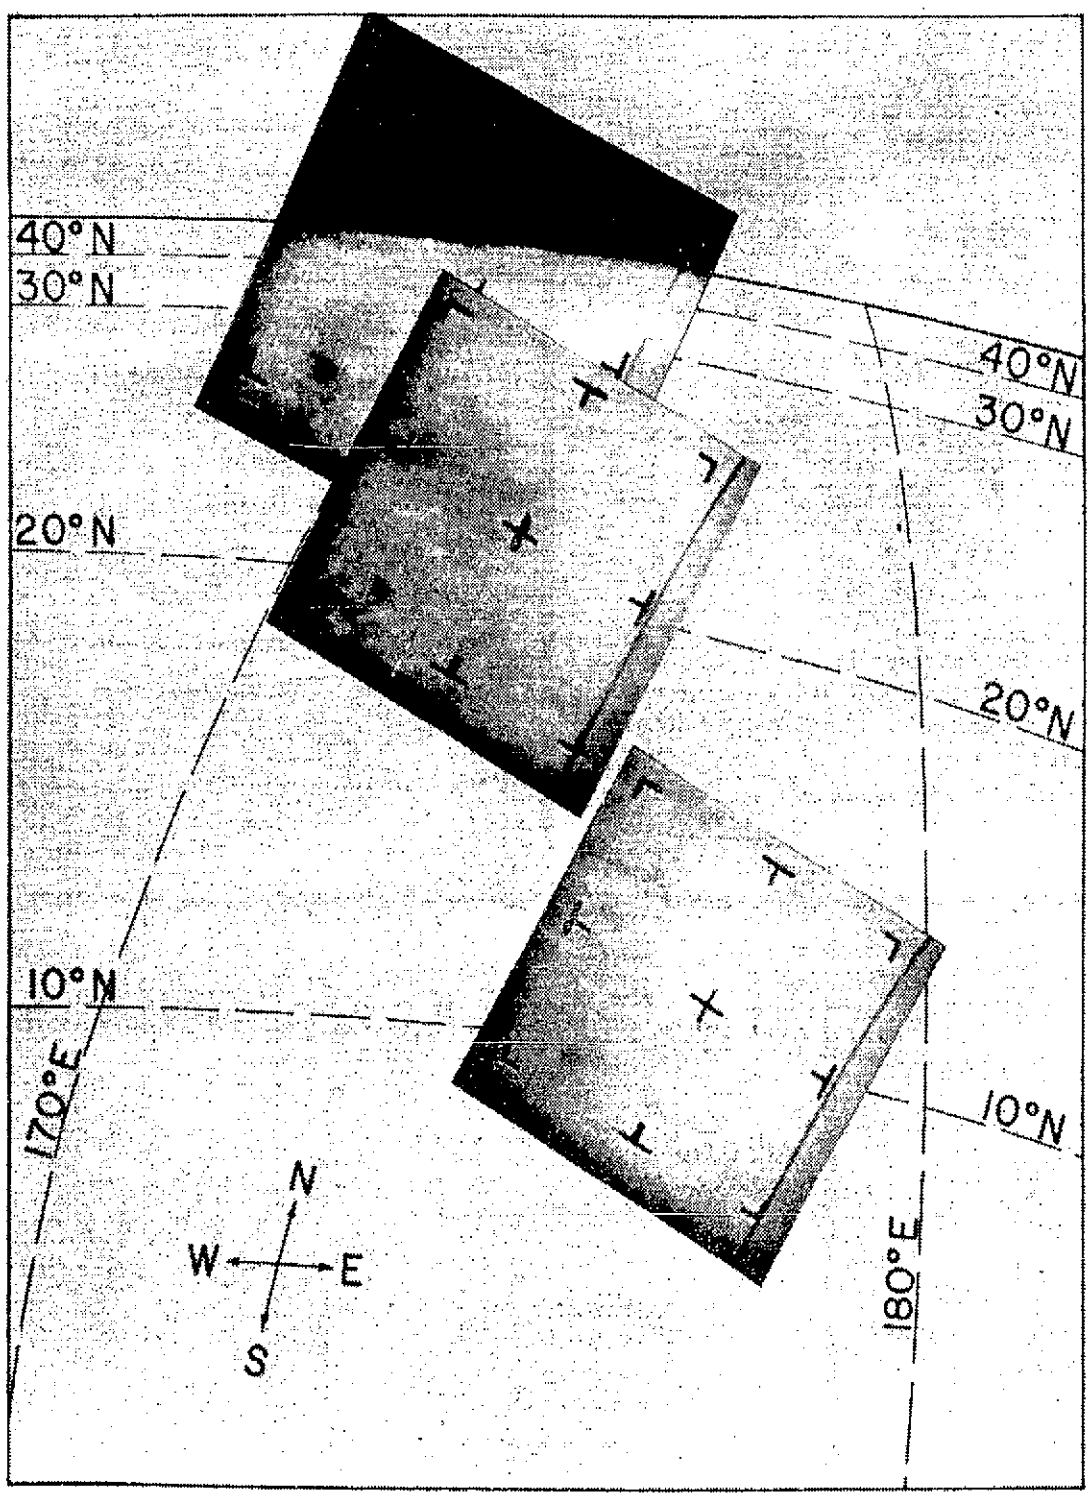

The possible third is "something near the limb (the edge of the planet, sharply outlined against the dark sky in Picture No. 1)." He did not further identify it.

Murray and other experts declined to speculate on what the features might be.

Photos of Mars 'Terribly Exciting, Important'

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP)—The spectacular Mariner 4 photographs of Mars were hailed Saturday by Dr. Martin Schwarzchild of Princeton University as a "terribly exciting and important step" in planetary study.

Dr. Schwarzchild, who is at Palestine to direct the photographing of Saturn and other celestial objects through use of a huge telescope suspended from a balloon system at an altitude of 15 miles, viewed the accomplishment as a milestone toward putting a man on Mars.

An internationally renowned astronomer, Dr. Schwarzchild said he believes "it will be technically possible to reach Mars in the late 1980s."

The Mariner 4 pictures, however, will not settle the age-old argument of whether there is life on Mars, he said, because scientists will not be able to reach a definite conclusion until instruments are landed on the surface of the planet.

Basing his statement on what he has read of the Mariner flight and from data obtained in his own Stratoscope II program and ground studies, Dr. Schwarzchild said, "It is highly unlikely that Mars has a highly developed form of life." He added that if there is life, "it is very primitive."

However primitive, he said its discovery would be of tremendous scientific importance.

Flying Object Seen in S. America

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—An unidentified flying object was spotted Saturday over the Rio Plata, the 28-mile-wide river that divides Argentina and Uruguay.

Six persons walking on a beach near Colonia, Uruguay, spotted the object at 10 a.m. The spotting of the object from Uruguay followed by 15 hours sighting of several unidentified flying objects over Buenos Aires, the Argentine capital situated across the river from Colonia.

Scattered reports of flying objects were reported elsewhere this month. On July 10, a peasant couple in a village near Oporto, the second largest city in Portugal, reported seeing a pinkish unidentified object at about 3,000 feet in the sky. They said they saw the object at the same time some static broke out on their radio.

The day before, members of the staff at the Santa Maria Airport in the Azores, said that for 45 minutes they observed an unidentified object at an altitude of 33,000 feet. The deputy airport manager was among those who reported seeing it.

* * * *

AIRPORT authorities said electro magnetic clocks stopped for 10 minutes while the cylindrical white object was overhead. A plane was sent up to observe the object, but it reported no success.

One of the six who spotted the flying object from Uruguay, Jose Luis Alvarez Larrauma, 17, of Colonia, told Uruguayan police that the object he saw was cigar-shaped, reddish in color and about 10 meters (32 feet) above the river and not far out from the beach. He said

Manned Voyage to Mars in 1980s Forecast

EDITOR'S NOTE: Known as "Mr. Way Out," German-born Ernst Stuhlinger is a physicist who in 1943 joined Dr. Wernher von Braun's famous rocket development group at Peenemuende. Since coming to the U.S. in 1946, he has worked with captured V-2s, helped the Army develop guided missiles and is now researching propulsion systems to get men to the moon and Mars. Years before Sputnik kicked off the space age, Dr. Stuhlinger was working on the idea of a manned expedition to Mars in an electric space fleet, which he describes in this article.

By DR. E. STUHLINGER
Director, Research Projects Laboratory
George C. Marshall Spaceflight Center

A FLEET OF FOUR electric spaceships like this one may carry 16 men to Mars in the 1980s. Two men will live in each of the cans at the end of the girder-like arm during the six-month outbound trip, then descend to the surface in landing craft carried between the radiator vanes.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.—Mariner IV has whetted man's appetite for more knowledge of Mars. That appetite will not be satisfied until men land on and explore the Martian surface.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has no formal plan for a manned landing.

But we will go. We will go because the inertia of knowledge-seeking will carry us there — because man is unable to resist the challenge.

A Mars expedition is a natural follow-on after moon landings and a means to find answers to the questions raised by fly-bys and unmanned landings.

* * * *

MY OWN DESIGN for a manned expedition to Mars, one I believe is relatively close to reality, involves using a fleet of four electric spaceships manned by a crew of 16 men.

I have shown some of the earlier designs to John Glenn and astronauts Alan Shepard and Gus Grissom. They all made the same comment: "I would love to fly something like that. Let me know when it is ready."

Why four spaceships? Two reasons: first, the size of the vehicles is reduced for "easy handling;" second, one or even two vehicles could be disabled without aborting the mission or losing crew members.

The round trip should take about 485 days. We probably will be able to go in the 1980s, perhaps the early 1980s.

* * * *

SATURN V rockets of the type programmed to boost the first Americans to the moon could lift each Mars vehicle into Earth orbit in three pieces. After assembly, they would be checked out carefully and the flight crews placed aboard.

Each planned spacecraft has two cylindrical modules which would be manned by two men each. These modules are located at the end of a long girder-like arm which rotates about one revolution a minute to simulate enough gravity to make the astronauts comfortable.

The "manned cans," as they have been called, have two floors of four rooms each—more room than most people have on Earth.

* * * *

THE FOUR astronauts can visit or they have enough space to avoid each other on the six-month outbound voyage.

This outbound leg will begin when an atomic-powered rocket, sent up separately, gives each ship enough speed to escape Earth's gravity. They will move fast enough to go through the Van Allen radiation belts as quickly as possible.

The cans will be lightly shielded against radiation and will contain a separate, more heavily protected shelter. Astronauts can enter the shelters during passage through the inner Van Allen belt and during periods of intense solar activity.

In an emergency, the shelters are large enough to accommodate the entire expedition crew.

* * * *

ONCE AWAY from the Earth's influence, electric ion engines will take over and gently guide the fleet to an orbit around Mars.

In my own design, heat, generated by a fisson reactor, tears electrons away from atoms and converts them to ions, or charged particles.

These ions are accelerated by an electric field and expelled from nozzles to supply thrust.

Far less fuel will be consumed to produce this thrust than in the case of a chemical or straight nuclear rocket.

This is a great advantage of the ion engine. It frees us from the need to lift heavy loads of fuel into space.

Thrust is very small, but the electric gun will keep firing steadily for months, even years. This continual push in the frictionless void of outer space builds up the enormous velocities, enabling the spacecraft to travel to Mars at speeds of a million and a half miles a day.

BUT ION engines do not have enough power to brake a spacecraft for a landing on Mars. The descent to the surface will be made in high-thrust chemically powered landing craft carried in the "stem" of the T-shaped electric vehicles.

Three of the four mother ships will carry such craft, and the first one to descend to the Martian surface will carry supplies and equipment only. If it lands safely, a second vehicle carrying a small crew will follow.

The third is available as back-up in the event one of the other two crashes. Explorers will not descend to the surface unless an undamaged craft is already there, available for return.

* * * *

ASTRONAUTS and scientists would have about 30 days for taking measurements and collecting 12 tons of samples which might reveal the origin and history not only of Mars but of the entire solar system.

The first men on Mars may find primitive plant life there, a discovery that would mean life is not unique on Earth and one that would have profound scientific and philosophical significance.

The men would return with their samples to the orbiting electric ships in one landing craft. After abandoning this vehicle and equalizing the fuel load between mother ships, the expedition would start on the nine-month journey home.

Manned Voyage to Mars in 1980s Forecast

EDITOR'S NOTE: Known as "Mr. Way Out," German-born Ernst Stuhlinger is a physicist who in 1943 joined Dr. Wernher von Braun's famous rocket development group at Peenemuende. Since coming to the U.S. in 1946, he has worked with captured V-2s, helped the Army develop guided missiles and is now researching propulsion systems to get men to the moon and Mars. Years before Sputnik kicked off the space age, Dr. Stuhlinger was working on the idea of a manned expedition to Mars in an electric space fleet, which he describes in this article.

By DR. E. STUHLINGER
Director, Research Projects Laboratory
George C. Marshall Spaceflight Center

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.—Mariner IV has whetted man's appetite for more knowledge of Mars. That appetite will not be satisfied until men land on and explore the Martian surface.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has no formal plan for a manned landing.

But we will go. We will go because the inertia of knowledge-seeking will carry us there — because man is unable to resist the challenge.

A Mars expedition is a natural follow-on after moon landings and a means to find answers to the questions raised by fly-bys and unmanned landings.

A FLEET OF FOUR electric spaceships like this one may carry 16 men to Mars in the 1980s. Two men will live in each of the cans at the end of the girder-like arm during the six-month outbound trip, then descend to the surface in landing craft carried between the radiator vanes.

* * * *

MY OWN DESIGN for a manned expedition to Mars, one I believe is relatively close to reality, involves using a fleet of four electric spaceships manned by a crew of 16 men.

I have shown some of the earlier designs to John Glenn and astronauts Alan Shepard and Gus Grissom. They all made the same comment: "I would love to fly something like that. Let me know when it is ready."

Why four spaceships? Two reasons: first, the size of the vehicles is reduced for "easy handling;" second, one or even two vehicles could be disabled without aborting the mission or losing crew members.

The round trip should take about 485 days. We probably will be able to go in the 1980s, perhaps the early 1980s.

* * * *

SATURN V rockets of the type programmed to boost the first Americans to the moon could lift each Mars vehicle into Earth orbit in three pieces. After assembly, they would be checked out carefully and the flight crews placed aboard.

Each planned spacecraft has two cylindrical modules which would be manned by two men each. These modules are located at the end of a long girder-like arm which rotates about one revolution a minute to simulate enough gravity to make the astronauts comfortable.

The "manned cans," as they have been called, have two floors of four rooms each—more room than most people have on Earth.

* * * *

THE FOUR astronauts can visit or they have enough space to avoid each other on the six-month outbound voyage.

This outbound leg will begin when an atomic-powered rocket, sent up separately, gives each ship enough speed to escape Earth's gravity. They will move fast enough to go through the Van Allen radiation belts as quickly as possible.

The cans will be lightly shielded against radiation and will contain a separate, more heavily protected shelter. Astronauts can enter the shelters during passage through the inner Van Allen belt and during periods of intense solar activity.

In an emergency, the shelters are large enough to accommodate the entire expedition crew.

* * * *

ONCE AWAY from the Earth's influence, electric ion engines will take over and gently guide the fleet to an orbit around Mars.

In my own design, heat, generated by a fisson reactor, tears electrons away from atoms and converts them to ions, or charged particles.

These ions are accelerated by an electric field and expelled from nozzles to supply thrust.

Far less fuel will be consumed to produce this thrust than in the case of a chemical or straight nuclear rocket.

This is a great advantage of the ion engine. It frees us from the need to lift heavy loads of fuel into space.

Thrust is very small, but the electric gun will keep firing steadily for months, even years. This continual push in the frictionless void of outer space builds up the enormous velocities, enabling the spacecraft to travel to Mars at speeds of a million and a half miles a day.

BUT ION engines do not have enough power to brake a spacecraft for a landing on Mars. The descent to the surface will be made in high-thrust chemically powered landing craft carried in the "stem" of the T-shaped electric vehicles.

Three of the four mother ships will carry such craft, and the first one to descend to the Martian surface will carry supplies and equipment only. If it lands safely, a second vehicle carrying a small crew will follow.

The third is available as back-up in the event one of the other two crashes. Explorers will not descend to the surface unless an undamaged craft is already there, available for return.

* * * *

ASTRONAUTS and scientists would have about 30 days for taking measurements and collecting 12 tons of samples which might reveal the origin and history not only of Mars but of the entire solar system.

The first men on Mars may find primitive plant life there, a discovery that would mean life is not unique on Earth and one that would have profound scientific and philosophical significance.

The men would return with their samples to the orbiting electric ships in one landing craft. After abandoning this vehicle and equalizing the fuel load between mother ships, the expedition would start on the nine-month journey home.

Food Scarce Over World, U.S. Alarmed

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Alarmed by the spectre of a world food shortage, the Administration is planning major changes in overseas aid programs and domestic farm policies.

Urgency of the problem is pointed up in a confidential directive which Aid Administrator David Bell has sent to all U.S. aid mission chiefs for their guidance in drawing up next year's programs. A copy was obtained by the Independent, Press-Telegram from high government sources.

Bell asked U.S. missions to give high priority to the three problems plaguing most underdeveloped countries — food supply, malnutrition among the very young, and population control.

* * * *

TO MEET the two objectives first named, American agriculture will be called on to produce more for distribution abroad. This will require basic long-term revisions in farm-production goals, which may loosen the shackles overabundance has placed on the American farmer.

While a food shortage could create disorders favorable to Communist penetration, administration officials believe it presents the free world with opportunity. Soviet bloc countries are hard pressed to meet their own food requirements, but the Western countries have the capacity to alleviate, if not prevent, starvation-induced political upheavals in the hunger areas.

The problems under-developed countries face are outlined in a report completed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's foreign analysis division in April. Most of the countries are undergoing a population explosion. Many are running out of unused cropland which can meet needs.

* * * *

THE STUDY concluded that the only solution is to increase yields, since little additional acreage is available. But the smaller countries lack the capital and technical capacity to do that.

The report said: "Food shipments from the developed countries can help but they cannot account for more than a very small fraction of projected increase in good needs over the next several years."

Moreover, the report added, "it will be very difficult to establish a secure and lasting world order in a situation where the less developed world continues to become increasingly dependent on concessional food shipments from the advanced countries."

Bell's memorandum to aid chiefs abroad outlined both long and short-term steps which can be taken.

For the near term, it said, aid is prepared to give "top priority" to "sensible" programs to "establish and expand voluntary programs of family planning" in those countries where "a direct, public approach" to birth control by aid would be appropriate.

* * * *

A SECOND approach, new to aid's thinking, involves increasing the level of nutrition among the very young. It is the outgrowth of studies directed by Dr. Phillip Lee of Palo Alto, Calif. These found that malnutrition stunts minds as well as bodies. Aid planners drew inferences that stunted minds are more susceptible to political subversion and instability, hence a decision was made to step up programs for feeding children between infancy and school age.

"The densely populated, less-developed countries, which have virtually exhausted the supply of new land that can readily be brought under cultivation," said the economic study, "must compress a lot of progress into a very short period of time if they are to generate the yield takeoff needed to feed their rapidly growing populations."

It was that conclusion which led to aid's decision to add the new emphasis on food and feeding in drawing up next year's programs.

BARBER SPRAYS PICKET
A white civil rights picket is sprayed in the face with a water hose as he picketed a Bogalusa barber shop Saturday. The barber was identified as Ray Risen of Bogalusa.

Bogalusa Marchers Attacked by Whites

BOGALUSA, La. (UPI)—Despite heavy police protection, white segregationists hurled firecrackers, rocks, oranges and tomatoes at civil rights marchers and doused pickets with water Saturday in this racially tense papermill town.

Bystanders began to rush into a line of about 200 Negroes returning from a march on City Hall only to be turned back when helmeted state police raised their machine guns.

The debris began to rain down as the marchers neared Pine Tree Plaza Shopping Center about a half-block from the municipal building. Earlier, pickets had been drenched with water hoses.

* * * *

ONE GIRL in the line of march fell screaming to the ground. It was not immediately determined whether she had been injured.

Henry Park, 28, a white civil rights worker from San Francisco, was arrested by state police for using profanity during the march. Two Negro girls, Mary Louise Crosby and Jacqueline Butler of St. Louis were taken into protective custody. The Crosby girl was returned to a Negro union hall where the march started. She was released there.

A barber backed Park off a sidewalk with a stream of water and said "I want you to walk in the gutter. All trash belongs in the gutter."

Park grinned and did a brief soft-shoe shuffle.

The barber also watered down Victor Levine, 22, of Berkeley, Calif.

He then turned to Park and told him he smelled "like a nigger."

"This'll make you smell better," the barber said and began lathering Park with soap. About 75 whites clustered around to watch and laugh.

* * * *

THREE firecrackers were thrown at the marchers — two on the way to city hall and one on the way back.

The new outbreak of trouble came as civil leaders appealed repeatedly on the air for an end to racial violence in Bogalusa. The Ku Klux Klan threatened to counter any civil rights marches the Negroes made.

The Ku Klux Klan had rallies scheduled later Saturday night at Crossroads, Miss., just across the Pearl River from Louisiana, and at Maryville, Tenn.

No trouble was expected at Maryville.

* * * *

A MAN identified as Robert Long, 37, formerly of Houston, Tex., was arrested by Greensboro police when an officer found him with a butcher knife wrapped in a comic book.

At Newton, Georgia, in the southwest sector of the state, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee reported six of its workers were arrested in a dispute with police over use of a camera at a voter rally in front of the courthouse.

At Anniston, Ala., meanwhile, a doctor disclosed that a Negro hit in the back by a nightrider's bullet would be paralyzed for life.

Dr. Russell Leonard said that Willie Brewster, 38, had only a 50-50 chance of survival, and if he does live he will never be able to move his body from the mid chest down.

McNamara and Rusk at Odds Over Manned, Orbital Lab

have reached agreement and the divergent views will be put before the President by Humphrey.

Whether or not Humphrey will make a recommendation isn't clear. However, the vice president has expressed concern over the Russian space effort.

"We would be foolish if we did not understand the military implications of Soviet space science," he remarked after the Russian space-walk.

McNamara's position has been strengthened by a report from the prestigious House military operations subcommittee, chaired by Chet Holifield, D-Calif.

* * * *

HOLIFIELD'S subcommittee recommended, with the concurrence of the full House Government Operations Committee, that the MOL program be directed by the military and that military hardware be used.

As corollaries, however, the subcommittee urged strong NASA participation in the MOL program plus a presidential decision on beyond-the-moon programs that would keep NASA dominant in the overall U.S. space effort.

"The compelling need of the moment is to overcome a military lag in space technology," the subcommittee warned in a penetrating and articulate report submitted to the space council.

The State Department would prefer to have NASA in charge of the MOL to maintain the "peaceful image" even though the program would have vital military aims.

* * * *

RUSK has objected to what he feels is undue emphasis on seeking a capability for bombardment from space.

Partly behind State's position is the department's sensitivity to a U.S.-U.S.S.R. agreement restricting space programs to peaceful purposes, despite increasing evidence that the Soviet manned space program is not entirely peaceful.

The Holifield subcommittee stresses that the MOL program must be designed to keep the United States from falling too far behind a Soviet space-bombardment capability. The subcommittee's report sees these military space missions:

—Reconnaissance and early warning.

—Bombardment from satellites.

—Inspection of other satellites and antiintercontinental-ballistic-missile control.

The ultimate MOL decision may bow to Rusk's objections on space bombardment. At least this would be temporarily de-emphasized while the military concentrate on creating a capability for the other two military aims.

Assuming that the President should order the military MOL, he will have to decide what basic hardware system shall be used.

Webb wants to create an MOL from an extension of the Apollo man-on-the-moon program. NASA would use the Apollo command module to carry men to and from a laboratory created from the lunar-excursion-module casing.

* * * *

THE AIR FORCE wants a Gemini spacecraft carrying men to a house-trailer-sized space laboratory of its own design. The Air Force men say the NASA plan has too small a lab.

Also, NASA would like to use its all-liquid-fueled Saturn rocket system for the MOL program. The Air Force men are insistent that their combination solid-liquid fuel Titan 3-C, which had a well-timed and rousingly successful maiden launch at Cape Kennedy last month, is the answer.

They claim that the Titan system is less expensive and easier to operate than the mighty Saturn.

A military MOL has been discussed for over a decade. But after Defense and NASA reached accord late last year on military operation of the MOL program, the Air Force commissioned four contractors, Douglas, Lockheed, Boeing and General Electric, to make design studies aimed at being able to put an MOL in space by 1968.

The successful firm stands to get developmental and production contracts that could amount to well over a billion dollars.

United States of turning "interference into others' affairs the guiding principle of its foreign policy."

"The policy conducted by the United States is extremely dangerous because it blocks relaxation of international tensions and creates an exceptionally dangerous situation which threatens peace not only in Southeast Asia but also in the entire world," he said.

In an apparent reference to American plans for increasing military forces in Viet Nam, Kosygin said that the United States is "constantly increasing the stakes in the gamble in which it is engaged."

The Soviet official also repeated Soviet pledges to render "all the aid necessary to repel the aggression" against North Viet Nam. This commitment was conspicuously absent from his speech last weekend.

* * * *

THE KREMLIN leaders' silence on Viet Nam was broken earlier by Communist Party Presidium member Mikhail Suslov who spoke in Vilnius, the capital of Lithuania.

His slap at the United States on Viet Nam contrasted sharply with a speech an hour earlier by President Anastas I. Mikoyan who made no reference to the subject while speaking in the Estonian capital of Tallin.

Kosygin also repeated the Communist-bloc demand for a settlement of the Vietnamese conflict on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Viet Nam.

He reaffirmed Soviet support for the four-point peace demands, including withdrawal of U.S. military forces and equipment, put forth by the North Vietnamese.

* * * *

THE SOVIETS signed a new aid agreement with the North Vietnamese regime Saturday. Its precise contents have not been disclosed.

Westerners here also noted that the military newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) recently published the first reference in the Soviet press to anticraft rocket bases under construction around the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

The newspaper gave no hint, however, of any Soviet connection with the bases.

have any existing problems solved."

Also concerned with the construction problem is Bill Davis of the architectural firm of Kistner, Wright and Wright of Los Angeles.

"We have heard that there are problems on the job," Davis told The Independent, Press-Telegram, "but any construction job is likely to have problems."

"It is a matter of adjustment," Davis said.

If the independent study proves that the floors are too thin, then the thicknesses will have to be increased by removing the ceilings which have been installed and spraying concrete on the bottom.

Any other corrective measures will be taken if there are additional problems, both Davis and Lester promised.

The building as part of the school system is not subject to local and county inspection but only that of a resident engineer employed by the school system.

Final acceptance of the building depends upon the report submitted to the school board by the state architectural inspector.

Both the state office and the architect were at a loss to explain if there would be any delay in the approval of the building because of the "problems."

Unaware that there was anything the matter with the district building was the chairman of the board of trustees, Dean Eastman.

"We (the trustees) have to take someone's word for it that the building is sound and approved.

"The district has contracted for an administration building and we hope that we will get what we have paid for."

Vietnamese ground operation.

In Tokyo, the official North Vietnamese News Agency (VNA) said in a monitored broadcast that defenders against U.S. air attacks on Thanh Hoa Province Saturday shot down an F8 Crusader jet and damaged two Skyhawk jet bombers over the Ham Rong area.

In another broadcast, Pathet Lao Radio said an American F105 Thunderchief jet fighter-bomber was downed by ground fire from Communist Pathet Lao forces in Sam Neua Province of Laos last Thursday.

PATHET LAO Radio said the Thunderchief was among several U.S. planes bombing and strafing populated areas along Highway 6 in Laos. It said the plane crashed in the province at Muong Soi.

U.S. and Vietnamese warplanes also flew more than 68 sorties against targets in North Viet Nam, attacking military and communications targets and scattering more than a quarter million propaganda leaflets.

During the raidss, four Thunderchiefs destroyed three buildings at the Yen Bay railroad marshaling area 75 miles northwest of Hanoi with nine tons of 750-pound bombs and "Mighty Mouse" rockets.

Food Scarce Over World, U.S. Alarmed

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Alarmed by the spectre of a world food shortage, the Administration is planning major changes in overseas aid programs and domestic farm policies.

Urgency of the problem is pointed up in a confidential directive which Aid Administrator David Bell has sent to all U.S. aid mission chiefs for their guidance in drawing up next year's programs. A copy was obtained by the Independent, Press-Telegram from high government sources.

Bell asked U.S. missions to give high priority to the three problems plaguing most underdeveloped countries — food supply, malnutrition among the very young, and population control.

* * * *

TO MEET the two objectives first named, American agriculture will be called on to produce more for distribution abroad. This will require basic long-term revisions in farm-production goals, which may loosen the shackles overabundance has placed on the American farmer.

While a food shortage could create disorders favorable to Communist penetration, administration officials believe it presents the free world with opportunity. Soviet bloc countries are hard pressed to meet their own food requirements, but the Western countries have the capacity to alleviate, if not prevent, starvation-induced political upheavals in the hunger areas.

The problems under-developed countries face are outlined in a report completed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's foreign analysis division in April. Most of the countries are undergoing a population explosion. Many are running out of unused cropland which can meet needs.

* * * *

THE STUDY concluded that the only solution is to increase yields, since little additional acreage is available. But the smaller countries lack the capital and technical capacity to do that.

The report said: "Food shipments from the developed countries can help but they cannot account for more than a very small fraction of projected increase in good needs over the next several years."

Moreover, the report added, "it will be very difficult to establish a secure and lasting world order in a situation where the less developed world continues to become increasingly dependent on concessional food shipments from the advanced countries."

Bell's memorandum to aid chiefs abroad outlined both long and short-term steps which can be taken.

For the near term, it said, aid is prepared to give "top priority" to "sensible" programs to "establish and expand voluntary programs of family planning" in those countries where "a direct, public approach" to birth control by aid would be appropriate.

* * * *

A SECOND approach, new to aid's thinking, involves increasing the level of nutrition among the very young. It is the outgrowth of studies directed by Dr. Phillip Lee of Palo Alto, Calif. These found that malnutrition stunts minds as well as bodies. Aid planners drew inferences that stunted minds are more susceptible to political subversion and instability, hence a decision was made to step up programs for feeding children between infancy and school age.

"The densely populated, less-developed countries, which have virtually exhausted the supply of new land that can readily be brought under cultivation," said the economic study, "must compress a lot of progress into a very short period of time if they are to generate the yield takeoff needed to feed their rapidly growing populations."

It was that conclusion which led to aid's decision to add the new emphasis on food and feeding in drawing up next year's programs.

BARBER SPRAYS PICKET
A white civil rights picket is sprayed in the face with a water hose as he picketed a Bogalusa barber shop Saturday. The barber was identified as Ray Risen of Bogalusa.

Bogalusa Marchers Attacked by Whites

BOGALUSA, La. (UPI)— Despite heavy police protection, white segregationists hurled firecrackers, rocks, oranges and tomatoes at civil rights marchers and doused pickets with water Saturday in this racially tense papermill town.

Bystanders began to rush into a line of about 200 Negroes returning from a march on City Hall only to be turned back when helmeted state police raised their machine guns.

The debris began to rain down as the marchers neared Pine Tree Plaza Shopping Center about a half-block from the municipal building. Earlier, pickets had been drenched with water hoses.

* * * *

ONE GIRL in the line of march fell screaming to the ground. It was not immediately determined whether she had been injured.

Henry Park, 28, a white civil rights worker from San Francisco, was arrested by state police for using profanity during the march. Two Negro girls, Mary Louise Crosby and Jacqueline Butler of St. Louis were taken into protective custody. The Crosby girl was returned to a Negro union hall where the march started. She was released there.

A barber backed Park off a sidewalk with a stream of water and said "I want you to walk in the gutter. All trash belongs in the gutter."

Park grinned and did a brief soft-shoe shuffle.

The barber also watered down Victor Levine, 22, of Berkeley, Calif.

He then turned to Park and told him he smelled "like a nigger."

"This'll make you smell better," the barber said and began lathering Park with soap. About 75 whites clustered around to watch and laugh.

* * * *

THREE firecrackers were thrown at the marchers — two on the way to city hall and one on the way back.

The new outbreak of trouble came as civil leaders appealed repeatedly on the air for an end to racial violence in Bogalusa. The Ku Klux Klan threatened to counter any civil rights marches the Negroes made.

The Ku Klux Klan had rallies scheduled later Saturday night at Crossroads, Miss., just across the Pearl River from Louisiana, and at Maryville, Tenn.

No trouble was expected at Maryville.

* * * *

A MAN identified as Robert Long, 37, formerly of Houston, Tex., was arrested by Greensboro police when an officer found him with a butcher knife wrapped in a comic book.

At Newton, Georgia, in the southwest sector of the state, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee reported six of its workers were arrested in a dispute with police over use of a camera at a voter rally in front of the courthouse.

At Anniston, Ala., meanwhile, a doctor disclosed that a Negro hit in the back by a nightrider's bullet would be paralyzed for life.

Dr. Russell Leonard said that Willie Brewster, 38, had only a 50-50 chance of survival, and if he does live he will never be able to move his body from the mid chest down.

McNamara and Rusk at Odds Over Manned, Orbital Lab

have reached agreement and the divergent views will be put before the President by Humphrey.

Whether or not Humphrey will make a recommendation isn't clear. However, the vice president has expressed concern over the Russian space effort.

"We would be foolish if we did not understand the military implications of Soviet space science," he remarked after the Russian space-walk

McNamara's position has been strengthened by a report from the prestigious House military operations subcommittee, chaired by Chet Holifield, D-Calif.

HOLIFIELD'S subcommittee recommended, with the concurrence of the full House Government Operations Committee, that the MOL program be directed by the military and that military hardware be used.

As corollaries, however, the subcommittee urged strong NASA participation in the MOL program plus a presidential decision on beyond-the-moon programs that would keep NASA dominant in the overall U.S. space effort.

"The compelling need of the moment is to overcome a military lag in space technology," the subcommittee warned in a penetrating and articulate report submitted to the space council.

The State Department would prefer to have NASA in charge of the MOL to maintain the "peaceful image" even though the program would have vital military aims.

* * * *

RUSK has objected to what he feels is undue emphasis on seeking a capability for bombardment from space.

Partly behind State's position is the department's sensitivity to a U.S.-U.S.S.R. agreement restricting space programs to peaceful purposes, despite increasing evidence that the Soviet manned space program is not entirely peaceful.

The Holifield subcommittee stresses that the MOL program must be designed to keep the United States from falling too far behind a Soviet space-bombardment capability. The subcommittee's report sees these military space missions:

—Reconnaissance and early warning.

—Bombardment from satellites.

—Inspection of other satellites and antiintercontinental-ballistic-missile control.

The ultimate MOL decision may how to Rusk's objections on space bombardment. At least this would be temporarily de-emphasized while the military concentrate on creating a capability for the other two military aims.

Assuming that the President should order the military MOL, he will have to decide what basic hardware system shall be used.

Webb wants to create an MOL from an extension of the Apollo man-on-the-moon program. NASA would use the Apollo command module to carry men to and from a laboratory created from the lunar-excursion-module casing.

* * * *

THE AIR FORCE wants a Gemini spacecraft carrying men to a house-trailer-sized space laboratory of its own design. The Air Force men say the NASA plan has too small a lab.

Also, NASA would like to use its all-liquid-fueled Saturn rocket system for the MOL program. The Air Force men are insistent that their combination solid-liquid fuel Titan 3-C, which had a well-timed and rousingly successful maiden launch at Cape Kennedy last month, is the answer.

They claim that the Titan system is less expensive and easier to operate than the mighty Saturn.

A military MOL has been discussed for over a decade. But after Defense and NASA reached accord late last year on military operation of the MOL program, the Air Force commissioned four contractors, Douglas, Lockheed, Boeing and General Electric, to make design studies aimed at being able to put an MOL in space by 1968.

The successful firm stands to get developmental and production contracts that could amount to well over a billion dollars.

Soviet Chiefs Warn U.S. on Viet Action

United States of turning "interference into others' affairs the guiding principle of its foreign policy."

"The policy conducted by the United States is extremely dangerous because it blocks relaxation of international tensions and creates an exceptionally dangerous situation which threatens peace not only in Southeast Asia but also in the entire world," he said.

In an apparent reference to American plans for increasing military forces in Viet Nam, Kosygin said that the United States is "constantly increasing the stakes in the gamble in which it is engaged."

The Soviet official also repeated Soviet pledges to render "all the aid necessary to repel the aggression" against North Viet Nam. This commitment was conspicuously absent from his speech last weekend.

* * * *

THE KREMLIN leaders' silence on Viet Nam was broken earlier by Communist Party Presidium member Mikhail Suslov who spoke in Vilnius, the capital of Lithuania.

His slap at the United States on Viet Nam contrasted sharply with a speech an hour earlier by President Anastas I. Mikoyan who made no reference to the subject while speaking in the Estonian capital of Tallin.

Kosygin also repeated the Communist-bloc demand for a settlement of the Vietnamese conflict on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Viet Nam.

He reaffirmed Soviet support for the four-point peace demands, including withdrawal of U.S. military forces and equipment, put forth by the North Vietnamese.

* * * *

THE SOVIETS signed a new aid agreement with the North Vietnamese regime Saturday. Its precise contents have not been disclosed.

Westerners here also noted that the military newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) recently published the first reference in the Soviet press to anticraft rocket bases under construction around the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

The newspaper gave no hint, however, of any Soviet connection with the bases.

have any existing problems solved."

Also concerned with the construction problem is Bill Davis of the architectural firm of Kistner, Wright and Wright of Los Angeles.

"We have heard that there are problems on the job," Davis told The Independent, Press-Telegram, "but any construction job is likely to have problems."

"It is a matter of adjustment," Davis said.

If the independent study proves that the floors are too thin, then the thicknesses will have to be increased by removing the ceilings which have been installed and spraying concrete on the bottom.

Any other corrective measures will be taken if there are additional problems, both Davis and Lester promised.

The building as part of the school system is not subject to local and county inspection but only that of a resident engineer employed by the school system.

Final acceptance of the building depends upon the report submitted to the school board by the state architectural inspector.

Both the state office and the architect were at a loss to explain if there would be any delay in the approval of the building because of the "problems."

Unaware that there was anything the matter with the district building was the chairman of the board of trustees, Dean Eastman.

"We (the trustees) have to take someone's word for it that the building is sound and approved.

"The district has contracted for an administration building and we hope that we will get what we have paid for."

President Seeks Teacher Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Saturday for legislation to carry out his proposal for a national corps of teachers who would serve in slums and areas of rural poverty.

He coupled with it two other requests: A program of fellowships to prepare students for teaching careers and help experienced teachers improve their qualifications, and for aid to colleges and universities to provide better education for teachers.

His request for the legislation, made in letters to the presiding officers of the House and Senate, followed closely proposals he outlined in a speech to the National Education Association in New York City on July 2.

And it preceded the convening of a White House conference on education, to be held next Tuesday and Wednesday, at which some 650 leaders in education, business, labor and government will discuss the problems of education.

Johnson asked Congress for $60 million for the program in the fiscal year which started July 1. No figure was set for the two succeeding years of the program.

A White House spokesman estimated that the corps might number about 6,000 teachers and that the fellowship program might reach 3,000 potential teachers in the first year.

Famous Artist Dies

LYME, Conn. (AP)—Boris Artzybasheff, 66, a versatile Russian-born artist who probably was best known for his magazine covers, died Friday of a heart attack.

ARTZYBASHEFF

His body was found Friday night by friends in his colonial home. The heart attack came apparently while he was at work.

Although Artzybasheff was noted for his illustrations in Time and Life magazines, his creative genius was expressed in many fields. He illustrated numerous advertisements and children's and adult's books, designed sets, and women's clothing, painted murals and was a leading designer in book jackets.

He gained international fame, however, from his satirical drawings of a mechanical society, creating grotesque half-man, half-machine creatures.

New Riots in Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Fresh rioting erupted in crisis-torn Greece Saturday night as the new government fought to quell disorder in this Atlantic Alliance nation.

Hundreds of demonstrators supporting ousted Premier George Papandreou fought with sticks and stones against helmeted, club-swinging police in the streets of Salonika, Greece's second largest city.

Ambulances rushed scores of injured away from the clashes, which broke out when demonstrators, chanting "democracy" and waving placards with Papandreou's name, refused police commands to disperse.

Reactivate Mothball Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Maritime Administration said Saturday it is pulling 15 commercial cargo ships out of the reserve fleet to carry cargoes to South Viet Nam.

It is being done "as fast as we can get them out," a spokesman said.

They include 14 Victory ships of 10,000 ton cargo space and a C-2, the Delaware, in operation under charter at San Francisco, assigned to the Bulk Transport Line. The Willamette Victory and Brazil Victory, in California's Suisun Bay were assigned to American President Lines.

Red Chieftans Meet

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Teng Hsiao-p'ing, secretary general of the Chinese Comunist Party, arrived here Saturday to represent the two principal powers in the Moscow-Peking feud at the 4th Congress of the Romanian Communist Party. The congress opens Monday.

The presence of the two leaders in the Romanian capital, together with Communist delegates from all parts of the world, raised speculation about high-level contacts to deal with the ideological rift in the Communist camp.

Killing at Seminary

BOSTON (UPI) — Police Saturday sought three blond-haired men who allegedly invaded an employes' dormitory at a Roman Catholic seminary and beat a 56-year-old groundskeeper to death.

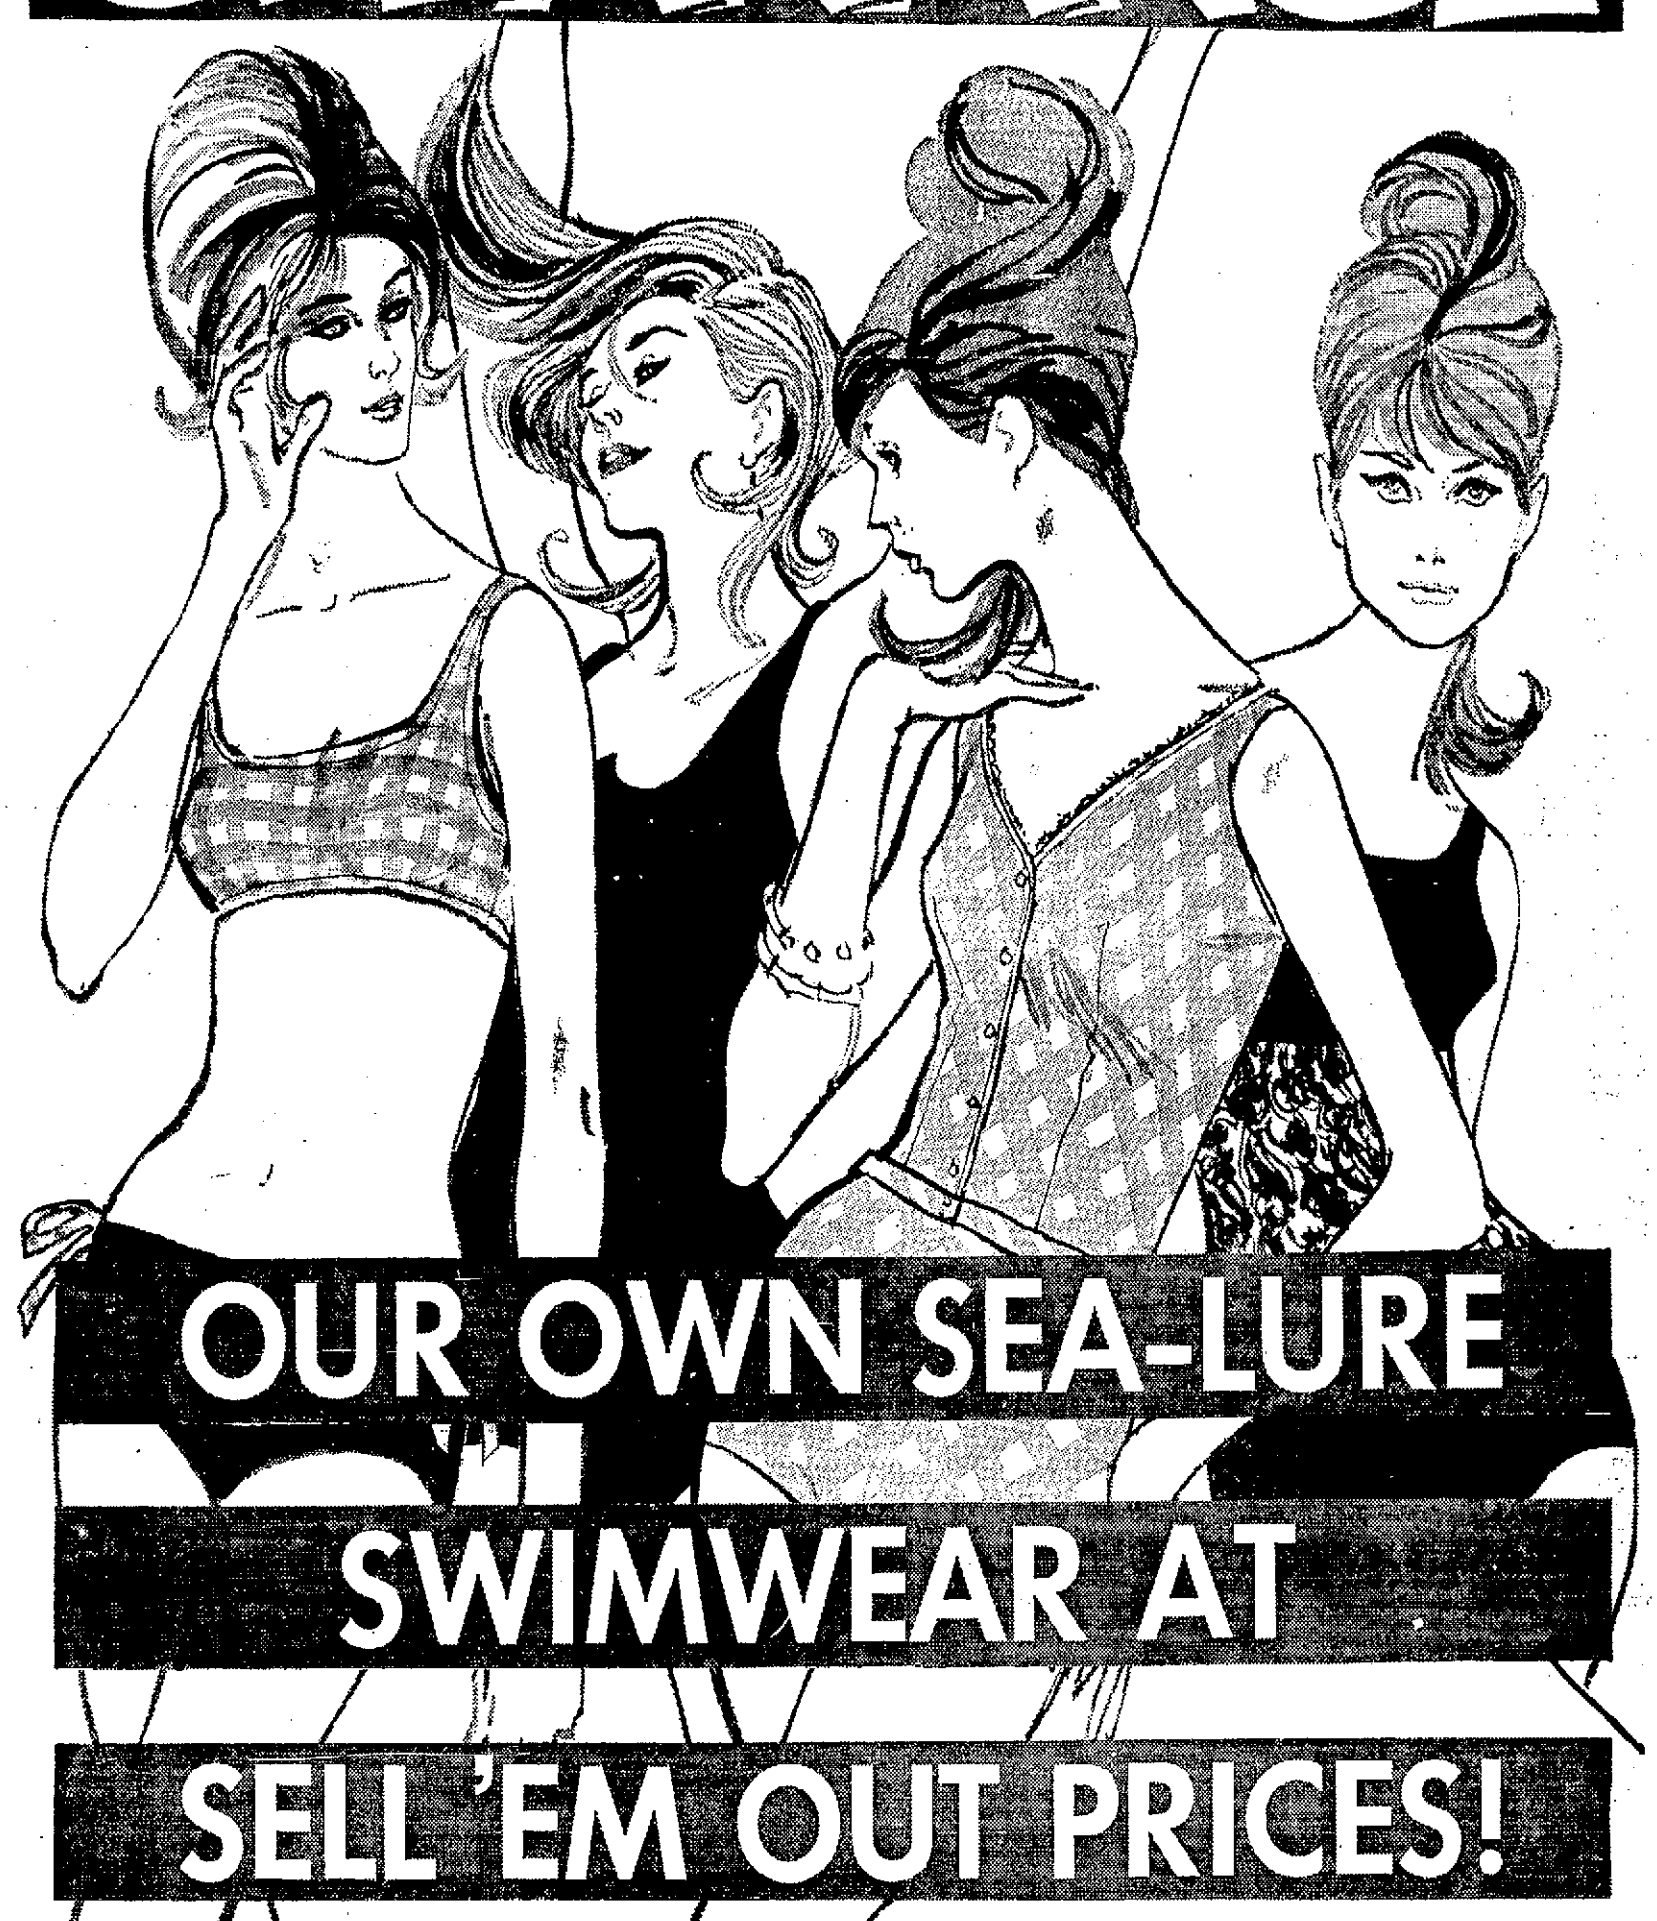

The nude body of Francis Jordan was found Friday night face down in a pool of blood in his room at Peterson Hall, a residence for men employed at St. John's Seminary. The hall is a short distance from the home of Richard Cardinal Cushing.

Corruption Likely to Oust Japan's Ruling Party

By TED SHIMIZU

TOKYO (UPI) — For the first time since World War II, Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic Party is facing the prospect of defeat in a race for control of the world's largest city.

The reason can be expressed in a single word: corruption.

The Liberal-Democrats, who are really the conservatives in Japanese politics, are likely to lose control of the 120-member Tokyo Municipal Assembly in a special election, Friday because 17 of their members stand accused of trying to buy the presidency of the Assembly.

And in Japan, where the politics of Tokyo have the same sort of national implications as those of New York City do in the United States, the shock wave of the defeat may be very troublesome for the pro-Western national government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

The conservatives are working mightily, to overcome the disadvantages they face in this election, but most observers here are agreed that their efforts will fail.

* * * *

TOKYO HAS, in fact, already given its opinion on the party.

Just 13 days ago the people of this city sent one Communist, one Socialist, one independent and one Soka Gakkai (Buddhist) candidate to the national House of Councillors from the metropolis. They defeated two liberal-Democratic candidates in the process.

Most political observers here interpreted the heavy Communist vote as strictly a protest against corruption within the Liberal-Democratic Party.

Last spring 17 members of the Assembly, including its president, all of them Liberal-Democrats, were indicted by the Tokyo district prosecutor's office in a vote-buying scandal.

The prize was the presidency of the Assembly itself—and the $100,000-a-year "expense account" that is a sinecure of the office. After the scandal broke it was divulged that the president did not even have to account for how he spent the money—and in fact had not.

* * * *

THEN ANOTHER conservative assemblyman was indicted on charges of asking for kickbacks from businessmen in return for procuring city contracts for them.

The two scandals touched off demands that the Assembly resign en masse. When two conservative members refused to do so, the party had to ram through the national parliament a bill permitting municipal assemblies to dissolve themselves by two-thirds vote.

After the House of Councillors' election results for Tokyo were announced, Sato—looking grim—went on television, admitted that his party had suffered a "serious" setback and said that he would "reflect on those points that require reflection."

But pollsters say that no amount of "reflection" is going to do the prime minister's party much good between now and Friday.

* * * *

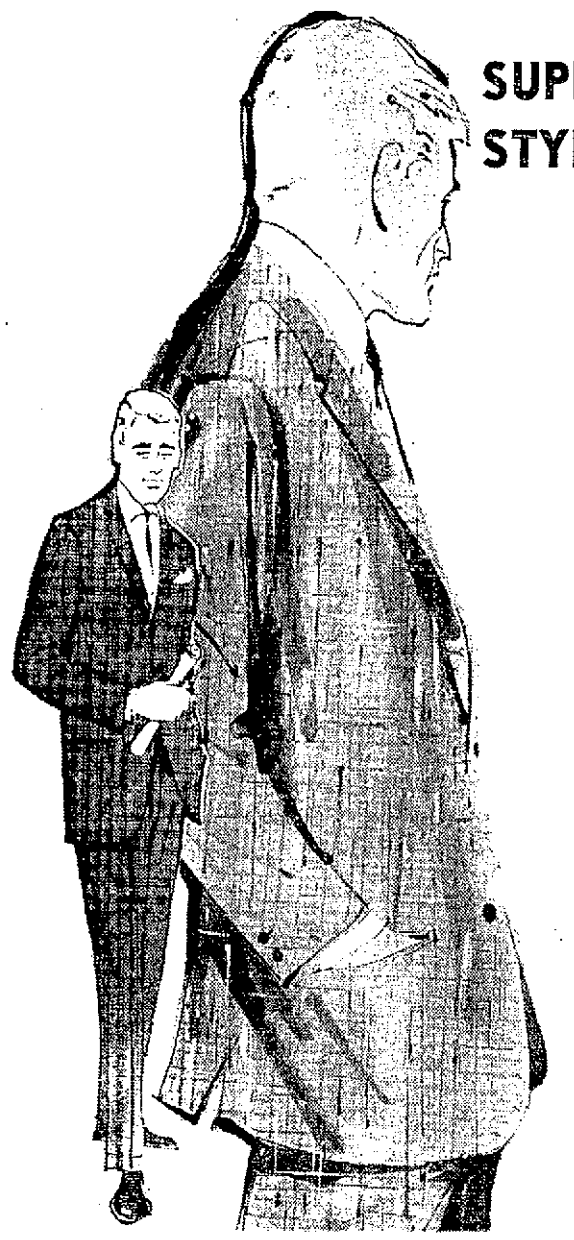

THE SIGNIFICANCE of a serious defeat for the conservatives in Tokyo can be understood only in the context of the fact that the entire country is oriented toward this city. Tokyo dominates the economic and cultural life of Japan even more thoroughly than it does the political life.

Corruption Likely to Oust Japan's Ruling Party

By TED SHIMIZU

TOKYO (UPI) — For the first time since World War II, Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic Party is facing the prospect of defeat in a race for control of the world's largest city.

The reason can be expressed in a single word: corruption.

The Liberal-Democrats, who are really the conservatives in Japanese politics, are likely to lose control of the 120-member Tokyo Municipal Assembly in a special election Friday because 17 of their members stand accused of trying to buy the presidency of the Assembly.

And in Japan, where the politics of Tokyo have the same sort of national implications as those of New York City do in the United States, the shock wave of the defeat may be very troublesome for the pro-Western national government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

The conservatives are working mightily to overcome the disadvantages they face in this election, but most observers here are agreed that their efforts will fail.

* * * *

TOKYO HAS, in fact, already given its opinion on the party.

Just 13 days ago the people of this city sent one Communist, one Socialist, one independent and one Soka Gakkai (Buddhist) candidate to the national House of Councillors from the metropolis. They defeated two liberal-Democratic candidates in the process.

Most political observers here interpreted the heavy Communist vote as strictly a protest against corruption within the Liberal-Democratic Party.

Last spring 17 members of the Assembly, including its president, all of them Liberal-Democrats, were indicted by the Tokyo district prosecutor's office in a vote-buying scandal.

The prize was the presidency of the Assembly itself —and the $100,000-a-year "expense account" that is a sinecure of the office. After the scandal broke it was divulged that the president did not even have to account for how he spent the money—and in fact had not.

* * * *

THEN ANOTHER conservative assemblyman was indicted on charges of asking for kickbacks from businessmen in return for procuring city contracts for them.

The two scandals touched off demands that the Assembly resign en masse. When two conservative members refused to do so, the party had to ram through the national parliament a bill permitting municipal assemblies to dissolve themselves by two-thirds vote.

After the House of Councillors' election results for Tokyo were announced, Sato —looking grim—went on television, admitted that his party had suffered a "serious" setback and said that he would "reflect on those points that require reflection."

But pollsters say that no amount of "reflection" is going to do the prime minister's party much good between now and Friday.

* * * *

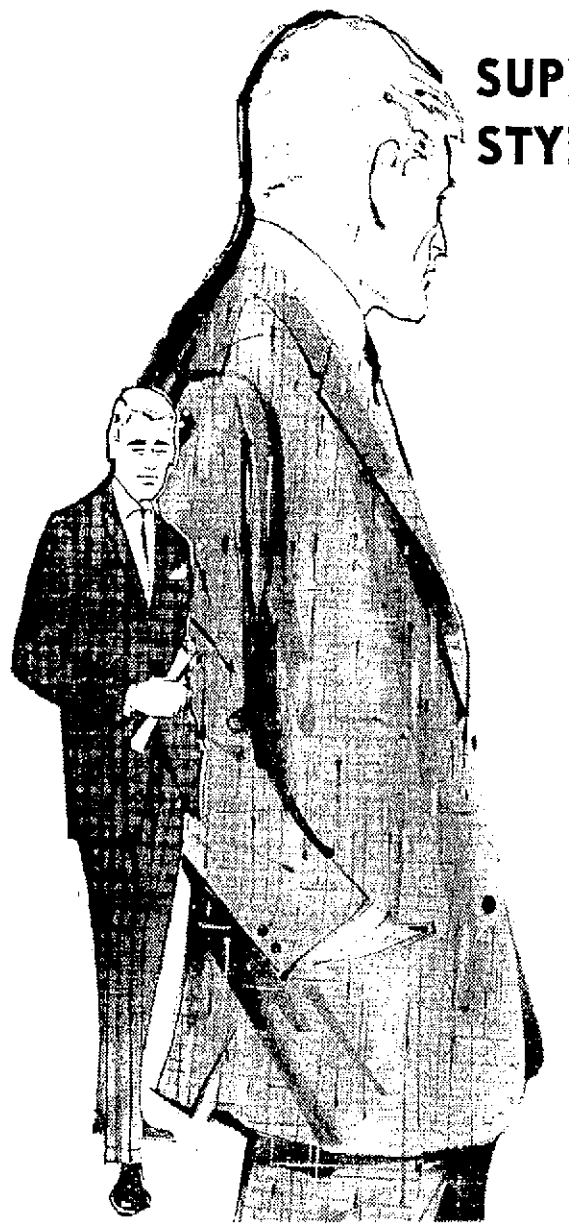

THE SIGNIFICANCE of a serious defeat for the conservatives in Tokyo can be understood only in the context of the fact that the entire country is oriented toward this city. Tokyo dominates the economic and cultural life of Japan even more thoroughly than it does the political life.

World War II Japan Navy Officer Now Commands Missile Destroyer

By BOB SANDERS

A man who once "did my best" fighting against the United States now commands the first Japanese Guided Missile destroyer, Amatsukaze, which is being equipped with U.S. Tartar missiles here.

Capt. Masaaki Kikuchi is one of a new breed of Japanese naval officers.

A graduate of the Japanese Naval Academy at Etajima in 1939, Capt. Kikuchi fought against the U.S. as gunnery and executive officer aboard destroyers, battleships and aircraft carriers during World War II.

His present-day ship's most potent weapon, the vaunted Tartar guided missile, is being installed under the Japanese-United States Mutual Defense Treaty of 1955.

* * * *

IN FACT, the Amatsukaze is tied up at the Naval Station on Terminal Island to complete its Ship's Qualification Tests, which will be climaxed in August when the ship first fires its Tartar missiles somewhere off the Southern California coast.

The 48-year-old captain, who was promoted to that rank July 1, has nothing but praise for the people of the United States, both naval and civilian.

"Since arriving in Long Beach July 1," the captain says, "My men and I have received excellent service and support from the men assigned to us from the United States Navy.

"Also the people of the Long Beach area—and particularly the Japanese-American colony — have been very cooperative in taking my men sightseeing and into their homes.

"I most sincerely appreciate the efforts of all these people to make our stay here a happy one."

* * * *

THIS IS Capt. Kikuchi's second visit to the United States. His first was last year when, as one of Japan's best gunnery experts, he travelled to Silver Spring, Md., for a nine-month course in the operation of the Tartar missile.

One of the things that has impressed Capt. Kikuchi most — outside of Disneyland, of course—is Southern California's highway-freeway system.

"We are so pressed for space in Japan," he says ruefully, "that we have nothing to compare with them.

"I have learned a great deal about your country in my two, too-short visits. I hope I can take back to Japan some of the knowledge of your attitudes, your learning and your culture."

New State Jobs for Minorities

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, citing figures from another ethnic census of state employes, today declared that "new doors have been opened for minorities in state government."

The figures showed that state officials were hiring more Negroes, Mexican-Americans, Orientals and other minority group members than ever before. Also, the minorities were moving into better jobs.

Brown's staff conducted the first ethnic census in August, 1963, shortly after the governor signed an executive order creating a "code of fair practices." The code said in effect that a neutral policy of non-discrimination was not enough. It told state officials to "take affirmative action to assure equality of opportunity."

* * * *

THE SECOND census was taken 14 months later and showed the percentage of minority group employes rising from 11.5 to 12.4% of the total. During the period, the state hired 17,000 new employes and 14.3% of them were from a minority.

However, because of retirements and resignations, the total of state employes rose only 3,000—to 103,000—during the 14 months. Of that net increase, 40% were minorities.

The census also showed that the percentage of minority persons employed as janitors and custodians had declined from 34.1 to 30.7%. But the percentages working in crafts and trades, the professions, and law enforcement all increased.

Salaries also improved for the minorities, although the median pay for all lagged behind wages paid to non-minority members.

Brown said that despite "substantial progress" there were still problems and that the state must continue to work toward abolition of discrimination.

Discrimination's Toughest Battle

SEATTLE (AP)—"When we were dismissed . . . we were told that we were too old, that we were not sexy enough, that we were not exciting and that we didn't have it distributed in the right places."

That, Mrs. Jean Strzelecki, 35, told the State Board Against Discrimination, is why she and Mrs. Darlene Smith, 32, were dismissed from their jobs as cocktail waitresses.

The board postponed its decision.

County Museum Has a 'Touch Bone'

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Seems like people just have to touch wet paint to make sure it really is wet.

Likewise, museum-goers throughout the world seem compelled to touch things as well as look at them.

To satisfy this urge, and also give some additional knowledge, Los Angeles County Museum has established a "touch bone" at the main entrance to the Exposition Park facility.

It is a fossil thigh bone, the femur, from the left hind leg of a brontosaurus, one of the biggest dinosaurs that ever lived. The bone, dug up in Utah, is estimated to be about 130 million years old.

In life the brontosaurus grew to a length of 80 feet and weighed upward of 40 tons. The "touch bone" on display is five feet long and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Los Angeles County Museum specializes in prehistoric animals, particularly in view of its lucrative source from the La Brea tar pits, but its mounted fossil skeletons are on pedestals and out of reach of spectators.

The "touch bone" makes up for their inaccessibility.

County Law Library Adds 14,567 Volumes

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

During the past fiscal year, 14,567 volumes were added to the Los Angeles County Law Library, county supervisors were told this week by Forrest S. Drummond, librarian and secretary to the board of trustees.

The County Law Library has its own building at 301 W. First St., Los Angeles, plus eight branches, including one in the Long Beach County Building.

Drummond said the library now has 435,320 volumes, of which 354,665 are in the main library.

* * * *

TOTAL RECEIPTS for the year, Drummond said, were $1,030,903. Most of this, $938,548, comes from the $3 from each court filing fee which is allocated to the Law Library. The balance primarily is income from securities, interest on deposits and parking lot rental.

Fees from the Superior Court totaled $434,235, and from the various municipal courts, $504,313. The latter total included $20,340 from the Long Beach Muncipal Court, $8,640 from Compton Municipal Court, $6,041 from Downey Municipal Court, $5,105 from Los Cerritos Municipal Court and $9,886 from South Bay Municipal Court.

Drummond said there are 7,388 persons authorized to withdraw books from the County Law Library.

Attorney George A. Hart Jr. of Long Beach is one of the six-man board of trustees, which is headed by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harold P. Huls.

Bank Has Not Only Bills, but Coos

BOSTON (UPI) — Two pigeons, who set up housekeeping several months ago in a hole-in-the-wall, are currently raising their offspring in the most luxurious bird nest in this city.

Construction workers building the 34-story state street bank building discovered the birds nesting in a hole in a cement block 30 feet above the floor of the bank lobby.

They trowled a triangular nest in the block, paneled it in pine, and constructed a solid perch jutting out from the nest.

"I think it would be fair to say that our interest in this pigeon family is even higher than four and three-eighths per cent," a bank official said.

Name Three to Handle Foreign Trade Contacts

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Three California businessmen were appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to handle trade contracts with foreign countries.

He named Adolph Schuman, San Francisco, chairman of the State World Trade Coordination Council, as the California protocol officer. He appointed as deputy protocol officers Lester Goodman, chairman of the San Francisco World Trade Center Authority, and Norbert B. Moffatt, chairman of the Los Angeles World Trade eCnter Authority.

Brown said they would assist in coordinating California's official and unofficial business contacts with consulates, diplomats and visiting foreign officials.

Ask Raises for County Artisans

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Salary increases for building trades workers in county service, totaling $230,840 for the remainder of the 1965-66 fiscal year, will be recommended Tuesday to county supervisors.

L. S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer, said the raises will go to all but 48 of the 934 employes in the 126 craft classifications.

The Los Angeles Building Trades Council, however, subsequently said the jurors acted without adequate investigation and argued that the formula actually should be liberalized.

* * * *

CRAFT workers are paid at the prevaling rates for similar jobs in private industry, less 11% to account for the relative permanancy of county employment.

Proposed new monthly salaries, with the present monthly salary in parentheses, are as follows:

Bricklayer, $763 ($707); carpenter, $719 ($689); electrician, $846 ($841); painter, $712 ($686); plasterer, $708 ($682); plumber, $852 ($805); sign painter, $712 ($686), and welder, $799 ($771).

The code said in effect that a neutral policy of non-discrimination was not enough. It told state officials to "take affirmative action to assure equality of opportunity."

* * * *

THE SECOND census was taken 14 months later and showed the percentage of minority group employes rising from 11.5 to 12.4% of the total. During the period, the state hired 17,000 new employes and 14.3% of them were from a minority.

However, because of retirements and resignations, the total of state employes rose only 3,000—to 103,000—during the 14 months. Of that net increase, 40% were minorities.

The census also showed that the percentage of minority persons employed as janitors and custodians had declined from 34.1 to 30.7%. But the percentages working in crafts and trades, the professions, and law enforcement all increased.

Salaries also improved for the minorities, although the median pay for all lagged behind wages paid to non-minority members.

Brown said that despite "substantial progress" there were still problems and that the state must continue to work toward abolition of discrimination.

Discrimination's Toughest Battle

SEATTLE (UPI)—"When we were dismissed . . . we were told that we were too old, that we were not sexy enough, that we were not exciting and that we didn't have it distributed in the right places."

That, Mrs. Jean Strzelecki, 35, told the State Board Against Discrimination, is why she and Mrs. Darlene Smith, 32, were dismissed from their jobs as cocktail waitresses.

The board postponed its decision.

County Museum Has a 'Touch Bone'

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Seems like people just have to touch wet paint to make sure it really is wet.

Likewise, museum-goers throughout the world seem compelled to touch things as well as look at them.

To satisfy this urge, and also give some additional knowledge, Los Angeles County Museum has established a "touch bone" at the main entrance to the Exposition Park facility.

It is a fossil thigh bone, the femur, from the left hind leg of a brontosaurus, one of the biggest dinosaurs that ever lived. The bone, dug up in Utah, is estimated to be about 130 million years old.

In life the brontosaurus grew to a length of 80 feet and weighed upward of 40 tons. The "touch bone" on display is five feet long and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Los Angeles County Museum specializes in prehistoric animals, particularly in view of its lucrative source from the La Brea tar pits, but its mounted fossil skeletons are on pedestals and out of reach of spectators.

The "touch bone" makes up for their inaccessibility.

County Law Library Adds 14,567 Volumes

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

During the past fiscal year, 14,567 volumes were added to the Los Angeles County Law Library, county supervisors were told this week by Forrest S. Drummond, librarian and secretary to the board of trustees.

The County Law Library has its own building at 301 W. First St., Los Angeles, plus eight branches, including one in the Long Beach County Building.

Drummond said the library now has 435,320 volumes, of which 354,665 are in the main library.

* * * *

TOTAL RECEIPTS for the year, Drummond said, were $1,030,903. Most of this, $938,548, comes from the $3 from each court filing fee which is allocated to the Law Library. The balance primarily is income from securities, interest on deposits and parking lot rental.

Fees from the Superior Court totaled $434,235, and from the various municipal courts, $504,313. The latter total included $20,340 from the Long Beach Muncipal Court, $8,640 from Compton Municipal Court, $6,041 from Downey Municipal Court, $5,105 from Los Cerritos Municipal Court and $9,886 from South Bay Municipal Court.

Drummond said there are 7,388 persons authorized to withdraw books from the County Law Library.

Attorney George A. Hart Jr. of Long Beach is one of the six-man board of trustees, which is headed by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harold P. Huls.

Bank Has Not Only Bills, but Coos

BOSTON (UPI) — Two pigeons, who set up housekeeping several months ago in a hole-in-the-wall, are currently raising their offspring in the most luxurious bird nest in this city.

Construction workers building the 34-story state street bank building discovered the birds nesting in a hole in a cement block 30 feet above the floor of the bank lobby.

They trowled a triangular nest in the block, paneled it in pine, and constructed a solid perch jutting out from the nest.

"I think it would be fair to say that our interest in this pigeon family is even higher than four and three-eighths per cent," a bank official said.

Name Three to Handle Foreign Trade Contacts

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Three California businessmen were appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to handle trade contracts with foreign countries.

He named Adolph Schuman, San Francisco, chairman of the State World Trade Coordination Council, as the California protocol officer. He appointed as deputy protocol officers Lester Goodman, chairman of the San Francisco World Trade Center Authority, and Norbert B. Moffatt, chairman of the Los Angeles World Trade eCnter Authority.

Brown said they would assist in coordinating California's official and unofficial business contacts with consulates, diplomats and visiting foreign officials.

Ask Raises for County Artisans

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Salary increases for building trades workers in county service, totaling $230,840 for the remainder of the 1965-66 fiscal year, will be recommended Tuesday to county supervisors.

L. S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer, said the raises will go to all but 48 of the 934 employes in the 126 craft classifications.

The Los Angeles Building Trades Council, however, subsequently said the jurors acted without adequate investigation and argued that the formula actually should be liberalized.

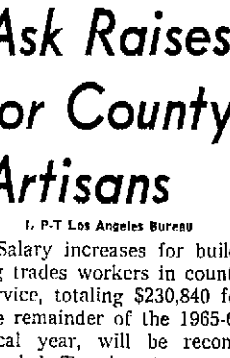

* * * *

CRAFT workers are paid at the prevaling rates for similar jobs in private industry, less 11% to account for the relative permanancy of county employment.

Proposed new monthly salaries, with the present monthly salary in parentheses, are as follows:

Bricklayer, $763 ($707); carpenter, $719 ($689); electrician, $846 ($841); painter, $712 ($686); plasterer, $708 ($682); plumber, $852 ($805); sign painter, $712 ($686), and welder, $799 ($771).

Gardena's Thalidomide Baby Now Rides Trike

By ED KENYON

GARDENA — Billy Webb looks like an average three-year-old—maybe a little small for his age—until you look at the hands that try to grip a truck.

The hands—each missing a thumb — bend backward toward his wrist as Billy wrestles in his attempt to propel the truck across the floor.

"He's been able to ride his tricycle for about four weeks now," says his pretty, blonde mother with a wan smile. "Before that he wasn't able to get a good grip on the handlebars."

* * * *

BILLY Webb is one of the first—and probably the most publicized — victims of the drug, thalidomide.

Two months after his birth on June 15, 1962, Billy re-entered Harbor General Hospital in Torrance to await the first of 10 operations to correct the arm deficiencies caused by the drug, taken by his mother during her early pregnancy in Germany.

Billy was the second child of Army Spec. 5 William Joseph Webb Jr. and his German-born wife, Hannelore. Ulrike, their first child, born two years before, had been a perfectly normal youngster.

Mrs. Webb was two months pregnant when she heard a chilling announcement on German radio. The sedative she had been taking was suspected of causing birth deformities.

* * * *

DOCTORS at Harbor General Hospital attempted to straighten the bend in Billy's hands and also took a bone from his leg to substitute for the missing small bone in his right forearm. They left the left forearm alone, which had part of the same bone missing.

"His left hand is pretty good, but the hand they worked on is very weak," said Mrs. Webb, holding out her son's hands to this reporter. "What's worse, the leg they took the bone from is now shorter than the other. He's always got a bump on his head from falling," she said, pointing to a black and blue mark on her son's forehead.

"I'm not criticizing the doctor," Mrs. Webb added hastily. "He's a good doctor, and he's a good man, but there was just nothing. . . He tried his best."

* * * *

AFTER nine operations at Harbor General Hospital and one at Orthopedic Hospital in Los Angeles, his parents have given up hope that any further surgery will help, says his mother.

Billy's sisters (Angelika, now almost two years old and just about as big as Billy is the third Webb child) treat their brother with great consideration, says Mrs. Webb, but they seldom make Billy's deformity a subject of conversation.

"When they count on their fingers, they realize that Billy has one less finger on each hand than they do, but they just take it all for granted," she says.

PENICILLIN HEADACHE

Mislabeling of Drugs Probed in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressional investigation will try to find out this week how penicillin once reached the market labeled asprin and what error caused a batch of dextros to be shipped as a salt solution.

These cases are expected to be raised when a House government operations subcommittee takes a close look at how well the Food and Drug Administration has been doing its job as watchdog over drug manufacturing.

As part of the 1962 laws enacted after the thalidomide tragedy, Congress told the FDA to monitor manufacturing practices in the multi-billion industry. The agency was authorized to inspect factories, laboratories and records to see if firms were controlling and supervising their manufacturing processes from laboratory to mail shipments rooms.

* * * *

HEARINGS begin Tuesday with FDA Commissioner George P. Karrick as the first witness. He will be questioned about the effect of health regulations his agency issued Jan. 29. The new rules were aimed at preventing drugs from being contaminated at the factory or mislabeled through carelessness.

Winton B. Rankin, an assistant FDA commissioner in a speech late last year, reported that from Jan. 1, 1962 to June 30, 1964, there were 243 incidents of drugs being recalled from the market because they were adulterated in some manner.

A breakdown, he said, showed that 28% had not had the required amount of ingredients; 17% had labeling mix-ups; 13% contained "foreign matter" and 11% did not meet antibiotic requirements.

* * * *

LARRICK and Allan Rayfield, director of the FDA's Bureau of Regulatory Compliance also may be questioned about two mixups that occurred in 1964.

E. R. Squibb, New Jersey drug firm, was forced to recall several shipments labeled aspirin after it discovered the contents actually were penicillin.

Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill., experienced a labeling mix-up in solutions used to correct a person's chemical imbalance. Several lots of drugs marked dextrose solutions turned out to be a salt solution.

There have been other cases of containers whose cap and label outlined the ingredients, but the two did not match. Other incidents have been reported of "cross-contamination" of drugs where, because of the proximity, ingredients have become mixed, fouling a formula.

Sub-Yard Pact Due

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) The first break in negotiations during the 17-day strike against the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. was disclosed Saturday, as tentatively agreement was reached on economic issues.

Rolling Tree Kills Youth As He Flees

SONORA, Calif. (UPI) — An 18-year-old construction worker Saturday attempted to outrun a tree rolling downhill and was killed, the sheriff's office said.

William D. Malley, Yuba City, married only last Saturday, had sat down on the tree on steep terrain minutes after it had been chopped down. When it began to roll, witnesses said, he attempted to run ahead of it but the heavy tree overtook him and crushed him to death.

'Clowns in Clover' Label in Britain

LONDON (UPI)—Quintin Hogg, official spokesman of the opposition Conservative Party, Saturday labeled Prime Minster Harold Wilson's Labor Government "a ludicrous gang of clowns in clover."

Hogg, the former Lord Hailsham, is known for his outspoken pronouncements. He made his charges in a speech to his home constituency at Orpington.

Miniature Racers, Parts Are Stolen

First Visitors Attend Roundup of Girl Scouts

FARRAGUT, Idaho (AP) — Girl Scouts opened the gates to visitors for the first time Saturday at their 1965 Senior Roundup — and Idaho State Police checked 1,164 callers through in the first hour.

About 70,000 are expected by the end of the encampment July 28.

Demonstrations of falcon flying, Basque dancing and Appaloosa horses were set up to entertain the early visitors.

There also were exhibits by the Atomic Energy Commission, the State of Idaho and the Coast Guard.

Expulsion of U.S. Missionaries Urged

JARKARTA, Indonesia (AP) —Demands to expel American clergymen have been voiced in a conference of Advent mission, now under way here, the official news agency Antara said Saturday.

It quoted some conference participants as accusing American clergymen attached to the mission of teaching Indonesian people "to become Christians who are loyal to the colonialists and imperialists."

Helicopter Crashes in Street; 2 Killed

WOODWARD, Okla. (UPI) A small helicopter crashed on main street in front of the county courthouse Saturday, killing two men.

The victims were identified as Ken Martin and Leslie Benson of Woodward. Witnesses said the motor stopped while the craft was flying at a low altitude over the business district.

Dock-Labor Agitator's Work Permit Canceled

By CHARLES SUTTON

A Wilmington longshoreman who was accused by the Pacific Maritime Association of causing illegal work stoppages on the waterfront while he was a local union official has been stripped of his job as the result of an arbitrator's ruling.

The unprecedented decision sparked a current of disapproval in local longshore circles last week and led observers to speculate on its possibly abrasive effect on labor-management relations in the two ports here.

The deregistration order, as it is called, was issued against Pete Velasquez, a winch driver and former night business agent for Local 13 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

* * * *

LOCAL 13 has set up a legal defense fund for Velasquez, and is understood to be seeking support for the Wilmington dock worker up and down the coast.

Velasquez's case was the first of its kind under the current waterfront labor contract —a pace-setting mechanization agreement that ushered in an era of unusual goodwill on the piers.

To what extent the case has damaged the new cooperative spirit is hard to say. Certainly it seems to have had an injurious effect in the Long Beach-Wilmington area, where one stop-work meeting already has been held to protest the ruling, and where trouble could erupt. This is especially true on the night shift, where Velasquez has a measure of support.

* * * *

WHETHER the same feeling of ill-will will spread to other ports remains to be seen, however.

Apart from personal considerations — opinion on Velasquez is divided — many Local 13 people view the case as one involving an important principle.

They question whether management can penalize a dockworker for actions he took while serving as a union officer. (Some of the asserted violations occurred while Velasquez was night business agent for the local, an elective office.)

As one union member put it, "we voted for Velasquez, we paid his salary. He was our employe at the time. If there was to be any disciplinary action, it should have come from us, not the employer."

John D. MacEvoy, Southern California area manager for the PMA, said he could "appreciate the union's apprehension that we might threaten or coerce union officials. But," he added, "this (section of the agreement under which Velasquez was deregistered) has been part of the contract since 1937.

"True, it has never before been used on a union official. But let's face it, Velasquez drove us to a point where we were so desperate we felt we had to halt his activities."

PMA officials have estimated that Velasquez's actions cost the shipping companies anywhere from $150,000 to $200,000 over a five-year period.

MacEvoy admitted the PMA's action was "drastic."

"But," he added, "sometimes drastic remedies have to be taken for drastic diseases."

* * * *

IN DEFENDING Velasquez before the coast arbitrator, ILWU lawyers argued that the violations involving the longshoreman were marginal, and that deregistration therefore was an excessive penalty.

However, arbitrator Sam Kagel argued that union officers have a "duty to enforce the agreements as written."

Kagel said Velasquez was familiar with the grievance procedure under the contract, and knew that illegal work stoppages were prohibited. Yet he "persisted in a course for which no excuse can be accepted."

Significantly, lawyers for the ILWU agreed that the penalty provisions of the contract did not exclude union officers.

Kagel, as though anticipating Local 13's argument that union officers should not be subject to company discipline, went on to say that union officers "are employes only on leave when elected to union office. They retain their rights under the agreement. They also are bound by the obligations provided for in the agreement to conduct themselves properly and not to cause illegal work stoppages."

* * * *

IRONICALLY, it was Kagel who, as a lawyer for the ILWU in 1937, had written the very clause under which Velasquez was punished.

At one time Kagel was a longshoreman. He worked his way through the University of California law school to become one of the Bay area's most well-known labor lawyers and arbitrators.

Respected by both the union and the shipping companies, he has held the job of coast arbitrator since 1950, the longest anyone has ever held the position.

Red China UN Quote Is Denied

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Undersecretary Ralph T. Bunche denied Saturday that he said in Los Angeles that Communist China probably would be seated in the United Nations within two years.

An Associated Press story from Los Angeles Tuesday quoted Bunche as making the statement the day before. A similar story Monday quoted him as saying a solution of the China seating problem could not be more than two years off.

Bunche told a reporter that what he actually said was that except for last year there had been a voting trend in the General Assembly for seating Red China and if this trend continued in a couple of years "the issue would be sharply joined in the United Nations, as it had not been in the past."

"That is," he explained, "there would really be a debate in substance . . . the crux of the issue has always been evaded here up to now."

Bunche said he made his remarks in answer to a question at a news conference arranged by the City of Hope Hospital. He later spoke at a convention of the hospital. He said he did not mention Communist China in his speech.

Thousands File Past Casket of Stevenson in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—"He has come home. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois has returned."

With these words, Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner Saturday led the people of Illinois in paying a personal farewell to Adlai E. Stevenson.

In the sweltering rotunda of the Illinois Capitol, standing close by the Flag-draped casket, Kerner told a memorial-service gathering of 3,000:

"We lived in the shadow of greatness—a greatness which somehow seemed to bring to each of us a special feeling, a particular kind of pride, a sense of satisfaction that we lived in the world of Adlai Stevenson."

* * * *

THE 20-MINUTE memorial service was a brief interruption to the personal goodbyes of thousands of Illinoisans to the one-time governor, two-time presidential candidate, voice of the United States in the United Nations and eloquent pleader throughout the world for the cause of peace.

From the time Stevenson's body was laid in state underneath the Capitol dome Friday afternoon, an estimated 50,000 persons had filed past the bier.

Thousands more were expected before the Captol doors close at 9 a.m. today and Stevenson's body is taken in funeral procession to his boyhood home of Bloomington, Ill., 60 miles from Springfield.

* * * *

STEVENSON will be buried Monday in the family plot which contains the graves of his newspaper-publisher father and his namesake grandfather, who served as vice president of the United States.

President Johnson revealed Saturday night that he will attend Monday's rites in Bloomington.

Stevenson's three sons, the consuls general of at least 20 foreign nations, governors and ex-governors, congressmen, state legislators and Illinois public officials came to Saturday's memorial service. They squeezed into the rotunda, stood in the four corridors leading into the area, or climbed to the second- and third-floor balconies above.

FAVORITE POEM READ AT SERVICE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—The Rev. Dr. Richard Paul Graebel read one of Adlai E. Stevenson's favorite poems Saturday at the memorial service for the ambassador in the Illinois statehouse.

"I read that poem once at a funeral he attended and he told me, 'Dick, that poem was beautiful,' " Graebel said.

The poem, written by Arthur Guiterman:

"Friends, whom I loved to have
"Know, would you mourn for me,
"I that was not, because,
"I that am not shall be."

LBJ Has Problem, Fill Adlai's Post

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON—President Johnson is faced with a personnel problem of the first magnitude in searching for a successor to Adlai E. Stevenson.

Stevenson had made the ambassadorship to the United Nations peculiarly his own. The United States has been well served by the men who have held that post, but none performed his task with more flash and color and more grinding hard-work than did Stevenson. Adlai was always highly regarded by foreigners who, as a matter of fact, were always puzzled by his lack of success on the American national political scene. They never had been able to understand why he couldn't make the grade. He was in a way a fallen hero to them and when foreign ambassadors presented their credentials to the U.N. the next thing they did was to call upon Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson was unflagging in pursuit of his U.N. duties. He knew that he had the confidence of the U.N. members and he was careful to preserve that confidence. If it was humanly possible, he accepted invitations to receptions and lunches and dinners for he knew what high store foreigners put upon his presence. He was loathe to let them down and there is little doubt in the minds of those who saw him operating that his enormous social efforts, piled on top of his diplomatic duties, did much to tire him out and to bring about last week's tragedy. "I regret that I have but one stomach to give up for my country," he ruefully remarked after one round of parties and finally he did give it.

TO REPLACE the sparkling, quick-witted, erudite and knowledgable Stevenson will be no small task. The glitter of Stevenson's personality will still be fresh in the minds of U.N. delegates and there will be a human temptation to embellish that personality even further now that Stevenson lies at rest. Appraising eyes will be cast upon the new man and a "show me" attitude will almost certainly be adopted by those who had found prestige in simply associating with Stevenson.

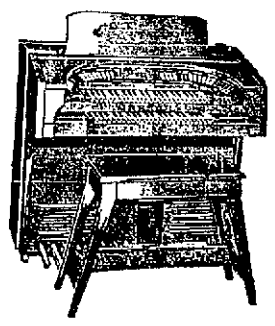

Whom the President will choose remains to be seen. The speculation is hot and heavy here in Washington and the list of prospective candidates is almost endless. Nearly everybody's first choice on the cocktail party circuit is Secretary of State Dean Rusk, but it is extremely hard to see how or why he would leave his high post for one of lesser stature. Rusk has many of the qualities possessed by Stevenson. He is charming, witty, an exceptionally fine expositor and has the urbanity to deal with foreigners.

Others leading in the speculative field are Dr. Ralph Bunche who has had long U.N. experience, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy who has great prestige among foreigners, R. Sargent Shriver who is an excellent salesman and whose work on the Peace Corps has given him a good name throughout the world, and David K. E. Bruce who is this country's most experienced top-flight diplomat.

COAST GUARD IN PACIFIC

A Lonely Year at Loran Bases

By ROBERT C. MILLER

TOKYO (UPI)—The United States' 25 Loran stations in the Pacific are lonely, expensive, and essential. From Mikayo Jima to Tarumpitao, members of the U.S. Coast Guard spend a year in isolation to man them.

Loran stands for long range over-water radio aids to navigation, and the system crisscrosses the Pacific with radio signals day and night. Loran-equipped planes and ships use the signals to find their exact locations—within a few hundred feet—regardless of the weather, altitude, or hour.

Being lost in the Pacific's vast reaches today is practically an impossibility because of Loran. The stations have an on-the-air operating record of better than 99.5%, although they are frequently hit by storms and are at the ends of supply lines stretching thousands of miles.

* * * *

BUT THE COST of maintaining the network is high, both for stations and equipment and in the personal lives of the men assigned to them.

Some lucky young Coast Guardsmen "adopted" by natives are the exception.

The typhoon-proof buildings and equipment cost from $2.5 million to $35 million per station. The Coast Guard found it was cheaper to build solidly from the start than to rebuild after each storm.

Several Pacific stations have withstood winds of more than 150 mph. The crew at Miyako Jima even went out and made temporary repairs in the 20-minute lull when the eye of a typhoon passed directly over the station.

Everything possible is done to make the lonely stations attractive to the crewmen during their one-year tours of duty.

* * * *

THE COAST GUARD found out long ago that men cooped up together for months need privacy in their living quarters.

Enlisted men at the Loran stations thus have better billets than those usually given majors in the Army or Marines.

Regardless of how remote the station, the Coast Guard moves in mail and supplies on a weekly basis whenever possible. Some stations have no airstrips and must be supplied by ship or seaplane.

Cooks are chosen with particular care and the menus are heavy on steak and ice cream.

But nevertheless, calendar marking is as much a part of each station as pinups.

* * * *

THE LOVE LIFE of the Coast Guardsmen is the big problem on most stations, women are unavailable. The usual military diversions of nightly movies, checkers, good food, and volleyball eventually grow wearisome.

At some South Pacific stations, however, the situation is radically different. The Coast Guardsmen are regarded as biological godsends by the islanders, who eagerly seek dates with the Americans with the full approval and encouragement of the tribal elders.

One chief pushed his people-to-people program so aggressively that the admiral had to fly out from Honolulu to get him to call off his girls.

The sites are often beautifully situated. One crewman, Mark Coleman Jr., of Park Rapids, Minn., summed up the attitude on the scenery as he looked out across the tropical blue seas: "The only thing the matter with this place is its geographical location."

* * * *

AT TALAMPULAN in the southern Philippines there is a signpost pointing to each man's home town. Rahway, N.J., is 10,057 miles away; Bell, Calif., 7,000 miles, and Taunton, Mass., 10,392. The arrows come down as each man departs.

The station is often the only piece of American property in the area, and the Coast Guardsmen are the only Americans the natives have ever seen. Assignment as station commander places heavy responsibility on junior-grade Coast Guard lieutenants.

"No groups of men have ever had a better opportunity to sell America and Americans than those manning the Loran stations," said Adm. T. J. Fabik, commander of the 14th Coast Guard District at Honolulu. "And without exception, they have exemplified the finest traditions of both their country and the Coast Guard."

Area Air Reserves Now at March Base

Thirty-six Long Beach area men are part of the first contingent of 550 Air Force Reservists from Southern California, Arizona and Nevada currently performing their annual 15-day summer active duty tour at March Air Force Base near Riverside.

They are members of the 942nd Troop Carrier Group of the 452nd Troop Carrier Wing, formerly stationed at Long Beach Airport. They are currently making the transition from C-119 "Flying Boxcars" to the C-124 Globemaster.

The first section of the 842nd is composed primarily of support personnel who will be undergoing intensive on-the-job training under their counterparts in the Strategic Air Command. The second contingent in August will be composed solely of aircrew and maintenance personnel requiring formal ground training prior to their shift to Globemasters.

Lt. Col. Cecil Sams, acting 942nd commander, in civilian life is a Long Beach City fireman and resides with his family at 4248 Keever Ave.

For the convenience of local area men with prior service in the armed forces who are interested in a possible Reserve assignment with the 942nd, Col. Sams has scheduled a recruiting team, Monday through Friday, to be at the Air Force Reserve facility on Long Beach Airport, Spring St. and Redondo Ave. Hours of operation will be 5 to 8 p.m. daily.

Child-Beater Bill Signed by Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation aimed at catching child beaters and protecting doctors from civil or criminal liability was signed into law Saturday by Gov. Brown.

Under the measure by Assemblyman Don A. Allen Sr., D-Los Angeles, doctors or other medical practitioners who suspect that a child had been injured other than by accident must notify local police.

It also provides that a doctor will not incur any civil or criminal liability as a result of his report which subsequently will be consolidated with records of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation.

BRITISH BREAKOUTS

Prison Soft for Train Robbers

By GRANVILLE J. WATTS

LONDON (AP)—It was on April 16 last year that one of the Great Train robbers, jailed for 30 years, turned to his wife in court and whispered: "Don't worry, darling; we will all be out in five years."

He could be right.

Charles Wilson, one of 12 men jailed for the $7,280,000 train robbery, served only 118 days days of his 30-year sentence before he was sprung from Birmingham's "maximum security" Winson Green Prison.

He hasn't been seen since.

The same fantastic attention to detail and timing went into the escape from London's Wandsworth Prison July 8 of another 30-year-sentence train robber, Ronald Arthur Biggs.

THE QUESTION now is who next?

The 10 remaining members of the train robbery gang are held in various prisons throughout Britain. Special watch is kept on them. Extra precautions are taken. But most British prisons are antiquated, overcrowded and understaffed. Wilson and Biggs have shown just how easy it is to get out of them.

Only $840,000 of the vast train robbery loot was ever recovered. There seems little doubt that part of what's left is being used to get the other gang members freed.

One rumor is that gang members made a "blood brother" pledge before pulling off the robbery that they would help to free any who subsequently got jailed.

IRONICALLY Biggs and the other train robbers were due to be moved to a special maximum security block at Parkhurst Prison on the Isle of Wight, known as Britain's Alcatraz.

Work on the block was held up and will not now be completed until the fall.

A completely new prison is also being constructed on the Isle of Wight. Prison authorities hope this will be ready by next year and all the train robbers will be moved in—if there are any left.

Britain's so-called maximum security prisons are just not secure enough.

There are no searchlight towers or armed guards patrolling the walls.

PRISON authorities are considering installing modern security aids such as closed-circuit television in the new Isle of Wight prison.

The prison administration itself is opposed to armed guards in high towers, despite expert opinion that without patrolled walls men will always get out.

Meanwhile, the situation remains a jittery one.

As one guard at Wandsworth Prison put it:

"Tension often reaches the boiling point here—if it should ever explode and the prisoners decided to walk out, there is not much a score of unarmed officers could do about it."

Governors Ponder Starting Own Lobby

BY GAYLORD RYAN

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Efforts will be made at the coming national governor's conference to unite the states' chief executives into an "effective lobby to be heard in Congress," Nevada Gov. Grant Sawyer said today.

Sawyer, chairman of the conference, said he hopes to achieve this goal at the organization's 57th annual meeting which opens in Minneapolis next Sunday.

Governors from across the nation, Guam and Puerto Rico will concentrate on problems common to the states "rather than trying to resolve national and international issues as in the past," Sawyer said.

THE AGENDA includes panel discussion on education, tax problems, the Economic Opportunity Act, standardizing statistical data and modernizing state government.

One of Sawyer's big campaigns will be to get all governors to back a resolution for the federal government to return part of its tax revenue to the states.

"THE FEDERAL government has too much money and the states are in various degrees of poverty," Sawyer said in an interview. "I would hope that we could mold our organization into a single voice and get something through the 1966 Congress."

He said there should be 100% agreement on the items.

However two problems might arise. The first is whether the federal government would put conditions on spending the money and the second is how it should be divided among the states.

"I don't think we will get into this at the conference," Sawyer said.

There are some federal officials who favor the return but on condition the states use the money for certain programs such as education, mental health and highway safety. Sawyer opposes this. He says the states should be able to use the money as they see fit.

ON DISTRIBUTION, big states feel the federal money should be returned on a population basis. Sawyer also disagrees here. He favors the use of other factors such as acreage, per capita income and how much land the federal government owns in a state.

Nevada would profit most by the latter plan since there are few people, the per capita income is the third highest in the nation and 86% of the land is owned by the federal government.

"Our problem is how best we can make ourselves heard in Congress," says the Democratic governor.

Sawyer said that too often in the past "the states have been content to stand aside while Washington found solutions to local problems and paid for carrying them to fulfillment.

"Our inaction and fear alone made the spread of the federal complex possible and our aggressive action, innovation and courage alone will stem its growth," he said. "We will not do it by waving the tattered flag of states' rights but by carrying the banners of states' responsibilities."

He cited these examples of progress by the states:

—The successful fight by governors to have veto power over projects in the war on poverty.

—A study directed by former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina to improve state governments. It is financed by a $280,000 private grant.

—Formation of a western states water council to find ways to provide water for the parched southwest.

—Creation of a western task force to lure eastern and foreign tourists to the West Coast.

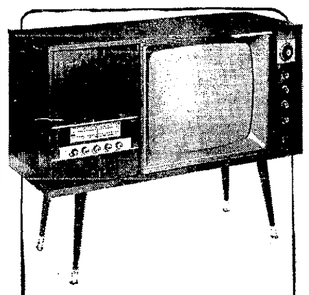

"These are nonpartisan programs," Sawyer said. "When the welfare of our respective states is involved, politics has no place."

INDIA TOURISTS FED UP

Snake Charmers Fight for Living

By JOHN F. BARTON

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—New Delhi's 2,000 snake charmers are going out of business because tourists are getting tired of the snake and mongoose game.

For several years, according to snake charmers here, tourists have been warily walking to the other side of the street rather than witness the cobra-mongoose fight.

"When people think of India, they think of elephants, the Taj Mahal, Kipling, maharajahs and snake charmers," said one snake charmer. "But when they get here they seem to forget about is."

"Maybe they have heard too much about us. Maybe they know that the mongoose always would win if we let them," he said.

At any rate, the novelty of the thing apparently has worn off. Snake handlers say the majority of the audiences are children.

Many of the snake charmers, who used to earn a meager living by walking the streets playing instruments with their reptiles in a sack or slung over their shoulders are getting out of the business.

Some say they can make more money breeding snakes for scientific laboratories or selling the snake skins.

Those who still practice their ancient profession find that civilization and the law are making things more difficult for them.

Policemen chase them off city streets where they once did a fair business. More and more, civilization looks upon the cobra-mongoose game as a public nuisance.

Need for Road Engineers Cited

DETROIT (AP)—The Automotive Safety Foundation said today the nation faces a serious shortage of highway transportation engineers to plan, manage and operate America's 3.5 million miles of public roads.

The foundation, whose membership includes auto companies, tire makers, and road building firms, released results of a survey it made on the shortage of transportation engineers.

Donald G. Capelle, one of ASF's research engineers and author of the report, said that one out of every five positions in the highway transportation engineer field cannot be filled at the present time because of a shortage of trainees.

The report pointed out that the two types of highway engineers—construction and transportation—basically are civil engineers and receive the same training at the undergraduate level.

THEY TAKE such courses as surveying, soil mechanics, pavement design, hydraulics, economics and construction techniques. Upon graduation, they can perform specific jobs in highway construction engineering.

Capelle explained:

"However, the basic undergraduate curriculum is not as adequate in preparation for jobs in highway transportation engineering. The undergraduate civil engineering student has little opportunity for training in the areas of planning, design, operations and administration and must take some form of training beyond the undergraduate level to achieve competence in this field.

"But a rapid increase in our population and in the number of autos on the road have created jobs at a higher rate than universities have been graduating engineers with advanced training."

Retarded Get Speech Aid From Mynah

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — A talking mynah bird being used as a "comma on" to help improve the speech of retarded children should know how to ask 40 questions by the end of the year and be fed up with his raisin diet.

"Some patients who might not talk to an adult, particularly younger ones, might talk to a bird or a doll," explained Dr. Robert T. Fulton, director of speech at the Fort Wayne State Hospital and Training Center.

The mynah, named Mack, should soon be able to parrot such queries as:

"Hello, how are you?" and, "are you here for speech?"

Students who do good work during class will be awarded a session with Mack and a handful of raisins to promote the bird's glibness.

The speech department already has used successfully lifesize dolls in speech therapy with small children.

INDIA TOURISTS FED UP

Snake Charmers Fight for Living

By JOHN F. BARTON

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—New Delhi's 2,000 snake charmers are going out of business because tourists are getting tired of the snake and mongoose game.

For several years, according to snake charmers here, tourists have been warily walking to the other side of the street rather than witness the cobra-mongoose fight.

"When people think of India, they think of elephants, the Taj Mahal, Kipling, maharajahs and snake charmers," said one snake charmer. "But when they get here they seem to forget about us."

"Maybe they have heard too much about us. Maybe they know that the mongoose always would win if we let them," he said.

At any rate, the novelty of the thing apparently has worn off. Snake handlers say the majority of the audiences are children.

Many of the snake charmers, who used to earn a meager living by walking the streets playing instruments with their reptiles in a sack or slung over their shoulders are getting out of the business.

Some say they can make more money breeding snakes for scientific laboratories or selling the snake skins.

Those who still practice their ancient profession find that civilization and the law are making things more difficult for them.

Policemen chase them off city streets where they once did a fair business. More and more, civilization looks upon the cobra-mongoose game as a public nuisance.

Need for Road Engineers Cited

DETROIT (AP)—The Automotive Safety Foundation said today the nation faces a serious shortage of highway transportation engineers to plan, manage and operate America's 3.5 million miles of public roads.

The foundation, whose membership includes auto companies, tire makers, and road building firms, released results of a survey it made on the shortage of transportation engineers.

Donald G. Capelle, one of ASF's research engineers and author of the report, said that one out of every five positions in the highway transportation engineer field cannot be filled at the present time because of a shortage of trainees.

The report pointed out that the two types of highway engineers — construction and transportation—basically are civil engineers and receive the same training at the undergraduate level.

THEY TAKE such courses as surveying, soil mechanics, pavement design, hydraulics, economics and construction techniques. Upon graduation, they can perform specific jobs in highway construction engineering.

Capelle explained:

"However, the basic undergraduate curriculum is not as adequate in preparation for jobs in highway transportation engineering. The undergraduate civil engineering student has little opportunity for training in the areas of planning, design, operations and administration and must take some form of training beyond the undergraduate level to achieve competence in this field.

"But a rapid increase in our population and in the number of autos on the road have created jobs at a higher rate than universities have been graduating engineers with advanced training."

Retarded Get Speech Aid From Mynah

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—A talking mynah bird being used as a "comme on" to help improve the speech of retarded children should know how to ask 40 questions by the end of the year and be fed up with his raisin diet.

"Some patients who might not talk to an adult, particularly younger ones, might talk to a bird or a doll," explained Dr. Robert T. Fulton, director of speech at the Fort Wayne State Hospital and Training Center.

The mynah, named Mack, should soon be able to parrot such queries as:

"Hello, how are you?" and "are you here for speech?"

Students who do good work during class will be awarded a session with Mack and a handful of raisins to promote the bird's glibness.

The speech department already has used successfully lifesize dolls in speech therapy with small children.

Full-Scale Land War Seen in Viet Nam

Compiled From The I. P-T's Wire Services

President Johnson somberly prepared the nation last week for a full-scale U. S. land war in Communist-embattled South Viet Nam. Military reserves may be called up soon and draft quotas enlarged.

Adlai E. Stevenson, 65, statesman, two-time Democratic presidential nominee and Ambassador to the United Nations, suffered a fatal heart attack on a London street. The President headed mourners at funeral services in Washington's National Cathedral. Burial was to follow Monday at Bloomington, Ill., the Stevenson family home, after memorial rites at Springfield.

* * * *

AMERICA'S Mariner-4 satellite camera scored an historic triumph by beaming to earth the first close up pictures of the planet Mars from 325 million miles in space. The initial photos showed the edge of the mysterious planet and a bright desert area. But still unresolved was the age-old question of life on Mars.

The President chose a Negro federal appeals court judge, Thurgood Marshall, one time generalissimo of the school desegregation cause, to be U. S. solicitor general—the government's chief legal advocate in cases before the Supreme Court.

Those were some of the top stories of a week that also saw Congress driving to pass Johnson-requested welfare measures so the legislators can go home by Labor Day.

The chief executive warned in a nationally televised press conference that "new and serious decisions" are imminent in Viet Nam where Red Viet Cong guerrillas were overruning South Vietnamese strongholds.

The implication was that U. S. support troops, now approaching 100,000, may have to go on the offensive.

This could mean the mobilization of 150,000 to 200,000 reservists and National Guardsmen and a big money request to Congress. But the President said no decisions will be made until Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge complete an on-the-spot survey of needs. Johnson dispatched them to Saigon Wednesday night.

"There are going to be dark days ahead," Johnson said, the second time in a week he had warned that the war will get worse before it gets better.

* * * *

McNAMARA told newsmen that extension of enlistments and tours of duty of men already in the service would have to be considered. He put Viet Cong guerrilla strength at 165,000. Johnson said in this connection that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. military commander in Viet Nam, has authority to use American troops "in ways he considers most effective."

Meanwhile, on the battle line, assaults of jet fighter-bombers north of the 17th Parallel continued almost daily — with both bombs and propaganda leaflets. Wednesday the U. S. planes hit roads and trucks 40 miles from the Red Chinese border, their deepest strike so far. On the ground, newly arrived Marines got their first taste of the war Monday, driving 200 Viet Cong from a village two miles from the belabored Da Nang Air Base.

Behind-the-scenes peace efforts continued. Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman conferred in Moscow with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin even while Russia was pledging North Viet Nam more arms to turn back "the American aggressors."

Johnson saw a ray of hope of sorts in agreement by Moscow to reconvene the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva July 27. "Peace is the leading item on the agenda of mankind," the President said, adding that the United States will present revised proposals.

Stevenson's sudden death stunned the nation. Only 25 minutes before his collapse he had given a spirited television interview in England upholding U. S. Viet Nam policy.

He was the grandson of a vice-president, an acolyte of the New Deal, a governor of Illinois and twice had run for President. But when word of his death reached home expressions of sorrow leaped the bounds of partisan politics as his esteem had leaped the seas.

* * * *

STATESMEN, princes and old political friends and foes took melancholy notice of the passing of one of the most eloquent of public men whose dedication confirmed his belief that peace and dignity for all mankind were attainable human goals.

A tearful Johnson said "America has lost its most eloquent spirit, its finest voice, and the world of freedom and human dignity its most articulate champion."

He sent Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Stevenson family, and an official delegation to London in his personal plane to bring back the body.

The Mariner-4 was launched on its spectacular journey last Nov. 28. Computers turned weak radio pulses into photographs—a process so delicate that transmission of the first picture took more than eight hours. Other pictures were to follow between now and July 24.

The scientific breakthrough showed that Mars is a planet where magnetic compasses will not work and where future astronauts need have no fear of radiation belts.

In the meantime the Soviet Union announced it had placed in orbit a 24,000-pound scientific space station—the heaviest the Russians have ever launched.

JUDGE MARSHALL, the new solicitor general, will succeed Archibald Cox who is retiring. When the 57-year-old civil rights leader was named to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals by the late President Kennedy in 1961, it took a year for the Senate Judiciary Committee to give him clearance. The committee is still headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., foe of civil rights bills.

The President praised Marshall as "one of the most distinguished legal advocates in the nation," as a patriot, and as "a gentleman of the highest order."

At the same time Johnson admitted that his own outlook on racial matters had changed radically since his days as a Texas representative and senator. Republicans had charged him with being "a Johnson come lately" on the issue. As President, he said, he wants to provide all the leadership he can to try to solve racial problems "in the limited time I am allowed."

The President also named Leonard H. Marks, a director of the Communications Satellite Corp., to succeed Carl T. Rowan as head of the U. S. Information Agency. Rowan, a Negro and former ambassador to Finland, resigned to resume a more lucrtive writing career. Marks, a lawyer, handled some of the Johnson family's Texas TV-radio interests.

In other news spheres, Johnson signed into law a bill imposing stiff penalties on illegal manufacture and sale of amphetamines and barbiturates—so-called pep pills and goof balls.

* * * *

AWAITING HIS signature were two other measures — one requiring a health warning on cigarette packages and another to save industrial silver by eliminating the metal entirely from dimes and quarters and reducing its content in half dollars.

The President issued two strict orders—one against any form of federal wiretapping or electronic snooping, except when national security is involved; the second directing all federal agencies to cut expenses because of the rising cost of the Viet Nam war and new welfare programs.

The House Rules Committee, against White House wishes, approved a billion dollar pay hike for the military. This is about 50% more than Johnson asked. House passage is expected.

* * * *

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission warned all radio and TV stations to "tone down objectionably loud" commercials. Violators may be fined or lose their licenses.

Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission said 12 more countries now have the potential to produce atomic bombs.

The President nominated Dr. Penelope Thunberg, an expert on economics and currently chief of the CIA's office of research and reports, to a U. S. Tariff Commission vacancy.

The week's deaths:

Jacques Audiberti, 66, journalist, poet, novelist and playwright whose play "Le Mal Court" was a hit in Paris after World War II, July 10 of an intestional ailment in Paris.

The President praised Marshall as "one of the most distinguished legal advocates in the nation," as a patriot, and as "a gentleman of the highest order."

At the same time Johnson admitted that his own outlook on racial matters had changed radically since his days as a Texas representative and senator. Republicans had charged him with being "a Johnson come lately" on the issue. As President, he said, he wants to provide all the leadership he can to try to solve racial problems "in the limited time I am allowed."

The President also named Leonard H. Marks, a director of the Communications Satellite Corp., to succeed Carl T. Rowan as head of the U. S. Information Agency. Rowan, a Negro and former ambassador to Finland, resigned to resume a more luertive writing career. Marks, a lawyer, handled some of the Johnson family's Texas TV-radio interests.

In other news spheres, Johnson signed into law a bill imposing stiff penalties on illegal manufacture and sale of amphetamines and barbiturates—so-called pep pills and goof balls.

* * * *

AWAITING HIS signature were two other measures — one requiring a health warning on cigarette packages and another to save industrial silver by eliminating the metal entirely from dimes and quarters and reducing its content in half dollars.

The President issued two strict orders—one against any form of federal wiretapping or electronic snooping except when national security is involved; the second directing all federal agencies to cut expenses because of the rising cost of the Viet Nam war and new welfare programs.

The House Rules Committee, against White House wishes, approved a billion dollar pay hike for the military. This is about 50% more than Johnson asked. House passage is expected.

* * * *

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission warned all radio and TV stations to "tone down objectionably loud" commercials. Violators may be fined or lose their licenses.

Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission said 12 more countries now have the potential to produce atomic bombs.

The President nominated Dr. Penelope Thunberg, an expert on economics and currently chief of the CIA's office of research and reports, to a U. S. Tariff Commission vacancy.

The week's deaths:

Jacques Audiberti, 66, journalist, poet, novelist and playwright whose play "Le Mal Court" was a hit in Paris after World War II, July 10 of an intestional ailment in Paris.

Jesus Maria Castro Leon, 57, leader of an abortive attempt to overthrow the Venezuelan government of Romulo Betancourt at the turn of the decade, July 12 of a heart attack in a military prison at Caracas.

Cleveland M. Bailey, 78, a Democrat elected to Congress eight times from West Virginia's Third District, July 13 at his home in Charleston.

Laureano Gomez Castro, 76, dictatorial president of Colombia until he was overthrown in a 1953 coup, July 13 at his home in Bogota.

Francis A. Cherry, 56, chairman of the subversive activities control board and former governor of Arkansas, July 15 of a heart ailment at his home in Washington.

Quotes of the week:

"My hope in Viet Nam is that resistance there may establish the fact that changes in Asia are not to be precipitated by outside force."—Adlai E. Stevenson, in a recorded tape radio interview the day of his death.

"Separation of people by color and color alone is dead."—former Mississippi Gov. James F. Coleman.

Indian Solon Arrested Again

GALLUP, N.M. (UPI) — New Mexico State Rep. Monroe M. Jymm was arrested for the second time this month early Saturday on traffic charges.

Jymm, 29, was charged with drunken driving, reckless driving and driving through a red light.

Jymm, a Democrat, is one of two Navajo Indians currently serving terms as members of the New Mexico Legislature. He was elected to the job last year.

Keeps Birds Away, Villagers Awake

BELTON, England (UPI)—Villagers here have complained local farmers ruin their sleep by using explosive bird scaring devices in fields throughout the night.

Oilmen Deny Overtime Bill Can Add Jobs

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Petroleum and other industry leaders are taking turns belting away at the double-overtime bill proposed by President Johnson to help cure unemployment.

To report that they don't like it is putting it mildly though the AFL-CIO thinks Johnson is on sound ground. Also in this category is the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International (OCAW).

The bill, a proposed amendment to the wage-hour law, is now grinding through Senate and House committees. It would require payment of double overtime—instead of time and one-half—after 48 hours during the first year. By the end of the third year this would be scaled down to 45 hours.

* * * *

THE PRESIDENT figures that rather than pay double overtime, big industries would hire more people, thus easing the 4 million-man jobless pool.

But witness for oil, steel, autos, aluminum and the two big business trade organizations—the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce—could not see it that way. Almost to a man they argued that it would raise costs but not the job rolls because most of the unemployed are unskilled.

Oil's case was summed up by John Post, chairman of the National Petroleum Refiners Association industrial relations committee and special assistant to the board chairman of Continental Oil Co. (The association represents 90% of the crude-oil refining capacity in the nation.)

First, Post said, oil, and particularly refining, is a highly specialized industry which requires skill and experience. Therefore, he said, you don't just go out on the street and hire unskilled labor merely to save overtime. Instead, he added, refiners must rely on their seasoned workers. Hence the bill would add to costs but not absorb any jobless men.

* * * *

THAT WAS the theme pounded on by other industries.

When Johnson proposed the legislation, OCAW President O. A. Knight reacted enthusiastically. He said that if enacted and enforced it would create 40,000 full-time jobs in oil and petrochemicals because both industries were undermanned. He charged they were using overtime as an escape hatch to avoid hiring more workers.

Port said, in effect, that this was not true as to refining because no overtime help is required except in emergencies such as a breakdown. And here, again, he said, unskilled labor simply does not fit the picture.

He said the experienced help called in during emergencies was paid premium rates and that putting this on a double overtime basis would merely raise already high operating costs. He said that since 1940, when the 40-hour week became effective under the federal Fair Labor Standards Act, the hourly wage rate has risen from 95 cents to between $3.30 and $3.35. This, he said, does not include fringe benefits or a premium of $1.65 an hour for all overtime.

* * * *

AND THAT, he said, is why refineries purposely devise work schedules to keep overtime costs down.

He also presented figures to refute claims of double overtime supporters that fringe costs are now so high that paying the present overtime penalty is cheaper than hiring more workers. He said overtime averages 65 cents more an hour than fringe benefits.

Post made another point. He argued that the added cost of double overtime would keep some refineries from modernizing and finally force them to close, thus adding to, rather than decreasing, the jobless ranks.

"In summary," he declared, "we recommend rejection of this bill. It is not warranted by the facts, would not create employment, and would only increase costs to cause further unemployment."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Brokers Pleased by Dull Market's Tape Action

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market continued to rest up from its rigorous June performance last week leaving the popular averages with an inconclusive gain. Trading was dull.

Some special situations added a few highlights to the week's performance but on a general scale the market was dull.

Prices opened mixed but turned soft Tuesday. A strong gain, largely produced by an advance in Eastman Kodak, was produced in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average Wednesday.

However, 2.25 of Wednesday's six point climb was trimmed Thursday. Friday's session was marked by an overwhelming dullness and a narrow price range.

* * * *

DESPITE the dullness which marked the week's performance, brokers said they were pleased by the tape action. The market, they said, seems to be establishing a base from which it can make its next decisive move, presumably upward.

One of the factors which the experts felt indicate an upward tendency is the fact that the market showed practically no reaction to President Johnson's comments on the state of affairs in Viet Nam nor to Defense Secretary McNamara's statement that reserve and National Guard units might be called up.

Only a few weeks ago, when the market was caroming wildly about, they said, such statements probably would have sparked a heavy selloff.

Presently, they pointed out, the market has a lot working for it including a whole batch of favorable second quarter and first half earnings reports.

* * * *

THE TECHNICAL indicators were neutral on the week. Dow-Jones Industrial Average added 0.94 at 880.43 and rails rose 1.55 to 201.79. Standard & Poor's 500 Stock index lost 0.02 at 85.69.

Volume totaled 19,025,980 shares compared with 15,622,930 shares in the four days a week before and 23,454,580 shares in the same week last year.

Of the 1,539 issues traded, 725 advanced and 636 declined. There were 45 new 1965 highs and 63 new lows.

Colorado Fuel & Iron topped the active list with a gain of ¾ at 17⅜ on 374,200 shares. The company reported sharply higher earnings last week.

Pan American Sulphur, which received an acquisition bid from United Nuclear Corp., was second in the list. It rose 2 to 17½ on 308,800 shares.

* * * *

McKESSON & Robbins soared 7 points to 45⅜ on 290,500 shares in third place. Glen Alden has offered to acquire 1 million McKesson shares at $49 each. McKesson has advised stockholders not to accept the offer.

Fairchild Camera advanced 1⅞ to 48⅞ on 276,000 shares in fourth spot. Control Data also was active. It closed at 35⅝ off 3¾. It touched a new 1965 low of 35.

A consistently weak undertone left autos lower on the week. Chrysler dropped 1½, General Motors 1¼ and Ford ⅞. American Motors bucked the trend and tacked on ½. Steels were a firm spot with most issues gaining fractions.

Chemicals were higher. DuPont and Eastman Kodak advanced 3½ each, International Minerals & Chemicals 2 and Union Carbide ¾. Monsanto slipped 1⅜.

* * * *

BUYING continued heavy in the electronics. IBM advanced 4¾, Honeywell 2⅝, Texas Instruments 2¼, Motorola 2½ and Litton 1¾.

National Sash Register tumbled 5⅞ and Foxboro gave up 1⅞.

Airlines lost some of their recent volatility and most prices held close to the previous week's levels. National and Continental were exceptions. National added 1⅛ while Continental dropped 1.

Aircrafts gained ground. Boeing rose 1¾, Lockheed 1½, Douglas 1⅜ and Grumman 1. Selective buying developed in the petroleum section. Socony Mobil jumped 3, Richfield 3⅜ and Shell 2.

Ecko Products spurted 5¼. Friday American Home Products announced it had resumed merger negotiations with the company. American Home Products was down ⅛.

* * * *

CHAMPION Paper advanced 2⅝ on rumors it would merge with Celanese. The reports were denied. Philadelphia & Reading climbed 4¼. It plans to merge with Lone Star Steel.

Olin Mathiesen added 1⅞ on favorable earnings news. Polaroid picked up 1⅞. Polaroid plans to introduce its low-priced picture-in-a-minute camera in Canada this month and begin domestic marketing in September.

King-Seeley Thermos rose 2½. Friday the company boosted the quarterly dividend and declared an extra payment. Drugs met selective buying. Metals tended to be soft. Pepsi Cola and Dr. Pepper lost around 1 each in the soft drink section.

Approval of contract specifications and authorization to seek bids for operation of city's Block V water supply facilities.

Brown OKs Outside Jobs for Inmates

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown Friday signed legislation permitting certain state prison inmates to hold "outside" jobs while on furlough work programs.

He said the measures by Sen. James A. Cobey, D-Merced, were a significant step in a "continuing effort to provide public protection through rehabilitation" of prisoners.

Under the new law, a selected inmate of a state institution would be transferred to a local jail but be allowed to leave during working hours in order to hold a job and pay support of his family and cost of his confinement and correctional training. He would return to jail each day after work.

Cobey's legislation also earmarked $200,000 to cover any local cost involved during the first year of operation. The inmate also would contribute part of his earnings toward the cost.

Costly Warsaw Theater Rebuilt Over War Ruins

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Warsaw Grand Theater, rebuilt over World War II ruins, will reopen this fall.

It is postwar Poland's costliest building. The Polish Press Agency says 12 billion zlotys have gone into the project. This is $500 million at the official exchange rate — enough to build 150,000 small apartments.

Work started in 1955. The job grew and grew, along with the costs.

The grand opera section seats 2,200. The stage, 115 by 70 feet, is equipped with many automatic devices. The building also houses the smaller National Theater, the ballet, ballet school and theater museum.

The first opera, Nov. 20, will be "Straszny Dwor." That literally means "Terrible Manor," and that's the nickname some economy-minded Poles have given the building.

Oilmen Deny Overtime Bill Can Add Jobs

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Petroleum and other industry leaders are taking turns belting away at the double-overtime bill proposed by President Johnson to help cure unemployment.

To report that they don't like it is putting it mildly though the AFL-CIO thinks Johnson is on sound ground. Also in this category is the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International (OCAW).

The bill, a proposed amendment to the wage-hour law, is now grinding through Senate and House committees. It would require payment of double overtime—instead of time and one-half—after 48 hours during the first year. By the end of the third year this would be scaled down to 45 hours.

* * * *

THE PRESIDENT figures that rather than pay double overtime, big industries would hire more people, thus easing the 4 million-man jobless pool.

But witness for oil, steel, autos, aluminum and the two big business trade organizations—the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce—could not see it that way. Almost to a man they argued that it would raise costs but not the job rolls because most of the unemployed are unskilled.

Oil's case was summed up by John Post, chairman of the National Petroleum Refiners Association industrial relations committee and special assistant to the board chairman of Continental Oil Co. (The association represents 90% of the crude-oil refining capacity in the nation.)

First, Post said, oil, and particularly refining, is a highly specialized industry which requires skill and experience. Therefore, he said, you don't just go out on the street and hire unskilled labor merely to save overtime. Instead, he added, refiners must rely on their seasoned workers. Hence the bill would add to costs but not absorb any jobless men.

* * * *

THAT WAS the theme pounded on by other industries.

When Johnson proposed the legislation, OCAW President O. A. Knight reacted enthusiastically. He said that if enacted and enforced it would create 40,000 full-time jobs in oil and petrochemicals because both industries were undermanned. He charged they were using overtime as an escape hatch to avoid hiring more workers.

Post said, in effect, that this was not true as to refining because no overtime help is required except in emergencies such as a breakdown. And here, again, he said, unskilled labor simply does not fit the picture.

He said the experienced help called in during emergencies was paid premium rates and that putting this on a double overtime basis would merely raise already high operating costs. He said that since 1940, when the 40-hour week became effective under the federal Fair Labor Standards Act, the hourly wage rate has risen from 95 cents to between $3.30 and $3.35. This, he said, does not include fringe benefits or a premium of $1.65 an hour for all overtime.

* * * *

AND THAT, he said, is why refineries purposely devise work schedules to keep overtime costs down.

He also presented figures to refute claims of double overtime supporters that fringe costs are now so high that paying the present overtime penalty is cheaper than hiring more workers. He said overtime averages 65 cents more an hour than fringe benefits.

Post made another point. He argued that the added cost of double overtime would keep some refineries from modernizing and finally force them to close, thus adding to, rather than decreasing, the jobless ranks.

"In summary," he declared, "we recommend rejection of this bill. It is not warranted by the facts, would not create employment, and would only increase costs to cause further unemployment."

Fairchild Camera advanced 1⅞ to 48⅞ on 276,000 shares in fourth spot. Control Data also was active. It closed at 35⅝ off 3⅜. It touched a new 1965 low of 35.

A consistently weak undertone left autos lower on the week. Chrysler dropped 1½, General Motors 1¼ and Ford ⅞. American Motors bucked the trend and tacked on ½. Steels were a firm spot with most issues gaining fractions.

Chemicals were higher. DuPont and Eastman Kodak advanced 3½ each, International Minerals & Chemicals 2 and Union Carbide ¾. Monsanto slipped 1⅜.

* * * *

Airlines lost some of their recent volatility and most prices held close to the previous week's levels. National and Continental were exceptions. National added 1⅛ while Continental dropped 1.

Aircrafts gained ground. Boeing rose 1¾, Lockheed 1½, Douglas 1⅜ and Grumman 1. Selective buying developed in the petroleum section. Socony Mobil jumped 3, Richfield 3⅜ and Shell 2.

Ecko Products spurted 5¼. Friday American Home Products announced it had resumed merger negotiations with the company. American Home Products was down ⅛.

* * * *

CHAMPION Paper advanced 2⅝ on rumors it would merge with Celanese. The reports were denied. Philadelphia & Reading climbed 4¼. It plans to merge with Lone Star Steel.

Olin Mathiesen added 1⅞ on favorable earnings news. Polaroid picked up 1⅞. Polaroid plans to introduce its low-priced picture-in-a-minute camera in Canada this month and begin domestic marketing in September.

King-Seeley Thermos rose 2½. Friday the company boosted the quarterly dividend and declared an extra payment. Drugs met selective buying. Metals tended to be soft. Pepsi Cola and Dr. Pepper lost around 1 each in the soft drink section.

Brown OKs Outside Jobs for Inmates

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Gov. Edmund G. Brown Friday signed legislation permitting certain state prison inmates to hold "outside" jobs while on furlough work programs.

He said the measures by Sen. James A. Cobey, D-Merced, were a significant step in a "continuing effort to provide public protection through rehabilitation" of prisoners.

Under the new law, a selected inmate of a state institution would be transferred to a local jail but be allowed to leave during working hours in order to hold a job and pay support of his family and cost of his confinement and correctional training. He would return to jail each day after work.

Cobey's legislation also earmarked $200,000 to cover any local cost involved during the first year of operation. The inmate also would contribute part of his earnings toward the cost.

Costly Warsaw Theater Rebuilt Over War Ruins

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Warsaw Grand Theater, rebuilt over World War II ruins, will reopen this fall.

It is postwar Poland's costliest building. The Polish Press Agency says 12 billion zlotys have gone into the project. This is $500 million at the official exchange rate — enough to build 150,000 small apartments.

Work started in 1955. The job grew and grew, along with the costs.

The grand opera section seats 2,200. The stage, 115 by 70 feet, is equipped with many automatic devices. The building also houses the smaller National Theater, the ballet, ballet school and theater museum.

The first opera, Nov. 20, will be "Straszny Dwor." That literally means "Terrible Manor," and that's the nickname some economy-minded Poles have given the building.

What Does Medicare mean to me?

Shall I drop my private health insurance policy ?

How long an illness will my Social Security pay for ?

How do I enroll for the new optional plan that pays doctors' bills ?

When do my larger old age pension payments start ?

How much more will the Social Security tax take out of my paycheck ?

The Independent, Press-Telegram will answer these questions and many more on the new Medicare-Social Security program, soon to become a law, in a four-part series by AP writer Sterling Green to be published as soon as the Senate-House conference committee reaches final agreement.

Every American—and especially the 20 million citizens 65 or over—has a stake in this complicated new program. You will want to know exactly what it means to you.

Second XB70 in First Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—The second of the two XB70A experimental jet bombers made its first flight Saturday, reaching about 40,000 feet altitude and a top speed of 950 miles an hour.

The 185-foot-long craft took off from nearby Palmdale Airport at 1:03 p.m. and landed here 70 minutes later.

The dart-shaped jet performed with no apparent problems, said a spokesman for the manufacturer, North American Aviation, Inc.

"The flight was a complete success except for a minor nosewheel steering problem when we landed," said Pilot Al White, chief engineering test pilot for North American.

"Stray input turned the nosewheel in as we taxied after landing, so we had to quit taxiing and have the plane towed," he said.

'Family Days,' Open House at Los Alamos

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—The wraps were taken off the $250-million Los Alamos Laboratory Saturday, letting the public into the mountainside facility that grew from a temporary wartime installation.

The occasion was Family Days, a two-day open house in which the laboratory opened to the public the birthplace of the atomic bomb. It commemorated the 20th anniversary of the explosion of the first bomb near Carrizozo in south central New Mexico.

Nuclear pioneers joined the public in touring the laboratory Saturday.

18-Inch Cobra Hatched in Zoo, Three More Due

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bronx Zoo happily reported Saturday a new addition—a cute, but deadly, king cobra.

After 10 weeks of getting ready for the big day, the hooded reptile — a mere 18 inches long—cut its way out of the leathery egg, about the size of a hen's egg.

Steve Spencook, head of the zoo's reptile house, said that three other eggs are expected to hatch soon from a clutch of 24 eggs that were laid in May and promptly put in an incubator. Mama—the zoo doesn't name snakes—is a 13-footer.

MAIL-ORDER BRIDE

2,000 Letters Bring Wedding Bells Here

Once they did get together things happened fast for a Long Beach-based sailor and his mail-order lady love.

They met on Monday, married on Friday and had only Saturday and today for their honeymoon here.

Fred Beardsley, 21, of Independence, Mo., met pretty Jane Thompson of Birmingham, England, for the first time last Monday when his ship, the USS Berkeley docked in San Francisco from action in Viet Nam.

* * * *

BEARDSLEY, a missile technician, and Miss Thompson, 21, a secretary who has been working in Vancouver, B.C., Canada, for the past 18 months had exchanged more than 2,000 letters since 1959 when a friend of Beardsley's brought her name back from a trip to Europe.

Friday they were married in the Los Angeles County Courthouse in Los Angeles. There were no friends there to wish them well. Jane's family and friends were too far away and Frank's "best man" was called to duty for the day aboard the Berkeley.

Frank goes back to his ship Monday and back overseas in November when Jane will go to live with his parents in Missouri.

Surgeons Seek Aid for Clinics

CHICAGO (AP)—The American College of Surgeons said Saturday it wants to cooperate with a proposed federal program against cancer, but also wants to maintain 1,000 cancer clinics its members operate across the country.

The subcommittee of the college's committee on cancer spelled out its attitude at the end of a one-day meeting.

It took the stand that the cancer clinics should be part of the projected federal program, with the federal government helping to finance and enlarge the existing facilities.

A bill pending in Congress envisions a program to deal with cancer, stroke and heart disease and contemplates a network of facilities.

"We are interested in seeing that the existing facilities are used as part of the framework of whatever federal program is evolved," said the committee chairman, Dr. A. C. Williams of Jacksonville, Fla.

"We'd like to help them plan it."

* * * *

"WE WANT to see that these 1,000 tumor clinics will continue to do a good job in taking care of the cancer patients at the grassroots level," commented Dr. Guy Robbins of New York City.

Members of the college have established approximately 1,000 cancer clinics, usually in hospitals, under a program that began in 1932.

These clinics were set up for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. Each is manned by a team that includes such specialists as pathologists, radiologists, urologists, gynecologists and internists. The clinics also keep followup records on patients.

The college is an organization of 26,000 specialists in surgery.

Wall Honeycombed

ADAIRSVILLE, Ga., (AP) — Honey bees buzzing around his house bothered Ralph Sparks, a cattle dealer. He investigated, then ripped off some weatherboarding. He found the bees. They had stored a solid 10-foot bank of honey in the wall.

Prince Philip Back in Polo Play, Wins

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Prince Philip, injured playing polo last Sunday, was back in action Saturday and scored four goals for Windsor Park in a 7-4 victory over Chequers Manor.

Queen Elizabeth's husband showed no ill effects from the badly bruised elbow he suffered when struck by the ball last weekend.

'Family Days,' Open House at Los Alamos

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—The wraps were taken off the $250-million Los Alamos Laboratory Saturday, letting the public into the mountainside facility that grew from a temporary wartime installation.

The occasion was Family Days, a two-day open house in which the laboratory opened to the public the birthplace of the atomic bomb. It commemorated the 20th anniversary of the explosion of the first bomb near Carrizozo in south central New Mexico.

Nuclear pioneers joined the public in touring the laboratory Saturday.

18-Inch Cobra Hatched in Zoo, Three More Due

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bronx Zoo happily reported Saturday a new addition—a cute, but deadly, king cobra.

After 10 weeks of getting ready for the big day, the hooded reptile — a mere 18 inches long—cut its way out of the leathery egg, about the size of a hen's egg.

Steve Spencook, head of the zoo's reptile house, said that three other eggs are expected to hatch soon from a clutch of 24 eggs that were laid in May and promptly put in an incubator. Mama—the zoo doesn't name snakes—is a 13-footer.

MAIL-ORDER BRIDE

2,000 Letters Bring Wedding Bells Here

Once they did get together things happened fast for a Long Beach-based sailor and his mail-order lady love.

They met on Monday, married on Friday and had only Saturday and today for their honeymoon here.

Fred Beardsley, 21, of Independence, Mo., met pretty Jane Thompson of Birmingham, England, for the first time last Monday when his ship, the USS Berkeley docked in San Francisco from action in Viet Nam.

* * * *

BEARDSLEY, a missile technician, and Miss Thompson, 21, a secretary who has been working in Vancouver, B.C., Canada, for the past 18 months had exchanged more than 2,000 letters since 1959 when a friend of Beardsley's brought her name back from a trip to Europe.

Friday they were married in the Los Angeles County Courthouse in Los Angeles. There were no friends there to wish them well. Jane's family and friends were too far away and Frank's "best man" was called to duty for the day aboard the Berkeley.

Frank goes back to his ship Monday and back overseas in November when Jane will go to live with his parents in Missouri.

Surgeons Seek Aid for Clinics

CHICAGO (AP)—The American College of Surgeons said Saturday it wants to cooperate with a proposed federal program against cancer, but also wants to maintain 1,000 cancer clinics its members operate across the country.

The subcommittee of the college's committee on cancer spelled out its attitude at the end of a one-day meeting.

It took the stand that the cancer clinics should be part of the projected federal program, with the federal government helping to finance and enlarge the existing facilities.

A bill pending in Congress envisions a program to deal with cancer, stroke and heart disease and contemplates a network of facilities.

"We are interested in seeing that the existing facilities are used as part of the framework of whatever federal program is evolved," said the committee chairman, Dr. A. C. Williams of Jacksonville, Fla.

"We'd like to help them plan it."

* * * *

"WE WANT to see that these 1,000 tumor clinics will continue to do a good job in taking care of the cancer patients at the grassroots level," commented Dr. Guy Robbins of New York City.

Members of the college have established approximately 1,000 cancer clinics, usually in hospitals, under a program that began in 1932.

These clinics were set up for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. Each is manned by a team that includes such specialists as pathologists, radiologists, urologists, gynecologists and internists. The clinics also keep followup records on patients.

The college is an organization of 26,000 specialists in surgery.

Wall Honeycombed

ADAIRSVILLE, Ga., (AP) — Honey bees buzzing around his house bothered Ralph Sparks, a cattle dealer. He investigated, then ripped off some weatherboarding. He found the bees. They had stored a solid 10-foot bank of honey in the wall.

Prince Philip Back in Polo Play, Wins

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Prince Philip, injured playing polo last Sunday, was back in action Saturday and scored four goals for Windsor Park in a 7-4 victory over Chequers Manor.

Queen Elizabeth's husband showed no ill effects from the badly bruised elbow he suffered when struck by the ball last weekend.

Enlist Poor in Poverty War, Says Mason

By CHARLES SUTTON

The grand master of Negro Masonry in California expressed the fear Saturday that the nation's antipoverty program may not be reaching the very people it was meant to reach—the poor, depressed slum dwellers of America.

Moreover, added Walter C. Taylor, there is a very real danger that big city political machines may be taking the program over bag and baggage on a local level, thereby denying a voice in its implementation to the poor themselves.

Taylor, who heads the Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in California, said in an interview at the Lafayette Hotel, where the lodge is holding its 110th annual meeting this week, that the trend throughout the country has been toward political domination of the poverty war.

The Grand Master, who lives in Berkeley, said it would be both presumptuous and false to assume that the poor themselves are incapable of taking an active role in the program.

Taylor, who said he based his comments on informal surveys made by Negro Masonic leaders across the country, insisted the poverty war will not be successful until the poor are brought in to help run it.

* * * *

DESPITE the trend toward political control on an urban level, however, Taylor said he thinks the program eventually will be put on "the right track. It must and it will," he said.

WALTER C. TAYLOR
Sees Political Football

The meeting in the Lafayette gets under way today with 2,000 delegates from the Prince Hall Lodge, the Golden State Grand Chapter, and the Order of the Eastern Star, the latter two being women's Masonic groups in California. The meeting concludes Thursday.

Taylor, in tracing the origins of Negro Masonry in this country, said the movement was started during the Revolutionary War by a Negro named Prince Hall.

* * * *

HALL'S original lodge, he said, was an offshoot of the Grand Lodge of England, the fountain of Freemasonry in 1717.

To this day, white and Negro Masonry have each maintained a separate status, Taylor said. But, he added, in recent years the two groups have practiced in some areas what might be called an open-door policy, whereby Negroes have joined some white lodges, and whites have joined some Negro lodges.

Taylor said he sees the open-door policy leading eventually to many mixed lodges alongside the all-Negro and all-white lodges.

In the United States today, said Taylor, there are approximately 400,000 Negro Masons, or roughly a fourth of what he estimated to be the number of white Masons.

Salvation Army Asks Donations For Kids Camp

For $29.50 you can give a needy kid a fun-filled week in the mountains.

Maj. Eugene Rice, Southern California divisional secretary of the Salvation Army, made an appeal Saturday for contributions to the Army's Camp Mt. Crags in the Malibu Mountains.

"The camping program is separate from the Salvation Army's year-around program which receives supplementary funds from the United Way," he said. "It must be financed by contributors who wish to help children."

Donations may be mailed the Long Beach Salvation Army Corps, 455 E. Spring St., or to any local Salvation Army unit.

West Germany Lays More Eggs

MUENSTER, Germany (UPI) — West Germany continues to lay more eggs than any other Common Market nation, the Westfaelische-Lippesche Farmer Association said.

A spokesman said West German hens are "happy."

He said they laid 37.6 billion eggs last year, 2.3 billion more than in 1963. The spokesman said West German hens provide 30% of Common Market eggs production.

MARKETS COME AND MARKETS GO, BUT LONG BEACH'S COLORFUL MUNICIPAL MARKET CONTINUES TO SELL, AND SELL, AND SELL!

But Market Stalls Stay

By BOB SHIBLEY

Supermarkets have captured much of its clientel and its space is less than half of what it used to be, but the Long Beach Municipal Market continues on.

In its heyday during the 1920-30s, the market was a bustling little community with more than 150 grocery stalls attracting as many as 9,000 customers during the week and another 4,000 on Saturday.

Operating on the same time schedule since 1918 —6 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday—the market now has only 35 stalls.

FOUNDED by the Women's City Club on March 22, 1913, the market was originally situated on the west side of Pacific Avenue between Broadway and Ocean Boulevard. In 1927 it was moved to its present site on Cedar Avenue.

The days when the city band played during working hours are long past and in recent years some fulltime merchants have stated that the market detracts from the general downtown picture.

However, Market Master Jack Browning claims there are no plans to discontinue the market.

"Supermarkets are the main reason our business has dwindled," says Mrs. Jenny Sizelove, 65, who started her peanut stand in 1923. "I raised nine children on what I used to make, but you can't do that any more."

MRS. AGNES BREDAHL, veteran of the market, starting her career in 1922, feels the biggest change is that "most of us used to have our own farms. Now there are no farms, just houses."

Many of the market's customers have been shopping there for over 20 years.

Ella Smyers, 323 W. Fourth St., a steady customer for 20 years, admits "the market isn't anything like it used to be, but it's still better than any other store."

POTATOES . . . PACKAGES . . . PLEASURE

Beach Combing with Malcolm Epley

IN CAMP ON THE YUBA, Sierra County — California's Highway 49, the appropriately numbered gold country route, crosses the Sierra Nevada in Sierra County.

Our Long Beach party of six intrepid explorers is camped right at the crossing. A few miles to the east the highway begins a sharp descent of the eastern wall of the Sierra, coming off the grade into the sweeping Sierra Valley where thousands of cattle feed in the lush meadows.

As I've mentioned in this dept. before, every loyal Californian should at least once traverse Highway 49, which is like turning the pages of a history book. And I recommend covering the entire route, including that portion in the northern mines country where we've camped and the high valley area to the east.

SIERRA is one of the less prominent of California's 58, but it is one of the most interesting.

Its mountain area is dotted by lakes, traversed by roaring streams, marked by the signs of old mining and prospecting operations, and crowned by the craggy, Alp-like Sierra Buttes. Its little towns are picturesque and occupied by pleasant, friendly people. Some off the main road are virtual ghost towns.

It's still delightfully primitive country. From the porch of the Zerloff Hotel in Sierra City, or through a window in the adjoining Sierra Chalet dining room, one can look out any evening and see deer browsing beside the main drag.

Couple of years ago, when one of our party suffered a slight injury, we learned there was not a practicing physician nor a registered pharmacist in Sierra County. I forgot to inquire this time but I suppose that's still true. The people appear hale and hearty.

WHEN we hit Sierra City the other afternoon, we found more strangers than usual moving around there and asked at the hotel what was up.

The visitors, we learned, were bird watchers. They were holding some sort of rendezvous at Sierra City, whose business people are glad to have a little convention activity.

I asked a couple of the visitors where they held their meetings, and was told they have no meetings. Their purpose is to watch birds, and birds aren't likely to come to meetings.

Among our gang, the only member who established sympathetic rapport with the Audubonites was John Wyatt, Now retired from his business machine business in Long Beach and living at Lake San Marcos, Wyatt apparently does a lot of duck and mudhen watching at the lake and was soon comparing notes with three lady bird-watchers who sat at an adjoining table at the Sierra Chalet.

While we questioned Wyatt's qualifications as an ornithologist, he obviously did a job of putting up a brave front.

THEN it was evening and several of us, strolling about the steep streets of the town, came to the charming little community church. Derek Beverly, a young Sierra City-ite trailing along with us, knew where the key was hidden, and presently we were inside this mountain sanctuary.

Gathered about the piano, with our driver, Chet Moore, stroking the keys, we gave some resounding renditions of old hymns.

This spontaneous little service was conducted with reverence and more dignity than you might expect, and who can say it did not do some real good among the hard-bitten sinners gathered there?

As readers of these seasonal journals must be aware, almost anything can happen on one of these vacation safaris.

PILOTS FRAN BERA (l), MARGARET MEAD . . . The idea: follow them

WOMEN FLIERS LOOK TO L.B. PILOT

'Follow Fran' Is Good Advice

By LEE CRAIG

Aerospace Editor

In Chattanooga, Tenn., a few weeks ago, Long Beach pilots Fran Bera and Margaret Mead had just landed their light plane to finish the final leg in the Powder Puff Derby.

Moments later, Fran received an indignant telephone call from another contestant at their previous stop, Savannah, Ga.

"What's the big idea of taking off without telling me?" the caller wanted to know. "What a dirty trick!"

She was among many other girls entered in the race who make a good showing annually by sticking with one rule:

Follow Fran Bera.

IN A RACE such as the derby, being first to the finish line is not important. The planes are handicapped so that they are approximately equal, and the winner is decided on her total flying time, plus consideration of her handicap.

Knowing the weather and when to fly for most favorable weather conditions is all-important. This is where Fran's 13,000 hours of experience, plus her natural ability, pay off.

One contestant was frank about her strategy.

On her cap, she wore a sign proclaiming "Take Me to My Leader—I'm following Fran."

And at the Dallas stop, officials and spectators awaiting arrival of the first Powder Puffers from Tucson, were notified by a huge banner:

THE IMPLICATION was plain. Now that Fran had decided the weather was best for flying, the rest of the racers would also leave.

Fran's co-pilot, Margaret, herself a veteran pilot and flight instructor, was amused by the vigilance of the other entrants.

In Tucson, Margaret was leaving an airport rest room as another race pilot was entering. The pilot turned around and ran for Margaret, afraid that she and Fran were about to take off.

Fran, seven-time derby winner, failed to add another triumph this year. She and Margaret finished second—by the closest of margins—in a field of 79 planes.

Despite this "poor" showing, Vice Mayor James Hayes made a trip to Aztec Aircraft at Long Beach Airport, where both girls work, to present Fran with a commemorative watch from the city.

Custody Battle May Bring Act

By DON BRACKENBURY

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

A Southland case in which a mother "stole" two children from the legal custody of the father and fled with them to Alaska may be the "cause celebre" which brings about uniform custody laws throughout the nation.

Alaskan authorities to date have ignored legal efforts to have the children returned to their father, and Los Angeles County officials have been unusually outspoken in their criticism.

"She has no right to that little boy and girl, and we do not intend to permit this brazen contempt of our courts and laws," declared Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger.

"This is a clear case of what I am trying to cure," said Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff. "We'll make a cause celebre of it, and the results may be rather embarrassing for the state of Alaska."

* * * *

PARTIES TO the dispute are the father, Dean S. Bassett of Granada Hills; the mother, Mrs. Sylvia Fenner of Delta Junction, Alaska, and the children, William, 7, and Elizabeth, 5.

Bassett, a chief engineer at Hughes Aircraft Co., was granted legal custody of his children in an order by Inglewood Superior Court Judge Edward J. O'Connor. The mother was granted visitation rights.

Shortly before last Christmas, Mrs. Fenner came down from Alaska and asked to have the children for two days, Bassett said. He surrendered the youngsters.

Bassett's attorney, Robert Kaufman of Beverly Hills, said Mrs. Fenner did not bring the children back.

* * * *

"ON DEC. 30, Mrs. Fenner boarded a plane for Alaska," said Kaufman. "The children were with her. She took them to a tiny village in the interior, Delta Junction. And, once there, she lost little time in going to Fairbanks and filing a custody complaint of her own."

Bassett retained an Alaska attorney, filed a motion to dismiss Mrs. Fenner's custody action and also sought a writ of habeas corpus. He won dismissal of the custody case Feb. 25, but the judge refused the habeas corpus motion.

Mrs. Fenner thus has been able to keep the children while the decision was appealed to the Alaska Supreme Court.

* * * *

YOUNGER sent extradition papers of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown on June 18, and four days later they were forwarded to Alaska Gov. William A. Egan.

The Alaska judge, however, had forestalled the father. The court ruled that Bassett could enjoy visitation privileges for a week, but first must post a $5,000 bond.

* * * *

"IF ANY parent can go back to his own state and file a second custody action because he doesn't like the outcome of the original one, and kidnap the children and keep them, we have anarchy, not law," Kaufman said.

Judge Pfaff said he would use the Bassett-Fenner case as a lever for general enactment in the United States of a proposed Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act.

Supermarkets have captured much of its clientel and its space is less than half of what it used to be, but the Long Beach Municipal Market continues on.

In its heyday during the 1920-30s, the market was a bustling little community with more than 150 grocery stalls attracting as many as 9,000 customers during the week and another 4,000 on Saturday.

Operating on the same time schedule since 1918 —6 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday—the market now has only 35 stalls.

FOUNDED by the Women's City Club on March 22, 1913, the market was originally situated on the west side of Pacific Avenue between Broadway and Ocean Boulevard. In 1927 it was moved to its present site on Cedar Avenue.

The days when the city band played during working hours are long past and in recent years some fulltime merchants have stated that the market detracts from the general downtown picture.

However, Market Master Jack Browning claims there are no plans to discontinue the market.

"Supermarkets are the main reason our business has dwindled," says Mrs. Jenny Sizelove, 65, who started her peanut stand in 1923. "I raised nine children on what I used to make, but you can't do that any more."

MRS. AGNES BREDAHL, veteran of the market, starting her career in 1922, feels the biggest change is that "most of us used to have our own farms. Now there are no farms, just houses."

Many of the market's customers have been shopping there for over 20 years.

Ella Smyers, 323 W. Fourth St., a steady customer for 20 years, admits "the market isn't anything like it used to be, but it's still better than any other store."

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

IN CAMP ON THE YUBA, Sierra County — California's Highway 49, the appropriately numbered gold country route, crosses the Sierra Nevada in Sierra County.

Our Long Beach party of six intrepid explorers is camped right at the crossing. A few miles to the east the highway begins a sharp descent of the eastern wall of the Sierra, coming off the grade into the sweeping Sierra Valley where thousands of cattle feed in the lush meadows.

As I've mentioned in this dept. before, every loyal Californian should at least once traverse Highway 49, which is like turning the pages of a history book. And I recommend covering the entire route, including that portion in the northern mines country where we've camped and the high valley area to the east.

SIERRA is one of the less prominent of California's 58, but it is one of the most interesting.

Its mountain area is dotted by lakes, traversed by roaring streams, marked by the signs of old mining and prospecting operations, and crowned by the craggy, Alp-like Sierra Buttes. Its little towns are picturesque and occupied by pleasant, friendly people. Some off the main road are virtual ghost towns.

It's still delightfully primitive country. From the porch of the Zerloff Hotel in Sierra City, or through a window in the adjoining Sierra Chalet dining room, one can look out any evening and see deer browsing beside the main drag.

Couple of years ago, when one of our party suffered a slight injury, we learned there was not a practicing physician nor a registered pharmacist in Sierra County. I forgot to inquire this time but I suppose that's still true. The people appear hale and hearty.

WHEN we hit Sierra City the other afternoon, we found more strangers than usual moving around there and asked at the hotel what was up.

The visitors, we learned, were bird watchers. They were holding some sort of rendezvous at Sierra City, whose business people are glad to have a little convention activity.

I asked a couple of the visitors where they held their meetings, and was told they have no meetings. Their purpose is to watch birds, and birds aren't likely to come to meetings.

Among our gang, the only member who established sympathetic rapport with the Audubonites was John Wyatt. Now retired from his business machine business in Long Beach and living at Lake San Marcos, Wyatt apparently does a lot of duck and mudhen watching at the lake and was soon comparing notes with three lady bird-watchers who sat at an adjoining table at the Sierra Chalet.

While we questioned Wyatt's qualifications as an ornithologist, he obviously did a job of putting up a brave front.

THEN it was evening and several of us, strolling about the steep streets of the town, came to the charming little community church. Derek Beverly, a young Sierra City-ite trailing along with us, knew where the key was hidden, and presently we were inside this mountain sanctuary.

Gathered about the piano, with our driver, Chet Moore, stroking the keys, we gave some resounding renditions of old hymns.

This spontaneous little service was conducted with reverence and more dignity than you might expect, and who can say it did not do some real good among the hard-bitten sinners gathered there?

As readers of these seasonal journals must be aware, almost anything can happen on one of these vacation safaris.

PILOTS FRAN BERA (l), MARGARET MEAD . . . The idea: follow them

WOMEN FLIERS LOOK TO L.B. PILOT

'Follow Fran' Is Good Advice

By LEE CRAIG

Aerospace Editor

In Chattanooga, Tenn., a few weeks ago, Long Beach pilots Fran Bera and Margaret Mead had just landed their light plane to finish the final leg in the Powder Puff Derby.

Moments later, Fran received an indignant telephone call from another contestant at their previous stop, Savannah, Ga.

"What's the big idea of taking off without telling me?" the caller wanted to know. "What a dirty trick!"

She was among many other girls entered in the race who make a good showing annually by sticking with one rule:

Follow Fran Bera.

IN A RACE such as the derby, being first to the finish line is not important. The planes are handicapped so that they are approximately equal, and the winner is decided on her total flying time, plus consideration of her handicap.

Knowing the weather and when to fly for most favorable weather conditions is all-important. This is where Fran's 13,000 hours of experience, plus her natural ability, pay off.

One contestant was frank about her strategy.

On her cap, she wore a sign proclaiming "Take Me to My Leader—I'm following Fran."

And at the Dallas stop, officials and spectators awaiting arrival of the first Powder Puffers from Tucson, were notified by a huge banner:

THE IMPLICATION was plain. Now that Fran had decided the weather was best for flying, the rest of the racers would also leave.

Fran's co-pilot, Margaret, herself a veteran pilot and flight instructor, was amused by the vigilance of the other entrants.

In Tucson, Margaret was leaving an airport rest room as another race pilot was entering. The pilot turned around and ran for Margaret, afraid that she and Fran were about to take off.

Fran, seven-time derby winner, failed to add another triumph this year. She and Margaret finished second—by the closest of margins—in a field of 79 planes.

Despite this "poor" showing, Vice Mayor James Hayes made a trip to Aztec Aircraft at Long Beach Airport, where both girls work, to present Fran with a commemorative watch from the city.

Custody Battle May Bring Act

By DON BRACKENBURY

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

A Southland case in which a mother "stole" two children from the legal custody of the father and fled with them to Alaska may be the "cause celebre" which brings about uniform custody laws throughout the nation.

Alaskan authorities to date have ignored legal efforts to have the children returned to their father, and Los Angeles County officials have been unusually outspoken in their criticism.

"She has no right to that little boy and girl, and we do not intend to permit this brazen contempt of our courts and laws," declared Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger.

"This is a clear case of what I am trying to cure," said Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff. "We'll make a cause celebre of it, and the results may be rather embarrassing for the state of Alaska."

* * * *

PARTIES TO the dispute are the father, Dean S. Bassett of Granada Hills; the mother, Mrs. Sylvia Fenner of Delta Junction, Alaska, and the children, William, 7, and Elizabeth, 5.

Bassett, a chief engineer at Hughes Aircraft Co., was granted legal custody of his children in an order by Inglewood Superior Court Judge Edward J. O'Connor. The mother was granted visitation rights.

Shortly before last Christmas, Mrs. Fenner came down from Alaska and asked to have the children for two days, Bassett said. He surrendered the youngsters.

Bassett's attorney, Robert Kaufman of Beverly Hills, said Mrs. Fenner did not bring the children back.

"ON DEC. 30, Mrs. Fenner boarded a plane for Alaska," said Kaufman. "The children were with her. She took them to a tiny village in the interior, Delta Junction. And, once there, she lost little time in going to Fairbanks and filing a custody complaint of her own."

Another Exciting Gain in Man's Space Knowledge

WHEN THE TIDE OF civilization surged across the plains and the western mountains to California and Oregon, Americans lamented that the "last frontier" had fallen and there were no more worlds to conquer.

Actually, their adventures were just beginning, and the frontiers merely changing in character and location.

As exciting in its way as any race for western land, the space adventure continued last week with a remarkable scientific feat. A space craft, fired skyward many weeks ago, began sending back to earth—across 134 million miles of space—close-up photographs of the surface of Mars.

Besides furnishing a better view of the surface of Mars than man ever had before, Mariner-4 has provided new information regarding that planet's magnetic field; and promises, upon analysis, much more valuable data.

Vital Bond Issue

LESS THAN ONE YEAR from now, millions of Southern California voters living within the Metropolitan Water District will be asked to approve a bond issue to construct new water distribution facilities.

For even as this is written, the vast California Water Project, designed to transport supplies from Northern California through the Tehachapi Mountains into Southern California, takes shape. Work is proceeding on schedule, which means that Southern California must be prepared to receive water in the early 1970s.

A great new system of pipelines and tunnels will be needed to distribute the water to MWD's 9,500,000 citizens. To finance this new distribution system, MWD will submit to the voters an $850 million bond issue. It will appear on the June 1966 primary election ballot.

UNLESS SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA wants to dry up and blow away, the distribution system must be built. It will be built, of course—if not through a bond issue, then through a drastic increase in the district's tax rate.

We agree with Fred Jennings, vice-chairman of the Southland Water Committee, that "It is better to issue bonds and spread the cost over future generations, who will benefit most, than to place it entirely upon the present generation."

The bond issue is the logical course. It will be the most important item of business for Southern Californians in 1966. Its approval will represent another landmark in Southern California's successful quest for water supplies for an ever-growing population.

Taxpayers Should Enjoy the Fiscal Feuds in Sacramento

I, P-T State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The scheduled autumn special session of the California Legislature is likely to take over where the summer session left off: scrapping.

The big reason is that differences between the executive side of government and lawmakers still remain unsolved.

McCAULEY

It was primarily the opposition of the executive side that killed the tax-reform legislation authored by Assemblyman Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, and Jesse Unruh, D-Inglewood.

At stake is which branch of government is to provide leadership. Neither is willing to give ground. There could be more stalemates.

Gov. Brown personally stayed out of the in-fighting in the early stages, cleverly delegating to his lieutenants the job of leveling attacks at his Democratic critics while he adopted a peaceful posture.

* * * *

BUT ALL this changed in the emotion-packed wind-up of the first special session of the 1965 Legislature.

Brown's personal feelings showed through when he personally whacked away at the legislative programs of lawmakers who had declined to become subservient to him.

There was no question but what the Governor, using his executive powers to discipline lawmakers, gave a blue-pencil lashing to Democrats he wanted to whip into line when he chopped $7 million from the budget okayed by lawmakers.

Cut from the budget the last moment by Governor Brown was an item authored by Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, for a new $32,150-a-year office for the State Advisory Commission on the Aging. The office was to be in Southern California.

* * * *

KENNICK had led the Democratic attack on the Governor's State Economic Development Agency. And lawmakers ultimately wiped out the entire EDA budget. Kennick also conditionally removed in committe $650,000 from the administration's new all-powerful General Services Department.

The Long Beach legislator also led the attack on an administration plan to spend $1.1 million a year for salaries of state supervisors who were to oversee Long Beach's trusteeship over the state-owned tidelands. The administration program was whacked to $250,000 a year.

Also feeling the sharp end of the Governor's blue pencil was Assemblyman James Mills, D-San Diego, who made public the fact that the Brown Administration had juggled funds to transfer monies to new programs unauthorized by the Legislature. Brown wiped out a Mills-authored appropriation for a $1.2 million new medical correctional institution in the home district of Mills.

Also feeling the Governor's wrath was the lone woman in the Legislature, Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola. The Governor slashed from the budget $525,000 for access roads to Lake Davis, a recreational spot named after her late husband. Assemblyman Davis had introduced a bill to abolish Brown's pet agency, the State General Services Department.

* * * *

BROWN also cut from his budget at the last moment an item authored by Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh for a $26,900 addition to the school physical education program.

Such politically-inspired cuts haven't paved the way for harmony in the next special session. Lawmakers are likely to look for ways to even the score with the Governor's office.

Happiest spectator to the whole show should be taxpayers. If lawmakers and bureaucrats start whacking away at one another's pet projects, it could result in less spending pressure some day.

The economy - minded should be all for Sacramento fiscal feuds.

Baruch an Exemplar of the 'Public Man'

THE LATE Bernard Baruch was an attractive gentleman who had enough dignity and charm to withstand the devotion of certain of his admirers. As is so often the case when a distinguished man dies, the race to proclaim friendship with him in print ended in a tie between the right ones and the wrong ones. The Broadway characters, possibly with the advantage of a crouching start, ran a dead heat with the more substantial citizens. And yet the feeling persists that Mr. Baruch in death was every bit as effective in maintaining his position as he had been in life. There is no record that commits him to a mutuality of confidence with those individuals who for years had been making the curious claim that they always went to him for advice. He did not go to them for advice; they went to him. And on this evidence they boast of an intimacy that I never found convincing. In New York there is an advertising slogan, "You have a friend at Chase Manhattan," that invites us to borrow money from that particular bank, but as far as I'm concerned the Chases who are friends of mine are a family in Waterbury, Conn. I would never expect to be asked to play poker with the Manhattan Chases, but with the Waterbury ones I have. By the same token, the men who sought his advice seemed to be stretching a point.

Mr. Baruch's position vis-a-vis his non-intimate friends reminded me of one of the banking Rothschilds of Paris, who owned a racing stable. An acquaintance tried to borrow some money from Baron Rothschild, and the Baron regarded him as a poor risk. "However, I shall be at Auteuil for the races tomorrow," said the baron. "You may come and stand in my box." Such public association was as good as money in the bank for the would-be borrower, and it didn't cost Rothschild anything.

By the time I met Bernard Baruch he was already an elderly man, older than I am now, and he had the protection of that famous hearing device which he would turn off and on when he didn't care to listen. Consequently he did not catch my name (a difficult one for deaf people anyway) the only time we ever had dinner together, although I found out later that he had read some of my books, and spoke well of them. Thereafter he made a point of being polite, but I was never able to verify a remark he is said to have made on the question of betting on the horses. As a modest horse-player myself, I regard the remark as a classic. It was repeated to me by the late Bill Corum. "No man ever committed suicide," Mr. Baruch is said to have said, "who had a horse in the winter book." A so much more picturesque way of saying that hope springs eternal.

BARUCH

* * * *

ONE of the reasons that it is difficult to accept the Broadway sharpies' intimacy with Baruch at their own valuation is that he was the same Bernard Baruch who could refer to a President of the United States as a "rude little man." Of course Harry S Truman might be rude to Bernard Baruch where some of the advice-seekers would not dare to be, but it is hard to believe that a man as independent as Baruch would be so patient with his hero-worshippers. In an earlier message I spoke of Winston Churchill as being a public man. Baruch was a public man, one of that special breed who achieve a 34th degree of their own freemasonry. They are not like you and me, and it is foolish to expect them to be. In more ways than one they turn off their hearing aids; they have special glands that secrete a glazing - over substance for their eyes; they have special manners that they adopt that are as natural to them as sleep - walking to somnambulists. It takes 50 years to develop the public man and the public manner, although the signs of both begin to appear much earlier. Oddly enough, the manner is not acquired by practice, and never by actors. A few actors possess the combination of charm and dignity that is basic to the public man, but the genuine manner emanates from the habit of power, the power of wealth or authority or both. Somewhere in the background of power there is even the power of life and death, to stay an execution or to break a man financially, or to have him machine-gunned in a South Side garage, or to ruin his reputation. Baruch mixed with power all his life and predictably he was a public man at an early age.

* * * *

POWER is not an abstract thing, even when it is not in use. It is therefore a continually fascinating subject, through Lord Acton to Lion Feuchtwanger to this casual study of Bernard Baruch. We whose power is limited sometimes console ourselves with the observation that it is self-destructive and corrupting. But isn't it remarkable how many old men hold on to it to the very end?

Finch's Bid for No. 2 Office Sets Theme of Independence

I, P-T Political Editor

ROBERT H. FINCH has been through enough barbed wire in state and national Republican political campaigns—all of it fresh, big time experience—that he should know, better than most aspiring candidates, how to avoid the snags while working for his own lieutenant governor candidacy in 1966.

HOUSER

The sum of this savvy seems to have boiled down to a main theme for the Finch campaign—indepence. It's not a mugwump stance of accommodation to an unidentified mainstream of California voters. But neither is it an unyielding stance which polarizes its observers into detest-or-adore factions.

And so he starts off with a strong identification and pride in his Republicanism. At the same time, he introduces this theme of independence so he won't be painted into any ideological corners by Republican ticket mates. Yes, he'll support all Republican nominees no matter their names or games. And he would respect the No. 2 office's responsibility of serving generally as the governor's right arm, but reserve the right—on the basis of his independent campaign—to express differences of view.

BORROWING the successful chapter from his own book in engineering actor George Murphy to the U.S. Senate last year, Finch includes a place in his blueprint for Democratic voters. This, of course, is the key to success which so many intransigent Republican office seekers have ignored, choosing to go down with the ship rather than win.

In his early press releases, Finch has made the pitch adroitly. So, instead of trying to read Democrats out of the state, he attacks merely "the Brown faction of the Democratic Party.

Further, he wants to enlist in his campaign "everyone who wants to become personally involved in the critical issues of our times" and "every Californian who is concerned about the future of our two-party system."

INDEPENDENCE is the keynote again when he sets a specific contrast with what he considers Governor Brown's going "too much and too often to Washington" for solutions to state problems. Finch would, he said, apply an "independent sector approach" to those problems. This means asserting leadership in the new Republican state administration to assign priorities to state problems, then enlist labor unions, churches, service clubs and other voluntary, home-level groups to work out solutions. This way, said Finch, "avoids the high brokerage fee" in tax dollars sent to Washington before their return home.

The 39-year-old attorney's independent, reasonable gait at this stage of the campaign does not, of course, insure a smooth walk into office. There are intransigent camps in his party who will demand that he be the same—as a price for their active support. He will be harrassed for yes or no, black or white answer on the John Birch Society.

DEMOCRATS who considered Richard Nixon the black beast of American politics will point to Finch's intimate Nixon service as administrative aide in Washington and as his 1960 national campaign director. There will be Goldwater people finding flaws in his independence, in the moderate nature of his technique and in his inclusion of Kuchel and Rockefeller friends on his organizing committees.

But Goldwater people are also on his committee, and there will be more of them. As well as more Rockefeller, Kuchel and Nixon friends.

Finally, friend and foe will have to ask themselves if Finch hasn't done the only politically practical thing in building this broad-spectrum list of sponsors. The barbed wire of the immediate past has shown that lists stacked to one side make a top-heavy case for defeat.

Apology Owed to Our Servicemen

EDITOR:

To our fighting men, and their families, who are making the supreme sacrifice for their country, I humbly apologize. I apologize to you for the members of our academic society who are shouting their intellectual fogginess that America is wrong being in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, that we are "persecuting the communists." I apologize for those who announced that they would work on members of the Armed Services, to get these men to lay down their arms and commit treason rather than fight in Viet Nam.

I want to apologize for the Americans who think this war is a bore and designed to cause them personal worry. They should get down on their knees and thank God that you are containing communism. I wonder if Dr. Martin Luther King remembers what happened to the Hungarians who fought for their Civil Rights? He should think back before going on record telling our government how to run its foreign policy and for us to get out of Viet Nam. I wonder how any of these marchers and sit-ins affairs would fare in any of the Communist countries? America isn't perfect by a long shot, but it is still the best place in the world to live.

I want to apologize to you servicemen for the slowness Congress has taken in granting you a living wage. The public should flood their Senators and Representatives with letters demanding your pay raise, and now. It is a sad state when a State page is paid more than a Navy chief with years of service to his country. The pay raise wouldn't let you live in the lap of luxury, but it might make it easier for you to pay the rent and buy the kids shoes when they need them. America can keep our enemies' economy up, so it should keep its own Armed Forces from living in abject poverty. It might ease the rough life, the tearing up of family roots every couple of years, the constant danger of being the protectors of the Nation.

You are in our prayers and we thank you all from the depth of our hearts. To me, each one of you could be my son, for he is a sergeant with the Regular Army and we are proud of him and proud of you.

UNLESS SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA wants to dry up and blow away, the distribution system must be built. It will be built, of course—if not through a bond issue, then through a drastic increase in the district's tax rate.

We agree with Fred Jennings, vice-chairman of the Southland Water Committee, that "It is better to issue bonds and spread the cost over future generations, who will benefit most, than to place it entirely upon the present generation."

The bond issue is the logical course. It will be the most important item of business for Southern Californians in 1966. Its approval will represent another landmark in Southern California's successful quest for water supplies for an ever-growing population.

Taxpayers Should Enjoy the Fiscal Feuds in Sacramento

I, P-T State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The scheduled autumn special session of the California Legislature is likely to take over where the summer session left off: scrapping.

The big reason is that differences between the executive side of government and lawmakers still remain unsolved.

McCAULEY

It was primarily the opposition of the executive side that killed the tax-reform legislation authored by Assemblyman Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, and Jesse Unruh, D-Inglewood.

At stake is which branch of government is to provide leadership. Neither is willing to give ground. There could be more stalemates.

Gov. Brown personally stayed out of the in-fighting in the early stages, cleverly delegating to his lieutenants the job of leveling attacks at his Democratic critics while he adopted a peaceful posture.

* * * *

BUT ALL this changed in the emotion-packed wind-up of the first special session of the 1965 Legislature.

Brown's personal feelings showed through when he personally whacked away at the legislative programs of lawmakers who had declined to become subservient to him.

There was no question but what the Governor, using his executive powers to discipline lawmakers, gave a blue-pencil lashing to Democrats he wanted to whip into line when he chopped $7 million from the budget okayed by lawmakers.

Cut from the budget the last moment by Governor Brown was an item authored by Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, for a new $32,150-a-year office for the State Advisory Commission on the Aging. The office was to be in Southern California.

* * * *

KENNICK had led the Democratic attack on the Governor's State Economic Development Agency. And lawmakers ultimately wiped out the entire EDA budget. Kennick also conditionally removed in committe $650,000 from the administration's new all-powerful General Services Department.

The Long Beach legislator also led the attack on an administration plan to spend $1.1 million a year for salaries of state supervisors who were to oversee Long Beach's trusteeship over the state-owned tidelands. The administration program was whacked to $250,000 a year.

Also feeling the sharp end of the Governor's blue pencil was Assemblyman James Mills, D-San Diego, who made public the fact that the Brown Administration had juggled funds to transfer monies to new programs unauthorized by the Legislature. Brown wiped out a Mills-authored appropriation for a $1.2 million new medical correctional institution in the home district of Mills.

Also feeling the Governor's wrath was the lone woman in the Legislature, Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola. The Governor slashed from the budget $525,000 for access roads to Lake Davis, a recreational spot named after her late husband. Assemblyman Davis had introduced a bill to abolish Brown's pet agency, the State General Services Department.

* * * *

BROWN also cut from his budget at the last moment an item authored by Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh for a $26,900 addition to the school physical education program.

Such politically-inspired cuts haven't paved the way for harmony in the next special session. Lawmakers are likely to look for ways to even the score with the Governor's office.

Happiest spectator to the whole show should be taxpayers. If lawmakers and bureaucrats start whacking away at one another's pet projects, it could result in less spending pressure some day.

The economy - minded should be all for Sacramento fiscal feuds.

Baruch an Exemplar of the 'Public Man'

THE LATE Bernard Baruch was an attractive gentleman who had enough dignity and charm to withstand the devotion of certain of his admirers. As is so often the case when a distinguished man dies, the race to proclaim friendship with him in print ended in a tie between the right ones and the wrong ones. The Broadway characters, possibly with the advantage of a crouching start, ran a dead heat with the more substantial citizens. And yet the feeling persists that Mr. Baruch in death was every bit as effective in maintaining his position as he had been in life. There is no record that commits him to a mutuality of confidence with those individuals who for years had been making the curious claim that they always went to him for advice. He did not go to them for advice; they went to him. And on this evidence they boast of an intimacy that I never found convincing. In New York there is an advertising slogan, "You have a friend at Chase Manhattan," that invites us to borrow money from that particular bank, but as far as I'm concerned the Chases who are friends of mine are a family in Waterbury, Conn. I would never expect to be asked to play poker with the Manhattan Chases, but with the Waterbury ones I have. By the same token, the men who sought his advice seemed to be stretching a point.

Mr. Baruch's position vis-a-vis his non-intimate friends reminded me of one of the banking Rothschilds of Paris, who owned a racing stable. An acquaintance tried to borrow some money from Baron Rothschild, and the Baron regarded him as a poor risk. "However, I shall be at Auteuil for the races tomorrow," said the baron. "You may come and stand in my box." Such public association was as good as money in the bank for the would-be borrower, and it didn't cost Rothschild anything.

By the time I met Bernard Baruch he was already an elderly man, older than I am now, and he had the protection of that famous hearing device which he would turn off and on when he didn't care to listen. Consequently he did not catch my name (a difficult one for deaf people anyway) the only time we ever had dinner together, although I found out later that he had read some of my books, and spoke well of them. Thereafter he made a point of being polite, but I was never able to verify a remark he is said to have made on the question of betting on the horses. As a modest horse-player myself, I regard the remark as a classic. It was repeated to me by the late Bill Corum. "No man ever committed suicide," Mr. Baruch is said to have said, "who had a horse in the winter book." A so much more picturesque way of saying that hope springs eternal.

* * * *

ONE of the reasons that it is difficult to accept the Broadway sharpies' intimacy with Baruch at their own valuation is that he was the same Bernard Baruch who could refer to a President of the United States as a "rude little man." Of course Harry S Truman might be rude to Bernard Baruch where some of the advice-seekers would not dare to be, but it is hard to believe that a man as independent as Baruch would be so patient with his hero-worshippers. In an earlier message I spoke of Winston Churchill as being a public man. Baruch was a public man, one of that special breed who achieve a 34th degree of their own freemasonry. They are not like you and me, and it is foolish to expect them to be. In more ways than one they turn off their hearing aids; they have special glands that secrete a glazing - over substance for their eyes; they have special manners that they adopt that are as natural to them as sleep - walking to somnambulists. It takes 50 years to develop the public man and the public manner, although the signs of both begin to appear much earlier. Oddly enough, the manner is not acquired by practice, and never by actors. A few actors possess the combination of charm and dignity that is basic to the public man, but the genuine manner emanates from the habit of power, the power of wealth or authority or both. Somewhere in the background of power there is even the power of life and death, to stay an execution or to break a man financially, or to have him machine-gunned in a South Side garage, or to ruin his reputation. Baruch mixed with power all his life and predictably he was a public man at an early age.

* * * *

POWER is not an abstract thing, even when it is not in use. It is therefore a continually fascinating subject, through Lord Acton to Lion Feuchtwanger to this casual study of Bernard Baruch. We whose power is limited sometimes console ourselves with the observation that it is self-destructive and corrupting. But isn't it remarkable how many old men hold on to it to the very end?

Finch's Bid for No. 2 Office Sets Theme of Independence

I, P-T Political Editor

ROBERT H. FINCH has been through enough barbed wire in state and national Republican political campaigns—all of it fresh, big time experience—that he should know, better than most aspiring candidates, how to avoid the snags while working for his own lieutenant governor candidacy in 1966.

HOUSER

The sum of this savvy seems to have boiled down to a main theme for the Finch campaign—independence. It's not a mugwump stance of accommodation to an unidentified mainstream of California voters. But neither is it an unyielding stance which polarizes its observers into detest-or-adore factions.

And so he starts off with a strong identification and pride in his Republicanism. At the same time, he introduces this theme of independence so he won't be painted into any ideological corners by Republican ticket mates. Yes, he'll support all Republican nominees no matter their names or games. And he would respect the No. 2 office's responsibility of serving generally as the governor's right arm, but reserve the right—on the basis of his independent campaign—to express differences of view.

BORROWING the successful chapter from his own book in engineering actor George Murphy to the U.S. Senate last year, Finch includes a place in his blueprint for Democratic voters. This, of course, is the key to success which so many intransigent Republican office seekers have ignored, choosing to go down with the ship rather than win.

In his early press releases, Finch has made the pitch adroitly. So, instead of trying to read Democrats out of the state, he attacks merely "the Brown faction of the Democratic Party.

Further, he wants to enlist in his campaign "everyone who wants to become personally involved in the critical issues of our times" and "every Californian who is concerned about the future of our two-party system."

INDEPENDENCE is the keynote again when he sets a specific contrast with what he considers Governor Brown's going "too much and too often to Washington" for solutions to state problems. Finch would, he said, apply an "independent sector approach" to those problems. This means asserting leadership in the new Republican state administration to assign priorities to state problems, then enlist labor unions, churches, service clubs and other voluntary, home-level groups to work out solutions. This way, said Finch, "avoids the high brokerage fee" in tax dollars sent to Washington before their return home.

The 39-year-old attorney's independent, reasonable gait at this stage of the campaign does not, of course, insure a smooth walk into office. There are intransigent camps in his party who will demand that he be the same—as a price for their active support. He will be harrassed for yes or no, black or white answer on the John Birch Society.

DEMOCRATS who considered Richard Nixon the black beast of American politics will point to Finch's intimate Nixon service as administrative aide in Washington and as his 1960 national campaign director. There will be Goldwater people finding flaws in his independence, in the moderate nature of his technique and in his inclusion of Kuchel and Rockefeller friends on his organizing committees.

But Goldwater people are also on his committee, and there will be more of them. As well as more Rockefeller, Kuchel and Nixon friends.

Finally, friend and foe will have to ask themselves if Finch hasn't done the only politically practical thing in building this broad-spectrum list of sponsors. The barbed wire of the immediate past has shown that lists stacked to one side make a top-heavy case for defeat.

Apology Owed to Our Servicemen

EDITOR:

To our fighting men, and their families, who are making the supreme sacrifice for their country, I humbly apologize. I apologize to you for the members of our academic society who are shouting their intellectual fogginess that America is wrong being in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, that we are "persecuting the communists." I apologize for those who announced that they would work on members of the Armed Services, to get these men to lay down their arms and commit treason rather than fight in Viet Nam.

I want to apologize for the Americans who think this war is a bore and designed to cause them personal worry. They should get down on their knees and thank God that you are containing communism. I wonder if Dr. Martin Luther King remembers what happened to the Hungarians who fought for their Civil Rights? He should think back before going on record telling our government how to run its foreign policy and for us to get out of Viet Nam. I wonder how any of these marchers and sit-ins affairs would fare in any of the Communist countries? America isn't perfect by a long shot, but it is still the best place in the world to live.

I want to apologize to you servicemen for the slowness Congress has taken in granting you a living wage. The public should flood their Senators and Representatives with letters demanding your pay raise, and now. It is a sad state when a State page is paid more than a Navy chief with years of service to his country. The pay raise wouldn't let you live in the lap of luxury, but it might make it easier for you to pay the rent and buy the kids shoes when they need them. America can keep our enemies' economy up, so it should keep its own Armed Forces from living in abject poverty. It might ease the rough life, the tearing up of family roots every couple of years, the constant danger of being the protectors of the Nation.

You are in our prayers and we thank you all from the depth of our hearts. To me, each one of you could be my son, for he is a sergeant with the Regular Army and we are proud of him and proud of you.

War Talk May Depose GOP House Leader

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders aren't saying much about it but beneath the surface they are boiling at their new Congressional leader, Rep. Jerry Ford of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Some House Republicans are so fed up they are talking of bringing back old gnarled, weather-beaten Charley Halleck of Indiana as Republican leader. Halleck doesn't look like a matinee idol, and a lot of Republicans voted against him because they wanted a younger, handsomer image on TV. Some of those who voted against Halleck now wish they hadn't.

PEARSON

Their chief gripe is Ford's jingoistic demands for expanding the North Vietnamese bombings. They're afraid this could escalate the Southeast conflict into World War III and it then might be called a Republican war. Hitherto Republican strategists have been very happy that they could refer to "Johnson's War."

Criticism is coming not only from Eastern Republican liberals but from Midwest conservatives, who, though they don't go along 100% with Johnson on Viet Nam, like Ford's saber-rattling even less.

Note: Eastern Republicans who cast the decisive votes to depose Charles Halleck and make Ford the Republican leader by only four votes, now have enough votes to unseat him.

PRESIDENT Johnson has been telling friends that the Episcopalians lost Luci to the Catholic Church through Dean Sayre of the National Cathedral. He referred to the critical statement issued by the grandson of Woodrow Wilson from an Episcopalian pulpit last fall.

The President, of course, was joking. Actually Father Montgomery, the priest who instructed Luci, came to see her father about a year ago for advice. The President refused to give any advice about his daughter, said an individual's religion is a personal, sacred matter.

Father Montgomery pointed out, however, that since Luci was the daughter of the President of the United States, her conversion would attract worldwide attention. He said he did not want to be in the position of appearing to influence anyone under legal age. This is why the ceremony was postponed until Luci's eighteenth birthday.

Luci has been receiving a lot of fan mail as a result of her conversion, and takes it quite seriously. The other night she was up until 1 a.m. reading the mail and trying to answer it.

MIAMI'S controversial TV Channel 10 has been whipsawed back and forth by the courts and the FCC ever since this column in 1958 exposed a loan to FCC Commissioner Richard Mack by the attorney for National Airlines which then operated the channel.

Following the 1958 expose, the Federal Communications Commission took Channel 10 away from National Airlines and awarded it to L.B. Wilson, Inc., supposedly for a "limited period." But six years passed and last week the Court of Appeals upheld the FCC's decision to continue Wilson's license—since it already had it.

Judge Skelly Wright, however, wrote a very important dissent which could make television history. He cited the Communications Act of 1934 which provides that no license granted by the commission "shall be construed to create any right beyond the terms, conditions and periods of the license."

Info Agency Staff Fears New Boss Has New Plan

WASHINGTON—President Johnson's appointment of an old buddy, lawyer Leonard H. Marks, to head the United States Information Agency has created concern among the agency's let-the- chips-fall - where-they-may faction.

MARKS

This faction, which was in ascendancy during the regime of Edward R. Murrow, believes the agency can be most effective by telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about the United States to the overseas audience. Other factions believe in various degrees of slanting reports in our favor.

The "falling chips" people fear that Marks, whose experience in the communications field has been largely in the legal and political end of radio and television, may weigh more towards propagandizing. Currently, they're hoping Marks will function principally as an administrator (an area of weakness in his immediate predecessor, Carl T. Rowan) and will appoint as his top lieutenants persons dedicated to objectivity in USIA presentations.

Marks' closeness to the President has also raised some eyebrows on Capitol Hill and hearings on his Senate confirmation may well raise the old bugaboo that USIA might be used as a tool of personal images making.

* * * *

PASSAGE OF the coinage bill last week reminded one Congressman of an old radio program's opening lines: "Heigh-ho, Silver! Awaaay!"

* * * *

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission, which last week admonished televisors to turn down the volume of commercials, will use a hard sell if the broadcasters don't comply.

The FCC action of last week was in the form of a "suggestion," but the agency is preparing to make it an order if the viceroys of video don't keep the commercial blather at the same volume as the "entertainment" part of their programming.

FCC has been under pressure for more than two years to control increases of volume in electronic hawkings, a campaign spearheaded by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn. FCC has claimed that enforcement of such an order is difficult to enforce for lack of adequate volume measuring devices.

But now Bell Laboratories are perfecting a device which FCC can use to accurately measure detergent decibels in case the pitchmen's pitch becomes too high.

* * * *

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: A poster on the office door of Oregon's Sen. Maurine Neuberger, a crusader against cigarets, shows a knight on white charger riding down a cowering package of smokes. It is captioned, "Out, Out, Damned Butt."

* * * *

"FISH-BARRELING," a variant of the time-honored practice of pork-barrelling, showed up last week in allotments announced by the Interior Department's Bureau of Fisheries Research. Under the law, allotments are made according to the worth of a state's commercial fishery but every state gets a minimum allotment of $20,400.

Under the arrangement, a state teeming with fishing holes such as Minnesota is entitled no more than semi-arid Nevada.

However the grants are subject to formulation of research projects by the states. Perhaps Nevada will want to make study of Reno's card-sharks and Las Vegas machine suckers.

* * * *

WHEN ORVILLE FREEMAN became Secretary of Agriculture, one of his first decisions was an administrative order requiring all county representatives of USDA to group themselves into one location. Aware of past feuds between various bureaus in the agency, Freeman felt that close proximity might make it easier for local representatives to speak with one voice. And so the consolidation started—except in Illinois. The Farm Bureau, which in Illinois is synonymous with the County Extension Program, has resisted, and is still resisting. Most Illinois County Extension agents are housed in local Farm Bureau offices. Freeman is about to crack down, and a big political battle within the state will probably be touched off.

* * * *

THE BIGGEST problem the Dominican Republic must face in the wake of its three-month old revolution is how the shopkeepers will get debtors to pay their bills, according to Donald Reid Cabral, ex-President of the Dominican Republic.

Cabral, who owned an automobile agency in Santo Domingo while he presided over the country, pointed out that the battlefield of the recent revolution was also the main street and business center of the capitol city. He said that Dominicans (like everybody else) bought their cars, ice boxes, television sets, and most other household appliances on credit and when all the stores were destroyed by the fighting, all the i.o.u.s and credit slips were torn up or burnt.

The result is shopkeepers are unable to collect their bills and so have no money to buy more supplies.

LBJ's U.N. Image Needs Aid

United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Although Communist propaganda against Washington's Viet Nam and Dominican policies has barely dented U.S. prestige here, there seems to be agreement that the delegates' image of President Johnson needs retouching.

Johnson has appeared before General Assembly delegates twice as President.

On Dec. 17, 1964, he earned their sympathy as successor to the recently assassinated John F. Kennedy and excited their enthusiasm with a pledge to make world peace, civil rights and human welfare "not an illusion but a reality."

Last June 26, his appearance before the Assembly's 20th anniversary commemoration at San Francisco provided no occasion for sympathy and afforded little opportunity for enthusiasm.

Most delegates had expected a dramatic speech from the President. Many were confident he would announce a U.S. concession in the U.N political impasse over financial problems if not, indeed, a sizable monetary contribution to solve them.

Although U.S. press advisers cautioned against predicting what Johnson would say, several dispatches forecast a financial concession, an offer for mutual scrapping with Russia of a determined number of nuclear warheads, or a move for peace in Viet Nam.

The President offered none of these and whispers were passed by close students of the LBJ mystique that the advance publicity precluded his offering them.

The highlight of his speech was an appeal to the United Nations to persuade the Peking and Hanoi authorities to come to the conference table, an achievement eluding Washington to date.

Father Montgomery pointed out, however, that since Luci was the daughter of the President of the United States, her conversion would attract worldwide attention. He said he did not want to be in the position of appearing to influence anyone under legal age. This is why the ceremony was postponed until Luci's eighteenth birthday.

Luci has been receiving a lot of fan mail as a result of her conversion, and takes it quite seriously. The other night she was up until 1 a.m. reading the mail and trying to answer it.

MIAMI'S controversial TV Channel 10 has been whipsawed back and forth by the courts and the FCC ever since this column in 1958 exposed a loan to FCC Commissioner Richard Mack by the attorney for National Airlines which then operated the channel.

Following the 1958 expose, the Federal Communications Commission took Channel 10 away from National Airlines and awarded it to L.B. Wilson, Inc., supposedly for a "limited period." But six years passed and last week the Court of Appeals upheld the FCC's decision to continue Wilson's license—since it already had it.

Judge Skelly Wright, however, wrote a very important dissent which could make television history. He cited the Communication's Act of 1934 which provides that no license granted by the commission "shall be construed to create any right beyond the terms, conditions and periods of the license."

Info Agency Staff Fears New Boss Has New Plan

WASHINGTON—President Johnson's appointment of an old buddy, lawyer Leonard H. Marks, to head the United States Information Agency has created concern among the agency's let-the- chips-fall - where-they-may faction.

MARKS

This faction, which was in ascendancy during the regime of Edward R. Murrow, believes the agency can be most effective by telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about the United States to the overseas audience. Other factions believe in various degrees of slanting reports in our favor.

The "falling chips" people fear that Marks, whose experience in the communications field has been largely in the legal and political end of radio and television, may weigh more towards propagandizing. Currently, they're hoping Marks will function principally as an administrator (an area of weakness in his immediate predecessor, Carl T. Rowan) and will appoint as his top lieutenants persons dedicated to objectivity in USIA presentations.

Marks' closeness to the President has also raised some eyebrows on Capitol Hill and hearings on his Senate confirmation may well raise the old bugaboo that USIA might be used as a tool of personal images making.

PASSAGE OF the coinage bill last week reminded one Congressman of an old radio program's opening lines: "Heigh-ho, Silver! Awaaay!"

* * * *

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission, which last week admonished televisors to turn down the volume of commercials, will use a hard sell if the broadcasters don't comply.

The FCC action of last week was in the form of a "suggestion," but the agency is preparing to make it an order if the viceroys of video don't keep the commercial blather at the same volume as the "entertainment" part of their programming.

FCC has been under pressure for more than two years to control increases of volume in electronic hawkings, a campaign spearheaded by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn. FCC has claimed that enforcement of such an order is difficult to enforce for lack of adequate volume measuring devices.

But now Bell Laboratories are perfecting a device which FCC can use to accurately measure detergent decibels in case the pitchmen's pitch becomes too high.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: A poster on the office door of Oregon's Sen. Maurine Neuberger, a crusader against cigarets, shows a knight on white charger riding down a cowering package of smokes. It is captioned, "Out, Out, Damned Butt."

"FISH-BARRELING," a variant of the time-honored practice of pork-barrelling, showed up last week in allotments announced by the Interior Department's Bureau of Fisheries Research. Under the law, allotments are made according to the worth of a state's commercial fishery but every state gets a minimum allotment of $20,400.

Under the arrangement, a state teeming with fishing holes such as Minnesota is entitled no more than semi-arid Nevada.

However the grants are subject to formulation of research projects by the states. Perhaps Nevada will want to make study of Reno's card-sharks and Las Vegas machine suckers.

* * * *

WHEN ORVILLE FREEMAN became Secretary of Agriculture, one of his first decisions was an administrative order requiring all county representatives of USDA to group themselves into one location. Aware of past feuds between various bureaus in the agency, Freeman felt that close proximity might make it easier for local representatives to speak with one voice. And so the consolidation started—except in Illinois. The Farm Bureau, which in Illinois is synonymous with the County Extension Program, has resisted, and is still resisting. Most Illinois County Extension agents are housed in local Farm Bureau offices. Freeman is about to crack down, and a big political battle within the state will probably be touched off.

THE BIGGEST problem the Dominican Republic must face in the wake of its three-month old revolution is how the shopkeepers will get debtors to pay their bills, according to Donald Reid Cabral, ex-President of the Dominican Republic.

Cabral, who owned an automobile agency in Santo Domingo while he presided over the country, pointed out that the battlefield of the recent revolution was also the main street and business center of the capitol city. He said that Dominicans (like everybody else) bought their cars, ice boxes, television sets, and most other household appliances on credit and when all the stores were destroyed by the fighting, all the i.o.u.s and credit slips were torn up or burnt.

The result is shopkeepers are unable to collect their bills and so have no money to buy more supplies.

LBJ's U.N. Image Needs Aid

United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Although Communist propaganda against Washington's Viet Nam and Dominican policies has barely dented U.S. prestige here, there seems to be agreement that the delegates' image of President Johnson needs retouching.

Johnson has appeared before General Assembly delegates twice as President.

On Dec. 17, 1965, he earned their sympathy as successor to the recently assassinated John F. Kennedy and excited their enthusiasm with a pledge to make world peace, civil rights and human welfare "not an illusion but a reality."

Last June 26, his appearance before the Assembly's 20th anniversary commemoration at San Francisco provided no occasion for sympathy and afforded little opportunity for enthusiasm.

Most delegates had expected a dramatic speech from the President. Many were confident he would announce a U.S. concession in the U.N political impasse over financial problems if not, indeed, a sizable monetary contribution to solve them.

Although U.S. press advisers cautioned against predicting what Johnson would say, several dispatches forecast a financial concession, an offer for mutual scrapping with Russia of a determined number of nuclear warheads, or a move for peace in Viet Nam.

The President offered none of these and whispers were passed by close students of the LBJ mystique that the advance publicity precluded his offering them.

The highlight of his speech was an appeal to the United Nations to persuade the Peking and Hanoi authorities to come to the conference table, an achievement eluding Washington to date.

More Money Will Flow Into Long Beach's Till

Franchise Payments Increased

By GEORGE WEEKS

Increased use of home appliances and air conditioning is producing extra franchise money for the Long Beach city treasury.

Because of this trend, city officials and Southern California Edison Co. have signed an agreement that will add an estimated $10,300 to Edison's yearly franchise payments.

The company paid $281,395 in city franchise taxes last year, topped only by the $452,090 received from General Telephone Co.

* * * *

THE EXTRA revenue this year stems from a new formula estimating the percentages of current used for lighting and for power.

Under the franchise, the comyany pays no tax on gross receipts from lighting. It does pay 2% of the gross from power revenues.

Until last week, the formula was 30% for lighting and 70% for power. The new separation reduces the tax-free lighting share of revenue to 24%, increasing power to 76%.

CHIEF ENGINEER Henry E. Jordan of the Bureau of Franchises said the ratio of current for lighting has been declining gradually through the years. Actually more lights are being used, but the increase in power gadgets has grown faster. The rising installation of air conditioning systems has added to the trend.

City and company executives studied data from the Federal Power Commission, the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power and the Edison Electric Institute before negotiating the new agreement.

READY FOR EMERGENCIES

Radio Hams Invite Public to Day at the RACES

Six units of emergency radio equipment, which will be called into use if Long Beach ever becomes the scene of disaster, will be on public display Wednesday in the Public Safety Building parking lot.

The occasion is the first time the Long Beach Department of Emergency Preparedness, known as Area F of Region 1, will play host to the Radio Officers of Region 1 of the Radio Amateurs Civil Emergency Service, more familiarly known as RACES.

RACES, which was organized here shortly after World War II, is the organization certified by the Federal Communications Commission to handle emergency and semi-emergency messages during any kind of disaster.

Jack Simmons, radio officer for Area F, says he expects nearly 100 officials from the State Disaster Office and other Civil Defense groups to be on hand for the meeting at 8 p.m. in the squad room of the Police Department.

Equipment, including the city's brand-new Emergency Communications van, Fire Department, Public Service and the Police Motor Patrol Search and Rescue facilities will be on display and in operation from 2 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Members of the Search and Rescue unit will be on hand to guide visitors and explain the operation of the equipment on display.

The RACES contingent is made up of radio operators, all HAM operators, who contribute their time and effort to the project. They are available at any time to help in any emergency.

Vets to Hear Col. Rogers on Missiles

"From Caveman to Missileman" is the subject of a talk to be given by Col. Maurice A. (Buck) Rogers at the monthly dinner meeting of Long Beach Chapter, Military Order of the World Wars, at Allen Center next Thursday.

Col. Rogers commands the 47th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense) at Fort MacArthur.

As an artillery officer Col. Rogers saw World War II action in the assault on the Gilbert Islands. He served for a year, 1955-56, as senior military adviser to the Republic of Viet Nam's 16th Infantry Division. Transferred to the United States, he commanded the award winning 28th AAA Missile Battalion at Seattle.

In 1961, following tours of instruction at the Command and General Staff School and the Army War College, he was sent to NATO Headquarters as missile adviser, Allied Air Forces.

Col. Harry O. Traffert, chapter commander, will preside at the meeting.

Navy, Marine Amphibious Exercise to Start

Amphibious exercise "Hellilex 66W," involving almost 1,900 Navy and Marine Corps personnel will begin Monday at Camp Pendleton.

Hellilex 66W is designed to provide afloat amphibious training for Marine Corps Reserve Units from San Bruno, Calif., during their two-week active duty training period.

Capt. C. N. Conatser, USN, commanding officer of the USS Valley Forge (LPH 8), will be the Amphibious Task Force Commander.

RESURFACING PROMISED

Street Shaken Up by Buses

City officials have promised to resurface a Belmont Shore street in an effort to abate earth tremors caused by Long Beach Public Transportation Co. buses.

The segment marked for a $1,200 blacktopping job is Clarement Avenue between Broadway and The Toledo. Residents there had complained that stucco and plaster at their homes gave way under the manmade quakes.

However, the Bureau of Franchises has concurred in a company decision not to reroute the buses until the new bridge is constructed over Alamitos Bay at Second Street.

Company executives have agreed to a rerouting when the wider bridge is opened making possible a turn from Second to Bay Shore Avenue.

Meanwhile the resurfacing of Claremont will probably be delayed, officials said, because of the backlog of jobs piled up during the building trades strike.

Police Offered School Offices

Headquarters building of the former Garden Grove Elementary School District will be offered for sale to the city of Garden Grove as a police facilities building.

The administration building now serves the Garden Grove Unified School District, which embraced the high school district and the Garden Grove and Alamitos elementary districts.

The unified district has a five-story administration building under construction at Stanford and Nutwood Avenues which may be completed in September.

Bellflower Plans Jaunt to Park

Registration is underway in Bellflower for the city recreation department's field trip to Pacific Ocean Park next Friday.

Youngsters can register at any park or playground in Bellflower. Fee is $2.

PAA Will Help Sell L.B. as a Convention Site

Long Beach will be one of 30 cities featured in a campaign to attract international conventions to the United States, Pan American World Airways has announced.

A Pan American "sales team" will visit Geneva, Paris, Brussel, Amsterdam and London—the five cities which are headquarters for 75% of the international associations.

The sales group consists of convention and visitors bureau chiefs from the 30 cities and representatives from domestic airlines and large hotel chains.

Swim Classes Scheduled

Registration for the third in a series of "learn-to-swim" classes being conducted this summer at Los Angeles municipal pools will close Friday.

Classes in the Los Angeles harbor area are being given at Harbor Park Pool in Wilmington and Gaffey Street and Peck Park Pools in San Pedro, beginning July 26.

Sessions are open to youngsters 7 to 17 years old. They should be accompanied by their parents when registering.

Crime Experts Gather for 50th Convention

Several hundred of the state and country's top crime experts will begin pouring into Long Beach today for the 50th anniversary convention of the International Association for Identification.

The association, which was formed in Oakland in October 1915, will celebrate its Golden Anniversary convention with an action-packed, five-day agenda here.

Headquarters for the meeting will be in the Edgewater Inn Marine Hotel where the opening meeting is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Monday, Ralph Bradford, Long Beach Police Department, president of the host California Division of the IAI, will greet the delegates at the opening session.

* * * *

EXHIBITIONS displaying the latest equipment and techniques in scientific crime detection and investigation will be shown in various rooms of the hotel during the convention.

C. Lester Trotter, who is assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in charge of fingerprints, is president of the international organization.

Among the highlights of the convention will be discussions on "Courts and Police" by Justice Walter J. Fourt of the California Appellate Court; "FACT—Fingerprint Automtic Classification Techniques" by Bernard VanEmden of Litton Systems, Inc.; "An Analysis of Shoplifting in Super Markets" by Roger K. Griffin of Los Angeles;

Navy, Marine Amphibious Exercise to Start

Amphibious exercise "Hellilex 66W," involving almost 1,900 Navy and Marine Corps personnel will begin Monday at Camp Pendleton.

Hellilex 66W is designed to provide afloat amphibious training for Marine Corps Reserve Units from San Bruno, Calif., during their two-week active duty training period.

Capt. C. N. Conatser, USN, commanding officer of the USS Valley Forge (LPH 8), will be the Amphibious Task Force Commander.

RESURFACING PROMISED

Street Shaken Up by Buses

City officials have promised to resurface a Belmont Shore street in an effort to abate earth tremors caused by Long Beach Public Transportation Co. buses.

The segment marked for a $1,200 blacktopping job is Clarement Avenue between Broadway and The Toledo. Residents there had complained that stucco and plaster at their homes gave way under the manmade quakes.

However, the Bureau of Franchises has concurred in a company decision not to reroute the buses until the new bridge is constructed over Alamitos Bay at Second Street.

Company executives have agreed to a rerouting when the wider bridge is opened making possible a turn from Second to Bay Shore Avenue.

Meanwhile the resurfacing of Claremont will probably be delayed, officials said, because of the backlog of jobs piled up during the building trades strike.

Police Offered School Offices

Headquarters building of the former Garden Grove Elementary School District will be offered for sale to the city of Garden Grove as a police facilities building.

The administration building now serves the Garden Grove Unified School District, which embraced the high school district and the Garden Grove and Alamitos elementary districts.

The unified district has a five-story administration building under construction at Stanford and Nutwood Avenues which may be completed in September.

Bellflower Plans Jaunt to Park

Dime Brings Huge Yield of Tomatoes

For 10 cents Mr. and Mrs. James F. Wolfe of 9302 Oma Place, Garden Grove, got more tomatoes—and vines—than they can use.

They set out three seedling plants, which they bought at a nursery for 10 cents, and now have intertwined plants seven feet high with a diameter of 12 feet. And they're still growing.

The Wolfe's tended the plants only casually, they said, adding that they are unable to explain why these particular seedlings chose to grow so fast so soon.

Capt. Kubel Takes Over Isle Royale

Capt. Howard L. Kubel, USN, relieved Capt. Samuel E. Watson, USN, as commanding officer of the destroyer tender USS Isle Royale (AD-29) here Saturday.

Capt. Kubel came to the Isle Royale from duties as chief staff officer to the commander of Military Sea Transportation Service in Yokohama, Japan.

He has also served as commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center in Stockton and on the staffs of the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet and the Chief of Naval Operations.

Capt. Kubel graduated from the California Maritime Academy in 1941 and was commissioned in the Navy in May 1942, after attending the midshipmen school at Annapolis.

He Took The Works

The thief who raided Doc's Laundromat, 565 E. Willow St., Saturday took not only the change but the changer. Police said the prowler pried the $500 change-making machine from the wall and took $335 in coins from two other machines.

Burial Insurance

Persons ages 1 to 80 years are now eligible to register under a plan of burial insurance. Costs only a few cents a day. In time of need, regardless of how little has been paid, the plan pays the face amount as specified. For example, $500 was paid recently on a funeral bill when only $4.58 had been paid.

Issued by an admitted legal reserve insurer. Good at any funeral director in the World. Other plans also available. For free information mail coupon today.

LT. WARREN PETERSEN piloted helicopter on refugee evacuation mission. Viet Cong bullet went through front of helmet he carries.

Editor's Note: Veteran war artist - correspondent Howard Brodie continues his report on Viet Nam. The following is his account of participating in several helicopter missions. His dramatic, on-the-spot sketches of the men and their duties aboard the copters accentuate their gallantry under fire.

By HOWARD BRODIE

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)—The past week was an eventful one flying support and attack missions to various outposts and enemy positions with Amy and Marine helicopter groups.

WEDNESDAY—Flight in a UH-34D, Marine transport helicopter: donned flak vest and diapers, as did pilots. Crew chief and gunner wore vests but sat on diapers (to protect against shots through belly of chopper—pilots have armored seats). We carried supplies and flag-draped coffin to a regimental headquarters, then took on ammunition and headed for outposts. Passed burning VC village under attack. Attackers radioed they're receiving fire . . . our escort attack helicopters ("Hueys") joined attack. We unloaded ammo at outpost on shaved off mountain top.

THURSDAY — 34 Flight. Mission: to evacuate refugees from a VC threatened community. Refugees were mothers and babies, families with their life's belongings on their backs, dogs, pigs, ducks . . . ate C-rations with crew and "John Wayne" biscuits (C-ration cookies). Crew chief told me dead bodies are worst to bring back—stiff and in awkward positions—said his medic gave him a vial of ammonia so he wouldn't pass out.

* * * *

SATURDAY—Flight in Army attack helicopter, UH-1B ("Huey" also known as "Gunship"). Mission: to escort a heli-borne strike force and secure landing zone. Orders: go in with "guns hot." There were the harsh bursts of machine guns and red tracers streaking toward the jungle ridge below us . . . guns finally jammed.

* * * *

TUESDAY — "Huey" flight. Mission: secure LZ for another "Eagle" strike force. . . . Headed deep into mountainous jungle near Laos border. Side gunners held red smoke grenades with pulled pins (to mark VC positions if we were fired upon). Marine "Phantom" jets streaked toward a jungle ridge ahead . . . explosions! We approached—with bursting cracks and flashes as the side gunners fired their machine guns, and red tracers from the automatic weapons of the copter streaking into the jungle. Empty cartridge shells popped into the cabin . . . we "climbed" up a mountain above the tree line in orbit . . . again the bursts and flashes on the second pass. Below troops jumped out of copters. We moved toward a ridge ahead with all guns blazing and rockets spiraling out. Then we headed back for Da Nang, there were no incoming shots. I do not recall a Marine or Army helicopter on which I flew that did not have its bullet scars.

REFUGEES EVACUATED . . . In Marine copter, gunner in ready position.

ATTACK MISSION . . . Army helicopter fires on Cong positions.

You may already know that INSURANCE INVESTORS FUND has been an important and growing part of the greater Los Angeles and Orange County community for over five years. You may also know our new offices located at 340 Ocean Center Building, 110 West Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, California. In rendering an important and successful financial service to these and other communities we have grown over 100 times (one hundred times) in approximately seven years.
To be exact, from approximately $100,000 of assets then to in excess of $10,000,000 today.

As a result of this solid success, we now need more Sales Representatives to serve our already large and rapidly growing family of clients in the growing Los Angeles and Orange County area. We need 15 (fifteen) more Sales Representatives in the greater Los Angeles and Orange County area, and we need them now.

This is where you can easily help us, a person you know, and yourself. People who meet the high professional standards of an Insurance Investors Fund Sales Representative are not at all easy to find.

We will pay you $100 cash for each person you know and suggest to us as meeting our requirements, whom we accept and who completes satisfactorily our professional training program. What are these people like?

The persons we want need not have had any previous selling or investment experience. Our training program will carefully and fully prepare them for a solid successful professional career. This is our job. The persons we want and who we know will be successful, have certain common characteristics. The persons you will sponsor must have these, too. They are:

1. They are intelligent, first-rate people.
2. They are completely honest, with themselves as well as others.
3. They are between 35 and 55 years of age.
4. They are successful in their present jobs or business, but need an opportunity to put more of their abilities to work, to earn more, to be more successful.
5. They are established in the community.
6. They are friendly and enjoy helping others.
7. They want to earn more, and are willing to work for solid achievement.
8. They inspire confidence in themselves.

These people are in all walks of life. The person you sponsor may today be an insurance agent, an accountant, a real estate broker, foreman in a plant, a rancher, a postman, a fireman, a grocer, a businessman, a teacher, government employee or salesman. We have successful Sales Representatives today with each of these backgrounds. Each of our present people needed a bigger job . . . One that also offered for the already successful man bigger rewards in money and in successful, satisfying achievement.

This is truly an outstanding and rare opportunity for you, and for the persons you sponsor. So, act now. You will be doing yourself and someone else a real service.

Fill out the easy sponsoring form. Mail it to Mr. James R. Hill, Distict Manager, Insurance Investors Fund, Incorporated, 340 Ocean Center Building, 110 West Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, California now. If you are fortunate enough to know several such people, simply send the required information on extra sheets of plain paper.

RULES:

1. The candidate must meet our requirements.
2. The candidate must satisfactorily complete our professional training program.
3. You will receive $100 (one hundred dollars) cash on the day each candidate you sponsor and we accept satisfactorily completes his training.
4. If the same candidate is sponsored by two or more persons, the sponsor who first sponsors the candidate (as determined by receipt by us at our Long Beach office of the complete sponsoring information in writing) will receive the award. No duplicate awards for the same candidate will be made.

QUESTION: Can I sponsor myself as a candidate?
ANSWER: Certainly, provided, as stated in rule 4, that a friend has not already done so.

QUESTION: Where can I learn more about this?
ANSWER: From Mr. James R. Hill, District Manager, Insurance Investors Fund, Incorporated, 340 Ocean Center Building, 110 West Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, California. Phone: 213—HEmlock 2-4419.

QUESTION: Will candidates younger or older than the ages you state be considered?
ANSWER: Yes, but the ages stated are much preferred.

QUESTION: May I visit your office and meet Mr. Hill and your Sales Representatives?
ANSWER: Certainly. You are always welcome to drop in and visit. We hope you will.

QUESTION: May I sponsor more than one candidate?
ANSWER: Yes, indeed.

QUESTION: If you accept more than one of my candidates and they complete their training, will I be awarded $100 for each one?
ANSWER: Yes, you will, provided as stated in rule 4 that you were the first to sponsor each one.

QUESTION: Then, since you have 15 vacancies to be filled, I might be awarded $1500 (fifteen hundred dollars)?
ANSWER: Yes, you certainly may, but you should obviously act promptly.

These are our present Los Angeles and Orange County Sales Representatives. You may already know one or more of them.

Girl's Second Best Friend

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Shelley Winters is in London, where she is starring in "Alfie." An hour after she hit town she bought a Rolls Royce.

"I know that diamonds are supposed to be a girl's best friend," she said, "but you can't lose a Rolls down a wash basin drain."

'SHENANDOAH' OPENS WEDNESDAY
James Stewart portrays Virginia farmer, father of six sons and a daughter, played by Rosemary Forsyth, who tries to keep from being swept into the war between the states. The film, "Shenandoah," opens in the area Wednesday.

LEMMON GETS THE PART

Won't Tell Him What It Is

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS—Jack Lemmon says Billy Wilder was watching a football game on TV, and saw a huge fullback make an end sweep, gallop out-of-bounds, and fall right on top of a spectator — after which the fullback slid through mud and snow for 15 yards . . . still on top of the spectator who felt a little crushed.

"Billy Wilder saw this thing, and he says to himself, 'That's a movie, and the guy underneath is Lemmon!" Jack said the other afternoon.

And it is to be Lemmon's next movie. He plays a news photographer who has been covering the Cleveland Browns, and the film will be partially shot in Cleveland. I couldn't find out much more about the movie: the title, for example, seemed to have escaped Jack, if he'd ever heard it.

JACK LEMMON plays Prof. Fate, balloon-puncturing villain, in "The Great Race."

"There are three reasons I can't tell you any more about it." Jack was in a short-sleeved blue shirt with cigars in the shirt pocket.

"First, Billy won't let me . . . second, I don't know any more . . . third, he probably doesn't know any more, because he's still writing it.

"Wilder's in the enviable position of having people put their trust in him without the script."

Lemmon, on his part, is riding high from the great raves for "The Great Race." He quietly battled and licked a mild siege of hepatitis after finishing the picture at Warners' and purposely withdrew from the maelstrom for a few weeks.

There seems to be a new trend in Hollywood: saying nice things about bosses.

Jack L. Warner had signed as many autographs at "The Great Race" premiere as the stars and this couldn't go unnoticed.

"He's the only real boss left in Hollwood, the only guy who will gamble with his own loot," Lemmon said. "Sure, I've been upset by some of his decisions. But nobody would touch 'Wine and Roses' but him, nobody would touch Jack Lemmon in a drama but him.

"Nobody would touch 'The Great Race' because of the expense but him and I guarantee this will be one of the great blockbusters of all time!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I can't decide," said Taffy Tuttle, "whether I'm driving faster lately, or whether they're putting the toll booths closer together."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Soupy Sales discussed being hit in the face with a pie: "If the goo hits, wear it."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: 'The only thing worse than being talked about is not being talked about."—Oscar Wilde.

EARL'S PEARLS: Oskar Werner of "Ships of Fools" is from Lichtenstein. The country's so tiny, he says, that "our chief export is stories about how small it is."

20th Century-Fox, which created a fleet of 1910 aircraft for "Magnificent Men," will build nine World War I planes for "The Blue Max." Red Skelton asked, "Who's running this studio —Darryl Zanuck or Eddie Rickenbacker?" . . . That's earl, brother.

PARVARESH OUTSTANDING

'Servant of Two Masters' Scores

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

If Paris Parvaresh was indeed a racehorse, he would undoubtedly be name-tagged Iranian Dancer or Iranian Prancer or some other such descriptive magic name which separates the betting horse gentry from their hot rent money.

But since the handsome, young Iranian is indeed an actor moving with the fleet grace of a race thoroughbred in Goldoni's 18th century play, "The Servant of Two Masters" at Ports of Call Players, Berth 75, San Pedro, let's just tag this performance in one word: G-R-E-A-T. Though he is serving two masters in the play and at the production level—as actor-director—his performance never falters or falls between these two tasks. The overall production, is of course, not the uninhibited classic those fast-talking touring Italians in Piccolo Teatro di Milano achived in 1961. But Parvaresh's performance fills Goldoni's Venetian cup of theatrical gold with the liquid fire of gay, robust farce.

GREAT AS HE IS, Parvaresh, of course, does not do it all by himself.

He has surrounded himself with actors who are happily not allergic to the commedia dell'arte style which the play demands.

Such talents as Larry Verdugo's graceful portrayal of Silvio, the lover, Ron Albersen's chattering mincing majesty as a man-mountain of a Pantalone, Billy Miller's pompous, Latin-quoting father-head of the house of Lombardi, and El Camino College's blonde Sandra Bellerue's masquerade as her dead brother, are well placed here.

In a slightly lesser degree Linda Hummell's attractive and interfering maid, Debbie Clark's Clarice, Mike Minor's fey Brighella and Gary Orange's cumbersome porter also figure well. And even that shy, but willing giant, Ron Thronson, who already had the clean-shaven head the style call for, was an adequate Florindo as Sandra's lover.

HOWEVER, while, with the exception of Verdugo's constant, classy Silvio, all of the supporting cast often run out of style and force the play into several full deadly stops, Parvaresh stays in style from wire to wire. The kick in the pantaloon, the slap in the face, regurgitating bread sent in a love letter—name it and Parvaresh plays it well. Largely because, he relies more on pantomime and dances and tumbles with the agility of a born ballet dancer or gymnast. In the famous scene in which he must heroically serve two masters without either knowing, Pararesh and Gary Orange are unbelievably agile and slapstick-funny.

The duel scene with those supple lathe swords between Verdugo and Miss Bellerue was also a nice slice-of-grace.

The play, brilliantly costumed by Donna Meyer and Jo Scott, continues tonight and Thursday through next Sunday.

James Starts Disneyland Date Friday

Girl's Second Best Friend

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Shelley Winters is in London, where she is starring in "Alfie." An hour after she hit town she bought a Rolls Royce.

"I know that diamonds are supposed to be a girl's best friend," she said, "but you can't lose a Rolls down a wash basin drain."

'SHENANDOAH' OPENS WEDNESDAY
James Stewart portrays Virginia farmer, father of six sons and a daughter, played by Rosemary Forsyth, who tries to keep from being swept into the war between the states. The film, "Shenandoah," opens in the area Wednesday.

LEMMON GETS THE PART

Won't Tell Him What It Is

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS—Jack Lemmon says Billy Wilder was watching a football game on TV, and saw a huge fullback make an end sweep, gallop out-of-bounds, and fall right on top of a spectator — after which the fullback slid through mud and snow for 15 yards . . . still on top of the spectator who felt a little crushed.

"Billy Wilder saw this thing, and he says to himself, 'That's a movie, and the guy underneath is Lemmon!" Jack said the other afternoon.

And it is to be Lemmon's next movie. He plays a news photographer who has been covering the Cleveland Browns, and the film will be partially shot in Cleveland. I couldn't find out much more about the movie: the title, for example, seemed to have escaped Jack, if he'd ever heard it.

"There are three reasons I can't tell you any more about it." Jack was in a short-sleeved blue shirt with cigars in the shirt pocket.

"First, Billy won't let me . . . second, I don't know any more . . . third, he probably doesn't know any more, because he's still writing it.

"Wilder's in the enviable position of having people put their trust in him without the script."

Lemmon, on his part, is riding high from the great raves for "The Great Race." He quietly battled and licked a mild siege of hepatitis after finishing the picture at Warners' and purposely withdrew from the maelstrom for a few weeks.

There seems to be a new trend in Hollywood: saying nice things about bosses.

Jack L. Warner had signed as many autographs at "The Great Race" premiere as the stars and this couldn't go unnoticed.

"He's the only real boss left in Hollwood, the only guy who will gamble with his own loot," Lemmon said. "Sure, I've been upset by some of his decisions. But nobody would touch 'Wine and Roses' but him, nobody would touch Jack Lemmon in a drama but him.

"Nobody would touch The Great Race because of the expense but him and I guarantee this will be one of the great blockbusters of all time!"

JACK LEMMON plays Prof. Fate, balloon-puncturing villain, in "The Great Race."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I can't decide," said Taffy Tuttle, "whether I'm driving faster lately, or whether they're putting the toll booths closer together."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Soupy Sales discussed being hit in the face with a pie: "If the goo hits, wear it."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: 'The only thing worse than being talked about is not being talked about."—Oscar Wilde.

EARL'S PEARLS: Oskar Werner of "Ships of Fools" is from Lichtenstein. The country's so tiny, he says, that "our chief export is stories about how small it is."

PARVARESH OUTSTANDING

'Servant of Two Masters' Scores

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

If Paris Parvaresh was indeed a racehorse, he would undoubtedly be name-tagged Iranian Dancer or Iranian Prancer or some other such descriptive magic name which separates the betting horse gentry from their hot rent money.

But since the handsome, young Iranian is indeed an actor moving with the fleet grace of a race thoroughbred in Goldoni's 18th century play, "The Servant of Two Masters" at Ports of Call Players, Berth 75, San Pedro, let's just tag this performance in one word: G-R-E-A-T. Though he is serving two masters in the play and at the production level—as actor-director—his performance never falters or falls between these two tasks. The overall production, is of course, not the uninhibited classic those fast-talking touring Italians in Piccolo Teatro di Milano achived in 1961. But Parvaresh's performance fills Goldoni's Venetian cup of theatrical gold with the liquid fire of gay, robust farce.

GREAT AS HE IS, Parvaresh, of course, does not do it all by himself.

He has surrounded himself with actors who are happily not allergic to the commedia dell'arte style which the play demands.

Such talents as Larry Verdugo's graceful portrayal of Silvio, the lover, Ron Albersen's chattering mincing majesty as a man-mountain of a Pantalone, Billy Miller's pompous, Latin-quoting father-head of the house of Lombardi, and El Camino College's blonde Sandra Bellerue's masquerade as her dead brother, are well placed here.

In a slightly lesser degree Linda Hummell's attractive and interfering maid, Debbie Clark's Clarice, Mike Minor's fey Brighella and Gary Orange's cumbersome porter also figure well. And even that shy, but willing giant, Ron Thronson, who already had the clean-shaven head the style call for, was an adequate Florindo as Sandra's lover.

HOWEVER, while, with the exception of Verdugo's constant, classy Silvio, all of the supporting cast often run out of style and force the play into several full deadly stops, Parvaresh stays in style from wire to wire. The kick in the pantaloon, the slap in the face, regurgitating bread sent in a love letter—name it and Parvaresh plays it well. Largely because, he relies more on pantomime and dances and tumbles with the agility of a born ballet dancer or gymnast. In the famous scene in which he must heroically serve two masters without either knowing, Pararesh and Gary Orange are unbelievably agile and slapstick-funny.

The duel scene with those supple lathe swords between Verdugo and Miss Bellerue was also a nice slice-of-grace.

The play, brilliantly costumed by Donna Meyer and Jo Scott, continues tonight and Thursday through next Sunday.

James Starts Disneyland Date Friday

Trumpeter Harry James and his band open a nine-day stand Friday at Disneyland, featuring drummer Buddy Rich and vocalists Ernie Andrews and Cathy Carter, playing for listening and dancing nightly (except Monday) through July 31 at the 20,000 Leagues Bandstand.

Hoyt Axton is featured at the Disneyland Hootenanny from 8 p.m. to midnight Monday; Jody Miller's in the Humdinger Tuesday night.

Other entertainers in the Disneyland After-Dark program include: Clara Ward Gospel Singers, Bill Elliott and the Date Niters Orchestra, Mustangs Band, Firehouse Five Plus Two, Young Men from New Orleans.

Busy, Busy, Busy, Barbie

The buzz of activity at Mattel is at a high level—the typewriters, calculators and adding machines are humming and the job opportunities on the rise. No wonder Barbie is as busy as the proverbial bee. She's looking for experienced gals to keep tabs on her big family of toys and games. They're not the ordinary run-of-the-hive jobs but exciting, interesting and busy positions. Our program of free benefits, our top starting salaries and modern, pleasant offices are a big plus too. Here are a few of the choice positions we have open for experienced people, but there are many, many more:

TRAFFIC
CUSTOMER RELATIONS
COST CLERK
VARITYPIST
GENERAL CLERK

GETAWAY CAR

Our Getaway Car is a Volkswagen Camper. During the week it's a family wagon, a delivery truck. On weekends it plays.

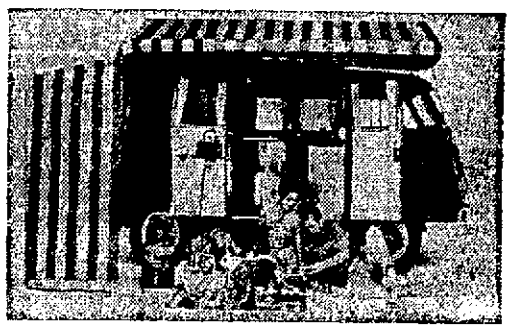

For camping comfort, it's equipped with things like running water, stove, ice box and sink. Which means it does away with reservations, packing, motel and restaurant bills.

Is our Getaway Car perfect in every way? Come in and see.

MAKE DRIVING A PICNIC

Put your family in this Volkswagen Camper and keep going. And you can stop wherever and whenever you like. Ideal for people who'd rather look at scenery than at "No Vacancy" signs. Ideal, too, for just plain escaping. (A camper is better than a week-end place because people can't visit you if they can't find you). Also cheaper!

'Diver Big Splash in Gold Cup

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Native Diver, the winningest stakes horse in California history, captured the 26th running of the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday but the jury still is out as to the real hero—the trainer, the jockey or the gelding himself.

Plaudits were flowing like wine after the six-year-old breezed like Sandy Koufax to his five-length triumph before 58,971 cheering patrons.

Said the owner, L. K. Shapiro: "Give all the credit to my trainer, Buster Millerick. It's a tribute to him that this horse, always considered a sprinter, could go the mile and one-quarter distance."

Said the trainer: "Jerry Lambert (the jockey) knows this horse like he knows his own mother. He's the real champion today."

Said the jockey: "All the credit goes to the horse and next to him the important members of my team—my company commander and my first sergeant. They've been terrific and very cooperative."

Private First Class Jerry Lambert is stationed at Fort Ord. He is fortunate to get leave at any time to ride horses. He arrived at Hollywood Park the day before the track's premier classic after 16 days in the field.

"I'm just a private in the 794th Maintenance Company and they classify me as a wrecker operator," bubbled the 24-year-old reinsman after the most important achievement of his life.

A WRECKER OPERATOR was Lambert Saturday. He took his favored gelding, who paid $4.40 straight, out from the starting gate like a Cape Kennedy rocket and flashed the black beauty's long tail in front of his six-horse opposition the entire distance.

At no point was Native Diver in trouble, even though he went wide along the backstretch and the charged-up throng thought the long-classified "sprinter" had lost his gas tank.

Any difficulty Native Diver might have encountered during his rich Saturday tour was in the beautiful Hollypark infield.

"Along the backstretch he kept looking to his left," laughed Lambert. "I don't know what was there except pretty grass and some nice lakes. I tugged him a few times and he was all right."

Lambert, after 16 days in the field, might have missed a point: The beautiful Goose Girl was in the Hollypark infield!

The race itself leaves little to report. The California-bred, who never has raced out of this state, simply routed the field. His final time (2:00.1) was somewhat short of the race record set by Swaps and Round Table (1:58.3), but it didn't have to be any better.

The gelding blazed to a brilliant 1:08.4 for the first six furlongs, while still going wide, yet had no reason to extend himself during the stretch run.

Babington, the Argentine, was a fast-closing second, with the second-favored Hill Rise third. Neither was a threat to the winner, but the Latin horse might be one to watch. He came from 24 lengths off the pace to grab runnerup laurels, which wasn't a bad $30,000. (Native Diver picked up $102,100.)

Lambert, attired in civilian clothes, was full of conversation after his brilliant victory:

"The Diver had only one thought on his mind today—RUN. That crowd noise as we passed the stands the first time didn't bother him. He knew he was out there all NATIVE DIVER broke alertly as usual to take command almost at once, raced into a long lead rounding first turn, was given a good breather while in hand going to far turn, responded gamely to mild urging rounding stretch turn then, after reaching the stretch came on to win as rider pleased. BABINGTON was far back in the field in first half mile, closed fast in inside rounding last turn then came to outside in stretch run, finished strongly but was at no time a menace to winner. HILL RISE saved ground while on inside to far turn then came out for racing room in last quarter, finished strongly but was not a serious threat. GAUGER made a fast run while on outside rounding far turn, held on gamely to last furlong then gave way. RAMANT showed speed for the first half mile then gave way while weakening. COLORADO KING was never able to reach serious contention, was through after the first mile. TRONADO showed good speed to far turn then gave way while tiring.

Showing His Heels

It was a wire-to-wire victory for Native Diver Saturday in the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup as the California stakes champion drew out to wide lead at first turn (photo No. 1) and held strong down backstretch (2), unchallenged for lead until turn for home (3) when Native Diver turned on final spurt (4) for five-length margin at the wire (below). Winning jockey was PFC. Jerry Lambert.

Littler Holds on, Canadian Open Champ

Nicklaus' Gamble Misfires, Palmer Balloons to a 76

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler withstood a late challenge by Jack Nicklaus Saturday and won the Canadian Open golf championship with a 72-hole score of 273, seven under par for the tournament.

Bruce Devlin of Australia, who led after the third round with a 205, went four over par with a 74 and finished in a tie at 279 with Charles Sifford of Los Angeles.

Arnold Palmer, who was tied with Nicklaus at 207 starting the final round, blew to a 76 for a 283.

On the last nine Littler sank three birdies and six pars. One of his birdies, a 4, came on the 12th, where Nicklaus gambled with his second shot, attempting to reach the green over a creek. He was short and the ball went into the water. He wound up taking a 6.

* * * *

NICKLAUS figured, however, that the 17th hole was the one that "lost the tournament." It is 323-yard par 4. Jack drove about 70 feet from the pin, but he scuffed his chip, leaving himself 15 feet short of the cup and two-putted.

"I figured if I could birdie 17 it would make 18 a little tougher for Gene," he said. "That was the turning point."

That left Littler one shot in front with only one hole left for Nicklaus. He settled for a par and second place when he two-putted from eight feet.

Littler finished the final round with a four-under-par 66 over the Mississaugua course and ran down a four-foot pressure putt at the 18th to stay one stroke ahead of Nicklaus, Masters champion from Columbus, Ohio.

The victory was Littler's first on the tour since 1962 and gave him $20,000 top prize money from the $100,000 pot, plus the Seagram Gold Cup. It was also a pre-birthday present for himself. He will be 35 Wednesday.

Dodgers Climb Back Into Lead

By GEORGE LEDERER

The organist played "Happy Days Are Here Again," and Claude Osteen was a smiling listener for the first time in a month.

Osteen ended a four-game losing streak and a 30-day victory drought Saturday night by pitching the Dodgers back into the National League lead, by a score of 7-2 over the Cubs.

The happy notes came after a Whirlitzer performance by the entire club, which could boast of its first three-game winning streak since a four-game sweep in New York, June 11-13.

Old pro Jim Gilliam led the way with four of the Dodgers nine hits. Osteen stopped the Cubs on seven hits, Maury Wills stole two bases and Lou Johnson contributed a two-run homer.

* * * *

ABOUT all that a quartet of Chicago pitchers could accomplish was to end Ron Fairly's hitting streak at 11 games, but Wills stretched his to 10 and also soared 22 games ahead of his record 1962 base-stealing season.

Wills stole Nos. 58 and 59 and scored both times on singles by Gilliam.

Johnson, who once was voted the Cubs rookie most likely to succeed, did just that with a fourth-inning home run that gave Osteen a 3-2 lead. It was Johnson's seventh of the year, tying him with Fairly for the club lead.

Johnson also increased his club lead in a more painful department, when he was hit by a pitch for the ninth time this season. Submarine-baller Ted Abernathy hit him to fill the bases in the eighth inning, setting up a cushioning two-run single by Wes Parker.

A ladies night turnout of 37,149 watched the Dodgers take a one-game lead over the Reds for the first time since July 8. The paid attendance was 31,228.

Osteen (7-10) was a winner for the first time since June 17, when he pitched a one-hitter against the Giants. He allowed only one hit for the first five innings Saturday and that was a two-run homer by Billy Williams, after Glenn Beckert walked in the third.

Williams' 13th homer ended a streak of 50 scoreless innings by Dodger Stadium visitors. Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax had pitched shutouts in the first two games of the home stand and the Angels finished theirs with three successive blanks over Cleveland.

Only two Cubs reached second base after Williams homered. Chris Krug and Don Kessinger singled with two down in the seventh. Osteen then struck out Joe Amalfitano on three pitches, quite a feat in view of Joey's previous 4-for-5 pinch-hitting record against the Dodgers.

* * * *

WHEN Osteen encountered his second troublesome situation in the ninth, he was coasting with a five-run lead. Willie Davis helped him out with an against-the-wall catch of Krug's drive after Ron Santo and Harvey Kuenn had singled.

The Dodgers scored four times against loser Cal Koonce (7-8) and sent him to

National Publinx Title Captured by L.B. King

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Norwegian-born Arne Dokka captured the National Public Links Golf Championship Saturday by defeating an Ohio fireman 10 up in 27 holes and breaking a 37-year-old tournament record.

Dokka, 21-year-old Long Beach city champion, a nerveless man with a near infallible putter, held a comfortable 6-up margin over Leo Zampedro, 24, of Warren, Ohio, at the end of the first 18.

His victory margin broke a record set in 1928 when Carl Kauffmann of Pittsburgh defeated Phil Ogden, 8 and 7.

"The greens are excellent here and that certainly helps my game," Dokka said after he received the James Standish trophy and a gold medal.

"I was really getting the ball in the hole," he sadi.

"He's a good man," said Zampedro, who remained undiscouraged. "I'll try again next year (at Madison, Wisconsin.)"

DOKKA SAID he believed Zampedro "tried too hard to catch up. You always push your putts too hard when you do that."

Twice, on the 5th and 7th holes in the afternoon, Zampedro's two-foot putts ringed the hole and bounced away.

The turning point came on the eighth hole of the afternoon round when Zampedro drove into a sand trap. He had a good shot out of the trap onto the green, 35 feet from the hole. He putted down to one foot from the cup but then, as he readied himself for the final putt, Zampedro accidentally touched the ball and it counted as a stroke.

Dokka won it with a par-4 and Zampedro, in order to have a chance had to win the ninth, but both had par 5s.

Dokka, whose chipping and putting was excellent in both the semifinal and final rounds, was mobbed by the gallery of 600 which followed the pair.

'Diver Big Splash in Gold Cup

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Native Diver, the winningest stakes horse in California history, captured the 26th running of the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday but the jury still is out as to the real hero—the trainer, the jockey or the gelding himself.

Plaudits were flowing like wine after the six-year-old breezed like Sandy Koufax to his five-length triumph before 58,971 cheering patrons.

Said the owner, L. K. Shapiro: "Give all the credit to my trainer, Buster Millerick. It's a tribute to him that this horse, always considered a sprinter, could go the mile and one-quarter distance."

Said the trainer: "Jerry Lambert (the jockey) knows this horse like he knows his own mother. He's the real champion today."

Said the jockey: "All the credit goes to the horse and next to him the important members of my team—my company commander and my first sergeant. They've been terrific and very cooperative."

Private First Class Jerry Lambert is stationed at Fort Ord. He is fortunate to get leave at any time to ride horses. He arrived at Hollywood Park the day before the track's premier classic after 16 days in the field.

"I'm just a private in the 794th Maintenance Company and they classify me as a wrecker operator," bubbled the 24-year-old reinsman after the most important achievement of his life.

A WRECKER OPERATOR was Lambert Saturday. He took his favored gelding, who paid $4.40 straight, out from the starting gate like a Cape Kennedy rocket and flashed the black beauty's long tail in front of his six-horse opposition the entire distance.

At no point was Native Diver in trouble, even though he went wide along the backstretch and the charged-up throng thought the long-classified "sprinter" had lost his gas tank.

Any difficulty Native Diver might have encountered during his rich Saturday tour was in the beautiful Hollypark infield.

"Along the backstretch he kept looking to his left," laughed Lambert. "I don't know what was there except pretty grass and some nice lakes. I tugged him a few times and he was all right."

Lambert, after 16 days in the field, might have missed a point: The beautiful Goose Girl was in the Hollypark infield!

The race itself leaves little to report. The California-bred, who never has raced out of this state, simply routed the field. His final time (2:00.1) was somewhat short of the race record set by Swaps and Round Table (1:58.3), but it didn't have to be any better.

The gelding blazed to a brilliant 1:08.4 for the first six furlongs, while still going wide, yet had no reason to extend himself during the stretch run.

Babington, the Argentine, was a fast-closing second, with the second-favored Hill Rise third. Neither was a threat to the winner, but the Latin horse might be one to watch. He came from 24 lengths off the pace to grab runnerup laurels, which wasn't a bad $30,000. (Native Diver picked up $102,100.)

Lambert, attired in civilian clothes, was full of conversation after his brilliant victory:

"The Diver had only one thought on his mind today—RUN. That crowd noise as we passed the stands the first time didn't bother him. He knew he was out there all

Littler Holds on, Canadian Open Champ

Nicklaus' Gamble Misfires, Palmer Balloons to a 76

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler withstood a late challenge by Jack Nicklaus Saturday and won the Canadian Open golf championship with a 72-hole score of 273, seven under par for the tournament.

Bruce Devlin of Australia, who led after the third round with a 205, went four over par with a 74 and finished in a tie at 279 with Charles Sifford of Los Angeles.

Arnold Palmer, who was tied with Nicklaus at 207 starting the final round, blew to a 76 for a 283.

On the last nine Littler sank three birdies and six pars. One of his birdies, a 4, came on the 12th, where Nicklaus gambled with his second shot, attempting to reach the green over a creek. He was short and the ball went into the water. He wound up taking a 6.

* * * *

NICKLAUS figured, however, that the 17th hole was the one that "lost the tournament." It is 323-yard par 4. Jack drove about 70 feet from the pin, but he scuffed his chip, leaving himself 15 feet short of the cup and two-putted.

"I figured if I could birdie 17 it would make 18 a little tougher for Gene," he said. "That was the turning point."

That left Littler one shot in front with only one hole left for Nicklaus. He settled for a par and second place when he two-putted from eight feet.

Littler finished the final round with a four-under-par 66 over the Mississaugua course and ran down a four-foot pressure putt at the 18th to stay one stroke ahead of Nicklaus, Masters champion from Columbus, Ohio.

The victory was Littler's first on the tour since 1962 and gave him $20,000 top prize money from the $100,000 pot, plus the Seagram Gold Cup. It was also a pre-birthday present for himself. He will be 35 Wednesday.

Dodgers Climb Back Into Lead

By GEORGE LEDERER

The organist played "Happy Days Are Here Again," and Claude Osteen was a smiling listener for the first time in a month.

Osteen ended a four-game losing streak and a 30-day victory drought Saturday night by pitching the Dodgers back into the National League lead, by a score of 7-2 over the Cubs.

The happy notes came after a Whirlitzer performance by the entire club, which could boast of its first three-game winning streak since a four-game sweep in New York, June 11-13.

Old pro Jim Gilliam led the way with four of the Dodgers nine hits. Osteen stopped the Cubs on seven hits, Maury Wills stole two bases and Lou Johnson contributed a two-run homer.

* * * *

ABOUT all that a quartet of Chicago pitchers could accomplish was to end Ron Fairly's hitting streak at 11 games, but Wills stretched his to 10 and also soared 22 games ahead of his record 1962 base-stealing season.

Wills stole Nos. 58 and 59 and scored both times on singles by Gilliam.

Johnson, who once was voted the Cubs rookie most likely to succeed, did just that with a fourth-inning home run that gave Osteen a 3-2 lead. It was Johnson's seventh of the year, tying him with Fairly for the club lead.

Johnson also increased his club lead in a more painful department, when he was hit by a pitch for the ninth time this season. Submarine-baller Ted Abernathy hit him to fill the bases in the eighth inning, setting up a cushioning two-run single by Wes Parker.

Horses And Volleyball

Horse racing and volleyball make strange bedfellows, but nevertheless the two sports are TOPS in the nation!

FOR THE 13TH SUCCESSIVE YEAR, horse racing is the No. 1 spectator sport in the U.S.

For the second consecutive year, volleyball is the leading participant sport. The rise of volleyball popularity is indeed astonishing. Two years ago, the sport boasted 20,000,000 participants. Today, 60,000,000 people play volleyball!

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

Considering that bowling, fishing, golf and boating are included in the participant sports category, volleyball's No. 1 position is all the more remarkable.

Perhaps even more astonishing is the fact that cycling is a close second to volleyball, 55,000,000 persons utilizing the two-wheelers.

This leads an editor to think: Should we throw the Dodgers, Angels and Rams into the inside pages and start featuring volleyball and cycling? (Really, this won't happen, but it's food for thought.)

Those with an eye toward figures (not only the female kind) might be interested to learn that EVERY participant sport showed an increase in 1964 from 1963. Some, as softball, boating and billiards, gained more than 1,000,000 new fans during the past year.

By the same token, only two spectator sports showed declines—wrestling and post-season bowl games. Wrestling was the biggest loser, 803,938 fans having lost interest in a year's time.

HERE'S participant sports figures for 1964:

HORSE RACING was a whopping winner again in the spectator sports department. A total of 67,357,652 patrons viewed the thoroughbreds and harness horses in '64 (40,827,872 improving the former breed and 26,529,780 attending the sulky events.)

Auto racing was second with 38,000,000 viewers, with baseball (31,594,164) and football (30,708,631) not far behind.

ALL SPORTS have mushroomed in popularity in recent years . . . which is something you don't have to tell to the ink-stained wretches who work in newspaper sports departments. Our work is never done.

Why the astonishing growth? The answer is simple: The increasing population, aided considerably by more leisure time and more money to spend, propelled the world of sports and recreation to new heights of popularity.

Few trends have brought so marked an effect on the pattern of living in America as the changing concepts of leisure time. With President Johnson following President Kennedy's movement emphasizing physical fitness, the zooming figures indicate most Americans are either spectators or participants in some sports activity:

AN INTERESTING, but not too surprising figure is that the National League (baseball) filled its stadiums to 78% capacity with 4,200,000 patrons. The American League lured only 1,750,000!

And what if the Yankees weren't in the American League?

For the 11th successive year crowds at college football games increased. During that 11-year period, college attendance climbed 40%, with the Big 10 enjoying the best average with an eye-opening 58,780 fans for its 49 games.

Added food for thought: Racing attendance exceeds baseball in eight major cities—Los Angeles, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore and Boston. But, then, who doesn't like to bet?

Lowly A's Too Much for Twins

AL Leaders Fall to Tailenders; Boswell Disabled

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—The pesky Kansas City Athletics took another bite out of the Minnesota Twins' American League lead Saturday by rallying for a 5-4 decision.

Pinchhitter Ed Charles' sacrifice fly with bases loaded in the ninth drove in Rene Lachemann with the winning run.

Earlier, the Twins' pennant hopes received a jolt when rookie pitcher Dave Boswell was placed on the disabled list for at least 30 days because the 20-year-old right-hander has infectious mononucleosis.

Wild Pitch Beats Bucs

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Felipe Alou raced home on Bob Veale's wild pitch with one out in the ninth inning Saturday to give the Milwaukee Braves a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Braves had led through the early innings on the strength of Bob Sadowski's no-hit pitching, but with one out in the eighth, Ozzie Virgil broke up the no-hitter with a single and the Pirates rallied to take a 5-4 lead.

BERRY PATCH BECOMES BRIAR PATCH IN COMISKEY PARK
Ken Berry lies on ground after colliding with center field fence while chasing long drive by Angels Bobby Knoop which went for home run in second inning. Floyd Robinson comes to Berry's aid. Chicago outfielder needed four stitches in forehead to close wound. White Sox won, 5-2.

PATSIES OF THE ROAD?

Angels Ambushed 5-2

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.-P-T Staff Writer

CHICAGO—Kings of the road?

The Angels are more like court jesters and Saturday they succumbed, 5-2, as Chicago crowned a series sweep.

You would think it was The Burma Road the way the enemy ambushes the Angels, who have now lost eight in a row on foreign soil and 13 of their last 16.

Of the Angels' performances in Chicago this season, Frank Sinatra might warble:

"Their kind of town, Chicago isn't."

The Angels have lost all seven of the games played in Comiskey Park where pennant fever reaches a crescendo by the time the Californians depart.

They did exactly that late Saturday afternoon, sneaking off for Minnesota where they have at least won one of the previous three games.

Ironically, while Chicago has won nine of the overall 13 played with the Angels, both clubs have collected 99 hits. However, the White Sox have drawn 25 more walks and they converted three of nine free passes into key runs Saturday.

Tommy John (8-3) became the first Chicago hurler to go the distance since June 25 as he limited the emaciated Angel attack to five hits while striking out five.

Manager Bill Rigney is about ready to admit that the road affects his thinking process, for crucial strategical decisions in each game of the series backfired.

Convinced by George Brunet's performance Friday night that lefthanders control Chicago with greater efficiency than righthanders, Rigney switched from Fred Newman to Rudy May Saturday morning.

Three batters into the game, Rigney was forced to switch again. May walked the bases full and was himself invited to take a hike by his manager. One out later, Pete Ward's sacrifice fly off Audbrey Gatewood provided the Sox with a 1-0 lead.

Two outs into the second inning, Bob Rodgers singled and Bobby Knoop, terminating a 12-game absence from the starting lineup, larruped his fourth homer into the Angel bullpen.

In his pursuit of the drive, centerfielder Ken Berry crashed into the iron railing on the bullpen fence and, while remaining conscious, was carried from the field via stretcher. Four stitches closed a gash over his left eye and centerfield is now known as a briar patch rather than a Berry patch. X-rays showed no fracture.

In the bottom of the same frame, Rigney was again faced with a decision. Tom McCraw's single, a walk, sacrifice and fielder's choice put runners on second and third with two out.

Floyd Robinson, whose dramatic extra-base hits decided Friday's frantic contest, was the batter and this Robinson has been as tough lately as Jackie, Sugar Ray and Brooks combined. Although righthander Danny Cater was on deck, Rigney decided against an intentional walk and Robinson promptly decked the Angels with a two-run single.

Gatewood (1-3) maintained the 3-2 disparity until he walked the bases full in the fifth. Ed Sukla calmly relieved the tension, but the White Sox iced their fourth victory in a row during the seventh on another walk, singles by Ron Hansen and McCraw and a sacrifice fly by Bill Skowron—the later blow off Bob Lee.

The Angels jarred John for only one hit over the final five frames. It was the first time in 26 consecutive contests, Sukla has been scored upon, but Gatewood drew the defeat.

May celebrates his 21st birthday today and noting his control difficulties Saturday, it should be a "wild" party.

ANGEL OF DAY

BOBBY KNOOP returned to lineup after 12-game absence and hit two-run homer as Angels lost, 5-2.

ANGEL ANGELS: Newman (9-7) will be joined by Ken McBride (9-2) on the starting line today when the Angels open a four-game series against Minnesota. Mudcat Grant (9-3) and Jim Kaat (8-7) pitch for the Twins . . . Dean Chance, slated to pitch today until his relief assignment on Friday night, will work Monday . . . "My pitches were moving better than at any time this year," said Chance of his Friday stint which produced his fifth defeat . . .

Rigney received a royal roasting from the Chicago press for his decision in that game to replace Bruner with Bill Lee, unleashing the flood of lefthanded pinch-hitters . . . "I would do it again," said Rigney. "I don't care which way a guy bats, nine times out of 10 Lee will get him out. This time, however, he was waging a crusade (as revealed by the I.-P-T) and he beat himself."

Word here is that Don Zeibel, traveling secretary of the Cubs, and head coach Lou Klein inspected facilities at Long Beach's Blair Field Friday . . . The Cubs will tentatively play only eight games at Blair and will stay at the Edgewater Hotel . . . Chicago will play some 22 road games next spring after breaking it's Catalina camp . . . The Cubs may also nix plans to train their minor league clubs at Escondido.

White Sox relief ace Eddie Fisher appraised his year thusly: "I am simply the luckiest pitcher in baseball." . . . Fisher leads the American League in four departments: Appearances (47), ERA (1.36), saves (18) and victories (11).

Yanks Edge Nats as Pepitone Hero

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Pepitone, who threatened Friday to quit baseball, singled home the winning run in the ninth inning Saturday to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Washington Senators.

Nineteen-year-old Gil Blanco was credited with his first major league victory. He went the last two innings.

Frank Howard's two-run first inning homer off starter Whitey Ford and single runs in the fifth and sixth helped the Senators build their early lead.

PEPITONE'S HIT WINS—CASE CLOSED

NEW YORK (AP) — The Joe Pepitone incident appeared to be a closed case Saturday — slammed shut when Pepitone ripped a game-winning single to right in the ninth inning against Washington.

"It's settled, all over and done with," Manager Johnny Keane of the New York Yankees said.

There had been reports that Pepitone would be benched indefinitely after he was late reaching Yankee Stadium Friday night and was slapped with a $50 fine.

"I said some things I shouldn't have said," Pepitone admitted, "So I had a talk with Keane and general manager Ralph Houk. All I want to do now is help the ball club."

Marichal, who has lost seven games, surrendered three singles to Bob Lillis.

Lillis and Rusty Staub, who doubled, combined forces in the eighth inning to put Marichal in his only serious jam, placing men on second and third with one out. But the Giants' righthander got Joe Morgan to foul out and Lee Maye to ground out, ending the threat.

Dick Farrell, tagged for three runs in the first inning, took the loss.

Farrell was forced to leave the game in the third inning when he jammed a finger on a play covering first base.

Willie Mays did not play for the Giants. He was rested for the eighth time this season. It was the first game the Giants won this year without their star center fielder.

S.F. MANAGER'S PACT EXTENDED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Manager Herman Franks signed a new contract as manager of the San Francisco Giants Saturday extending his tenure through the 1966 season.

"The new contract permits Herman to operate in a longer range perspective, and I feel this will be beneficial to the team."

Franks became the manager of the Giants last October 4.

Cardinals Sweep Mets 4-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals made a sweep of the series with Casey Stengel's New York Mets Saturday winning the third game 4-1 on a third inning four-run rally against Larry Miller.

Ron Swoboda's 16th home run in the second inning saved the Mets from a shutout. Winning pitcher Bob Purkey was chased in the seventh. Jesse Gonder and Jim Hickman opened with singles. Reliever Don Dennis retired the next three batters, with Phil Gagliano, at third base for the ailing Ken Boyer, handling two chances for putouts.

Cisco was charged with a balk in the inning which brought out Stengel and half the Mets' bench. Before it was over, Stengel went through the motions of a wind-up for umpires and Chris Cannizzaro was ejected from the grounds.

Phillies Jump on Reds for 14-7 Crusher

Callison's Slam Leads Biggest Splurge for Club

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies bombed Cincinnati pitchers for 22 hits Saturday, including a grand slam homer by Johnny Callison, and trounced the Reds, 14-7.

Johnny Briggs drove in five Philly runs with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly. Pat Corrales had four hits for the winners, while John Herrnstein added a homer and two singles.

Philadelphia, in its biggest offensive display of the year, came up with the crusher in the six-run fourth inning. Herrnstein led off with his homer and Callison ripped his bases-loaded blow off Jim O'Toole in that inning.

* * * *

ALL TOLD, the Phils battered five Cincinnati pitchers.

The Reds pounded out 13 hits themselves but were in a futile fight after the Phillies' big fourth. Reliever Ed Roebuck, who followed Ray Culp and Gary Wagner, was the winner.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH

Horses And Volleyball

Horse racing and volleyball make strange bedfellows, but nevertheless the two sports are TOPS in the nation!

FOR THE 13TH SUCCESSIVE YEAR, horse racing is the No. 1 spectator sport in the U.S.

For the second consecutive year, volleyball is the leading participant sport. The rise of volleyball popularity is indeed astonishing. Two years ago, the sport boasted 20,000,000 participants. Today, 60,000,000 people play volleyball!

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

Considering that bowling, fishing, golf and boating are included in the participant sports category, volleyball's No. 1 position is all the more remarkable.

Perhaps even more astonishing is the fact that cycling is a close second to volleyball, 55,000,000 persons utilizing the two-wheelers.

This leads an editor to think: Should we throw the Dodgers, Angels and Rams into the inside pages and start featuring volleyball and cycling? (Really, this won't happen, but it's food for thought.)

Those with an eye toward figures (not only the female kind) might be interested to learn that EVERY participant sport showed an increase in 1964 from 1963. Some, as softball, boating and billiards, gained more than 1,000,000 new fans during the past year.

By the same token, only two spectator sports showed declines—wrestling and post-season bowl games. Wrestling was the biggest loser, 803,938 fans having lost interest in a year's time.

HERE'S participant sports figures for 1964:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Volleyball | 60,000,000 | Shuffleboard | 10,000,000 |
| Cycling | 55,000,000 | Horseshoes | 9,000,000 |
| Boating | 38,500,000 | Tennis | 8,500,000 |
| Fishing | 33,280,000 | Water Skiing | 8,500,000 |
| Bowling | 32,000,000 | Archery | 8,000,000 |
| Roller Skating | 26,000,000 | Golf | 8,000,000 |

| Basketball | 13,500,000 | Football | 2,500,000 |
| Baseball | 10,200,000 | Softball (16") | 2,500,000 |

HORSE RACING was a whopping winner again in the spectator sports department. A total of 67,357,652 patrons viewed the thoroughbreds and harness horses in '64 (40,827,872 improving the former breed and 26,529,780 attending the sulky events.)

Auto racing was second with 38,000,000 viewers, with baseball (31,594,164) and football (30,708,631) not far behind.

The spectator sports breakdown goes thusly:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Horse Racing | 67,357,652 | Wrestling | 4,113,062 |
| Auto Racing | 38,000,000 | Track & Field | 2,900,000 |
| Baseball | 31,594,164 | Hockey (NHL) | 2,732,642 |
| Football | 30,708,631 | Soccer | 2,500,000 |
| Basketball | 18,083,530 | Boxing | 1,986,447 |

ALL SPORTS have mushroomed in popularity in recent years . . . which is something you don't have to tell to the ink-stained wretches who work in newspaper sports departments. Our work is never done.

Why the astonishing growth? The answer is simple: The increasing population, aided considerably by more leisure time and more money to spend, propelled the world of sports and recreation to new heights of popularity.

Few trends have brought so marked an effect on the pattern of living in America as the changing concepts of leisure time. With President Johnson following President Kennedy's movement emphasizing physical fitness, the zooming figures indicate most Americans are either spectators or participants in some sports activity:

AN INTERESTING, but not too surprising figure is that the National League (baseball) filled its stadiums to 78% capacity with 4,200,000 patrons. The American League lured only 1,750,000!

And what if the Yankees weren't in the American League?

For the 11th successive year crowds at college football games increased. During that 11-year period, college attendance climbed 40%, with the Big 10 enjoying the best average with an eye-opening 58,780 fans for its 49 games.

Added food for thought: Racing attendance exceeds baseball in eight major cities—Los Angeles, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore and Boston. But, then, who doesn't like to bet?

Lowly A's Too Much for Twins

AL Leaders Fall to Tailenders; Boswell Disabled

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—The pesky Kansas City Athletics took another bite out of the Minnesota Twins' American League lead Saturday by rallying for a 5-4 decision.

Pinchhitter Ed Charles' sacrifice fly with bases loaded in the ninth drove in Rene Lachemann with the winning run.

Earlier, the Twins' pennant hopes received a jolt when rookie pitcher Dave Boswell was placed on the disabled list for at least 30 days because the 20-year-old right-hander has infectious mononucleosis.

Wild Pitch Beats Bucs

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Felipe Alou raced home on Bob Veale's wild pitch with one out in the ninth inning Saturday to give the Milwaukee Braves a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Braves had led through the early innings on the strength of Bob Sadowski's no-hit pitching, but with one out in the eighth, Ozzie Virgil broke up the no-hitter with a single and the Pirates rallied to take a 5-4 lead.

BERRY PATCH BECOMES BRIAR PATCH IN COMISKEY PARK
Ken Berry lies on ground after colliding with center field fence while chasing long drive by Angels Bobby Knoop which went for home run in second inning. Floyd Robinson comes to Berry's aid. Chicago outfielder needed four stitches in forehead to close wound. White Sox won, 5-2.

PATSIES OF THE ROAD?

Angels Ambushed 5-2

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

CHICAGO—Kings of the road?

The Angels are more like court jesters and Saturday they succumbed, 5-2, as Chicago crowned a series sweep.

You would think it was The Burma Road the way the enemy ambushes the Angels, who have now lost eight in a row on foreign soil and 13 of their last 16.

Of the Angels' performances in Chicago this season, Frank Sinatra might warble:

"Their kind of town, Chicago isn't."

The Angels have lost all seven of the games played in Comiskey Park where pennant fever reaches a crescendo by the time the Californians depart.

They did exactly that late Saturday afternoon, sneaking off for Minnesnta where they have at least won one of the previous three games.

Ironically, while Chicago has won nine of the overall 13 played with the Angels, both clubs have collected 99 hits. However, the White Sox have drawn 25 more walks and they converted three of nine free passes into key runs Saturday.

Tommy John (8-3) became the first Chicago hurler to go the distance since June 25 as he limited the emaciated Angel attack to five hits while striking out five.

Manager Bill Rigney is about ready to admit that the road affects his thinking process, for crucial strategical decisions in each game of the series backfired.

Convinced by George Brunet's performance Friday night that lefthanders control Chicago with greater efficiency than righthanders, Rigney switched from Fred Newman to Rudy May Saturday morning.

Three batters into the game, Rigney was forced to switch again. May walked the bases full and was himself invited to take a hike by his manager. One out later, Pete Ward's sacrifice fly off Audbrey Gatewood provided the Sox with a 1-0 lead.

Two outs into the second inning, Bob Rodgers singled and Bobby Knoop, terminating a 12-game absence from the starting lineup, larruped his fourth homer into the Angel bullpen.

In his pursuit of the drive, centerfielder Ken Berry crashed into the iron railing on the bullpen fence and, while remaining conscious, was carried from the field via stretcher. Four stitches closed a gash over his left eye and centerfield is now known as a briar patch rather than a Berry patch. X-rays showed no fracture.

In the bottom of the same frame, Rigney was again faced with a decision. Tom McCraw's single, a walk, sacrifice and fielder's choice put runners on second and third with two out.

Floyd Robinson, whose dramatic extra-base hits decided Friday's frantic contest, was the batter and this Robinson has been as tough lately as Jackie, Sugar Ray and Brooks combined. Although righthander Danny Cater was on deck, Rigney decided against an intentional walk and Robinson promptly decked the Angels with a two-run single.

Gatewood (1-3) maintained the 3-2 disparity until he walked the bases full in the fifth. Ed Sukla calmly relieved the tension, but the White Sox iced their fourth victory in a row during the seventh on another walk, singles by Ron Hansen and McCraw and a sacrifice fly by Bill Skowron—the later blow off Bob Lee.

The Angels jarred John for only one hit over the final five frames. It was the first time in 26 consecutive contests, Sukla has been scored upon, but Gatewood drew the defeat.

May celebrates his 21st birthday today and noting his control difficulties Saturday, it should be a "wild" party.

ANGEL ANGELS: Newman (9-7) will be joined by Ken McBride (0-2) on the starting line today when the Angels open a four-game series against Minnesota. Mudcat Grant (9-3) and Jim Kaat (8-7) pitch for the Twins . . . Dean Chance, slated to pitch today until his relief assignment of Friday night, will work Monday . . . "My pitches were moving better than at any time this year," said Chance of his Friday stint which produced his fifth defeat . . .

Rigney received a royal roasting from the Chicago press for his decision in that game in replace Brunet with Bob Lee, unleashing the flood of lefthanded pinch-hitters . . . "I would do it again," said Rigney. "I don't care which way a guy bats, nine times out of 10 Lee will get him out." This time, however, he was waging a crusade (as revealed by the I. P-T) and he beat himself."

Word here is that Don Beibel, traveling secretary of the Cubs, and head coach Lou Klein inspected facilities at Long Beach's Blair Field Friday . . . The Cubs will tentatively play only eight games at Blair and will stay at the Edgewater Hotel . . . Chicago will play some 22 road games next spring after breaking it's Catalina camp . . . The Cubs may also nix plans to train their minor league clubs at Escondido . . .

While Sox relief ace Eddie Fisher appraised his year thusly: "I am simply the luckiest pitcher in baseball." . . . Fisher leads the American League in four departments: Appearances (47), ERA (1.35), saves (18) and victories (11).

Yanks Edge Nats as Pepitone Hero

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Pepitone, who threatened Friday to quit baseball, singled home the winning run in the ninth inning Saturday to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Washington Senators.

Nineteen-year-old Gil Blanco was credited with his first major league victory. He went the last two innings.

Frank Howard's two-run first inning homer off starter Whitey Ford and single runs in the fifth and sixth helped the Senators build their early lead.

PEPITONE'S HIT WINS—CASE CLOSED

NEW YORK (AP) — The Joe Pepitone incident appeared to be a closed case Saturday — slammed shut when Pepitone ripped a game-winning single to right in the ninth inning against Washington.

"It's settled, all over and done with," Manager Johnny Keane of the New York Yankees said.

There had been reports that Pepitone would be benched indefinitely after he was late reaching Yankee Stadium Friday night and was slapped with a $50 fine.

"I said some things I shouldn't have said," Pepitone admitted. "So I had a talk with Keane and general manager Ralph Houk. All I want to do now is help the ball club."

Callison's Slam Leads Biggest Splurge for Club

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies bombed Cincinnati pitchers for 22 hits Saturday, including a grand slam homer by Johnny Callison, and trounced the Reds, 14-7.

Johnny Briggs drove in five Philly runs with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly. Pat Corrales had four hits for the winners, while John Herrnstein added a homer and two singles.

Philadelphia, in its biggest offensive display of the year, came up with the crusher in the six-run fourth inning. Herrnstein led off with his homer and Callison ripped his bases-loaded blow off Jim O'Toole in that inning.

ALL TOLD, the Phils battered five Cincinnati pitchers.

The Reds pounded out 13 hits themselves but were in a futile fight after the Phillies' big fourth. Reliever Ed Roebuck, who followed Ray Culp and Gary Wagner, was the winner.

Wills and Gilliam combined to cut the deficit in half after Williams' homer in the third. Both singled after two were out, Wills scoring from second after his first steal.

Johnson's homer came after Fairly walked in the fourth and a bloop triple by W. Davis made it 4-2 in the fifth.

Wills' 59th steal and Gilliam's fourth hit produced the fifth run against Abernathy in the seventh and Parker drove in his first runs in the last five games after a walk, an error and Johnson was hit in the eighth.

Gilliam raised his average 20 points to .300, then was replaced by his defensive caddy, John Kennedy.

Nick Willhite (1-1) pitches against Bob Buhl (9-7) in the final game of the series at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Cardinals Sweep Mets 4-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals made a sweep of the series with Casey Stengel's New York Mets Saturday winning the third game 4-1 on a third inning four-run rally against Larry Miller.

Ron Swoboda's 16th home run in the second inning saved the Mets from a shutout. Winning pitcher Bob Purkey was chased in the seventh. Jesse Gonder and Jim Hickman opened with singles. Reliever Don Dennis retired the next three batters, with Phil Gagliano, at third base for the ailing Ken Boyer, handling two chances for putouts.

20 Years Later

By RICH ROBERTS

STEPHENS

The year, 1945 . . . Allied armies were pinching off Hitler, a bomb was about to fall on Hiroshima and the only box scores people really cared about were the casualty reports.

The war left a lot of things undone, like families raised and dreams built and baseball games played that didn't mean much, anyway.

Like the 1945 All-Star Game. They'll finally get around to tying up that loose end from a lost generation next Saturday at Baltimore.

Few can recall the '45 All-Stars, even Long Beach's Vern Stephens, who was one of them. Many of the game's greats had swapped baseball bats for baznokas, fielder's gloves for hand grenades. Most of those names left were soon forgotten. Most of them are better forgotten.

FOR THEM, 1945 was a very large season, when an ordinary guy didn't have to compete with the Williamses or DiMaggios who were away playing on that other team.

"Let's see. Rick Farrell was the catcher from the Browns," Stephens frowns, scratching his brain. "No, no, wait—he was with the Senators . . . or was it the Tigers?

"First base? Boy, you got me. Second base—that was Eddie Mayo of the A's. Lou Boudreau was the other shortstop. Third base . . . hmnnn. Was Greenberg around then? I know DiMaggio and Williams were off to war.

"Luke Sewell will be the manager. He managed the Browns when we won the pennant in 1944."

Stephens, dubbed "Junior" in those days, needn't apologize for his own presence on the team. After all, he was the American League's shortstop eight times. At 44 now, he is prevailed upon regularly to patronize baseball's dotage on its past glory.

TO AVOID abusing stiff joints and broadened bellies, these games are limited to three innings.

"I ought to be able to go that long," says Vern, who can still bend over pretty well.

Twenty years later, though, the face of baseball is changed . . expansion to the West Coast, jet travel and managerial masterminding. It wasn't like that in '45.

"Lots of times you rode your suitcase in the middle of the aisle," Vern recalls. "And you couldn't train more than 200 miles from your home park. The Browns trained at a place called Cape Girardeux down the Mississippi River. It was so cold we had to work out in a field house."

But Vern doesn't envy today's players that much.

"Things are more convenient now, but there's a lot more area to cover, too. The way the schedules are, lots of times those guys arrive at 3 or 4 in the morning and have to play the next day. There's more night games, too."

HOWEVER, TODAY'S players owe more than they know to the men of Stephens' time. Vern himself doesn't admit to being a clubhouse lawyer, but admits, "That stuff started in about 1945. First the Pittsburgh club threatened to go on strike, then the Mexican League started up."

And when the five Pasquel brothers started laying on the pesos in their 1946 raid of the major leagues, Stephens was among the first to jump.

"I was down there for a couple of weeks. Heck, they offered me $225,000 for five years, which was all right if I had wanted to live in Mexico. Up here the government would have taken it all the first year."

But then good old Happy Chandler made his bid for immortality as commissioner of baseball by ruling that any player who failed to return a week before the season opened would be suspended from U.S. ball for five years.

"I came back," Vern says, "but a lot of them didn't. But the suspensions stuck for only three years."

As a result, though, the players wound up getting their first bill of rights—a salary minimum of $5,000, salary cuts limited to 25%, a pension fund and a permanent players committee to deal with the owners.

STEPHENS WENT on to play for better clubs than the '44 Browns, but it was still the only pennant he ever won in 14½ big league seasons. He joined Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio, et al, on the strong Red Sox clubs that lost pennants to Cleveland in a '48 playoff and to the Yankees on the last day of '49. Vern played every game.

"In those days you got in to play and you stayed there," he says. "Platooning changed all that. All the guys today are much smarter. You have to be thinking all the time."

Vern left baseball in 1956 with a lifetime batting average of .286 and 247 home runs. 37th on the alltime list. Now he lives in Long Beach and is executive sales manager for Owl Truck and Construction Co. in Compton.

He may have forgotten a lot of the names, but one he remembers is Bill Veeck, the controversial onetime owner of the Browns.

"I'll say one thing—he kept the fans coming to the ball park," Vern declares. "And he was always good to his ballplayers."

NFL Wars Hold No Terror for Viet Vet

Compiled From Wire Reports

As fierce as things can get in the National Football League, it shouldn't hold too many terrors for Don Talbert of the Dallas Cowboys.

The former University of Texas line star rejoined the Cowboys at their summer training camp at Thousand Oaks after serving eight months with the Army in Viet Nam.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world," said the 6-5, 245-pound tackle. As a lieutenant, the man from Texas City, Tex., commanded an MP platoon in Saigon. The duty consisted of furnishing protection for American installations at hospitals, the dock area and town patrol.

* * * *

IN OTHER pro football activity Saturday, the Minnesota Vikings announced Tommy Mason was one of six players still unsigned. Mason left his Long Beach home last Monday and will begin working out with the Vikings early this week . . . The Cowboys trimmed four rookies from their roster—kickers Mickey Rice of Idaho and Don Bright of Tulane, offensive guard Jon Froberg of Linfield College and tackle Bob Hamlon of Montana State . . . Fullback Matt Snell, the AFL's rookie of 1964, rejoined the New York Jets after a two-day session with the flu and outran most of his teammates in a series of wind sprints. Joe Namath also took part in the passing drills . . . The San Diego Chargers cut eight rookies, including Walt Buncom of East L.A. and linebacker John Godden of San Diego State.

RAMS FLANKER LOOSE 'N RELAXED

Brown Hopes History Repeats

By AL LARSON

ORANGE—Will history repeat itself for No. 26? Willie Brown hopes so.

The Rams' sophomore flanker back parallels last year's rookie season to his disappointing sophomore football campaign at USC in 1961.

"I injured my foot in the second game of the season against Iowa and was hampered the rest of the year," Willie recalls.

"Then last year I had about every injury possible. I pulled a muscle in the College All-Star game and this slowed me down for a couple of weeks. Then I banged up my knee. But the really bad one was when I pulled the abdominal muscle in my stomach while warming up for the Pittsburgh game.

"I played the first half, but then in the dressing room at halftime it tightened up and I was finished. It was at least six weeks before I could do any running. And if I can't run, then I'm in trouble. That's what I do best."

For anyone who has forgotten, Willie bounced back his junior year at USC and was a driving force when the Trojans won the national championship.

His performances after the first week of drills indicate he's 100% healthy, more relaxed and as fast as ever even though he's playing at a heavier 192 pounds. Last year he weighed 187 most of the season.

Willie feels playing in the All-Star game is a great thrill, but "it did make it real tough on me last year. I didn't get into the Rams' camp until the week of their first pre-season game. It's hard stepping right in and learning an offense in a week's time.

"I didn't want anything like that to happen again so I decided to report with the rookies this year. It's giving me a chance to get in shape quicker."

Willie felt his biggest adjustment from college to the pros was in running pass patterns.

"Here you have to learn to use your speed to better advantage. It's all one-on-one defense in the pros while in college everyone uses a zone defense. There you simply try to outrun a defensive back.

"Getting the cuts down and getting into position takes time. If you get in proper position you should catch 90% of the balls thrown."

Willie's toughest competition will come from Tommy McDonald, the nine-year NFL veteran acquired from Dallas in an off-season trade. McDonald will report next weekend with the rest of the Ram veterans. Then the war really begins.

Since Willie doesn't want to get Tommy-gunned out of a job, he hopes to storm back and repeat his success story of 1962.

Rams Strike 4 Times in Cowboy Scrimmage

The Rams' rookies scored four touchdowns during Saturday's hour-and-a-half session of hard knocks with the Dallas Cowboys at Chapman College.

John Pease (Utah), Bill Mackey (Bakersfield College) and Jimmy Brown (South Carolina State) scored on short plunges while quarterback Ron Smith (Richmond) connected with UCLA's Mike Haffner on a short touchdown pass. Smith, who went all the way, had six passes intercepted.

In evaluating the scrimmage, Svare said: "The main thing we're trying to do is prepare these kids for competing with the veterans so that they'll get a fair chance to show what they can do when they arrive. We feel today's session helped them."

The Rams played nothing but offense. On Thursday the Rams travel to Thousand Oaks for a rematch. They'll play strictly defense in that scrimmage.

Dallas' defense was spearheaded by former Fullerton High star Brig Owens, who intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

Corrected Time Shy of Record for Transpac

HONOLULU—The 40-foot sloop Psyche Saturday was declared unofficially the fleet handicap champion of the 1965 biennial Transpacific Yacht Race.

It was determined that none of the 25 vessels still at sea could better the corrected time of the $27,000 sloop owned and skippered by Don Salisbury of the Los Angeles Yacht Club.

The Psyche finished with an elapsed time of 12 days, 5 hours, 49 minutes and 3 seconds. The corrected time with the sloop's handicap is 8 days, 22 hours, 44 minutes and 30 seconds.

The corrected time record was set in 1955 by Ira Fulmor's Staghound at 8 days, 22 hours, 7 minutes and 5 seconds.

This was Salisbury's first attempt in the Transpacific race from California.

"We were fortunate that we had good sailing weather. Everything worked beautifully and we never lost a single sail," Salisbury said.

The youngest member of the six-man crew was Jack Jensen, 39, builder of the boat.

Other members of the crew were Ben Mitchell, George Griffith, Wade Hill and Dr. Connie Doran.

EIGHT more vessels crossed the finish line in the night and early morning hours to bring the total number of finishers to 30.

In second place was the 40-foot sloop Hanalei, skippered by owner Hays McClellan of the California Yacht Club, almost five hours behind.

The Psyche's most serious contender had been another L.A. Yacht Club entry, the 40-foot sloop Zephyrus III, with owner-skipper Dr. Robert McNeil at the helm.

The 50-foot sloop Pascal, which held the lead for a short while, was in third place while the Kialoa II was in fourth.

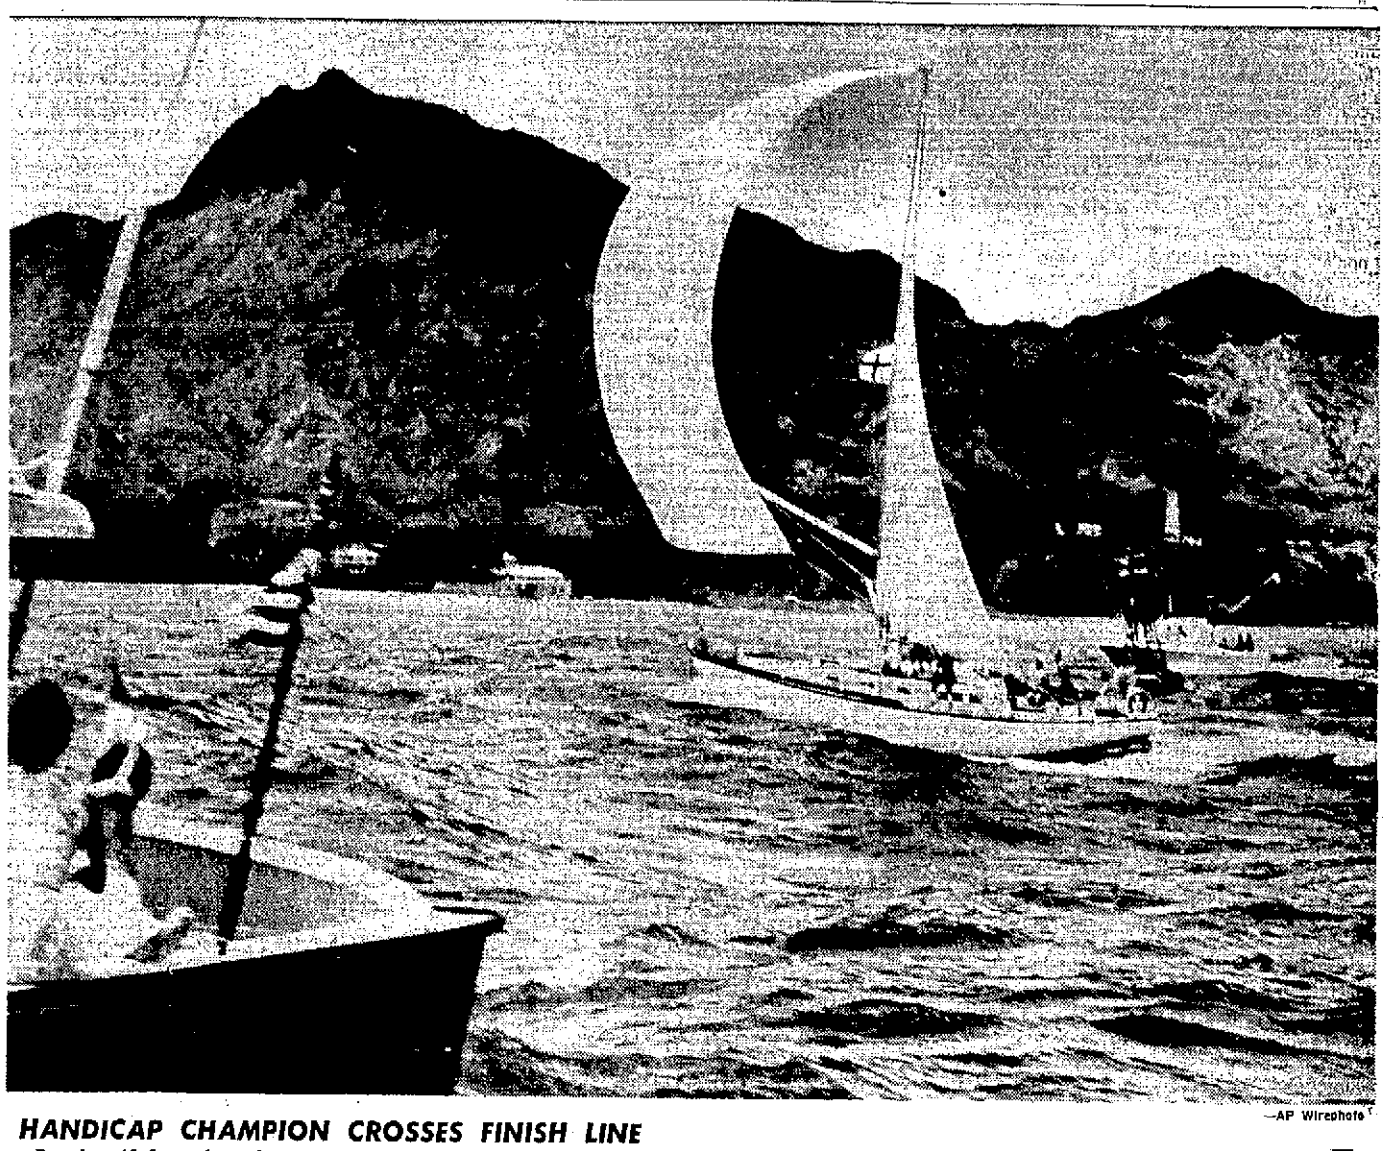

In fifth place was the 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga, the first craft to cross the finish line in this year's race, setting an elapsed mark in doing so. She broke the 10-year-old mark of the Morning Star by one hour, 14 minutes and 8 seconds when she finished late Tuesday.

The other leaders according to unofficial corrected time were:

Tangent, Audacious, Stormvogel, Westward, Nam Sang, Chrysopyle, Blue Marlin, Irish Mist, Leslie Kae, Mocassin, Santana, Tilt O' the Kilt, Orient, Nalu II, Dare, Corsario II, Talisman, Kamalii, Serena, King Don, Novia Del Mar, White Cloud, Queen Mab.

Handicap standings:

Fleet class: 1, Psyche, 2, Hanalei, 3, Rascal, 4, Kialoa II, 5, Ticonderoga, 6, Tangent, 7, Audacious, 8, Stormvogel, 9, Westward, 10, Nam Sang.
Class A: 1, Kialoa II, 2, Ticonderoga, 3, Audacious.
Class B: 1, Rascal, 2, Westward.
Class C: 1, Psyche, 2, Hanalei, 3, Tangent.
Class D: 1, Zephyrus III.

WIND GOOD ALL THE WAY

Better Boats Prove Selves in Transpac

By DAVE TAYLOR

Constant heavy winds, improved boats and rigging, and just plain old experience figure as the major factors in the historic record-time crossing from Los Angeles to Honolulu currently being concluded by 54 sailing yachts in the 24th biennial Transpacific race.

Certainly, it was the wind more than any other one thing that told the tale of the 1965 Transpac as the fleet enjoyed the first continuous strong-wind crossing since the 1955 race.

There was only one day since the 2,225-mile race began in Los Angeles Harbor July 4 that the boats encountered anything like a calm. That was July 12 when the leaders reported that breezes had dropped to about 10 knots. By the 13th, however, the wind had picked up again, and held strong and steady throughout the remainder of the race.

In the Molokai Channel during the past four days the finishing boats have faced 30-knot winds with six-to-eight-foot seas that have broken masts, lost sails and gear, and made this one of the most costly races in Transpac history.

"That was one of the harriest rides I've ever had in my life!" commented Peggy Slater, sailing master aboard the 50-foot sloop Irish Mist out of Long Beach Yacht Club, Friday after the channel run.

But, "harry" or not, it was doubtless the heavy wind in the channel that gave Donald Salisbury's Cal-40 sloop Psyche out of Los Angeles YC the extra sprint needed to insure her the overall victory in the race Friday with a corrected time of 8 days, 22 hours, 44 minutes and 30 seconds and elapsed time of 12 days, 5 hours, 49 minutes and 3 seconds.

Not so fortunate, however, was sailing master Dick Enersen aboard the 73-foot ketch Stormvogel who lost his chance to mark a new elapsed time record for the crossing when the highly touted, powerful, Dutch-built boat suffered a broken main boom 600 miles out last Sunday.

But, even with the loss, Stormvogel more than held her own, clinging to position to finish only 5 minutes, 48 seconds behind the 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga out of Portland YC that did set a Transpac race elapsed time record of 9 days, 13 hours, 51 minutes and 2 seconds.

"For four straight days every time I looked behind me, here was that Stormvogel about to run right up over my stern," commented Big Ti's skipper, Robert F. Johnson. "It was only in those last few miles that we were able to get going enough in that big channel wind to really leave her behind."

At that, Stormvogel—broken boom and all—did beat the previous ET record of 9 days, 15 hours, 5 minutes and 10 seconds set by the Morning Star in 1955. Her performance with boom gone also significantly illustrates that even Ti's record for the crossing can be bettered—as, indeed, Stormvogel might have beaten it this time had she remained in top sailing condition.

Also hurt by the constant heavy winds in the crossing was the 83-foot schooner Serena out of San Francisco YC, scratch boat in the race. Serena's skipper, Dan Elliott Jr., found he had to sail a longer course—probably as much as 100 miles further than Ticonderoga — since a schooner can't run directly before a strong wind like other rigs.

The story was just opposite for Johnson on Ticonderoga who found the winds just right and was able to beat the Morning Star's elapsed time record largely because he was able to sale a course about 100 miles shorter than Morning Star had run, staying closer to the run line.

The performance of Stormvogel, built in 1961, and that of the new Cal-40's in the race also makes a strong case for the effect of improved boats and equipment in this year's crossing.

Of the seven Cal-40's entered in the race, three placed in the top 10 corrected time standings. Psyche of LAYC is first overall with Hanalei of California YC second and Tangent, also of CYC, sixth. All three were built within the last two years.

Transpacific Yacht Club's rating system for the racing boats also stood the test as illustrated by the close finishes among the top 10. In all, only 7 hours and 45 minutes separated Psyche in first place and Nam Sang in 10th place overall by corrected time.

Though most of the crews found the Transpac a mite rugged, there were others who would as soon have had it continue indefinitely—noticeably those aboard the Novia Del Mar from San Diego YC.

Novia Del Mar owner John P. Scripps hired the head chef from one of San Diego's finest restaurants to cook for he and his crew in the crossing, and while other boats were losing booms and masts, the greatest loss Novia Del Mar suffered was a case of oranges used in some novel preparation involving gin.

But then, it's a sea dog's life.

U.S. Senate Pressures NCAA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Commerce Committee Saturday urged the National Collegiate Athletic Association to let Randy Matson, holder of the world shotput record, compete in a Wichita, Kan., meet next Friday.

The meet, being staged for the benefit of the U.S. team going to a U.S.-Soviet meet July 31 and Aug. 1, is sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union but not the NCAA.

20 Years Later

By RICH ROBERTS

STEPHENS

The year, 1945 . . . Allied armies were pinching off Hitler, a bomb was about to fall on Hiroshima and the only box scores people really cared about were the casualty reports.

The war left a lot of things undone, like families raised and dreams built and baseball games played that didn't mean much, anyway.

Like the 1945 All-Star Game. They'll finally get around to tying up that loose end from a lost generation next Saturday at Baltimore.

Few can recall the '45 All-Stars, even Long Beach's Vern Stephens, who was one of them. Many of the game's greats had swapped baseball bats for bazookas, fielder's gloves for hand grenades. Most of those names left were soon forgotten. Most of them are better forgotten.

FOR THEM, 1945 was a very large season, when an ordinary guy didn't have to compete with the Williamses or DiMaggios who were away playing on that other team.

"Let's see, Rick Farrell was the catcher from the Browns," Stephens frowns, scratching his brain. "No, no, wait—he was with the Senators . . . or was it the Tigers?

"First base? Boy, you got me. Second base—that was Eddie Mayo of the A's. Lou Boudreau was the other shortstop. Third base . . . hmmm. Was Greenberg around then? I know DiMaggio and Williams were off to war.

"Luke Sewell will be the manager. He managed the Browns when we won the pennant in 1944."

Stephens, dubbed "Junior" in those days, needn't apologize for his own presence on the team. After all, he was the American League's shortstop eight times. At 44 now, he is prevailed upon regularly to patronize baseball's dotage on its past glory.

TO AVOID abusing stiff joints and broadened bellies, these games are limited to three innings.

"I ought to be able to go that long," says Vern, who can still bend over pretty well.

Twenty years later, though, the face of baseball is changed . . expansion to the West Coast, jet travel and managerial masterminding. It wasn't like that in '45.

"Lots of times you rode your suitcase in the middle of the aisle," Vern recalls. "And you couldn't train more than 200 miles from your home park. The Browns trained at a place called Cape Girardeux down the Mississippi River. It was so cold we had to work out in a field house."

But Vern doesn't envy today's players that much.

"Things are more convenient now, but there's a lot more area to cover, too. The way the schedules are, lots of times those guys arrive at 3 or 4 in the morning and have to play the next day. There's more night games, too."

HOWEVER, TODAY'S players owe more than they know to the men of Stephens' time. Vern himself doesn't admit to being a clubhouse lawyer, but admits, "That stuff started in about 1945. First the Pittsburgh club threatened to go on strike, then the Mexican League started up."

And when the five Pasquel brothers started laying on the pesos in their 1946 raid of the major leagues, Stephens was among the first to jump.

"I was down there for a couple of weeks. Heck, they offered me $225,000 for five years, which was all right if I had wanted to live in Mexico. Up here the government would have taken it all the first year."

But then good old Happy Chandler made his bid for immortality as commissioner of baseball by ruling that any player who failed to return a week before the season opened would be suspended from U.S. ball for five years.

"I came back," Vern says, "but a lot of them didn't. But the suspensions stuck for only three years."

As a result, though, the players wound up getting their first bill of rights—a salary minimum of $5,000, salary cuts limited to 25%, a pension fund and a permanent players committee to deal with the owners.

STEPHENS WENT on to play for better clubs than the '44 Browns, but it was still the only pennant he ever won in 14½ big league seasons. He joined Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio, et al, on the strong Red Sox clubs that lost pennants to Cleveland in a '48 playoff and to the Yankees on the last day of '49. Vern played every game.

"In those days you got in to play and you stayed there," he says. "Platooning changed all that. All the guys today are much smarter. You have to be thinking all the time."

Vern left baseball in 1956 with a lifetime batting average of .286 and 247 home runs, 37th on the alltime list. Now he lives in Long Beach and is executive sales manager for Owl Truck and Construction Co. in Compton.

He may have forgotten a lot of the names, but one he remembers is Bill Veeck, the controversial onetime owner of the Browns.

"I'll say one thing—he kept the fans coming to the ball park," Vern declares. "And he was always good to his ballplayers."

NFL Wars Hold No Terror for Viet Vet

Compiled From Wire Reports

As fierce as things can get in the National Football League, it shouldn't hold too many terrors for Don Talbert of the Dallas Cowboys.

The former University of Texas line star rejoined the Cowboys at their summer training camp at Thousand Oaks after serving eight months with the Army in Viet Nam.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world," said the 6-5, 245-pound tackle. As a lieutenant, the man from Texas City, Tex., commanded an MP platoon in Saigon. The duty consisted of furnishing protection for American installations at hospitals, the dock area and town patrol.

* * * *

RAMS FLANKER LOOSE 'N RELAXED

Brown Hopes History Repeats

By AL LARSON

ORANGE—Will history repeat itself for No. 26? Willie Brown hopes so.

The Rams' sophomore flanker back parallels last year's rookie season to his disappointing sophomore football campaign at USC in 1961.

"I injured my foot in the second game of the season against Iowa and was hampered the rest of the year," Willie recalls.

"Then last year I had about every injury possible. I pulled a muscle in the College All-Star game and this slowed me down for a couple of weeks. Then I banged up my knee. But the really bad one was when I pulled the abdominal muscle in my stomach while warming up for the Pittsburgh game.

"I played the first half, but then in the dressing room at halftime it tightened up and I was finished. It was at least six weeks before I could do any running. And if I can't run, then I'm in trouble. That's what I do best."

For anyone who has forgotten, Willie bounced back his junior year at USC and was a driving force when the Trojans won the national championship.

His performances after the first week of drills indicate he's 100% healthy, more relaxed and as fast as ever even though he's playing at a heavier 192 pounds. Last year he weighed 187 most of the season.

Willie feels playing in the All-Star game is a great thrill, but "it did make it real tough on me last year. I didn't get into the Rams' camp until the week of their first pre-season game. It's hard stepping right in and learning an offense in a week's time.

"I didn't want anything like that to happen again so I decided to report with the rookies this year. It's giving me a chance to get in shape quicker."

Willie felt his biggest adjustment from college to the pros was in running pass patterns.

"Here you have to learn to use your speed to better advantage. It's all one-on-one defense in the pros while in college everyone uses a zone defense. There you simply try to outrun a defensive back.

"Getting the cuts down and getting into position takes time. If you get in proper position you should catch 90% of the balls thrown."

Willie's toughest competition will come from Tommy McDonald, the nine-year NFL veteran acquired from Dallas in an off-season trade. McDonald will report next weekend with the rest of the Ram veterans. Then the war really begins.

Since Willie doesn't want to get Tommy-gunned out of a job, he hopes to storm back and repeat his success story of 1962.

Constant heavy winds, improved boats and rigging, and just plain old experience figure as the major factors in the historic record-time crossing from Los Angeles to Honolulu currently being concluded by 54 sailing yachts in the 24th biennial Transpacific race.

Certainly, it was the wind more than any other one thing that told the tale of the 1965 Transpac as the fleet enjoyed the first continuous strong-wind crossing since the 1955 race.

By the 13th, however, the wind had picked up again, and held strong and steady throughout the remainder of the race.

In the Molokai Channel during the past four days the finishing boats have faced 30-knot winds with six-to-eight-foot seas that have broken masts, lost sails and gear, and made this one of the most costly races in Transpac history.

"That was one of the harriest rides I've ever had in my life!" commented Peggy Slater, sailing master aboard the 50-foot sloop Irish Mist out of Long Beach Yacht Club, Friday after the channel run.

Not so fortunate, however, was sailing master Dick Enersen aboard the 73-foot ketch Stormvogel who lost his chance to mark a new elapsed time record for the crossing when the highly touted, powerful, Dutch-built boat suffered a broken main boom 600 miles out last Sunday.

But, even with the loss, Stormvogel more than held her own, clinging to position to finish only 5 minutes, 48 seconds behind the 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga out of Portland YC that did set a Transpac race elapsed time record of 9 days, 13 hours, 51 minutes and 2 seconds.

Clay Busy Repairing His Image

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: Cassius Clay has started to make the rounds of television's various "talk" programs—both on network and the local level in the larger cities—to "repair his image."

For the most part, he is being very serious and only on one occasion has there been anything resembling an "incident." That was the result of some needling which touched on his Muslim religion.

When his backers feel the time is right, they'll announce his next fight . . . which most likely will be held in October right after the World Series.

GEORGE CHUVALO
'White Hope' Next?

The man has been picked . . but the selection is being kept secret until the furor over the Clay-Sonny Liston affair dies down a little more.

It will be either Floyd Patterson or George Chuvalo, of course.

Since Patterson defeated Chuvalo in a slam-bang match three months ago, it has been felt that Floyd would get first crack at Cassius . . . with the buildup featuring his attempt to win the title for a third time.

However, a couple of developments in recent days seem to point towards Chuvalo as the next opponent . . . with Floyd getting his chance next February. The big selling point with Chuvalo is the "white hope" angle. Actually, he probably would make a better fight of it than Patterson.

In the meantime, the business of building up future contenders has been stepped up sharply.

The best prospect at this time appears to be Jose Torres, the new light heavyweight king.

They've already mapped out a campaign designed to get him a crack at the title next May or October—after Patterson and Chuvalo.

Later this month, Torres will fight heavyweight Tom McNeeley in Puerto Rico and the schedule tentatively calls for him to then fight Eddie Machen in August or September.

Everybody knocks out McNeeley and Torres should be no exception. He hits harder than Patterson; in fact, you may recall that Jose had Floyd on the floor in a training session a few years ago.

As for Machen, he's all washed up although he still has name value.

After Torres polishes off these two, the cry for a bout with Clay will start in earnest.

There is no money in the light heavyweight division to speak of . . . but the 175-pound title is a natural stepping stone into the heavyweight picture.

MAX STILES REPORTS that Elmer (Gloomy Gus) Henderson, one of the all-time great exponents of football's spread formation, recently told him that he has turned over all the details of his "spread" to George Halas of the Chicago Bears.

Henderson revealed that Halas has tried for many years to get the details of his spread, but he has always held back.

However, when Halas visited him earlier this summer, the former Trojan coach finally gave him his play book. Thus, pro football could take on a new look this season if Halas decides to use it.

Spreads have been used many times before in pro football, but have soon been discarded.

But there's no denying that it could cause a lot of excitement.

THEY'RE STILL LAUGHING in San Francisco over the Giant broadcaster who recently blurted out, "When you're in a ball game like this one, one team has to win it and one team has to lose it."

There are other kinds?

Long Beach's Ollie Brown, who is destined to bid for an outfield job with the Giants in a couple of years, recently hit his 19th home run of the season for Tacoma.

One ballplayer coming to the defense of the Phils' Richie Allen in the latter's mixup with Frank Thomas recently says that "Thomas is known to everyone as an obnoxious needler. When he gets on a guy he never knows when to stop."

Only one of the 19 Americans playing in the Japanese baseball leagues was picked for Japan's series of All-Star Games—Daryl Spencer, former Dodger third baseman.

Salta Bumps Border Nine

SAN DIEGO (Special)—Andy Messersmith picked up his first win of the season for Salta Pontiac Saturday as Salta scored four runs in the ninth inning to whip Ocean Beach, 10-8, in a CCBL game.

Beach, 10-8, in a CCBL game.

Messersmith, relieving starter Doc Johnson, pitched 7⅓ innings and struck out six batters. However, his hitting provided a big assist to the victory. He went two-for-two at the plate, driving in two runs and scoring one himself. His first RBI came in the third inning, but the big one came in the ninth on a sacrifice fly.

CUMMINGS HOME TOO LATE

Palos Verdes' Jack Cummings is tagged out at plate by Peterson Post catcher Ron Henkel in fifth inning during 19th District playoff game at Blair Field Saturday. Peterson scored 9-7 victory and meets Bellflower today.

TOURNEY CONTINUES TODAY

Peterson Rallies for 9-7 Win

By BRUCE YOUNG

The never-say-die Peterson Post capped a long, hard uphill battle Saturday with a two-run rally in the 10th inning to defeat Palos Verdes 9-7 in the first round of the 19th District American Legion double-elimination playoffs at Blair Field.

Action continues today at Blair as Bellflower tries to derail the Peterson victory express at noon, while Palos Verdes and North Torrance will play at 3 o'clock to see which remains in the playoff.

Palos Verdes tied the score in the third, and in the fifth Peterson went ahead 4-3 on a passed ball. But Coach John Martin's squad was not dead as it exploded for four runs in the bottom of the inning to take a commanding 7-4 lead.

Peterson nibbled at the lead, scoring once in the seventh, then with the aid of five walks, added two runs to tie the score 7-all in the eighth.

But the game would have been finished in regulation time with Palos Verdes the winner if it had not been for a great diving stop by second baseman Ken Whitmer. With runners on first and second, a ball was hit sharply to his right and had it gone through to the outfield the game would have been over, but Whitmer dived and threw the runner out, ending the inning.

Dale Duncan slashed a single to left field in the 10th to chase home the tie-breaking run and Randy Moffitt set Palos Verdes down in order in the bottom of the frame.

In the first game at noon, Bellflower breezed to an 8-0 victory over North Torrance behind the strung four-hit pitching of Craig Williams.

Patton Rallies to Win

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Billy Joe Patton, four shots behind at the start, overtook Downing Gray with a three-under-par 69 Saturday to win the Southern amateur golf championship.

LOWELL SIGNS WITH REDS

Lakewood resident Bruce Lowell signed a professional contract Saturday with the Cincinnati Reds.

Lowell, former catcher for Lakewood High, Long Beach City and State Colleges, is due to report to Knoxville, Tenn., Monday. Knoxville is in the Southern League, a AA classification.

Veteran scout Al Zarilla signed Lowell, of 4314 Hazelbrook Ave., for an undisclosed bonus.

Mills, Grelle Win at Berlin Festival

BERLIN (UPI)—Marine Lt. Billy Mills, the Olympics 10,000-meter champion, won the 5,000-meter run and Jim Grelle beat two Tokyo gold medalists in the 1,500 meters Saturday during the International Sport Festival at Berlin Stadium.

Mills, a native of Coffeyville, Kan., ran the distance in 13:41.4 to defeat West Germany's Harold Norpoth, who clocked 13:42.8.

Grelle, of Portland, Ore., a disappointment in the 1,500 meters at Tokyo, beat the Olympic champion, Peter Snell of New Zealand, and the 5,000-meter gold medalist, Bob Schul of West Milton, Ohio.

Grelle was timed in 3:44.0 to edge Germany's Bodo Tuemmler by seven-tenths of a second. Snell was third in 3:45.1 and Schul fourth in 3:45.4.

* * * *

STEADY drizzle during the day kept performances down as Ron Whitney of Los Angeles won the 400-meter hurdles in 51.3, two-tenths of a second faster than Germany's Ferdinand Haas.

In the 400-meter dash, Germany's Manfred Kinder clocked 46.9 to defeat runner-up Theron Lewis of New Orleans, who raced the distance in 47.5.

In the 800 meters, Canada's Bill Crothers finished first in 1:49.3 while Germany's Jnerg Balke was second in 1:49.9. Both had to keep clear of the inside track because of growing puddles.

Littler, the last man to hole out, had rounds of 70, 68, 69 and 66 and attributed his showing to his improved putting.

"I haven't had a week of putting like this in four years," he said.

He took only 28 putts in his final round and had eight one-putt greens. He had only one three-putt green in the tourney.

"I've played better from tee to green in recent weeks. I changed my stroke a couple of weeks ago in St. Paul. I shortened the backswing and used more follow through."

'Longest' Javelin Throw Gives Covelli L.B. Mark

Frank Covelli got off the longest javelin throw by an American in five years Saturday in an all-comers meet for weightmen Saturday at Long Beach State College field.

Covelli set a field record with a heave of 272 feet, 7 inches, beating Larry Stuart's mark set a week ago by 6½ inches. Stuart finished second Saturday with a 255-5 throw.

The day's only other event, the discus, was won by Parry O'Brien at 190-2½.

Stuart leaves Wednesday for the American track team's meet with Russia in Moscow. Another weightmen's all-comers meet will be held at Long Beach State next Saturday.

Javelin—Frank Covelli, Larry Stuart, Ed Red, 272-7.

Discus — Parry O'Brien, Bill Neville, Gerald Carr, 190-2½.

Burleson...a Swede Indeed!

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dyrol Burleson, one of the United States' top milers, is spending a busy six months in Sweden—teaching and being taught, running and working at his profession.

The 25-year-old University of Oregon alumnus came here in February with his wife and 2-year-old daughter, primarily to impart his training and competing styles to young Swedish runners.

But he also is studying Swedish training methods, competing to a highly satisfactory degree for a local club, and studying and working in the insurance business.

Burleson was brought over by Swedish track leaders to act as an instructional model for talented youngsters. He showed them from the start that he underwent a tough grind.

The Oregonian started training the day he arrived. He runs an hour in the morning, two in the evening. Every Sunday he jogs 19 miles, interspersing the long run with 40 fast 100-meter dashes.

"But I don't go above nine-tenths of top speed," he says. "And I have hurt myself by overtraining."

There was spirited competition for Burleson's services by various track clubs before he was landed by Frederikshof, whose president happens to work at the U.S. embassy.

He started his Swedish sojourn with a trip to the famed training center at Valadalen. There he trained in the snow and got some conditioning tips from a renowned coach, Goeast Olander.

Burleson has told his students that icy roads and snow are as satisfactory as any other training terrain emphasizing that the important factor is the diligence and effort they put into their training.

The American and his family have settled comfortably into suburban Stockholm life. He has overcome the language barrier with a crash course in Swedish.

Clay Busy Repairing His Image

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: Cassius Clay has started to make the rounds of television's various "talk" programs—both on network and the local level in the larger cities—to "repair his image."

For the most part, he is being very serious and only on one occasion has there been anything resembling an "incident." That was the result of some needling which touched on his Muslim religion.

When his backers feel the time is right, they'll announce his next fight . . . which most likely will be held in October right after the World Series.

GEORGE CHUVALO
'White Hope' Next?

The man has been picked . . but the selection is being kept secret until the furor over the Clay-Sonny Liston affair dies down a little more.

It will be either Floyd Patterson or George Chuvalo, of course.

Since Patterson defeated Chuvalo in a slam-bang match three months ago, it has been felt that Floyd would get first crack at Cassius . . . with the buildup featuring his attempt to win the title for a third time.

However, a couple of developments in recent days seem to point towards Chuvalo as the next opponent . . . with Floyd getting his chance next February. The big selling point with Chuvalo is the "white hope" angle. Actually, he probably would make a better fight of it than Patterson.

In the meantime, the business of building up future contenders has been stepped up sharply.

The best prospect at this time appears to be Jose Torres, the new light heavyweight king.

They've already mapped out a campaign designed to get him a crack at the title next May or October—after Patterson and Chuvalo.

Later this month, Torres will fight heavyweight Tom McNeeley in Puerto Rico and the schedule tentatively calls for him to then fight Eddie Machen in August or September.

Everybody knocks out McNeeley and Torres should be no exception. He hits harder than Patterson; in fact, you may recall that Jose had Floyd on the floor in a training session a few years ago.

As for Machen, he's all washed up although he still has name value.

After Torres polishes off these two, the cry for a bout with Clay will start in earnest.

There is no money in the light heavyweight division to speak of . . . but the title is a natural stepping stone into the heavyweight picture.

MAX STILES REPORTS that Elmer (Gloomy Gus) Henderson, one of the all-time great exponents of football's spread formation, recently told him that he has turned over all the details of his "spread" to George Halas of the Chicago Bears.

Henderson revealed that Halas has tried for many years to get the details of his spread, but he has always held back.

However, when Halas visited him earlier this summer, the former Trojan coach finally gave him his play book.

Thus, pro football could take on a new look this season if Halas decides to use it.

Spreads have been used many times before in pro football, but have soon been discarded.

But there's no denying that it could cause a lot of excitement.

THEY'RE STILL LAUGHING in San Francisco over the Giant broadcaster who recently blurted out, "When you're in a ball game like this one, one team has to win it and one team has to lose it."

There are other kinds?

Long Beach's Ollie Brown, who is destined to hid for an outfield job with the Giants in a couple of years, recently hit his 19th home run of the season for Tacoma.

One ballplayer coming to the defense of the Phils' Richie Allen in the latter's mixup with Frank Thomas recently says that "Thomas is known to everyone as an obnoxious needler. When he gets on a guy he never knows when to stop."

Only one of the 19 Americans playing in the Japanese baseball leagues was picked for Japan's series of All-Star Games—Daryl Spencer, former Dodger third baseman.

'Longest' Javelin Throw Gives Covelli L.B. Mark

Frank Covelli got off the longest javelin throw by an American in five years Saturday in an all-comers meet for weightmen Saturday at Long Beach State College field.

Covelli set a field record with a heave of 272 feet, 7 inches, beating Larry Stuart's mark set a week ago by 6½ inches. Stuart finished second Saturday with a 255-5 throw.

The day's only other event, the discus, was won by Parry O'Brien at 190-2½.

Stuart leaves Wednesday for the American track team's meet with Russia in Moscow. Another weightmen's all-comers meet will be held at Long Beach State next Saturday.

Javelin—Frank Covelli, Larry Stuart, Ed Red, 272-7.
Discus — Parry O'Brien, Bill Neville, Gerald Carr, 190-2½.

Salta Bumps Border Nine

SAN DIEGO (Special)—Andy Messersmith picked up his first win of the season for Salta Pontiac Saturday as Salta scored four runs in the ninth inning to whip Ocean Beach, 10-8, in a CCBL game.

Messersmith, relieving starter Doc Johnson, pitched 7⅓ innings and struck out six batters. However, his hitting provided a big assist to the victory. He went two-for-two at the plate, driving in two runs and scoring one himself. His first RBI came in the third inning, but the big one came in the ninth on a sacrifice fly.

Drag Win for Ongais; McEwen 211

Top national points driver Danny Ongais earned top fuel eliminator title with a sizzling 7.97 elapsed time and a speed of 201.78 Saturday night at Lions Drag Strip.

He also had low ET at 7.76 as 6,358 fans watched Arizona invaders bested with only two of them reaching the final eliminations.

Top gas went to Paul Carbonne with a speed of 168.60 mph and 10.55 ET, defeating Goober Tuller in a close race while Frank Pedregon piloted the Coburn Glaze Special to a competition eliminator victory with a speed of 187.50 and an 8.17 ET.

At Pomona Drag Strip Saturday night Tom McEwen, carrying the Long Beach banner, drove the Yeakel Plymouth Special to a spectacular 211 mph.

Hubert's Blasts Rossmoor, 27-5

Hubert's Cafeteria of Lakewood blasted out 21 hits to overrun Rossmoor, 27-5, Saturday night in a five-inning Connie Mack contest on the loser's diamond.

Pitcher Paul DeMetropolis led the onslaught with a three-run homer in the first inning which was quickly followed up by a two-run blast by catcher Jay Bartley.

CUMMINGS HOME TOO LATE

Palos Verdes' Jack Cummings is tagged out at plate by Peterson Post catcher Ron Henkel in fifth inning during 19th District playoff game at Blair Field Saturday. Peterson scored 9-7 victory and meets Bellflower today.

TOURNEY CONTINUES TODAY

Peterson Rallies for 9-7 Win

By BRUCE YOUNG

The never-say-die Peterson Post capped a long, hard uphill battle Saturday with a two-run rally in the 10th inning to defeat Palos Verdes 9-7 in the first round of the 19th District American Legion double-elimination playoffs at Blair Field.

Action continues today at Blair as Bellflower tries to derail the Peterson victory express at noon, while Palos Verdes and North Torrance will play at 3 o'clock to see which remains in the playoff.

Palos Verdes tied the score in the third, and in the fifth Peterson went ahead 4-3 on a passed ball. But Coach John Martin's squad was not dead as it exploded for four runs in the bottom of the inning to take a commanding 7-4 lead.

Peterson nibbled at the lead, scoring once in the seventh, then with the aid of five walks, added two runs to tie the score 7-all in the eighth.

But the game would have been finished in regulation time with Palos Verdes the winner if it had not been for a great diving stop by second baseman Ken Whitmer. With runners on first and second, a ball was hit sharply to his right and had it gone through to the outfield the game would have been over, but Whitmer dived and threw the runner out, ending the inning.

Dale Duncan slashed a single to left field in the 10th to chase home the tie-breaking run and Randy Moffitt set Palos Verdes down in order in the bottom of the frame.

In the first game at noon, Bellflower breezed to an 8-0 victory over North Torrance behind the strong four-hit pitching of Craig Williams.

Patton Rallies to Win

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Billy Joe Patton, four shots behind at the start, overtook Downing Gray with a three-under-par 69 Saturday to win the Southern amateur golf championship.

LOWELL SIGNS WITH REDS

Lakewood resident Bruce Lowell signed a professional contract Saturday with the Cincinnati Reds.

Lowell, former catcher for Lakewood High, Long Beach City and State Colleges, is due to report to Knoxville, Tenn., Monday. Knoxville is in the Southern League, a AA classification.

Veteran scout Al Zarilla signed Lowell, of 4314 Hazelbrook Ave., for an undisclosed bonus.

Mills, Grelle Win at Berlin Festival

BERLIN (UPI)—Marine Lt. Billy Mills, the Olympics 10,000-meter champion, won the 5,000-meter run and Jim Grelle beat two Tokyo gold medalists in the 1,500 meters Saturday during the International Sport Festival at Berlin Stadium.

Mills, a native of Coffeyville, Kan., ran the distance in 13:41.4 to defeat West Germany's Harold Norpoth, who clocked 13:42.8.

Grelle, of Portland, Ore., a disappointment in the 1,500 meters at Tokyo, beat the Olympic champion, Peter Snell of New Zealand, and the 5,000-meter gold medalist, Bob Schul of West Milton, Ohio.

Grelle was timed in 3:44.0 to edge Germany's Bodo Tuemmler by seven-tenths of a second. Snell was third in 3:45.1 and Schul fourth in 3:45.4.

* * * *

STEADY drizzle during the day kept performances down as Ron Whitney of Los Angeles won the 400-meter hurdles in 51.3, two-tenths of a second faster than Germany's Ferdinand Haas.

In the 400-meter dash, Germany's Manfred Kinder clocked 46.9 to defeat runner-up Theron Lewis of New Orleans, who raced the distance in 47.5.

In the 800 meters, Canada's Bill Crothers finished first in 1:49.3 while Germany's Joerg Balke was second in 1:49.9. Both had to keep clear of the inside track because of growing puddles.

Littler, the last man to hole out, had rounds of 70, 68, 69 and 66 and attributed his showing to his improved putting.

"I haven't had a week of putting like this in four years," he said.

He took only 28 putts in his final round and had eight one-putt greens. He had only one three-putt green in the tourney.

"I've played better from tee to green in recent weeks. I changed my stroke a couple of weeks ago in St. Paul. I shortened the backswing and used more follow through."

Burleson...a Swede Indeed!

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dyrol Burleson, one of the United States' top milers, is spending a busy six months in Sweden—teaching and being taught, running and working at his profession.

The 25-year-old University of Oregon alumnus came here in February with his wife and 2-year-old daughter, primarily to impart his training and competing styles to young Swedish runners.

But he also is studying Swedish training methods, competing to a highly satisfactory degree for a local club, and studying and working in the insurance business.

Burleson was brought over by Swedish track leaders to act as an instructional model for talented youngsters. He showed them from the start that he underwent a tough grind.

The Oregonian started training the day he arrived. He runs an hour in the morning, two in the evening. Every Sunday he jogs 19 miles, interspersing the long run with 40 fast 100-meter dashes.

"But I don't go above nine-tenths of top speed," he says. "And I have hurt myself by overtraining."

There was spirited competition for Burleson's services by various track clubs before he was landed by Frederikshof, whose president happens to work at the U.S. embassy.

He started his Swedish sojourn with a trip to the famed training center at Valadalen. There he trained in the snow and got some conditioning tips from a renowned coach, Goeast Olander.

Burleson has told his students that icy roads and snow are as satisfactory as any other training terrain emphasizing that the important factor is the diligence and effort they put into their training.

The American and his family have settled comfortably into suburban Stockholm life. He has overcome the language barrier with a crash course in Swedish.

NITEHAWK STARTER

Seven time all-America Cleo Goyette of Long Beach Nitehawks will start in Western Softball Congress All-Star Game against champion Gardena at Park Avenue Friday.

The stars are picked by the managers of all other teams. They will be co-managed by Paul Gyling of Buena Park and Snuffy Machado of the Lakewood Chiefs.

The lineup which will greet the tite-holding Merchants reads like a who's who in softball. Either Jack Newman of Oxnard or Ritchie Stephens of Pomona will start on the mound with Bob Wills of Downey, George Pearson of Lakewood and Tiger Kamphius of Pomona ready in the wings.

Catching will be Dick Zuccato, who does everything well for the Pomona Bombers, and ageless Ralph Sangster of Lakewood.

Belting Bob Bennett of Pomona will start at first with Nitehawk Dale Morse to see action in relief; all-time all-America Cleo Goyette of the Hawks will be at second.

Manny Ortega, sparkplug of Lakewood, will be the shortstop, and speed-merchant Frank Trejo, who also hits with power for Pomona, will round out the infield at third base.

The starting outfield will be made up of Chaffie Wheeler of Downey, right-handed power hitter of Downey; fleet-footed Bob Hunter of Pomona and all-round man Bob Balantine of Buena Park.

Nitehawk home run king Bob Bomar also will see action in the outfield.

Other local stars to make the squad are Nick Hopkins of the Hawks and Dale Leach of the Chiefs.

TEXAS PRESSING

Oklahoma Leads College Football

By Associated Press

Oklahoma is the 25-year collegiate football champion despite some fancy Sooner-busting by the No. 1 challenger, those ornery Texas Longhorns.

A mere .004 percentage points separate Notre Dame, Penn State, Mississippi and Ohio State battling for position behind the top pair in a quarter century survey of major teams.

Oklahoma has won 192 games, lost 57 and tied eight. That means the Sooners capture better than three out of every four decisions.

* * * *

TEXAS, about the hottest team in the nation recently, has fashioned a 189-6-7 mark including a blazing 44-3-2 stretch since mid-1960. The Longhorns missed a perfect 1964 campaign by a single point and then shocked national champion Alabama, 21-17, in the Orange Bowl.

Texas will carry a string of seven straight victories over Oklahoma into their annual battle for the Bronze Cowboy Hat trophy in Dallas this fall.

Starting with 1940, the Steers won eight in a row took nine of the next 10, then it's been Texas ever since.

But against all other opposition, Oklahoma has won 10 more games and lost 15 fewer than its arch rival.

By virtue of a comeback from the 2-7 doldrums of 1963 to a 9-1 record in 1964, Notre Dame edges Penn Setate, .719 to .718 for third.

Notably, 40% of Oklahoma's triumphs in the era are centered in two massive winning streaks of 31 and 47 games. The latter spanning 1953-57 is the longest of all time against college opposition and was ended by Notre Dame, 7-0.

By contrast, Texas has counted on steadiness over the years, its longest winning skein being 15 games, halted by Arkansas, 14-13 last fall.

The survey concerns major teams of long standing and does not include schools which have reached major status within the past few years.

The leading teams of the past quarter century (percentages figured without ties):

NITEHAWK STARTER

Seven time all-America Cleo Goyette of Long Beach Nitehawks will start in Western Softball Congress All-Star Game against champion Gardena at Park Avenue Friday.

The stars are picked by the managers of all other teams. They will be co-managed by Paul Gyling of Buena Park and Snuffy Machado of the Lakewood Chiefs.

The lineup which will greet the tite-holding Merchants reads like a who's who in softball. Either Jack Newman of Oxnard or Ritchie Stephens of Pomona will start on the mound with Bob Wills of Downey, George Pearson of Lakewood and Tiger Kamphius of Pomona ready in the wings.

Catching will be Dick Zuccato, who does everything well for the Pomona Bombers, and ageless Ralph Sangster of Lakewood.

Belting Bob Bennett of Pomona will start at first with Nitehawk Dale Morse to see action in relief; all-time all-America Cleo Goyette of the Hawks will be at second.

Manny Ortega, sparkplug of Lakewood, will be the shortstop, and speed-merchant Frank Trejo, who also hits with power for Pomona, will round out the infield at third base.

The starting outfield will be made up of Chaffie Wheeler of Downey, right-handed power hitter of Downey; fleet-footed Bob Hunter of Pomona and all-round man Bob Balantine of Buena Park.

Nitehawk home run king Bob Bomar also will see action in the outfield.

Other local stars to make the squad are Nick Hopkins of the Hawks and Dale Leach of the Chiefs.

TEXAS PRESSING

Oklahoma Leads College Football

By Associated Press

Oklahoma is the 25-year collegiate football champion despite some fancy Sooner-busting by the No. 1 challenger, those ornery Texas Longhorns.

A mere .004 percentage points separate Notre Dame, Penn State, Mississippi and Ohio State battling for position behind the top pair in a quarter century survey of major teams.

Oklahoma has won 192 games, lost 57 and tied eight. That means the Sooners capture better than three out of every four decisions.

* * * *

TEXAS, about the hottest team in the nation recently, has fashioned a 189-6-7 mark including a blazing 44-3-2 stretch since mid-1960. The Longhorns missed a perfect 1964 campaign by a single point and then shocked national champion Alabama, 21-17, in the Orange Bowl.

Texas will carry a string of seven straight victories over Oklahoma into their annual battle for the Bronze Cowboy Hat trophy in Dallas this fall.

Starting with 1940, the Steers won eight in a row took nine of the next 10, then it's been Texas ever since.

But against all other opposition, Oklahoma has won 10 more games and lost 15 fewer than its arch rival.

By virtue of a comeback from the 2-7 doldrums of 1963 to a 9-1 record in 1964, Notre Dame edges Penn Setate, .719 to .718 for third.

Notably, 40% of Oklahoma's triumphs in the era are centered in two massive winning streaks of 31 and 47 games. The latter spanning 1953-57 is the longest of all time against college opposition and was ended by Notre Dame, 7-0.

By contrast, Texas has counted on steadiness over the years, its longest winning skein being 15 games, halted by Arkansas, 14-13 last fall.

The survey concerns major teams of long standing and does not include schools which have reached major status within the past few years.

The leading teams of the past quarter century (percentages figured without ties):

| | W | L | T | Pct. | Pts. | Pa. |

FIGHT FIERCELY was well placed while on outside going to far turn, advanced steadily to take command entering stretch, drew out under strong handling in closing stages. HEY SAM forced pace from beginning, ran up behind winner on stretch turn and had to steady for lack of racing room, came again in stretch when in the clear to finish strongly. FEEDMAN was sent into a good lead in first furlong, weakened when challenged rounding turn, held on made up ground fast between horses in stretch.

SCHOOL LIGHT was well placed while racing within striking distance of leaders going down backstretch, came to outside rounding stretch turn, was drawing out slowly after taking command midway of stretch. NEVADA BATTLER was in command soon after start, was under strong pressure from Arlo going to far turn and to stretch, finished strongly but was unable to resist winner's challenge. ROYAL EIFFEL closed fast on outside in last quarter, was slightly wide entering stretch.

NO SCRATCHES.

Challenge Cup to Speedy Scot

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — Speedy Scot, badly beaten favorite in the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, got even with his foreign rivals Saturday night as he easily won the 1½-mile $25,000 Challenge Cup at Roosevelt Raceway.

Speedy Scot, winning his 44th race in 56 starts, paid $3.20, $2.60 and $2.80.

Staunchness Joins Elite 3-Year-Olds

Hail to All's Big Stretch Drive Fails in Dwyer Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—Staunchness, claimed less than two months ago for $25,000, moved up among the elite of the 3-year-old division Saturday with victory in the 1¼ miles of the $82,150 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct.

Under the lash of Bobby Ussery's whip, the son of Bold Ruler-Tiny Request from Joseph Brunetti's Red Oak Stable hit the finish line four lengths in front of another outsider — Dorothy Henderson's Duc de Great.

Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All, winner of the Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes, staged his usual strong stretch drive, but there was too much ground to make up and he had to be content with third, a head back of Duc de Great.

Then came Sette Bello, followed in order by Upset Victory, First Family and Turn to Reason.

In posting his fourth straight victory, his third since coming under the handling of trainer P.P. Mosconi, Staunchness paid $7.40, $4.60 and $2.60 to his backers in the crowd of 43,636. Duc de Great returned $16.80 and $4.60 and Hail to All $2.20.

* * * *

THE FIELD hadn't travelled more than one-quarter mile when it became evident that Hail to All would have to be a super horse to get home a winner.

Turn to Reason, making his first start since winning one division of the Illinois Derby May 8, showed the way through the first quarter-mile with a 23⅘ clocking. He then gave way to Duc de Great, which carried the field through a 47⅕ half-mile, a 1:11 six furlongs and a 1:35⅘ mile.

Meantime, Johnny Sellers was far far back with Hail to All. He started his run coming out of the back stretch as Ussery brought Staunchness from third place into the runner-up spot, less than two lengths off the pace-setting Duc de Great.

As the field straightened out for home, the Red Oak colt barged to the front, opened up a 1½-length margin with one-eighth of a mile remaining and was ridden out to the finish.

Hail to All made a great stretch bid but, as many times before, his run was too late as Duc de Great held on for second money.

Pond Triumphs at Midsummer Shooting Event

L.B. Aquatics Club Triumphs

The Long Beach Aquatics Club, paced by four triple winners, breezed to an easy 221½-171½ victory over Lakewood in a meet at Mayfair Pool.

Bruce Losler, 13, Kim Presdisick, 7, Martha Swatack, 7 and Debbie Stillson, 10, won three events cached to pace the Long Beach squad.

Injured Racer Returns for Win

READING, Pa. (AP)—Johnny Rutherford of oFrt Worth, Tex., slightly injured earlier in the day during a practice run at the Trenton, N.J., Speedway, won the 30-lap feature USAC spring car race Saturday night at the Reading Fairgrounds.

Red Riegel of Leesport, Pa., finished second, followed by Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex,. and Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M.

Shoe Boots Home Tom Rolfe

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tom Rolfe took command in the stretch under the urging of jockey Willie Shoemaker Saturday to win the $51,500 Citation Handicap.

It was the third stakes win and the sixth victory in nine starts this year for the Powhatan colt which previously won the Preakness and the Chesapeake. Tom Rolfe also was second in the Belmont and third in the Kentucky Derby.

Although he got off last from the starting gate, the field came back to him going into the far turn and he was running second at the head of the stretch. He galloped away from that point to win by three and one-half lengths.

Tom Rolfe was clocked at 1:36⅕ for the one mile distance on a good track, three seconds slower than the Arlington Park track record.

Tom Rolfe was backed down to the odds on 1 to 2 favorite by the crowd of 28,312 and returned $3, $2.20 and $2.20.

Fred W. Hooper's Mr. Clown, the 7 to 2 second choice in the field, finished second and paid $2.60 and $2.20. Gedney Farm's Pass the Word took third and returned $2.40.

Tom Rolfe gave away 11 pounds or more to every challenger, carrying top weight of 126 pounds. Pass the Word toted 115 under jockey Ray Broussard and Mr. Clown 110 with jockey William Mahorney.

It was Tom Rolfe's first start since the Belmont June 12 and his first race under Shoemaker this year. He earned first money of $31,000 to increase his 3-year-old earnings to $234,301 and his lifetime total to $307,605. He has been in the money in every start this year.

"Anyone could have handled him," Shoemaker said of Tom Rolfe. "He probably could have gone three miles. I didn't see any sense in rushing him and got after him just a little on the far turn. Once he flew past, it was a breeze."

Tom Rolfe's trainer, Frank Whiteley, said he had "absolutely no pre-race plans. He was a little further back than he had been rated before, but Bill knows him well and couldn't have done a better job."

THE 'BLACK BULLET' STRIKES AGAIN

Native Diver reaps laurels in winner's circle after turning Hollywood Gold Cup into a mile and one-quarter sprint Saturday for his 22nd California stakes victory. The black charger, with Pfc. Jerry Lambert astride, earned $102,100 for his owners, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro.

by himself.

"As we left the gate I knew we were going a little rapid and I wanted to slow down a little. But I had more hold of him than I've ever had before and it wasn't doing much good.

"Do you know that he even slipped a couple of times around the first turn? That's why I put him wide. When we went wide and I heard the others somewhere breathing on him, I turned him loose and he opened daylight.

"I wasn't a bit worried when we turned for the stretch because I knew I sure had a lot of horse left. In fact, I had to hold him a little when we came down to the wire."

Babington's jockey, Mickey Solomone, while lauding Native Diver, warned the citizenry to watch his horse in the Sunset Handicap on closing day, July 26:

"Just wait until we get that mile and five-eighths. Babington was really picking 'em up and laying 'em down in the stretch. We've got to be the winners in that Sunset."

Sadly, the Sunset wasn't this past Saturday.

Hill Rise, the choice of both Independent, Press-Telegram handicappers, "had no problems," according to Manuel Ycaza, who flew here especially for the race.

"He just wasn't striding freely and never did level off," said the mad Panamanian. "His last two races just haven't been good."

Third-choice Tronado was a disappointment, both to the betting public and to his rider, Joe Baze. The five-year-old Argentine finished next-to-last.

"I was high on this fellow before the race," said Baze. "What surprised me was that my horse quit. I thought we could nail Native Diver, but when the animal quits, what do you do?"

* * * *

COLORADO KING, last year's winner, "didn't have it today," either, according to Johnny Longden. "When I thought he would start running, he started stopping."

Hollywood Gold Cup records for attendance and mutuel handle were broken Saturday. The attendance (58,971) smashed the 58,127 figure of 1962.

The handle ($4,724,646) exceeded the former mark ($4,644,620) of last year.

At any rate, the 26th Hollywood Gold Cup race will go down in history if only that a company commander and a first sergeant had a part in its triumph.

CHALLENGE BY CHUVALO; CASSIUS MUM

TORONTO (UPI)—Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo Saturday challenged world champion Cassius Clay to a title fight "within the next 120 days."

Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, sent a telegram to Madison Square Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner offering to take only 12½% of all money derived from such a match.

"This guessing game is getting us down," Ungerman complained. "We hope this offer to take only 12½% will draw Clay out."

Crosby's Horse Repeats

Compiled from Wire Reports

Meadow Court, Bing Crosby's Irish Derby winner, charged to a two-length victory Saturday in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at England's Ascot race course.

Meadow Court provided another big payoff for Crosby and the two other co-owners, $87,379 to go with the $155,820 he earned in the Irish Derby.

Repeating, longest shot in the field of six, won the 20th modern running of the $108,300 Monmouth Handicap by 2½ lengths.

The race was run over a sloppy track, brought about by hard mid-afternoon showers, and the 1¼-mile time was 2:04 1-5.

Repeating paid $20.40, $7.80, $4.20, Tenacle $5.00, $3.60 and Ampose $4.40.

BEAUTIFUL Day, second choice in the field of 13 fillies and mares, lasted to win the $37,985 New Castle Stakes at Delaware Park as the heavily-backed and top-weighted Miss Cavandish wound up a wide-running seventh.

Beautiful Day, carrying 110 pounds including last year's champion Delaware Park rider, Ron Turcotte, completed the 1 1-16-mile trip in 1:43, fastest time made in the stakes.

She returned $13.20, $6.40 and $5.20. Treachery paid $10 and $6.40, and Petite Rouge, $6.

Challenge Cup to Speedy Scot

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Speedy Scot, badly beaten favorite in the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, got even with his foreign rivals Saturday night as he easily won the 1½-mile $25,000 Challenge Cup at Roosevelt Raceway.

Speedy Scot, winning his 44th race in 56 starts, paid $3.20, $2.60 and $2.80.

Staunchness Joins Elite 3-Year-Olds

Hail to All's Big Stretch Drive Fails in Dwyer Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—Staunchness, claimed less than two months ago for $25,000, moved up among the elite of the 3-year-old division Saturday with victory in the 1¼ miles of the $82,150 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct.

Under the lash of Bobby Ussery's whip, the son of Bold Ruler-Tiny Request from Joseph Brunetti's Red Oak Stable hit the finish line four lengths in front of another outsider — Dorothy Henderson's Duc de Great.

Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All, winner of the Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes, staged his usual strong stretch drive, but there was too much ground to make up and he had to be content with third, a head back of Duc de Great.

Then came Sette Bello, followed in order by Upset Victory, First Family and Turn to Reason.

In posting his fourth straight victory, his third since coming under the handling of trainer P.P. Mosconi, Staunchness paid $7.40, $4.60 and $2.60 to his backers in the crowd of 43,636. Duc de Great returned $16.80 and $4.60 and Hail to All $2.20.

* * * *

THE FIELD hadn't travelled more than one-quarter mile when it became evident that Hail to All would have to be a super horse to get home a winner.

Turn to Reason, making his first start since winning one division of the Illinois Derby May 8, showed the way through the first quarter-mile with a 23⅘ clocking. He then gave way to Duc de Great, which carried the field through a 47⅕ half-mile, a 1:11 six furlongs and a 1:35⅘ mile.

Meantime, Johnny Sellers was far far back with Hail to All. He started his run coming out of the back stretch as Ussery brought Staunchness from third place into the runner-up spot, less than two lengths off the pace-setting Duc de Great.

As the field straightened out for home, the Red Oak colt barged to the front, opened up a 1½-length margin with one-eighth of a mile remaining and was ridden out to the finish.

Hail to All made a great stretch bid but, as many times before, his run was too late as Duc de Great held on for second money.

Bruce Losler, 13, Kim Presdisick, 7, Martha Swatack, 7 and Debbie Stillson, 10, won three events eached to pace the Long Beach squad.

Injured Racer Returns for Win

READING, Pa. (AP)—Johnny Rutherford of oFrt Worth, Tex., slightly injured earlier in the day during a practice run at the Trenton, N.J., Speedway, won the 30-lap feature USAC spring car race Saturday night at the Reading Fairgrounds.

Red Riegel of Leesport, Pa., finished second, followed by Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., and Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M.

Shoe Boots Home Tom Rolfe

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tom Rolfe took command in the stretch under the urging of jockey Willie Shoemaker Saturday to win the $51,500 Citation Handicap.

It was the third stakes win and the sixth victory in nine starts this year for the Powhatan colt which previously won the Preakness and the Chesapeake. Tom Rolfe also was second in the Belmont and third in the Kentucky Derby.

Although he got off last from the starting gate, the field came back to him going into the far turn and he was running second at the head of the stretch. He galloped away from that point to win by three and one-half lengths.

Tom Rolfe was clocked at 1:36⅕ for the one mile distance on a good track, three seconds slower than the Arlington Park track record.

Tom Rolfe was backed down to the odds on 1 to 2 favorite by the crowd of 28,312 and returned $3, $2.20 and $2.20.

Fred W. Hooper's Mr. Clown, the 7 to 2 second choice in the field, finished second and paid $2.60 and $2.20. Gedney Farm's Pass the Word took third and returned $2.40.

Tom Rolfe gave away 11 pounds or more to every challenger, carrying top weight of 126 pounds. Pass the Word toted 115 under jockey Ray Broussard and Mr. Clown 110 with jockey William Mahorney.

It was Tom Rolfe's first start since the Belmont June 12 and his first race under Shoemaker this year. He earned first money of $31,000 to increase his 3-year-old earnings to $234,301 and his lifetime total to $307,605. He has been in the money in every start this year.

"Anyone could have handled him," Shoemaker said of Tom Rolfe. "He probably could have gone three miles. I didn't see any sense in rushing him and got after him just a little on the far turn. Once he flew past, it was a breeze."

Tom Rolfe's trainer, Frank Whiteley, said he had "absolutely no pre-race plans. He was a little further back than he had been rated before, but Bill knows him well and couldn't have done a better job."

THE 'BLACK BULLET' STRIKES AGAIN
Native Diver reaps laurels in winner's circle after turning Hollywood Gold Cup into a mile and one-quarter sprint Saturday for his 22nd California stakes victory. The black charger, with Pfc. Jerry Lambert astride, earned $102,100 for his owners, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro.

by himself.

"As we left the gate I knew we were going a little rapid and I wanted to slow down a little. But I had more hold of him than I've ever had before and it wasn't doing much good.

"Do you know that he even slipped a couple of times around the first turn? That's why I put him wide. When we went wide and I heard the others somewhere breathing on him, I turned him loose and he opened daylight.

"I wasn't a bit worried when we turned for the stretch because I knew I sure had a lot of horse left. In fact, I had to hold him a little when we came down to the wire."

Babington's jockey, Mickey Solomone, while lauding Native Diver, warned the citizenry to watch his horse in the Sunset Handicap on closing day, July 26:

"Just wait until we get that mile and five-eighths. Babington was really picking 'em up and laying 'em down in the stretch. We've got to be the winners in that Sunset."

Sadly, the Sunset wasn't this past Saturday.

Hill Rise, the choice of both Independent, Press-Telegram handicappers, "had no problems," according to Manuel Ycaza, who flew here especially for the race.

"He just wasn't striding freely and never did level off," said the mad Panamanian. "His last two races just haven't been good."

Third-choice Tronado was a disappointment, both to the betting public and to his rider, Joe Baze. The five-year-old Argentine finished next-to-last.

"I was high on this fellow before the race," said Baze. "What surprised me was that my horse quit. I thought we could nail Native Diver, but when the animal quits, what do you do?"

* * * *

COLORADO KING, last year's winner, "didn't have it today," either, according to Johnny Longden. "When I thought he would start running, he started stopping."

Hollywood Gold Cup records for attendance and mutuel handle were broken Saturday. The attendance (58,971) smashed the 58,127 figure of 1962.

The handle ($4,724,646) exceeded the former mark ($4,644,620) of last year.

At any rate, the 26th Hollywood Gold Cup race will go down in history if only that a company commander and a first sergeant had a part in its triumph.

Crosby's Horse Repeats

Compiled from Wire Reports

Meadow Court, Bing Crosby's Irish Derby winner, charged to a two-length victory Saturday in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at England's Ascot race course.

Meadow Court provided another big payoff for Crosby and the two other co-owners, $87,379 to go with the $155,820 he earned in the Irish Derby.

Repeating, longest shot in the field of six, won the 20th modern running of the $108,300 Monmouth Handicap by 2½ lengths.

The race was run over a sloppy track, brought about by hard mid-afternoon showers, and the 1¼-mile time was 2:04 1-5.

Repeating paid $20.40, $7.80, $4.20, Tenacle $5.00, $3.60 and Ampose $4.40.

BEAUTIFUL Day, second choice in the field of 13 fillies and mares, lasted to win the $37,985 New Castle Stakes at Delaware Park as the heavily-backed and top-weighted Miss Cavandish wound up a wide-running seventh.

Beautiful Day, carrying 110 pounds including last year's champion Delaware Park rider, Ron Turcotte, completed the 1 1-16-mile trip in 1:43, fastest time made in the stakes.

She returned $13.20, $6.40 and $5.20. Treachery paid $10 and $6.40, and Petite Rouge, $6.

CHALLENGE BY CHUVALO; CASSIUS MUM

TORONTO (UPI)—Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo Saturday challenged world champion Cassius Clay to a title fight "within the next 120 days."

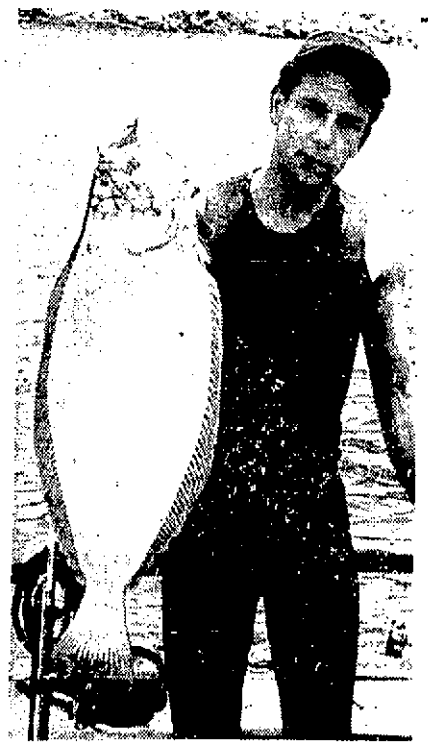

Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, sent a telegram to Madison Square Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner offering to take only 12½% of all money derived from such a match.

"This guessing game is getting us down," Ungerman complained. "We hope this offer to take only 12½% will draw Clay out."

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

It's a Big Weekend for Albacore

Judging by the fish counts of the last three days, this weekend should see several thousand albacore harvested. There is a heavy concentration of longfins slightly north of the 213-Fathom Bank and they are moving fast. There is hope that the schools may breeze inside the channel islands.

It's a picnic for the San Diego boats because the fish are from 60 to 70 miles south of Point Loma. However, it's a hectic run for Long Beach boats which have to spend from eight to nine hours in running time each way. Even so, skipper Cookie Cook took the America and 31 passengers and ran more than nine hours from the San Pedro Light and picked up just short of 100 fish Thursday.

San Diego boats reported 1,332 fish the same day. Norm's Landing, Skippers' 22nd Street Landing and Davey's Locker also got into the fish with long runs. The fish are running from 15 to 30 pounds.

Bill Craig, Department of Fish and Game biologist who specializes in albacore study and research at his Terminal Island office, says he feels it will be one of the best albacore years in history. Water temperature between Catalina and San Clemente Islands is 61 or 62 degrees and clear, ideal for longfins.

Craig says that such conditions almost guarantee a run of albacore inside the channel islands.

EVER EVEN DREAM THAT 300 marlin and sailfish would be on one line? Well, a story in the Sport Fishing Institute Bulletin says it actually happened off Baja California. A Japanese long-lines fishing boat had set out a 10-mile-long line with 2,000 hooks when it encountered a fleet of Mexican charter boats.

The charter boatmen "ran" the line which the Japanese had set and found 300 marlin and sailfish. Does that give you marlin fishermen hereabouts a bit of a clue as to the scarcity of the fish? And that line was only one of five which the Japanese were putting out.

It was postulated, assuming that same rate of catch daily, that 1,500 billfish might have been harvested daily for a known fishing period of 14 days—an estimated 21,000 in two weeks by just one vessel. Oh, yes, there were other Japanese boats in the area.

This report makes it clear that there is a heavy drain on billfish, blue, black, striped, and sailfish, in addition to the high-grade tuna. The fact that the Japanese process marlin and sailfish, particularly black marlin, into sausages has been known for several years. Closely crowded Japan has to live off of fish and it requires a tremendous amount from the long-liners to feed its citizens.

A STORY EARLIER THIS YEAR in the New Zealand Herald said that the long-line vessels had practically eliminated deep-sea fishing off Mayor Island. The paper said also that no big fish had been caught there in 1964 as compared to a total of 900 in 1949. The Japanese started fishing in those waters in 1950.

The long-liners still are taking tremendous quantities of black and striped marlin and broadbill swordfish in New Zealand waters. It appears that black marlin is the favorite for making sausages.

Dr. James E. Morrow, of the University of Alaska, summarizes the status of marlins, sailfish and spearfish of the Indian Ocean in a paper in Part One of the "Symposium on Scombroid Fishes," by saying that the huge black marlin (up to 1,560 pounds and even more) is one of the finest food fishes, being delicious raw or cooked.

Dr. Morrow reported that more than 1,000,000 pounds of black marlin per year are processed by the Japanese into sausages. He also stated that the Chinese and Japanese commercial landings of striped marlin run into millions of pounds annually.

The Russians also are in the act, although they haven't sent long-liners all the way across the Pacific to Baja California. At least, no Russian fishing vessels have been reported from that area.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—In addition to the large number of sportfishing boats on the albacore banks this weekend, there are uncounted smaller craft of the various Southern California clubs in the Inter-Club Derby. It's rough going for the longfins this weekend.

One of the finest waterfowl production areas in the Upper Klamath Basin has been created by the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the Bureau of Reclamation through the flooding of White Lake, says Paul T. Quick, regional director at Portland.

The lake lies on the California border. Its 1,189 irregular acres are dotted with hundreds of small hummocks which became islands when the lake is flooded. The islands are extremely attractive to waterfowl as nesting sites. The lake should provide exceptionally good hunting in the 1965-66 season.

Wallace McGregor, DFG biologist who specializes in deer herds, thinks hunters may have a better season than in 1964 because of improved range conditions, more precipitation and better growing conditions.

The hunters' worst problem, as always, will be finding a place to hunt, he says. Much of the coastal area is private property and the landowners are beginning to regard deer as an asset. In other words, they are getting fees to allow hunters on their lands.

Drag Boats in Finals at Marine Today

$1,000 at Stake; Circle Races Also Scheduled

The SK racing runabouts were the big noise in Marine Stadium Saturday as more than 150 of the Southland's fastest speedboats ran through their qualifying paces for today's Long Beach Boat and Ski Club quarter-mile summer drag boat eliminations.

Star of the show in the popular SK field is Rudy Ramos' fast new SK-100 that figures as the boat to beat in the elimination heats today which begin in Marine Stadium at noon.

On hand to give Ramos a run for the money will be reigning 1964 SK national champion Tony Maricich of San Pedro in his "Suddenly", five-mile SK competition record-holder Don Towle of Los Angeles in SK-45, Tony Sigalos of Anaheim in "Coffee Break" and LeRoy Penhall of Anaheim in "Sizzler."

* * * *

FILLING the gap between the drag classes, the SK's will run circle race eliminations at speeds in excess of 90 mph. Also featured on today's speedboat program will be circle races for the eight fastest boats from each drag class up to the 100 mph-plus divisions.

Drag classes will be run from the 45-50 mph division, increasing in five mile increments through the fastest time of the day.

The racers will be running for APBA points, trophies and a total $1,000 purse to be split up between class winners and winners in the various competition divisions.

Marine Stadium gates open at 8 a.m. Racing begins at noon.

Foyt, Ward Try Again at Trenton

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI) — Twenty-four of the nation's top drivers will compete Sunday for an expected $35,000 in prize money at the fourth annual 150-mile national championship race at the Trenton Speedway.

The race will mark comeback attempts by A. J. Foyt, last year's national champion who has been having his troubles this year, and Rodger Ward, another former Indianapolis 500 champion who is far down in the USAC championship point race this year.

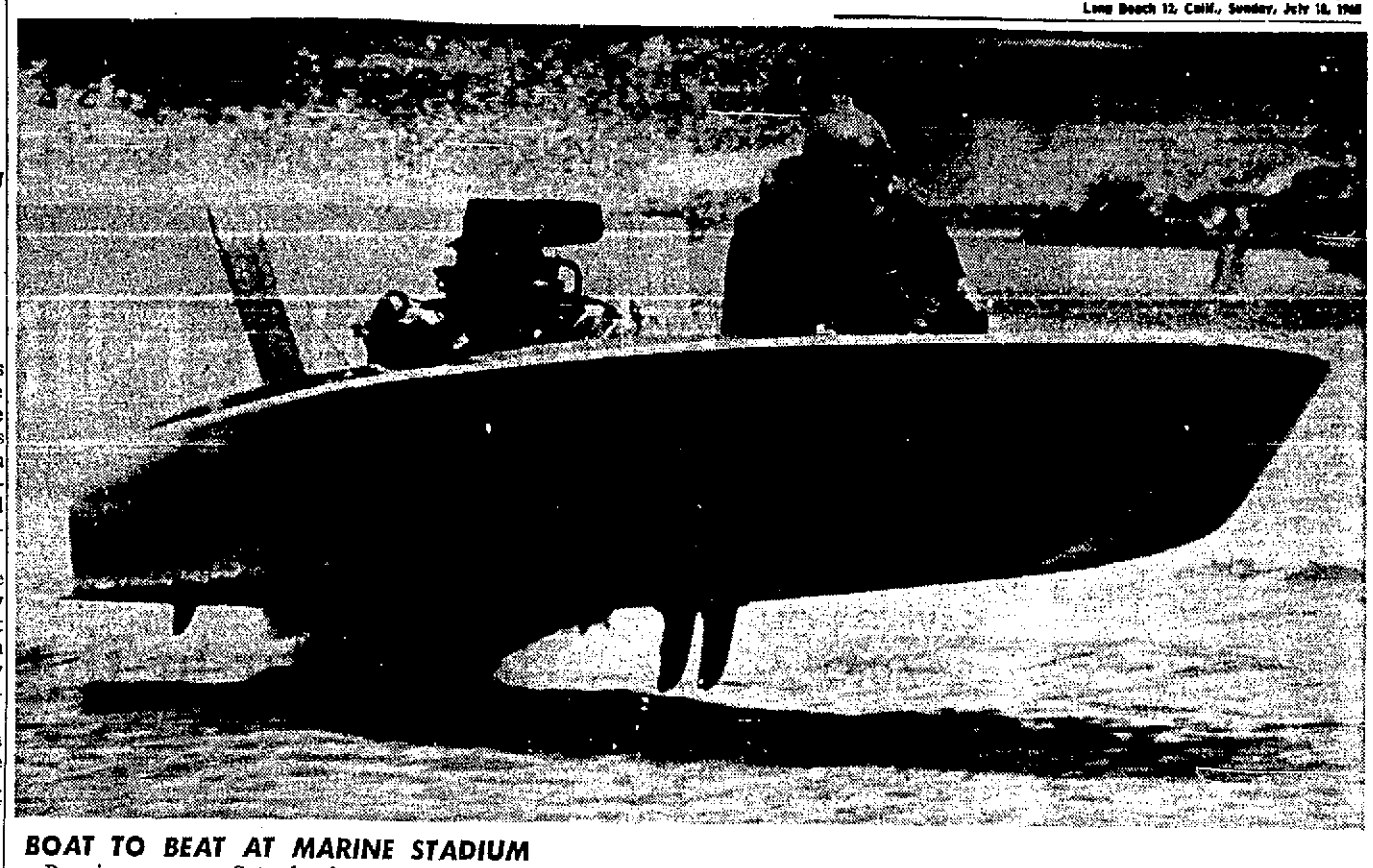

Foyt has yet to win a point this year in the championship division.

* * * *

FOYT recently broke with his chief mechanic, George Bignotti, and will be piloting his Lotus-Ford Sunday under the care of veteran chief mechanic John Pouelson, who had been with car owner J. C. Agajanian and driver Parnelli Jones since 1961.

Bignotti is now associated with Ward, who will be driving a new rear-engine Ford.

A field of 36, including top point leader Jim McElreath and Mario Andretti will compete.

BOAT TO BEAT AT MARINE STADIUM

Running warmups Saturday for today's Long Beach Boat and Ski Club's summer speedboat drag eliminations in Marine Stadium, Rudy Ramos shows off his new Ford-powered SK—100. This extremely fast new hull figures to be the boat to beat in today's 100-mph-plus quarter-mile top time tilt.

Two Richeys Make It to Finals

CHICAGO (AP) — Cliff Richey, the hotshot teenager who was ignored in Davis Cup selections, and top-ranked Dennis Ralston scored semifinal victories Saturday in the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships at the River Forest Club.

Richey, an 18-year-old who would rather take advice from his father than non-playing Davis Cup Capt. George MacCall, eliminated 19-year-old Mike Belkin in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Ralston, the No. 1 seed, rallied from apparent defeat to score a five-set victory over Hamilton Richardson, 6-4, 7-9, 0-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Richey and Ralston will meet for the championship today.

Richey's sister, 22-year-old Nancy Richey, will go after her third straight clay courts championships today when she meets Julie Heldman of New York City.

Miss Richey won her semifinal match from Stephanie Defina, Hollywood, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, and Miss Heldman was hard pressed in eliminating Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 11-9, 7-5.

Young Richey, expected to be the No. 2 member of the Davis Cup team which will play in the American Zone finals at the end of the month, was left off the six-man team selected by MacCall Friday.

MacCall had objected to Richey's insistence that his father, George Richey, a Dallas tennis pro and teacher, watch the young star's training and preparation closely.

Cliff, taking his father's advice in his match against Belkin, played back the entire match and rushed the net only once. The match turned into a baseline duel with Richey waiting for Belkin to make mistakes and then taking advantage of them.

Ralston, who will be the 31-year-old Richardson's partner on the Davis Cup doubles team, was down two sets to one and trailing 5-2 in the fourth set when he put on his spurt in the 88-degree heat.

Clark Graebner and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., won a doubles finals berth with a 7-5, 7-5, triumph over Arthur Ashe Jr. and Tom Edlefson.

TENNIS ROUNDUP

Mexico Moves Toward U.S. Davis Cup Meet

By United Press International

Mexico defeated New Zealand in both singles matches Saturday to take a 2-0 lead in their Davis Cup zone elimination series.

Playing under a heavily overcast sky on the red clay court of the Chapultepec Sports Club, the visitors from Down Under appeared to be thoroughly outclassed by their Mexican rivals.

Rafael Osuna defeated Lew Gerrard in three straight sets 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 after his teammate Antonio Palafox had down Ian Crookenden 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 in the opening match.

The winner meets the United States in Dallas, Tex., starting July 31.

Spain qualified for the European zone Davis Cup finals Saturday by romping to a 3-0 lead over Czechoslovakia while South Africa was 2-1 ahead of France in the other semifinal.

The experienced tandem of Manuel Santana and Jose Luis Arrila scored a 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Jiri Javorsky and Milan Holecek at Prague to give the Spaniards the winning edge.

At the Roland Garros Stadium in Paris the South African duo of Keith Diepraam and Drew MacMillan teamed for a 6-0, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5 victory over the French pair of Pierre Barthes and Francois Jauffret.

AT PRINTON, England, Owen Davidson of Australia upset countryman Tony Roche, 6-4, 8-6, and won the men's singles of the Essex lawn tennis championships. The women's title went to top-seeded Lesley Turner of Australia, 6-4, 6-3 over Briton Robin Lloyd.

Two famed Aussies battled it out in the finals of the Newport, Wales, tournament with Roy Emerson defeating Fred Stolle, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. They finished one-two at Wimbledon the past two years. At Gstaad, Switzerland, Francoise Durr upset Argentine Norma Baylon 6-2, 6-3 and Maria Bueno defeated Helga Schultz, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4. They decide it today.

Britain's No. 1 player, Mike Sangster, beat Aussie Bob Hewitt, 6-4, 6-3, for the championship of the tournament at Hoylake, England. Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith downed fellow Aussie Judy Tegart 6-4, 6-4 for the women's title.

At Forest Hills, N. Y., Jaime Pressly of Palm Beach, Fla., defeated George Taylor of Houston, 6-3, 6-0, 6-0 for the principal title in the Eastern Junior tennis championships.

Hot 'Cycle Field Slated

Motorcycle daredevils who have won a total of 41 national races will lead America's outstanding riders from Baltimore, Md., to Seattle, Wash., over the jumps at Ascot Park Friday and Saturday nights in the fourth annual Grand National 50-lap steeplechase championships of the AMA.

Finals for expert and amateur riders are Saturday night with time trials Friday night, starting at 7 p.m., plus a complete program for West Coast novice riders.

Confirmed entries from Bart Markel, Flint, Mich., and Roger Reiman, Kewanee, Ill., gives the race the who's who of two-wheeling in the United States.

"It's the finest entry list we've ever had for a national motorcycle event in Southern California," said a happy J. C. Agajanian.

Clark Favored in Dutch Prix

ZANDVOORT, Holland (AP) — Jim Clark, the cool Scot who dominates the daredevil world of automobile racing, is favored to extend a double string of triumphs today in the Dutch Grand Prix.

Clark has won the event twice in a row and has captured all four Grand Prix races he has entered this year. This puts the farmer from Berwickshire, who also won the Indianapolis 500, in a commanding lead for the world driving championship.

Clark is expected to push his sleek green Lotus past the 100-mph mark in the 280-mile grind today.

San Diego Postpones Stadium Election

SAN DIEGO — The City Council has decided to postpone an election on the proposed $30 million, multi-purpose, 50,000-seat athletic stadium from the Sept. 21 municipal primary to the No. 2 general election in November.

The delay was requested by the Greater San Diego Sports Assn., a non-profit private group which has been spearheading the campaign for the facility.

One of the Better Star Games

By TOMMY HOLMES

All too often in the past the highlights of an All-Star game are deservedly filed and forgotten with the final putout. That one the other day on the Minnesota prairies stands as a notable exception. They are still discussing its highlights and shadows.

This was an exciting ball game once the American League rallied from the shock of a quick 5-0 deficit and tied the score, only to lose on a bad hop single in the seventh inning. A batted ball that didn't reach the edge of the outfield grass decided what was fundamentally a battle of home runs.

Wednesday, Bobby Bragan, the Milwaukee manager and an All-Star coach of the Nationals, credited the victory to the genius of Gene Mauch, who was solely responsible for the team's batting order.

"The decisive move of the game," concludes Bragan, "was to use Willie Mays as a lead-off man."

Maury Wills of the Dodgers is regarded as the ideal leadoff man because he can get on and bedevil the defense with his matchless talent for base thievery. He batted seventh.

Mays opened the game with a home run and later carried the winning run over the plate. Wills contributed nothing of note, but it wasn't needed.

Juan Marichal was elected most valuable player of the game. He got 46 press box votes. Mays got 45 and his supporters scream that this was the greatest miscarriage of justice since the Dreyful case.

A bad hop was the shrill alibi of the Americans against fickle fortune, but the Nationals had one ready if the result had gone the other way. As they say, Jim Maloney "had" Harmon Killebrew struck out in the fifth.

On a 2-and-2 count, Killebrew's swishing bat barely flicked a fast ball. The foul tip didn't hit in the pocket of Joe Torre's mitt and the Killer got another swipe. He drove the next pitch into the bleachers for the game-tying homer.

And the unkind wits are saying that the way to riches is to bet Al Lopez to place in his competition against the National League. This was the good Senor's fifth shot as an All-Star manager and his teams have lost them all. Twice he has been a World Series manager but his 1954 Indians and 1959 White Sox were beaten.

It's hard to see what Lopez could have done to avert this week's fate. His first two pitchers — Milt Pappas and Jim Grant — were bombed. The three pitchers who followed were effective and Sam McDowell was an unlucky loser.

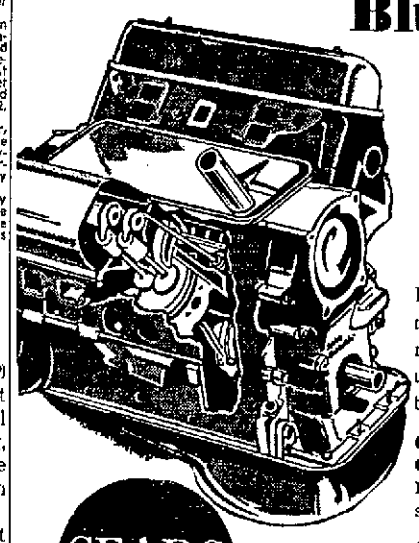

A criticism of the American League starting lineup was that Dick McAuliffe and Felix Mantilla form a far from ideal second base combination because neither is adept at the double play. As soon as the score was tied, Lopez sent Versalles to short and Bobby Richardson to second, but the ball that might have resulted in a ball-out double play bounced high into the air.

And so Sandy Koufax, who was wild in one unimpressive inning, was the winner of the game.

Judging by the fish counts of the last three days, this weekend should see several thousand albacore harvested. There is a heavy concentration of longfins slightly north of the 213-Fathom Bank and they are moving fast. There is hope that the schools may breeze inside the channel islands.

It's a picnic for the San Diego boats because the fish are from 60 to 70 miles south of Point Loma. However, it's a hectic run for Long Beach boats which have to spend from eight to nine hours in running time each way. Even so, skipper Cookie Conk took the America and 31 passengers and ran more than nine hours from the San Pedro Light and picked up just short of 100 fish Thursday.

San Diego boats reported 1,332 fish the same day. Norm's Landing, Skippers' 22nd Street Landing and Davey's Locker also got into the fish with long runs. The fish are running from 15 to 30 pounds.

Bill Craig, Department of Fish and Game biologist who specializes in albacore study and research at his Terminal Island office, says he feels it will be one of the best albacore years in history. Water temperature between Catalina and San Clemente Islands is 61 or 62 degrees and clear, ideal for longfins.

Craig says that such conditions almost guarantee a run of albacore inside the channel islands.

EVER EVEN DREAM THAT 300 marlin and sailfish would be on one line? Well, a story in the Sport Fishing Institute Bulletin says it actually happened off Baja California. A Japanese long-lines fishing boat had set out a 10-mile-long line with 2,000 hooks when it encountered a fleet of Mexican charter boats.

The charter boatmen "ran" the line which the Japanese had set and found 300 marlin and sailfish. Does that give you marlin fishermen hereabouts a bit of a clue as to the scarcity of the fish? And that line was only one of five which the Japanese were putting out.

It was postulated, assuming that same rate of catch daily, that 1,500 billfish might have been harvested daily for a known fishing period of 14 days—an estimated 21,000 in two weeks by just one vessel. Oh, yes, there were other Japanese boats in the area.

This report makes it clear that there is a heavy drain on billfish, blue, black, striped, and sailfish, in addition to the high-grade tuna. The fact that the Japanese process marlin and sailfish, particularly black marlin, into sausages has been known for several years. Closely crowded Japan has to live off of fish and it requires a tremendous amount from the long-liners to feed its citizens.

A STORY EARLIER THIS YEAR in the New Zealand Herald said that the long-line vessels had practically eliminated deep-sea fishing off Mayor Island. The paper said also that no big fish had been caught there in 1964 as compared to a total of 900 in 1949. The Japanese started fishing in those waters in 1950.

The long-liners still are taking tremendous quantities of black and striped marlin and broadbill swordfish in New Zealand waters. It appears that black marlin is the favorite for making sausages.

Dr. James E. Morrow, of the University of Alaska, summarizes the status of marlins, sailfish and spearfish of the Indian Ocean in a paper in Part One of the "Symposium on Scombroid Fishes," by saying that the huge black marlin (up to 1,560 pounds and even more) is one of the finest food fishes, being delicious raw or cooked.

Dr. Morrow reported that more than 1,000,000 pounds of black marlin per year are processed by the Japanese into sausages. He also stated that the Chinese and Japanese commercial landings of striped marlin run into millions of pounds annually.

The Russians also are in the act, although they haven't sent long-liners all the way across the Pacific to Baja California. At least, no Russian fishing vessels have been reported from that area.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—In addition to the large number of sportfishing boats on the albacore banks this weekend, there are uncounted smaller craft of the various Southern California clubs in the Inter-Club Derby. It's rough going for the longfins this weekend.

One of the finest waterfowl production areas in the Upper Klamath Basin has been created by the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the Bureau of Reclamation through the flooding of White Lake, says Paul T. Quick, regional director at Portland.

The lake lies on the California border. Its 1,189 irregular acres are dotted with hundreds of small hummocks which became islands when the lake is flooded. The islands are extremely attractive to waterfowl as nesting sites. The lake should provide exceptionally good hunting in the 1965-66 season.

Wallace McGregor, DFG biologist who specializes in deer herds, thinks hunters may have a better season than in 1964 because of improved range conditions, more precipitation and better growing conditions.

The hunters' worst problem, as always, will be finding a place to hunt, he says. Much of the coastal area is private property and the landowners are beginning to regard deer as an asset. In other words, they are getting fees to allow hunters on their lands.

Drag Boats in Finals at Marine Today

$1,000 at Stake; Circle Races Also Scheduled

The SK racing runabouts were the big noise in Marine Stadium Saturday as more than 150 of the Southland's fastest speedboats ran through their qualifying paces for today's Long Beach Boat and Ski Club quarter-mile summer drag boat eliminations.

Star of the show in the popular SK field is Rudy Ramos' fast new SK-100 that figures as the boat to beat in the elimination heats today which begin in Marine Stadium at noon.

On hand to give Ramos a run for the money will be reigning 1964 SK national champion Tony Maricich of San Pedro in his "Suddenly", five-mile SK competition record-holder Don Towle of Los Angeles in SK-45, Tony Sigalos of Anaheim in "Coffee Break" and LeRoy Penhall of Anaheim in "Sizzler."

* * * *

FILLING the gap between the drag classes, the SK's will run circle race eliminations at speeds in excess of 90 mph. Also featured on today's speedboat program will be circle races for the eight fastest boats from each drag class up to the 100 mph-plus divisions.

Drag classes will be run from the 45-50 mph division, increasing in five mile increments through the fastest time of the day.

The racers will be running for APBA points, trophies and a total $1,000 purse to be split up between class winners and winners in the various competition divisions.

Marine Stadium gates open at 8 a.m. Racing begins at noon.

Foyt, Ward Try Again at Trenton

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI) — Twenty-four of the nation's top drivers will compete Sunday for an expected $35,000 in prize money at the fourth annual 150-mile national championship race at the Trenton Speedway.

The race will mark comeback attempts by A. J. Foyt, last year's national champion who has been having his troubles this year, and Rodger Ward, another former Indianapolis 500 champion who is far down in the USAC championship point race this year.

Foyt has yet to win a point this year in the championship division.

* * * *

FOYT recently broke with his chief mechanic, George Bignotti, and will be piloting his Lotus-Ford Sunday under the care of veteran chief mechanic John Pouelson, who had been with car owner J. C. Agajanian and driver Parnelli Jones since 1961.

Bignotti is now associated with Ward, who will be driving a new rear-engine Ford.

A field of 36, including top point leader Jim McElreath and Mario Andretti will compete.

BOAT TO BEAT AT MARINE STADIUM

Running warmups Saturday for today's Long Beach Boat and Ski Club's summer speedboat drag eliminations in Marine Stadium, Rudy Ramos shows off his new Ford-powered SK—100. This extremely fast new hull figures to be the boat to beat in today's 100-mph-plus quarter-mile top time tilt.

Two Richeys Make It to Finals

CHICAGO (AP) — Cliff Richey, the hotshot teenager who was ignored in Davis Cup selections, and top-ranked Dennis Ralston scored semifinal victories Saturday in the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships at the River Forest Club.

Richey, an 18-year-old who would rather take advice from his father than non-playing Davis Cup Capt. George MacCall, eliminated 19-year-old Mike Belkin in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Ralston, the No. 1 seed, rallied from apparent defeat to score a five-set victory over Hamilton Richardson, 6-4, 7-9, 0-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Richey and Ralston will meet for the championship today.

Richey's sister, 22-year-old Nancy Richey, will go after her third straight clay courts championships today when she meets Julie Heldman of New York City.

Miss Richey won her semifinal match from Stephanie Defina, Hollywood, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, and Miss Heldman was hard pressed in eliminating Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 11-9, 7-5.

Young Richey, expected to be the No. 2 member of the Davis Cup team which will play in the American Zone finals at the end of the month, was left off the six-man team selected by MacCall Friday.

MacCall had objected to Richey's insistence that his father, George Richey, a Dallas tennis pro and teacher, watch the young star's training and preparation closely.

Cliff, taking his father's advice in his match against Belkin, played back the entire match and rushed the net only once. The match turned into a baseline duel with Richey waiting for Belkin to make mistakes and then taking advantage of them.

Ralston, who will be the 31-year-old Richardson's partner on the Davis Cup doubles team, was down two sets to one and trailing 5-2 in the fourth set when he put on his spurt in the 88-degree heat.

Clark Graebner and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., won a doubles finals berth with a 7-5, 7-5, triumph over Arthur Ashe Jr. and Tom Edlefson.

TENNIS ROUNDUP

Mexico Moves Toward U.S. Davis Cup Meet

By United Press International

Mexico defeated New Zealand in both singles matches Saturday to take a 2-0 lead in their Davis Cup zone elimination series.

Playing under a heavily overcast sky on the red clay court of the Chapultepec Sports Club, the visitors from Down Under appeared to be thoroughly outclassed by their Mexican rivals.

Rafael Osuna defeated Lew Gerrard in three straight sets 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 after his teammate Antonio Palafox had down Ian Crookenden 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 in the opening match.

The winner meets the United States in Dallas, Tex., starting July 31.

Spain qualified for the European zone Davis Cup finals Saturday by romping to a 3-0 lead over Czechoslovakia while South Africa was 2-1 ahead of France in the other semifinal.

The experienced tandem of Manuel Santana and Jose Luis Arrila scored a 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Jiri Javorsky and Milan Holecek at Prague to give the Spaniards the winning edge.

At the Roland Garros Stadium in Paris the South African duo of Keith Diepraam and Drew MacMillan teamed for a 6-0, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5 victory over the French pair of Pierre Barlies and Francois Jauffret.

* * * *

AT FRINTON, England, Owen Davidson of Australia upset countryman Tony Roche, 6-4, 8-6, and won the men's singles of the Essex lawn tennis championships. The women's title went to top-seeded Lesley Turner of Australia, 6-4, 6-3 over Briton Robin Lloyd.

Two farmed Aussies battled it out in the finals of the Newport, Wales, tournament with Roy Emerson defeating Fred Stolle, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. They finished one-two at Wimbledon the past two years. At Gstaad, Switzerland, Francoise Durr upset Argentine Norma Baylon 4-6, 6-3 and Maria Bueno defeated Helga Schultz, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4. They decide it today.

Britain's No. 1 player, Mike Sangster, beat Aussie Bob Hewitt, 6-4, 6-3, for the championship of the tournament at Hoylake, England. Wimbledon Champion Margaret Smith downed fellow Aussie Judy Tegart 6-4, 6-4 for the women's title.

At Forest Hills, N. Y., Jaime Pressly of Palm Beach, Fla., defeated George Taylor of Houston, 6-3, 6-0, 6-0 for the principal title in the Eastern Junior tennis championships.

Clark Favored in Dutch Prix

ZANDVOORT, Holland (AP) — Jim Clark, the cool Scot who dominates the daredevil world of automobile racing, is favored to extend a double string of triumphs today in the Dutch Grand Prix.

Clark has won the event twice in a row and has captured all four Grand Prix races he has entered this year. This puts the farmer from Berwickshire, who also won the Indianapolis 500, in a commanding lead for the world driving championship.

Clark is expected to push his sleek green Lotus past the 100-mph mark in the 280-mile grind today.

San Diego Postpones Stadium Election

SAN DIEGO — The City Council has decided to postpone an election on the proposed $30 million, multi-purpose, 50,000-seat athletic stadium from the Sept. 21 municipal primary to the No. 2 general election in November.

The delay was requested by the Greater San Diego Sports Assn., a non-profit private group which has been spearheading the campaign for the facility.

Hot 'Cycle Field Slated

Motorcycle daredevils who have won a total of 41 national races will lead America's outstanding riders from Baltimore, Md., to Seattle, Wash., over the jumps at Ascot Park Friday and Saturday nights in the fourth annual Grand National 50-lap steeplechase championships of the AMA.

Finals for expert and amateur riders are Saturday night with time trials Friday night, starting at 7 p.m., plus a complete program for West Coast novice riders.

Confirmed entries from Bart Markel, Flint, Mich., and Roger Reiman, Kewanee, Ill., gives the race the who's who of two-wheeling in the United States.

"It's the finest entry list we've ever had for a national motorcycle event in Southern California," said a happy J. C. Agajanian.

One of the Better Star Games

By TOMMY HOLMES

All too often in the past the highlights of an All-Star game are deservedly filed and forgotten with the final putout. That one the other day on the Minnesota prairies stands as a notable exception. They are still discussing its highlights and shadows.

This was an exciting ball game once the American League rallied from the shock of a quick 5-0 deficit and tied the score, only to lose on a bad hop single in the seventh inning. A batted ball that didn't reach the edge of the outfield grass decided what was fundamentally a battle of home runs.

Wednesday, Bobby Bragan, the Milwaukee manager and an All-Star coach of the Nationals, credited the victory to the genius of Gene Mauch, who was solely responsible for the team's batting order.

"The decisive move of the game," concludes Bragan, "was to use Willie Mays as a lead-off man."

Maury Wills of the Dodgers is regarded as the ideal leadoff man because he can get on and bedevil the defense with his matchless talent for base thievery. He batted seventh.

Mays opened the game with a home run and later carried the winning run over the plate. Wills contributed nothing of note, but it wasn't needed.

Juan Marichal was elected most valuable player of the game. He got 46 press box votes. Mays got 45 and his supporters scream that this was the greatest miscarriage of justice since the Dreyful case.

A bad hop was the shrill alibi of the Americans against fickle fortune, but the Nationals had one ready if the result had gone the other way. As they say, Jim Maloney "had" Harmon Killebrew struck out in the fifth.

On a 2-and-2 count, Killebrew's swishing bat barely flicked a fast ball. The foul tip didn't hit in the pocket of Joe Torre's mitt and the Killer got another swipe. He drove the next pitch into the bleachers for the game-tying homer.

And the unkind wits are saying that the way to riches is to bet Al Lopez to place in his competition against the National League. This was the good Senor's fifth shot as an All-Star manager and his teams have lost them all. Twice he has been a World Series manager but his 1954 Indians and 1959 White Sox were beaten.

It's hard to see what Lopez could have done to avert this week's fate. His first two pitchers — Milt Pappas and Jim Grant — were bombed. The three pitchers who followed were effective and Sam McDowell was an unlucky loser.

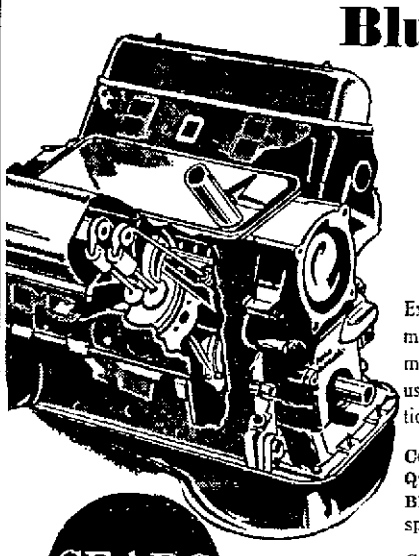

A criticism of the American League starting lineup was that Dick McAuliffe and Felix Mantilla form a far from ideal second base combination because neither is adept at the double play. As soon as the score was tied, Lopez sent Versalles to short and Bobby Richardson to second, but the ball that might have resulted in a ball-out double play bounced high into the air.

And so Sandy Koufax, who was wild in one unimpressive inning, was the winner of the game.

Shrine Squads at Work

Fifty of California's finest high school football players arrived in Los Angeles Saturday to begin intensive practice for the North-South classic at the Coliseum on Thursday night, July 29.

It will be the 14th annual game staged by the Shrine for the benefit of the Los Angeles Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

The Southern California squad has three players from Long Beach, and all three figure prominently in South plans.

All are backs—quarterback Gene Washington and halfback Al Nichols from Poly and halfback John Keithly of Wilson.

The squads got together for a "get acquainted" luncheon, visited patients at the hospital, then prepared to swing into training.

Souvenir jackets were presented to the 50 California prepsters by Shrine Game directors as a highlight of the Biltmore Hotel meeting prior to the mass visitation to the hospital. Coaches George Davis and Collie Kidwell of the North crew and Paul Briggs and Joe Kelly of the South accompanied the all-stars through the wards.

Each player was assigned a "mascot" patient for the Shrine game with all hospital beds decorated in varied high school colors.

* * * *

THE NORTHERN team will be quartered on the UCLA campus and train on Spaulding Field. The Southern California gridders are encamped at USC, with practice sessions slated for the Bovard Field gridiron.

Proceeds from the prep spectacular, featuring a colorful pre-game pageant with a cast of 5,000, go to the Shriners Hospital. Reserved tickets scaled at $5, $3 and $1.50 may be obtained at the Shrine Football Office, 655 West Jefferson Blvd., Los Angeles, 90007, and through more than 60 Southland Shrine Clubs affiliated with Al Malaikah Temple.

The full South squad:

Ends: Fair Hooker (Monrovia), George Buehler (Whittier), Glenn Carr (Bell), Lon Woodard (Excelsior of Norwalk).
Tackles: George Kunz (Loyola), Mike Zeller (Eagle Rock), Robert Shore (N Bakersfield), Philip Messer (Servite of Anaheim), Dan Fulkerson (Kearny, San Diego).
Guards: Dale Maedina (Santa Ana Valley), John Blanche (Claremont), John Stephensen (Hoover, San Diego), Tim Buchanan (Muir, Pasadena), Reppie Fielder (El Rancho).
Centers: Ron Butler (Anaheim), Cliff Blick (Ramona, Riverside).
Quarterbacks: Gene Washington (Long Beach Poly), Dennis Shaw (Pomona Catholic).
Halfbacks: Terry Pierson (Los Angeles), John Keithly (Long Beach Wilson), Frank Cooper (West Covina), Albert Nichols (Long Beach Poly), Mike Battle (Lawndale).
Fullbacks: Nick Davidson (La Canada) and Mike Berndahl (Loyola).

THE NORTH

Ends: Tom Born (Clovis), Ron Crawford (Lodi), Roger Harrington (Fremont, Sunnyvale), Tom Newsom (Vacaville).
Tackles: George Crooks (San Carlos), Mike Flemons (San Francisco Poly), Bob Gilson (Reedley), Bob Heinz (Lincoln, Stockton).
Guards: Jeff Bautista (Mountain View), Dale Bourland (Yuba City), Mike Kish (Riordon, San Francisco), Joe Vigil (Pittsburg).
Centers: John de la Forest (Bellarmine, San Jose), Tony Domenici (Vallejo).
Quarterbacks: Mike Marquess (Stagg, Stockton), Don Zimmerman (Madera).
Halfbacks: Harry Benjamin (Monterey), Rick Bennett (Selma), Rod Ellison (Merced), Nate Kirkman (Washington, San Francisco), Jerry Woods (Sonora).
Fullbacks: Jerry Belcher (Red Bluff), Phil Riles (McClatchy, Sacramento), Chris Schuh (St. Helena).

Leal Featured on Bullfight Card at Tijuana

TIJUANA, Mex. — Alfredo Leal, the most successful matador in the last two years here, makes his first appearance of the 1965 season, topping today's card at El Toreo de Tijuana.

Spain's Luis Segura, the classical and talented torero who cut one ear in his local debut last weekend, and Mauro Liceaga, a newcomer to Tijuana, complete the card.

Leal's best faena of 1963, Aug. 18 at El Toreo, brought about the immortalization of "Flor de Te", an extraordinarily brave bull from Torrecilla whose life was pardoned.

Shrine Squads at Work

Fifty of California's finest high school football players arrived in Los Angeles Saturday to begin intensive practice for the North-South classic at the Coliseum on Thursday night, July 29.

It will be the 14th annual game staged by the Shrine for the benefit of the Los Angeles Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

The Southern California squad has three players from Long Beach, and all three figure prominently in South plans.

All are backs—quarterback Gene Washington and halfback Al Nichols from Poly and halfback John Keithly of Wilson.

The squads got together for a "get acquainted" luncheon, visited patients at the hospital, then prepared to swing into training.

Souvenir jackets were presented to the 50 California prepsters by Shrine Game directors as a highlight of the Biltmore Hotel meeting prior to the mass visitation to the hospital. Coaches George Davis and Collie Kidwell of the North crew and Paul Briggs and Joe Kelly of the South accompanied the all-stars through the wards.

Each player was assigned a "mascot" patient for the Shrine game with all hospital beds decorated in varied high school colors.

* * * *

THE NORTHERN team will be quartered on the UCLA campus and train on Spaulding Field. The Southern California gridders are encamped at USC, with practice sessions slated for the Bovard Field gridiron.

Proceeds from the prep spectacular, featuring a colorful pre-game pageant with a cast of 5,000, go to the Shriners Hospital. Reserved tickets scaled at $5, $3 and $1.50 may be obtained at the Shrine Football Office, 655 West Jefferson Blvd., Los Angeles, 90007, and through more than 60 Southland Shrine Clubs affiliated with Al Malaikah Temple.

The full South squad:

Ends: Fair Hooker (Monrovia), George Buchler (Whittier), Glenn Carr (Bell), Lon Woodard (Excelsior of Norwalk).
Tackles: George Kunz (Loyola), Mike Zeller (Eagle Rock), Robert Shore (N. Bakersfield), Phillip Messer (Servite of Anaheim), Dan Fulkerson (Kearny, San Diego).

Leal Featured on Bullfight Card at Tijuana

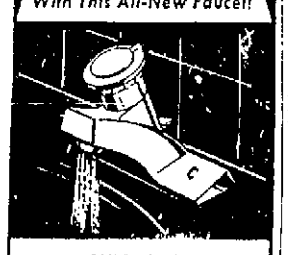

TIJUANA, Mex. — Alfredo Leal, the most successful matador in the last two years here, makes his first appearance of the 1965 season, topping today's card at El Toreo de Tijuana.

Spain's Luis Segura, the classical and talented torero who cut one ear in his local debut last weekend, and Mauro Liceaga, a newcomer to Tijuana, complete the card.

Leal's best faena of 1963, Aug. 18 at El Toreo, brought about the immortalization of "Flor de Te", an extraordinarily brave bull from Torrecilla whose life was pardoned.

COMDR. CURIONE . . . HE THINKS BIG

By EARL GRISWOLD
I, P-T Staff Writer

Navy Cmdr. Charles Curione charts his course over a vast land area encompassing 2,000 square miles, radiating 50 miles inland from his headquarters in Seal Beach.

His assignment is to oversee Navy and National Aeronautics and Space Administration construction projects valued at $30 million.

The projects—currently 33 in all—range from a few-thousand-dollar building programs to the $7½ million Long Beach Naval Hospital rising at 7100 E. Carson St.

Conservatively, the commander faces responsibility for managing another $10 million worth of construction projects to get under way in the Long Beach area this fiscal year.

Cmdr. Curione, working under Rear Adm. L. C. Coxe in the Civil Engineers Corps of the Bureau of Yards and Docks in San Diego, carries the title of Resident Officer in Charge of Construction (ROICC). He lives in Garden Grove.

* * * *

FROM HIS HEADQUARTERS, a temporary structure located in a corner of the parking lot at the North American Aviation Space and Information Systems Division, Cmdr. Curione coordinates his supervision over the scattered construction projects.

Biggest projects currently under way are the Naval Hospital, several large Navy housing projects in the Long Beach area, installations at the Long Beach Naval Station, and the NAA buildings rising near his headquarters.

The Naval Hospital, with a basic structural contract of $7,150,000, is going up on a 30½-acre site given to the Navy by the City of Long Beach. Construction, started this spring, is expected to be completed in July 1966—on schedule.

The 350-bed facility "will be centrally located for approximately 50,000 military personnel, and is expected to give tremendous relief to this area which contains at least 200,000 military dependents and retired personnel," according to Capt. J. J. Zuska, medical officer for the Naval Base.

Completion of the building will permit the closing of the hospital ship USS Haven which now is used as an interim facility with a 350-bed capacity.

The five-story structure, with its 15,000 cubic yards of concrete and 962 tons of steel, will be undergirded by 942 pilings which, if laid end to end, would stretch 10 miles.

Hugh Gibbs and Donald Gibbs, Long Beach architects, designed the Naval Hospital.

* * * *

AN EXTENSIVE multi-million-dollar Navy housing program is under way in the Long Beach area.

Cmdr. Curione emphasizes the housing projects will not add competition to private housing, pointing out that 1,952 housing units will be built in a six-year period, replacing 1,983 substandard units to be torn down.

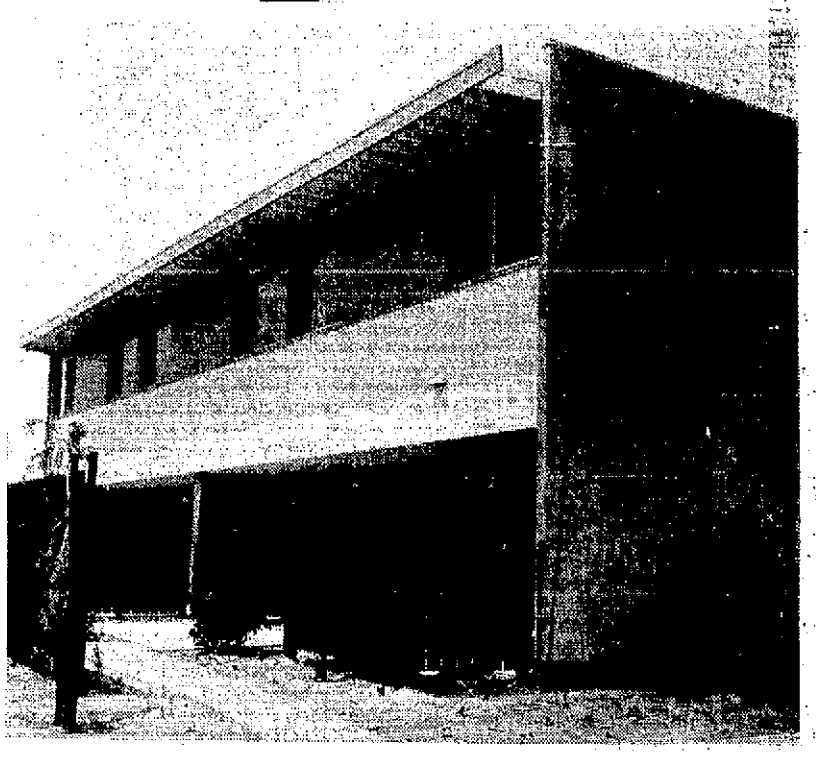

"For every unit going up, there's one coming down," he said. "The present and planned housing construction programs will be accompanied by demolition of all substandard World War II housing in the area.

"By removing this eyesore, the Navy is aiding the city's beautification program, and most important, is improving the housing available in the Long Beach area, which is not only the location of 3,000 shore-based Navy personnel, but is also home port for 30,000 officers and men of the Pacific Fleet."

The six-year housing program started in 1963 with a $3,595,500 contract to build 250 units, most of them at the U.S. Navy Fuel Depot in San Pedro.

Work is currently under way on a $5,060,000 contract awarded in 1964 for con-

MIGHTY SATURN V TO PUSH 'MOON MEN'

Under construction at North American's Space and Information System Division in Seal Beach is the massive second stage of the mighty Saturn V space vehicle which will boost the Apollo rocket to the moon.

So gigantic is the Saturn (360 feet high and weighing 6 million pounds at lift-off) that construction is in three stages at three locations throughout the country.

Stage II is larger than our present intercontinental missiles. It is 82-feet long and has a 33-foot diameter. The Stage II will burn more than 450 tons of high-energy liquid hydrogen fuel in less than seven minutes and develop 200,000 pounds of thrust.

Coupled with its two other stages, the Saturn will carry the Apollo and three astronauts to the moon in 1966.

Projects Slated in Many Areas

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Public works projects involving multi-millions of dollars for virtually every community in the Southland will be started shortly, unless the strike against the contractors continues.

In many instances bids have been advertised on the projects and until the strike is settled, bidding on some of them is not attracting too much competition, officials say.

These projects involve street work in most instances. Widened approaches to the freeways are needed in most communities and street improvements are involved in others where the areas have seen much growth in recent months.

Meanwhile, other building activity continues at a strong pace over the southland, including some new subdivisions and several major commercial developments.

Pending projects include:

New Computer Speeds Big Macco Operations

By VERN ANTHONY
Progress Section Editor

PARAMOUNT—Work on projects ranging from missile base construction in Florida to housing developments in the San Fernando Valley is being aided by recent installation of an electronic data processing system by Macco Corp., which has headquarters here at 7844 E. Rosecrans Ave.

The corporation, nationally known in the general construction and real estate development fields, has replaced its older computer with a Honeywell 200 tape system that features simultaneous processing.

With the installation, Macco is extending the development of its Master Information Retrieval System that includes cost and scheduling information for jobs of the corporation and its subsidiaries.

* * * *

PROJECTS include participation in the $92 million American River contract. The work, to run until 1967, is on the middle fork of the American River in Northern California. It includes seven dams, four powerhouses, a pumping station and 24 miles of tunnel.

Macco also is a major contractor on the Guri Dam and hydro-electric plant in Venezuela. The project, 20% completed now, will cost $73 million.

Other work in which the firm is involved includes a breakwater for the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Newport, Ore.; the Navajo Tunnel in New Mexico; and the Berkeley tunnels in California.

* * * *

ONE OF THE corporation's major subsidiaries is Macco Realty Co., the third largest residential development company in the United States.

Its current activities include Rancho California, 87,500 acres in Riverside County being sold for development. Also involved in the project are Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. and Kaiser Industries Corp.

Macco also has large developments on the 4,148-acre Porter Ranch in the San Fernando Valley, and the 4,928-acre Bryant Ranch near San Juan Capistrano. It is building 3,000 homes in the Del Amo project northwest of Long Beach and is planning multiple housing and adjoining boat docks on 180 long-term lease lots in Long Beach Marina.

* * * *

OTHER SUBSIDIARIES and their current major projects are:

—Lord & Bishop, Inc.—Construction of five freeway bridges over the Sacramento River at a cost of $3 million.

— Diversified Builders, Inc.—Construction of Downey and Huntington Beach stores for Broadway-Hale Dept. Stores, Inc., under a $5,300,000 contract. Construction of an engineering and administration building for Douglas Aircraft Co. in Huntington Beach.

—Pacific Crane & Rigging Co.—Equipping three mobile missile launchers at Cape Kennedy under a $9,200,000 NASA contract.

The division of the corporation will use the computer for cost and scheduling information. In addition, Macco Realty will use it for mortgage accounting. By the end of 1965 it is expected that major jobs in the field will be linked to the computer by communications networks.

Shopping Center Expansion Told

A $3.5 million expansion will be launched shortly at Orangefair Shopping Center, at Orangethorpe and Harbor Blvds., in Fullerton.

Bolo Corp., of Los Angeles, making the investment, announced that the center will be enhanced by the largest J. C. Penney store in Southern California.

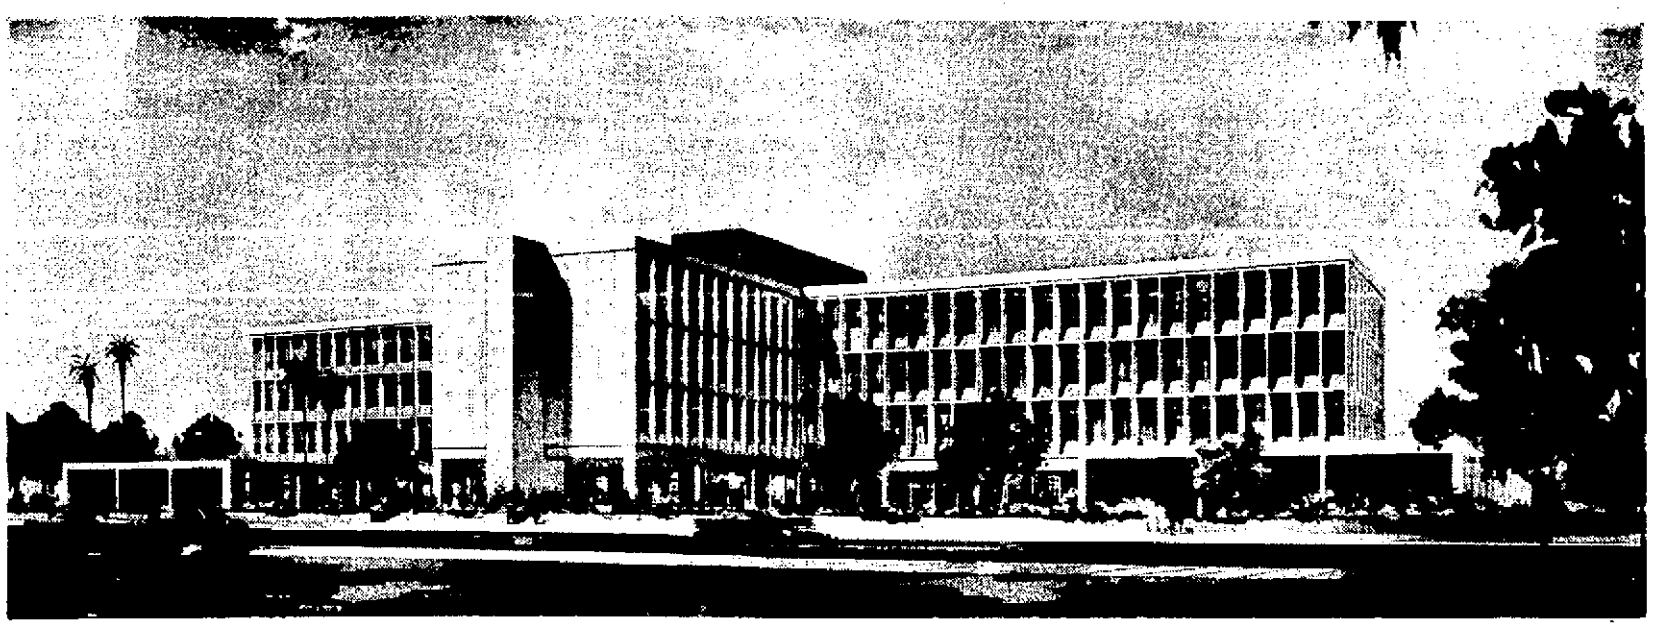

R. J. Stoddard, president of Bolo Corp., revealed that the Penney Co., which has been in the area since 1955, will expand its present facilities to 165,000 sq. ft. plus a separate 10,000 sq. ft. building to house Penney's new automotive supply shop.

An additional 30,000 sq. ft. will be constructed for adjacent shops and will feature a paved mall and parking for 2,500 cars.

The shopping center is on the southeast corner of the Orangethorpe-Harbor intersection. A Union Bank is on the northwest corner and plans for the immediate future include a national chain department store on the southwest corner.

struction of another 140 housing units at the fuel depot and 260 units at the Cabrillo housing area.

Last February at $4,562,000 contract was awarded for construction of 78 officers' quarters on the Palos Verdes Peninsula and another 224 enlisted men's quarters at Cabrillo.

* * * *

Plans for fiscal 1967 and 1968 call for building another 400 units each year.

Long Beach Naval Station facilities are also being upgraded in several current and projected building projects.

A $1,943,810 contract was awarded in June for construction of two barracks to house 1,004 enlisted men. Two more barracks are projected in the next fiscal year.

Award of bid is expected this summer on a chapel and a 1,500-man mess hall. Planned also is a sizeable addition to modernize the Naval Station store.

Also coming under the watchful eye of Cmdr. Curione and his aides is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration construction work in Seal Beach.

The second stage of the Saturn V (man-to the moon Apollo Project) will be built at the plant, to be operated by North American Aviation, Inc.

Construction of the plant was started in 1962 on a 35-acre site at the U.S. Naval Weapons Station. To date, 11 separate buildings are completed or are nearing completion at a total cost of $15 million.

"All authorized facilities are either complete or under contract, and the final construction effort is expected to be completed this fall, just three years after the initial groundbreaking," Cmdr. Curione said.

"The real payoff, however, lies in the fact that the plant already has turned out two finished checkout articles."

Cmdr. Curione, who has served as the Navy's top civil engineer here for the past year, is assisted by a staff of four officers and 30 civilians.

New Screen Helps Sale

What the prospective home buyer sets at the front door can help smooth the way to a quicker sale, according to an authority on selling existing homes.

One of the first things noted by realtors when they inspect a property is whether it has aluminum combination screen-and-storm door and combination windows all around the house, says Joseph Klock, president of the Poquessing Corp. of Philadelphia.

"Quality screens on doors and windows add more to the saleability of a house than any other home improvement of equal cost," says Klock, whose firm sold more than $6 million worth of existing homes last year.

Douglas Sends Missile Exec to Washington

Appointment of J. B. Keating of Newport Beach as manager-missile systems at the Douglas Aircraft Company's Washington, D.C., office has been announced in Santa Monica by C. W. Hutton, vice president-marketing for the Douglas Missile and Space Systems Division.

J. B. KEATING

Keating will be responsible for Douglas MSSD'S missile systems marketing efforts in the Washington area and will report to Joe Kelley Jr., director of Washington Operations for the company's Missile and Space Systems Group.

Prior to his new assignment, Keating was active in the operations control aspects of the Saturn rocket program at the Douglas Space Systems Center, Huntington Beach.

He has been involved in Saturn project management for Douglas since 1960.

SLATED FOR BID opening in December is a project to build 166 housing units at the Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos, 32 units at White's Point, and two officers' quarters at the Naval Hospital.

Plans for fiscal 1967 and 1968 call for building another 400 units each year.

Long Beach Naval Station facilities are also being upgraded in several current and projected building projects.

A $1,943,810 contract was awarded in June for construction of two barracks to house 1,004 enlisted men. Two more barracks are projected in the next fiscal year.

Award of bid is expected this summer on a chapel and a 1,500-man mess hall. Planned also is a sizeable addition to modernize the Naval Station store.

Also coming under the watchful eye of Cmdr. Curlone and his aides is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration construction work in Seal Beach.

The second stage of the Saturn V (man-to the moon Apollo Project) will be built at the plant, to be operated by North American Aviation, Inc.

Construction of the plant was started in 1962 on a 35-acre site at the U.S. Naval Weapons Station. To date, 11 separate buildings are completed or are nearing completion at a total cost of $15 million.

"All authorized facilities are either complete or under contract, and the final construction effort is expected to be completed this fall, just three years after the initial groundbreaking," Cmdr. Curione said.

When Your Property Taxes Go Up---Why? Assessor Explains

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson discussing tax policies and problems.)

by PHILIP E. WATSON

We've all heard about the man who finds a stranger at his door asking the price of his house. "That all depends," says the owner. "Are you interested in buying or are you the assessor?"

To most people, it's just a story. But it also points up a general misconception of our appraisal process. The assessor doesn't make the value of a piece of property — he merely finds out what the current value is in the market place.

Last year more than 250,000 pieces of property changed hands in Los Angeles County. That's approximately one of every seven of the 1,800,000 parcels in the county. With such a lively market, it's safe to assume that most of the people reading this have been a party in a real estate transaction sometime in the last four or five years.

* * * *

EACH TRANSACTION involves a selling price that was agreed to by both the buyer and the seller. How was that price determined? Not by the assessor. It was determined by the going price in the market place for property of similar age, size; location, quality, etc.

And how was the going price in the market place determined? Again, not by the assessor, but by the prices paid by all the other buyers and sellers. In other words, by you, the people.

In the growth economy Los Angeles County has enjoyed in the last 15 years, property values have generally increased. If the assessor is doing the kind of job the law requires, he must keep his appraisals up-to-date to reflect accurately what the market says property is worth.

* * * *

IN ORDER to do this job, our appraisal work is divided into two programs.

What we call "maintenance" is the program of keeping up with new construction and with additions or alterations which add or subtract value to a piece of property. Our department receives copies of all building permits. Those which indicate a new building or an addition or alteration that will change the market value of the property, such as adding a room or putting in a pool, are assigned to our appraisers for a new appraisal.

In the department we keep a very complete record of every structure in the county — we know the area, floor plan, built-in fixtures, quality and kind of construction of the exterior and interior, etc.

* * * *

IF THE PERMIT indicates that work is being done merely to keep the structure at its present value, no assessment change would be made.

For example, if you replace an existing roof with the same quality construction, we would consider this normal upkeep. However, replacing it with a much better quality roof would increase the assessed value because it would increase the over-all market value.

Most people understand that they can expect an assessment change when they spend money to add value to their property. When people ask, as they frequently do, when to expect an assessment change, they are usually talking about the second part of our appraisal work — the "update" program.

Here we are dealing with reappraisals made to reflect changes in market value, regardless of whether any changes have been made in the property. This is the kind of value increase that has occurred simply by virtue of the fact that the property exists in the midst of the phenomenal growth of Southern California.

* * * *

BEFORE TALKING about our present system for measuring value changes, it is necessary to go back a few years.

Before I became assessor, the department had separate land and building divisions, each making separate land and building assessments. Since the basic value of property as a rule is in the land, it was the former policy to make increases in the land assessments about every five years. Only at 10 or 15-year intervals were changes made in the building values.

It is easy to see how, under this system, land and building assessments could get far out of balance and why, since changes were made so infrequently, the new assessment increases were generally high.

When I took office, one of my first acts was to combine the former land and building divisions into a single real estate division, so that we could make "total property" appraisals and show a more accurate relationship between land and buildings.

* * * *

THIS WAS A REFORM long urged by the State Board of Equalization and means that we now appraise property as do any other appraisers and as you do yourself when you look at a property with an eye to buying.

In other words, we attempt to find the fair market value of the whole property—land buildings, site, etc., as a package—and then make our assessments at 25% of that.

(By law, we must still divide the total assessments into separate land and improvement assessments. This is probably as good a spot as any to try to clear up the confusion that exists about the word "improvement" as used in assessments. It does not mean "improve" in the sense we regularly use it in conversation. In the assessment sense, it means any "improvement" to the land, such as a house, a new room, or a pool. It can even include paving. If you were to check the assessment on a vacant parking lot, for instance, you would find an improvement assessment indicating the value of the paving.)

* * * *

UPON TAKING OFFICE I also announced that we would annually reappraise all property in order to prevent assessments from getting so far out of line that increases, when they came, were too drastic. However, because of the old system, many assessments were already far out of line with current market values.

So, in the process of converting to the new system, we had to unwind the old, which accounts for why there had to be substantial increases in places like Malibu, Santa Monica, Alhambra, Sierra Madre, the Santa Monica mountains and beach frontage. These were places where assessments had lagged to as much as 12 or 14% of current value because property values had increased rapidly during the four or five years since they had last been reassessed.

So to answer the question of when to expect an assessment change in the "update" program—the policy is clear-cut. Assessments must be changed whenever there is a measurable change in market value in order to insure that everyone is paying his fair share—but no more than his fair share—of the cost of local government.

FUN AT THE RANCH

Affiliates to Sponsor Realty Board Picnic

GARDEN GROVE — "A-Day" (or Affiliate Day) will be Aug. 7 for the Garden Grove Board of Realtors.

That's the day affiliate members will sponsor a barbecue dinner and fun time for all members of the board and guests.

Furthermore, papa and mama will leave the youngsters home for it will be a picnic for adults only, according to one of the planners. Don Lewis of First Investment Service Co., Anaheim.

Location of the picnic will be the Flying "B" Ranch, nestled in the lower Santa Ana Mountains, 15 miles east of the City of Orange. It is reached via Chapman Avenue and Santiago Road, turning onto Black Star Canyon Road then onto Baker Canyon Road.

A wide variety of games and entertainment is available at the ranch, and facilities include a large swimming pool.

Scholarship Grants Made

Four top ranking high school and college students who are prepared for careers in construction business have been awarded scholarships by the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

Robert Hensler, education committee chairman, said that each will receive $500 for the 1965-66 scholastic year.

Winners of the scholarships are Charles C. Thomas, 18, of 309 Bacon Road, Whittier; Norman Elder, 18, 8605 Vavista Drive, Whittier; Denis J. Dunn, 18, 208 Encanto Drive, Escondido; and George Di Mundo, 17, 1725 Luring Drive, Glendale.

Chosen from more than 75 applicants, Thomas, Elder and Dunn will be entering college as freshmen in September. Di Mundo already is enrolled at California Polytechnic College in Pomona where he will be a sophomore civil engineering major this fall.

Hensler says the awards were based on scholarship rating, financial need, and the students' interest in building a career in the construction business.

When Your Property Taxes Go Up---Why? Assessor Explains

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson discussing tax policies and problems.)

by PHILIP E. WATSON

We've all heard about the man who finds a stranger at his door asking the price of his house. "That all depends," says the owner. "Are you interested in buying or are you the assessor?"

To most people, it's just a story. But it also points up a general misconception of our appraisal process. The assessor doesn't make the value of a piece of property — he merely finds out what the current value is in the market place.

Last year more than 250,000 pieces of property changed hands in Los Angeles County. That's approximately one of every seven of the 1,800,000 parcels in the county. With such a lively market, it's safe to assume that most of the people reading this have been a party in a real estate transaction sometime in the last four or five years.

* * * *

EACH TRANSACTION involves a selling price that was agreed to by both the buyer and the seller. How was that price determined? Not by the assessor. It was determined by the going price in the market place for property of similar age, size; location, quality, etc.

And how was the going price in the market place determined? Again, not by the assessor, but by the prices paid by all the other buyers and sellers. In other words, by you, the people.

In the growth economy Los Angeles County has enjoyed in the last 15 years, property values have generally increased. If the assessor is doing the kind of job the law requires, he must keep his appraisals up-to-date to reflect accurately what the market says property is worth.

* * * *

IN ORDER to do this job, our appraisal work is divided into two programs.

What we call "maintenance" is the program of keeping up with new construction and with additions or alterations which add or subtract value to a piece of property. Our department receives copies of all building permits. Those which indicate a new building or an addition or alteration that will change the market value of the property, such as adding a room or putting in a pool, are assigned to our appraisers for a new appraisal.

In the department we keep a very complete record of every structure in the county — we know the area, floor plan, built-in fixtures, quality and kind of construction of the exterior and interior, etc.

* * * *

IF THE PERMIT indicates that work is being done merely to keep the structure at its present value, no assessment change would be made.

For example, if you replace an existing roof with the same quality construction, we would consider this normal upkeep. However, replacing it with a much better quality roof would increase the assessed value because it would increase the over-all market value.

Most people understand that they can expect an assessment change when they spend money to add value to their property. When people ask, as they frequently do, when to expect an assessment change, they are usually talking about the second part of our appraisal work — the "update" program.

Here we are dealing with reappraisals made to reflect changes in market value, regardless of whether any changes have been made in the property. This is the kind of value increase that has occurred simply by virtue of the fact that the property exists in the midst of the phenomenal growth of Southern California.

* * * *

BEFORE TALKING about our present system for measuring value changes, it is necessary to go back a few years.

Before I became assessor, the department had separate land and building divisions, each making separate land and building assessments. Since the basic value of property as a rule is in the land, it was the former policy to make increases in the land assessments about every five years. Only at 10 or 15-year intervals were changes made in the building values.

It is easy to see how, under this system, land and building assessments could get far out of balance and why, since changes were made so infrequently, the new assessment increases were generally high.

When I took office, one of my first acts was to combine the former land and building divisions into a single real estate division, so that we could make "total property" appraisals and show a more accurate relationship between land and buildings.

* * * *

THIS WAS A REFORM long urged by the State Board of Equalization and means that we now appraise property as do any other appraisers and as you do yourself when you look at a property with an eye to buying.

In other words, we attempt to find the fair market value of the whole property—land buildings, site, etc., as a package—and then make our assessments at 25% of that.

(By law, we must still divide the total assessments into separate land and improvement assessments. This is probably as good a spot as any to try to clear up the confusion that exists about the word "improvement" as used in assessments. It does not mean "improve" in the sense we regularly use it in conversation. In the assessment sense, it means any "improvement" to the land, such as a house, a new room, or a pool. It can even include paving. If you were to check the assessment on a vacant parking lot, for instance, you would find an improvement assessment indicating the value of the paving.)

* * * *

UPON TAKING OFFICE I also announced that we would annually reappraise all property in order to prevent assessments from getting so far out of line that increases, when they came, were too drastic. However, because of the old system, many assessments were already far out of line with current market values.

So, in the process of converting to the new system, we had to unwind the old, which accounts for why there had to be substantial increases in places like Malibu, Santa Monica, Alhambra, Sierra Madre, the Santa Monica mountains and beach frontage. These were places where assessments had lagged to as much as 12 or 14% of current value because property values had increased rapidly during the four or five years since they had last been reassessed.

So to answer the question of when to expect an assessment change in the "update" program—the policy is clear-cut. Assessments must be changed whenever there is a measurable change in market value in order to insure that everyone is paying his fair share—but no more than his fair share—of the cost of local government.

Scholarship Grants Made

Four top ranking high school and college students who are prepared for careers in construction business have been awarded scholarships by the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

Robert Hensler, education committee chairman, said that each will receive $500 for the 1965-66 scholastic year.

Winners of the scholarships are Charles C. Thomas, 18, of 309 Bacon Road, Whittier; Norman Elder, 18, 8605 Vavista Drive, Whittier; Denis J. Dunn, 18, 208 Encanto Drive, Escondido; and George Di Mundo, 17, 1725 Luring Drive, Glendale.

Chosen from more than 75 applicants, Thomas, Elder and Dunn will be entering college as freshmen in September. Di Mundo already is enrolled at California Polytechnic College in Pomona where he will be a sophomore civil engineering major this fall.

Hensler says the awards were based on scholarship rating, financial need, and the students' interest in building a career in the construction business.

L.B. Realtor to Speak at CREA Conferences

The rising trend toward trading in one house on another will get attention of real estate brokers, salesmen and homebuilders during the California Real Estate Association's upcoming Trade-In Conference series it was announced last week by Lou Von Dyl of Encino, conference chairman.

He said the educational meetings are scheduled for August 2 at the Airport Marina Hotel, Westchester; August 3 at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim; August 5 at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley; and August 6 at the Cabana Hotel in Palo Alto.

* * * *

"HOME TRADE-INS are a demanded service," Von Dyl said. "Realtors are finding they must learn the techniques necessary if they are to serve the wants of the single family home buyer. Trading in a house could become as common as trading in a car."

Ira Gribin of Encino, CREA Education Committee chairman, said five experts in the field of trade-ins will contribute their know-how to those attending the conference.

* * * *

E. TENNYSON MOORE, Long Beach realtor, will give a step-by-step procedure for organizing a workable trade-in service during his talk, "Organization of a Home Trade-In Plan." He will have forms and sample promotional material.

"Trade-In Financing," will be the subject of a talk by Jerome Blank, Albany, Calif., realtor, stressing ways of handling this key factor in successful trade-ins.

Thomas W. Richey of Los Angeles, vice president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, Inc., one of the nation's largest homebuilders, will talk on "Realtor Services to Builders Through Trade-In Program."

* * * *

DAVID STONE, San Jose realtor, is scheduled to tell how to advise and promote this extra service by Realtors in his talk on "Merchandising Your Trade-In Program."

A workshop on "Negotiating a Trade-In" will then be conducted by Von Dyl, giving everyone attending an opportunity to work out an actual example of trade-in.

Contract Let for Highway Project

Vinnell Corp., Alhambra, has been awarded a $745,103 contract by the Arizona Highway Commission for first phase construction work on a scenic highway connecting Lake Havasu City, Ariz., new industrial-resort city, with Parker Dam and U.S. 60-70.

The project is part of a $2.1 million extension of Arizona Highway 95 that will reduce driving distance to Lake Havasu City from Southern California by some 50 miles.

A 22-mile pilot road from the bridge location north to Lake Havasu City already has been completed.

Construction of a $65,000 telephone office to serve the young city has been started by Citizens Utilities Co.

Tile Exec Resigns Association Posts

Jack Ridgley, past president of the Associated Tile Contractors of Southern California, has resigned from his position at Selectile Company, Palms, and from all association posts. Selectile operates a major branch in La Habra, serving metropolitan Long Beach and Orange County.

As an executive of the largest ceramic tile contracting firm in the United States, Ridgley found time for dual service as a member of the board of directors for the association, as well as a member of the Joint Apprenticeship Committee and as trustee of the Tile Insurance Trust Fund.

New Home Sales Decline in U.S.

The sale of new homes in the first four months of the year trailed sales in the similar 1964 period by 6,000 homes, the Census Bureau said in Washington, D. C., last week.

The four-month total this year was 181,000.

Sales of non-farm homes in April totaled 48,000, some 8% below March sales of 52,000, and 2% less than sales in April 1964.

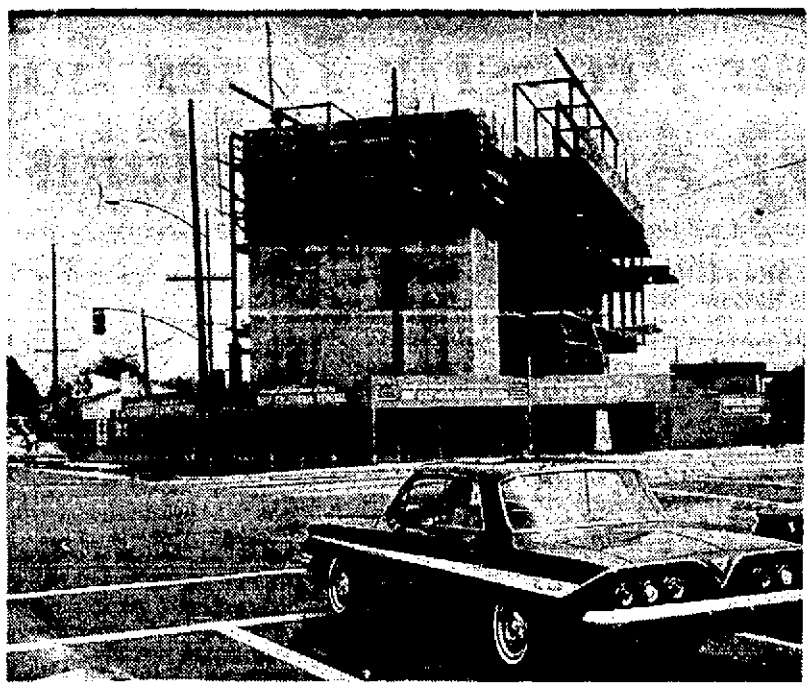

The number of new homes available for sale at the end of April was 241,000 compared to 239,000 at the end of March and 260,000 a year ago.

Of the total, about 108,000 had been completed, 111,000 were under construction and 23,000 had not been started.

Edison Declares Quarterly Dividends

The Board of Directors of Southern California Edison Co. has declared regular quarterly dividends on the following issues of the company's cumulative preferred stock: 25½ cents per share on the 4.08% series; 26½ cents per share on the 4.24% series; and 29⅞ cents per share on the 4.78% series.

All three dividends are payable Aug. 31, 1965, to stockholders of record Aug. 5.

Allstate Building Opened

OPEN HOUSE FOR NEW BUILDING

Civic and business leaders were guests at open house held by Allstate Insurance Co. officials to celebrate completion and occupancy of new office building in Long Beach at 6200 E. Spring St. Invitations were extended by J. H. Twiss, regional manager.

The Allstate Insurance Company officially opened its new Long Beach district office Thursday at special ceremonies attended by company executives, city officials and local business leaders.

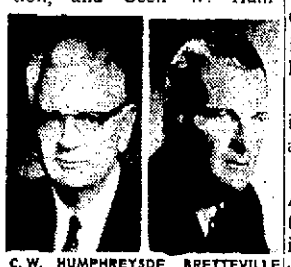

The firm's new 7,000-square-foot location at 6200 E. Spring St. was built specifically for Allstate and embodies many characteristics designed to add to the convenience of customers, according to J. H. Twiss, regional manager for Allstate.

A special drive-in claim area has been provided to enable customers to get on-the-spot adjustments of automobile damage promptly without having to obtain repair estimates from several outside sources, Twiss said.

The new facilities presently house 50 Allstate employes including 40 claim personnel under the direction of District Claim Manager Frank Terreri. A staff of seven Allstate sales agents assigned to the office is supervised by W. G. Dow, district sales manager.

Allstate is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Business Spending $51 Billion

U.S. business is spending a record $51.7 billion on new plants and equipment in 1965, a rise of $6.8 billion or 15% over last year.

This year will mark the first time in the history of American business that capital spending will top the $50 billion mark.

This is the major finding of the 18th Annual Survey of Business' Plans for New Plants and Equipment, conducted by the Economics Department of McGraw-Hill Publications.

American business appears to be putting more steam in its capital spending after several years of slow but steady growth, the survey notes. This year's investment plans will account for 7.8% of an estimated gross national output of $661 billion.

While not of quite boom proportions, it will be the first time in nearly a decade that capital spending has approached the average of 8.4% of the nation's output achieved in the boom year of 1956.

Broadway Opens New Tire Center in Compton

The Broadway Department Store opened its ninth Tire and Automotive Center in the Southland Thursday at 1600 N. Long Beach Boulevard in Compton.

This facility contains latest equipment and tools to service all makes and models of cars, domestic and foreign, plus pickup trucks, campers and other vehicles.

The center is equipped to service more than 300 cars per day.

All nine Broadway Tire Centers feature Abel Label Tires, brakes, batteries, shocks, mufflers, wheel alignment, tire balancing and auto accessories and parts. Abel Label Tires and allied auto and service supplies are sold in leading department stores and carry a nationwide guarantee.

* * * *

THE BROADWAY is exclusive dealer of Abel tires and service products in Southern California.

The new Compton Tire Center is the first of several branches to be built in the Los Angeles metropolitan area, to allow customers the opportunity of servicing their cars in almost every shopping area. The Compton showroom is completely air-conditioned, including a customer waiting room.

Customers may use Broadway charge cards in Compton, as well as in all Broadway locations. Charge customers and new accounts can be processed at the Compton Center.

* * * *

UNDER construction are additional Broadway Tire Centers in conjunction with the new Broadway stores in Downey and Huntington Beach.

Soon to start construction are Tire Centers to service Broadway Hollywood, Broadway Del Amo Broadway Westchester, Broadway Chula Vista, Broadway Grossmont and Broadway Pasadena, as well as branch Tire Centers in Glendale, Temple City and Mission Road. Several other locations are under consideration.

Wayne Crum, formerly of the Broadway Los Altos Tire Center, has been named manager at Compton. Ted Eisenhart is the assistant manager. Division manager is F. J. Aldenbrook. All Broadway Tire Centers are under the direct supervision of Al Kaye, vice-president.

Hughes Aircraft Rates 'E' Award

FULLERTON — The President's "E" Award for Exporting, highest award the U.S. government can bestow on a business firm, is being flown at Hughes Aircraft Co. here.

C. H. Brubaker, a company senior vice president and group executive at Hughes-Fullerton, credited Fullerton employes with playing a major role in helping Hughes win the much sought after white flag with the blue "E" during recent presentation ceremonies.

Local presentation of the pennant was made by Clarence A. Shoop, Hughes vice president and group executive of Hughes-International, who earlier had received the flag from Clarence D. Martin Jr., undersecretary of commerce for transportation, at presentation ceremonies at the company's site in Culver City.

Standing by when the pennant first was raised at Fullerton, in addition to Brubaker and Shoop, were Dr. Nicholas A. Begovich, Hughes vice president and assistant group executive at Hughes-Fullerton, and R. P. Andelson, director of marketing.

Andelson said the local facility's radar systems, data processing and display equipment, and communication products are in wide use throughout military services of the Free World.

Landscape Improvements Made at Greek Church

Extensive landscaping and grounds improvement are under way at the Greek Orthodox Church, Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, at 17th Street and Pacific Avenue, Nick Edwards, president of the Greek community of Long Beach, San Pedro and vicinity, said last week.

Completion is planned before Aug. 15 when it will be dedicated at a triple celebration that Sunday afternoon.

The occasions are the 16th anniversary of the Long Beach church, celebration of the Holy Feast of the Assumption for which the church is named, and dedication of the grounds.

The landscaped patio and decorative block walls are the design ,of Chris Lembesis P. E., vice-president of the local Greek commmunity. Father Nicholas Billiris will officiate at the services and Bishop Demetrios of the Western Diocese will be present.

The celebration will culminate in a garden picnic on the new grounds beginning at 1 p.m., featuring Greek dishes and delicacies.

Loan Firm in New Quarters at Laguna

LAGUNA BEACH — World Savings & Loan Association has moved its new Laguna Beach branch into permanent quarters at South Coast Highway and Forest Avenue.

The new office brings to five the number of branches of World Savings & Loan, which has assets of more than $200 million.

The association, with locations in Los Angeles, Lynwood, Ontario and San Bernardino, is the principal subsidiary of Trans-World Financial Co., Beverly Hills.

Early Selection of Homes Popular in Carriage Place

The successful and continuous response to the sneak preview at the new South Bay community of Carriage Place has been attributed to two primary factors by John Gause, spokesman for Barclay-Hollander-Curci, the developers.

(1) Homebuyers want to get "first choice" of homes—floor plans, exterior elevations and lot.

(2) Carriage Place, a few blocks from the intersection of the Harbor and San Diego freeways, is in a prime location.

"People have had to step around a few workmen and view the homes without all the finishing touches, but getting 'in on the ground floor' has compensated for this," Gause said.

* * * *

THE SALES selection center allows the prospective buyers of the homes a central area to study the floor plans, the relation of location to tract, and to view the architectural renderings of the exterior elevations.

Samples of carpeting and interior color selections are available so that the customer can visually consider every aspect of the home he would like to buy. Carriage Place's location at Figueroa and Sepulveda, just off the Harbor Freeway, places its residents minutes from downtown Los Angeles, UCLA, Hollywood, and a short drive from the beaches, the Los Angeles Harbor Marina, and the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

* * * *

THE DEVELOPMENT offers one- and two-story homes with three, four and five bedrooms and from 1,245 to 1,850 square feet of actual living space.

Features include owner's suites with private bath, walk-in closets; separate dining rooms; large living rooms, dens, family rooms; service rooms for sewing, laundry utilities; kitchens with built-in range, oven, dishwasher and garbage disposal; two-car garages with workshop space.

Homes are priced from $23,995 to $29,995 with 10% down payment, 30-year financing, and a guaranteed

Big Hotel Deal Made

The Pennsylvania Real Estate Investment Trust and the H. R. Weissberg Corp. have announced completion of a sales-leaseback transaction involving New Orleans' 494-room Fontainebleau Motor Hotel located on Tulane Avenue at Carrolton Street.

The Weissberg corporation will continue to operate the Fontainebleau under a leasehold for 67 years.

The Pennsylvania Real Estate Investment Trust paid in excess of $7,500,000 for this property and simultaneously upon acquisition of title, leased the Fontainebleau back to the sellers, H. R. Weissberg Corp.

Broadway Opens New Tire Center in Compton

The Broadway Department Store opened its ninth Tire and Automotive Center in the Southland Thursday at 1600 N. Long Beach Boulevard in Compton.

This facility contains latest equipment and tools to service all makes and models of cars, domestic and foreign, plus pickup trucks, campers and other vehicles.

The center is equipped to service more than 300 cars per day.

All nine Broadway Tire Centers feature Abel Label Tires, brakes, batteries, shocks, mufflers, wheel alignment, tire balancing and auto accessories and parts. Abel Label Tires and allied auto and service supplies are sold in leading department stores and carry a nationwide guarantee.

* * * *

THE BROADWAY is exclusive dealer of Abel tires and service products in Southern California.

The new Compton Tire Center is the first of several branches to be built in the Los Angeles metropolitan area, to allow customers the opportunity of servicing their cars in almost every shopping area. The Compton showroom is completely air-conditioned, including a customer waiting room.

Customers may use Broadway charge cards in Compton, as well as in all Broadway locations. Charge customers and new accounts can be processed at the Compton Center.

* * * *

UNDER construction are additional Broadway Tire Centers in conjunction with the new Broadway stores in Downey and Huntington Beach.

Soon to start construction are Tire Centers in service Broadway Hollywood, Broadway Del Amo Broadway Westchester, Broadway Chula Vista, Broadway Grossmont and Broadway Pasadena, as well as branch Tire Centers in Glendale, Temple City and Mission Road. Several other locations are under consideration.

Wayne Crum, formerly of the Broadway Los Altos Tire Center, has been named manager at Compton. Ted Eisenhart is the assistant manager. Division manager is F. J. Aldenbrook. All Broadway Tire Centers are under the direct supervision of Al Kaye, vice president.

Hughes Aircraft Rates 'E' Award

FULLERTON — The President's "E" Award for Exporting, highest award the U.S. government can bestow on a business firm, is being flown at Hughes Aircraft Co. here.

C. H. Brubaker, a company senior vice president and group executive at Hughes-Fullerton, credited Fullerton employes with playing a major role in helping Hughes win the much sought after white flag with the blue "E" during recent presentation ceremonies.

Local presentation of the pennant was made by Clarence A. Shoop, Hughes vice president and group executive of Hughes-International, who earlier had received the flag from Clarence D. Martin Jr., undersecretary of commerce for transportation, at presentation ceremonies at the company's site in Culver City.

Standing by when the pennant first was raised at Fullerton, in addition to Brubaker and Shoop, were Dr. Nicholas A. Begovich, Hughes vice president and assistant group executive at Hughes-Fullerton, and R. P. Andelson, director of marketing.

Andelson said the local facility's radar systems, data processing and display equipment, and communication products are in wide use throughout military services of the Free World.

Landscape Improvements Made at Greek Church

Extensive landscaping and grounds improvement are under way at the Greek Orthodox Church, Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, at 17th Street and Pacific Avenue, Nick Edwards, president of the Greek community of Long Beach, San Pedro and vicinity, said last week.

Completion is planned before Aug. 15 when it will be dedicated at a triple celebration that Sunday afternoon.

The occasions are the 16th anniversary of the Long Beach church, celebration of the Holy Feast of the Assumption for which the church is named, and dedication of the grounds.

The landscaped patio and decorative block walls are the design of Chris Lembesis, P. E., vice-president of the local Greek commmunity. Father Nicholas Billiris will officiate at the services and Bishop Demetrios of the Western Diocese will be present.

The celebration will culminate in a garden picnic on the new grounds beginning at 1 p.m., featuring Greek dishes and delicacies.

Realtors to Get Tips on Selling

Wide Selection of Designs Offered in Dolphin Terrace

REALTY

IN FOUNTAIN VALLEY

This is one of the many styles offered in Dolphin Terrace in Fountain Valley. The large, two-story homes have great appeal to larger families.

The wide selection of floor plans and exterior designs offered at Dolphin Terrace has been a major factor in the increased sales pace reported at unit 2 of the Fountain Valley development, according to Robert Plumleigh, builder-developer.

The architecturally design Medallion homes are available in a variety of stylings ranging from one and two-stories or split-level, with floor plans providing from three to six bedrooms, he pointed out.

Family rooms, formal dining rooms and the popular baths, featuring extensive use of ceramic tile and double pullmans, are highly approved. Large, two or three-car garages are included.

All-electric kitchens have built-in range, double oven, range hood, disposer, Formica countertops and ash cabinetry.

* * * *

OTHER FEATURES include wall-to-wall carpeting, custom fireplaces, master bedroom suites and forced-air heating systems.

The large lots have ample room for installation of a swimming pool or extensive landscaping and gardens. Lawns, sprinklers and rear-yard fencing are also provided.

The homes are priced from $26,950 and can be purchased on terms with a down payment of 5%. Plumleigh pointed out that a guaranteed trade plan is in effect at the development, enabling buyers to move into a new home immediately.

Dolphin Terrace is located on Newhope St., just west of Harbor Blvd. and south of Edinger in Fountain Valley. Furnished model homes are open daily.

NEWS OF BANKING

Mexico Attracting More Investments

Major investment concerns are looking toward Mexico in a big way this year because of the "almost unbelievable figures" of that country's recent economic growth.

David Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank points out that Mexico's growth, economically, is a result of that nation's social stability and democracy, which he adds, "other nations could well imitate."

Mexico attained a growth rate of 10% in 1964, Rockefeller said when in Los Angeles recently, with U.S. investment totaling $1 billion. Much of the earnings from the investment are being reinvested instead of being withdrawn as has been noted in other Latin American countries, Rockefeller noted.

Homes of Quality Sought by Buyers

IN EAST ANAHEIM

Fashion Hills homes on the Riverside Freeway in East Anaheim are quality constructed and priced from $26,900.

Recent polls of potential and new home buyers have indicated the discriminating family is willing to pay for quality construction of lasting value.

Mervin B. Johnson, builder of Fashion Hills homes in East Anaheim, can point to the fact that his homes have such quality features: lath and plaster, concrete driveways, air ducts prepared for air conditioning, side and rear yards completely fenced with material that coordinates with exterior elevation and design of the home and other features even to underground utilities and elimination of unsightly poles and wires.

* * * *

THE ONE- AND two-story, three-, four-, and five-bedroom homes are priced from $26,900 and included in the full price is nylon carpeting throughout, formal dining areas and sunken living rooms in some models, paneling in halls and/or family rooms, Hotpoint all-electric kitchen appliances, with the homes containing up to 2,300 sq. ft. of usable area.

The homes are just east of the junction of the Riverside and Newport Freeways on the north side of the Riverside Freeway in East Anaheim. There is a left hand turning lane from the Riverside Freeway directly into Fashion Hills homes. Display homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk, evenings by appointment.

Morris Plan Co. Reports Gains

Net income for The Morris Plan Co. for the six months ending June 30 amounted to $697,193 or $1.10 per share after giving effect to a change in accounting method, compared to $432,482 or 69c per share in 1964.

Net income before the change in accounting method in 1965 was $457,193 or 72c per share, according to an announcement made by Ralph N. Larson, president.

Volume of business for the first half of 1965 amounted to $68,432,000 compared to $64,018,000 for the like period last year.

The company continued to show substantial gains, by increasing outstanding loans and contracts $1,847,000, to a new high of $120,448,000. Thrift Investment Certificates have increased by 2,107 to $95,236,000.

Prestige Unveiling Another Model in Huntington Beach

NEW MODEL TO OPEN

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach unveils new plan, with attrium, today. A 100-pound roast will be cooked and served to those families inspecting the model homes in celebrating the event. The one and two-story homes, of which over 350 have been purchased since the beginning of the year, are priced from $25,650.

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach unveils still another new model, the eighth in its new series, today when Plan 2000, a three-bedroom, two-bathroom, one-story home with a center atrium, is officially opened for the first time.

In celebrating the event, the Doyle & Shields Dev. Co., Inc., builders, have arranged with the Tappan Co., for a 100-pound roast to be cooked at the development and served to potential homebuyers inspecting Prestige Homes today, Dan Mytinger, sales director for the company related.

* * * *

MYTINGER POINTED out that the new 2000 plan contains almost 1,900 sq. ft. of area, with a formal dining area adjacent to the living room; a surplus of kitchen cabinets; and an especially attractive and large master bedroom suite and bath. The new home is available in four entirely new elevations.

The one and two-story; three, four and five-bedroom; two and three-bath homes, encompassing eight floor plans and thirty-four elevations are priced from $25,650 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing all available.

Mytinger said that over 350 Prestige Homes have been purchased since the beginning of the year.

From the Long Beach area, take the San Diego Freeway east to Bolsa Chica Road, south on Bolsa Chica to Edinger Ave., left to Springdale St., right a short distance to the homes in Huntington Beach.

Government Buys Hunt Soybean Oil

FULLERTON — More than 10 million pounds of soybean salad oil has been purchased recently by the government Commodity Credit Corp. from Hunt Foods & Industries, Fullerton.

The oil will be used for export donation to needy people and school lunch programs in other countries. It will be shipped during August by Hunt-Wesson Sales Co., a division of Hunt Foods & Industries.

Made Vice President

Volume of business for the first half of 1965 amounted to $68,432,000 compared to $64,018,000 for the like period last year.

The company continued to show substantial gains, by increasing outstanding loans and contracts $1,847,000, to a new high of $120,448,000. Thrift Investment Certificates have increased by 2,107 to $95,236,000.

Prestige Unveiling Another Model in Huntington Beach

NEW MODEL TO OPEN

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach unveils new plan, with attrium, today. A 100-pound roast will be cooked and served to those families inspecting the model homes in celebrating the event. The one and two-story homes, of which over 350 have been purchased since the beginning of the year, are priced from $25,650.

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach unveils still another new model, the eighth in its new series, today when Plan 2000, a three-bedroom, two-bathroom, one-story home with a center atrium, is officially opened for the first time.

In celebrating the event, the Doyle & Shields Dev. Co., Inc., builders, have arranged with the Tappan Co., for a 100-pound roast to be cooked at the development and served to potential homebuyers inspecting Prestige Homes today, Dan Mytinger, sales director for the company related.

* * * *

MYTINGER POINTED out that the new 2000 plan contains almost 1,900 sq. ft. of area, with a formal dining area adjacent to the living room; a surplus of kitchen cabinets; and an especially attractive and large master bedroom suite and bath. The new home is available in four entirely new elevations.

The one and two-story; three, four and five-bedroom; two and three-bath homes, encompassing eight floor plans and thirty-four elevations are priced from $25,650 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing all available.

Mytinger said that over 350 Prestige Homes have been purchased since the beginning of the year.

From the Long Beach area, take the San Diego Freeway east to Bolsa Chica Road, south on Bolsa Chica to Edinger Ave., left to Springdale St., right a short distance to the homes in Huntington Beach.

Another Outstanding Development By Shattuck & McHone

Newest Meredith Acres Draws Large Crowd of Home Viewers

ONE OF 24 MODELS

Pictured is the "Beaumont," one of the homes now selling at Meredith Acres at Taft and Santiago Blvd. in Orange. This is one of 24 different dramatic exteriors now showing at the $6.5 million development built by Eddy Meredith.

With the second unit of Meredith Acres in Orange now open for selling, the builder, Eddy Meredith, said throngs of homebuyers were out last weekend to see the six furnished models in the 150 split-level and two-story home development at Santiago and Taft Street.

He pointed out that the second unit, although only recently opened for selling, is now approaching the halfway mark in sales. First unit was completely sold out several months ago.

The $6.5 million dollar development is one of many large housing developments being sold by the Meredith Co. in Orange County.

Two new developments soon to be opened are Meredith Terrace on Santa Clara in Santa Ana and Meredith Gardens, a $15,000,000 development in Huntington Beach which will have 343 homes upon completion and will be opened this month.

* * * *

MEREDITH HOMES are noted for, their large living areas with homes ranging in size up to 3,200 square feet. They feature formal dining rooms plus informal dining areas. Large walnut panelled family rooms up to 500 square feet with massive fireplaces and sliding glass doors to pool patio area are another well accepted feature. Large spacious living rooms off impressive entryways, many with vaulted ceilings make another important feature in the Meredith homes.

All homes have two and three-car garages, all electric kitchens, abundant closet space; wall-to-wall carpeting throughout; concrete patios and concrete driveways.

To reach Meredith Acres from the Long Beach area take the San Diego Freeway to the Santa Ana Freeway, then to the Riverside Freeway and then to the Newport Freeway and take the Katella West off ramp. Turn right on Katella to Tustin, right on Tustin to Taft Ave., and right on Taft to Santiago Blvd. and the models.

May Reserve Unit, Buy Later

GOLF AT HOME

That's what Bernie Solomon (left) and Bill Ballon are able to do on the putting green at Rossmoor Townhouses, the $4 million luxury community adjacent to the Rossmoor Shopping Center on Los Alamitos Boulevard.

Announcement is being made by Jaymarc Corp. officials, developers of the luxury Rossmoor Townhouse community in the original walled city of Rossmoor, of a special $100 reservation offer to home owners in the general Long Beach area.

With 141 of the homes already sold, a survey just completed revealed that the majority of the buyers were previous owners of single detached homes. These families were now interested in the luxurious comfort and elimination of many household chores offered by the Townhouse concept.

* * * *

THIS WEEKEND a special showing of the final sections at the luxurious $4,000,000 development is scheduled by William Ballon, president, and Bernard Solomon, chairman of Jaymarc Corp., developers. The homes are immediately adjacent to Rossmoor Shopping Center on Los Alamitos Blvd. A complete choice of extra elevations and floor plans is available.

* * * *

UNDER THE TERMS of the special $100 reservation offer, the Jaymarc Corp. will hold any home selected by a purchaser up to 30 days in order to allow a buyer time to dispose of his old home. Where necessary, a second 30-day period may be granted.

Fun facilities include four pools, shuffleboard courts, putting greens, barbecue pits and a modern, private club house. Rossmoor Townhouses were conceived for carefree, Southern California living by the entire family.

* * * *

LUXURY FEATURES to enhance these modern townhouses include nylon wall-to-wall carpeting; private, concrete patios; and all-electric kitchens with built-in Americana oven and range, disposal, dishwasher and combination washer-dryer. All exterior maintenance needs are taken care of by professionals, leaving lots of free fun time.

From Long Beach, go East on Sevent St. to the Los Alamitos-Bay Blvds. Exit, then right (north) 2 blocks on Los Alamitos Blvd. to Rossmoor Shopping Center.

Larry Shields Forming Own Development Firm

LARRY P. SHIELDS

Larry P. Shields, a pioneer builder and developer of homes in Los Angeles and Orange counties, has announced the formation of Shields Development Co., Inc. His new offices will be at 231 S. Washington Blvd. in Whittier.

Shields has been widely known in Southern California building circles the past 17 years as a builder-developer of housing developments. For 13 years he has been a copartner of the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc. of Anaheim. He remains a director and major stockholder in that firm.

Is Quality Designed

Quality design, planning and construction highlight the College Park unit of Golden Park homes in the Rossmoor-Seal Beach area, says Mark Bader, project sales manager.

"The finest materials available are used at College Park, and the highest quality and integrity in designing and planning are utilized to produce the utmost comfort, convenience and future value for the owner," Bader said.

Color harmony in the Balanced Power kitchens, with built-in gas range, oven, hood and dishwasher in matching tones, are featured in these homes of three, four and five bedrooms.

Homes are priced from $25,300, Bader said, and financing plans include GI, Cal-Vet, FHA and conventional terms. Furnished models are accessible via San Diego Freeway to the Garden Grove Freeway to Knott Street, then left at Knott to College Park models.

HOMES BUILT TO LAST

Here is an architectural rendering of one of the College Park homes which utilize fine construction for comfort and longevity of the owner.

Fountain Plaza Offers Townhouse Trade Plan

EXOTIC HOME
Atmospheric Hawaiian exterior is one of four architectural styles at Fountain Plaza, new townhouse community in Fountain Valley.

Shoppers at Fountain Plaza townhouses in Orange County now can take advantage of a new trade-in program which offers the same net cash allowance on their old house as if they sold it through their local broker, based on FHA appraisal. A spokesman for the project mentioned that Fountain Plaza also would take second trust deeds in trade.

Fountain Plaza salesmen are busy pointing out to the public features which are unique with their community. These include side yards big enough to store a boat, pre-school nursery under professional supervision, and a lifetime warranty against major structural defects.

Only 104 homes are being built in four separate architectural styles. Immediate occupancy is available.

* * * *

THE 104-UNIT development is a project of Pacific Condominiums, Inc. of Anaheim. President of the firm is Alfred A. Edelsohn.

Priced under $20,000 on FHA and Conventional terms, Fountain Plaza offers eight exterior designs located on on four basic pedestrian streets. The streets incorporate an Hawaiian influence, a Spanish flavor, Olde English concept, and the atmosphere of New Orleans. Landscaping and exterior building design match the overall theme on each street.

* * * *

COMMUNITY facilities include an adult recreation area consisting of a 55-foot swimming pool, a clubhouse, shuffle boards and a professional-type putting green.

Separated from the adult area is one for children, with a tennis and badminton court, wading pool, sand pit, swings and teeter-totters plus a "Little Red Schoolhouse" nursery.

Fountain Plaza is located at 18250 Brookhurst St., and can be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway.

Sales Award Won by Office in L.B.

Robert E. Gillette, manager of the Long Beach branch office of Monroe International, Inc., 690 Willow St., has been notified that his office has received a certificate of award in monthly sales. This award was won in a nationwide competition with other Monroe offices of the same size.

Monroe International (formerly Monroe Calculating Machine Co.,) is a division of Litton Industries and has 375 offices located throughout the United States and Canada.

Named to Sales Post

Glenn A. Nelson has been named South Pacific Zone sales manager for Hertz Rent A Car, it was anounced recently by J. Howard Burns, zone manager.

Nelson will be at zone headquarters, 1801 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles.

Premier Homes North and South, in Huntington Beach, feature "Total Convenience" kitchens.

Premier Homes Kitchens Have Big Buyer Appeal

"Total Convenience" kitchens at Premier Homes North & South in Huntington Beach have been a focal point for buyer and visitor attention, reports Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents. "The 'total convenience' concept of the builder has proved to be very much in tune with current home buyer preferences," he said.

The sales agent said that in the design of Premier homes, builder William Rousey had made careful studies of consumer surveys in producing a home that would appeal to today's buyers. "Surveys revealed that homebuyers today want a complete and conveniently designed kitchen, not just a built-in range and oven," he said.

ROUSEY FIRST selected a double oven with independent controls, as a departure from conventional kitchen equipment. "This unit, with two complete ovens, allows the homemaker to bake in one oven while broiling in the other. Once a luxury, it is now a necessity and is standard equipped at Premier," McFarland said. A dishwasher is also standard equipment at Premier Homes.

The "Total Convenience" kitchens also include a custom bench-top installation for a blender, mixer, knife sharpener combination.

* * * *

OFFERED IN three and four-bedroom, two-bath models, the homes are priced from $24,750. VA no down and FHA minimum down financing are available, as well as conventional financing with good loans.

Visitors can reach Premier Homes by taking the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road and driving south on Bolsa Chica to Warner Ave. Turn left on Warner to Hwy. 39 and left two blocks to Terry St. and Premier's model home display.

Will Build Auto Center in Lakewood

A new 17,000 square foot Chrysler-Plymouth sales and service facility on three and one-half acres is slated for the Lakewood Shopping Center, according to Joseph K. Eichenbaum, head of J. K. Eichenbaum and Associates, exclusive leaseholders and developers.

The installation, owned by Ed Barbari presently located on Bellflower Blvd., Lakewood, will feature 24 service stalls including a wash and paint service. The Lakewood Shop center dealership will be located on Candlewood and Clark Street. The main building featuring concrete tilt-up will be 246 feet long on Candlewood. Division Builders, Inc., of Paramount is the contractor.

Ground breaking is scheduled for the last week of July, it was revealed.

Luxury Built Into Homes in Sol Vista

If we were in the food processing business, we'd probably refer to our homes as "Valu-Pakt," says Baxter Caterson, sales director for Sol-Vista homes in sea breeze cooled Huntington Beach.

It is the extra amenities that are responsible for the sales success of the 249-house project being built by the Alco-Pacific Construction Co., Inc. and known as the Sol-Vista, California Home Fair.

Buyers are impressed by the very latest Caloric Ultra Ray oven with rotisserie and meat probe; the modern Caloric range with thermo set automatic top burner control. The Nu-tone blender and wonderful Waste King Char-Glo broiler for indoor barbecuing, the oversized vent hood with extra power fan and the beautiful Waste King dishwasher with the pre-wash cycle and amazing sparkle rinse feature.

* * * *

ALL THESE extras are in the individually stylized homes as well as premium light fixtures, light loving clerestory glass from floor to high beamed ceiling, vinyl wall paper and wide concrete driveways. And, of course, the feature seldom seen in anything but individually built custom homes, spacious garages with finished, painted interiors, are standard at the California Home Fair.

The Sol-Vista Home Fair models and display pavilion are at 16661 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach. The three-, four- and five-bedroom homes, all with dining area and family rooms range in price from $29,550 to $35,975. Excellent financing is available on FHA, Conventional and Cal-Vet terms.

Fountain Plaza Offers Townhouse Trade Plan

EXOTIC HOME
Atmospheric Hawaiian exterior is one of four architectural styles at Fountain Plaza, new townhouse community in Fountain Valley.

Shoppers at Fountain Plaza townhouses in Orange County now can take advantage of a new trade-in program which offers the same net cash allowance on their old house as if they sold it through their local broker, based on FHA appraisal. A spokesman for the project mentioned that Fountain Plaza also would take second trust deeds in trade.

Fountain Plaza salesmen are busy pointing out to the public features which are unique with their community. These include side yards big enough to store a boat, pre-school nursery under professional supervision, and a lifetime warranty against major structural defects.

Only 104 homes are being built in four separate architectural styles. Immediate occupancy is available.

* * * *

THE 104-UNIT development is a project of Pacific Condominiums, Inc. of Anaheim. President of the firm is Alfred A. Edelsohn.

Priced under $20,000 on FHA and Conventional terms, Fountain Plaza offers eight exterior designs located on on four basic pedestrian streets. The streets incorporate an Hawaiian influence, a Spanish flavor, Olde English concept, and the atmosphere of New Orleans. Landscaping and exterior building design match the overall theme on each street.

* * * *

COMMUNITY facilities include an adult recreation area consisting of a 55-foot swimming pool, a clubhouse, shuffle boards and a professional-type putting green.

Separated from the adult area is one for children, with a tennis and badminton court, wading pool, sand pit, swings and teeter-totters plus a "Little Red Schoolhouse" nursery.

Fountain Plaza is located at 18250 Brookhurst St., and can be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway.

LYNN EVERSON
Signal Hill Rotary Prexy

Everson Prexy of Rotary Club

Lynn Everson, 1529 Michalson St., has been installed as president of the Signal Hill Rotary Club. Everson, who is president of Pacific Butchers, Inc., 2704 Gundry Ave., succeeded Earl Beebe.

Other new officers include Lou Duarte, vice president; Bill Fields, secretary; and Bob Garrett, treasurer. Directors are Bob Randle, Earl Beebe and Fred Baxter.

Sales Award Won by Office in L.B.

Robert E. Gillette, manager of the Long Beach branch office of Monroe International, Inc., 690 Willow St., has been notified that his office has received a certificate of award in monthly sales. This award was won in a nationwide competition with other Monroe offices of the same size.

Monroe International (formerly Monroe Calculating Machine Co.,) is a division of Litton Industries and has 375 offices located throughout the United States and Canada.

Named to Sales Post

Glenn A. Nelson has been named South Pacific Zone sales manager for Hertz Rent A Car, it was announced recently by J. Howard Burns, zone manager.

Nelson will be at zone headquarters, 1801 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles.

Premier Homes North and South, in Huntington Beach, feature "Total Convenience" kitchens.

Premier Homes Kitchens Have Big Buyer Appeal

"Total Convenience" kitchens at Premier Homes North & South in Huntington Beach have been a focal point for buyer and visitor attention, reports Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents. "The 'total convenience' concept of the builder has proved to be very much in tune with current home buyer preferences," he said.

The sales agent said that in the design of Premier homes, builder William Rousey had made careful studies of consumer surveys in producing a home that would appeal to today's buyers. "Surveys revealed that homebuyers today want a complete and conveniently designed kitchen, not just a built-in range and oven," he said.

ROUSEY FIRST selected a double oven with independent controls, as a departure from conventional kitchen equipment. "This unit, with two complete ovens, allows the homemaker to bake in one oven while broiling in the other. Once a luxury, it is now a necessity and is standard equipped at Premier," McFarland said. A dishwasher is also standard equipment at Premier Homes.

The "Total Convenience" kitchens also include a custom bench-top installation for a blender, mixer, knife sharpener combination.

* * * *

OFFERED IN three and four-bedroom, two-bath models, the homes are priced from $24,750. VA no down and FHA minimum down financing are available, as well as conventional financing with good loans.

Visitors can reach Premier Homes by taking the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road and driving south on Bolsa Chica to Warner Ave. Turn left on Warner to Hwy. 39 and left two blocks to Terry St. and Premier's model home display.

Will Build Auto Center in Lakewood

A new 17,000 square foot Chrysler-Plymouth sales and service facility on three and one-half acres is slated for the Lakewood Shopping Center, according to Joseph K. Eichenbaum, head of J. K. Eichenbaum and Associates, exclusive leaseholders and developers.

The installation, owned by Ed Barbari presently located on Bellflower Blvd., Lakewood, will feature 24 service stalls including a wash and paint service. The Lakewood Shop center dealership will be located on Candlewood and Clark Street. The main building featuring concrete tilt-up will be 246 feet long on Candlewood. Division Builders, Inc., of Paramount is the contractor.

Ground breaking is scheduled for the last week of July, it was revealed.

Luxury Built Into Homes in Sol Vista

If we were in the food processing business, we'd probably refer to our homes as "Valu-Pakt," says Baxter Caterson, sales director for Sol-Vista homes in sea breeze cooled Huntington Beach.

It is the extra amenities that are responsible for the sales success of the 249-house project being built by the Alco-Pacific Construction Co., Inc. and known as the Sol-Vista, California Home Fair.

Buyers are impressed by the very latest Caloric Ultra-Ray oven with rotisserie and meat probe; the modern Caloric range with thermo set automatic top burner control. The Nu-tone blender and wonderful Waste King Char-Glo broiler for indoor barbecuing, the oversized vent hood with extra power fan and the beautiful Waste King dishwasher with the pre-wash cycle and amazing sparkle rinse feature.

* * * *

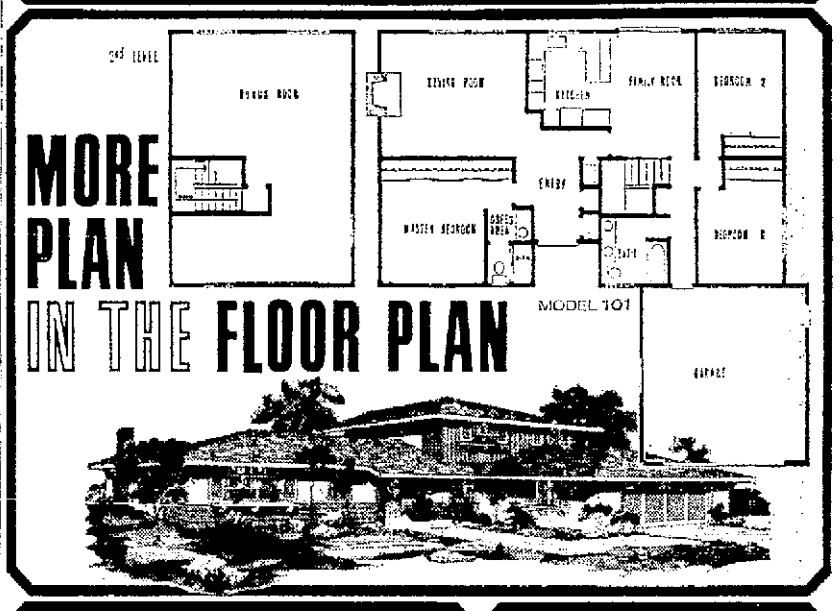

ALL THESE extras are in the individually stylized homes as well as premium light fixtures, light loving clerestory glass from floor to high beamed ceiling, vinyl wall paper and wide concrete driveways. And, of course, the feature seldom seen in anything but individually built custom homes, spacious garages with finished, painted interiors, are standard at the California Home Fair.

The Sol-Vista Home Fair models and display pavilion are at 16661 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach. The three-, four- and five-bedroom homes, all with dining area and family rooms range in price from $29,550 to $35,975. Excellent financing is available on FHA, Conventional and Cal-Vet terms.

Three-Car Garages in Landmark Homes

R. C. Morrison, sales manager, announced that all Landmark Homes in the new La Palma development will have spacious three-car garages.

Preview homeseekers are invited to visit the model area in the city of La Palma now. Located at the intersection of Moody St. and La Palma Ave., this newest Landmark Homes community will eventually comprise some 360 homes.

In the first unit there will be 144 homes. All will be two story and offer approximately 2222 sq. ft.

* * * *

A GENERAL PLAN for developing La Palma as the community of the "Ideal American City" has been approved by city councilmen. The development of residential, commercial and industrial land is expected by 1975.

The master plan calls for 490 acres of low-density residential housing, 88 acres in "town house" construction and 69 acres in high density apartments.

Features of the homes include: underground utilities, magnificent entries, spacious family rooms, deluxe built-ins, fireplaces, preparation for air conditioning, custom entry flooring, cultured pullmans, separate service areas, step-down living and family rooms, massive master bedroom suites and convenient dressing alcoves.

IN LANDMARK HOME
Here is a view from the kitchen looking through the dining area into the living room of one of the models in the newest Landmark Homes development in La Palma. All homes in the development are two-story models.

Prices begin at $27,875 with 5% down plan offered. All terms are flexible.

Goes to Lockheed

Ralph Clark, former aerospace editor of the Valley Times, Los Angeles, has been named corporate publicity representative for Lockheed Aircraft. He formerly was with the Minneapolis Star.

New Record Set

American Airlines flew 19,951,996 ton miles of freight in June for a new one-month domestic airline industry record. The previous one-month high was set by American in May, with 19,660,000 ton miles.

A ton mile (one ton carried one mile or one pound carried 2,000 miles) is the industry's standard measurement for cargo traffic.

School Takes Cover

Jet bombers zooming over a Lake Worth, Texas, high school sent students scurrying underground, but not in fear of an air raid. Sonic booms from a nearby air base were causing a daily 10% loss in teaching time, so a completely soundproof new school with 18 classrooms was built underground at a cost of $495,000.

Anaheim Estates Kitchens Appeal

Designed with the homemaker in mind, the all-electric kitchens in the Anaheim Estates homes feature birch cabinetry with magnetic catches.

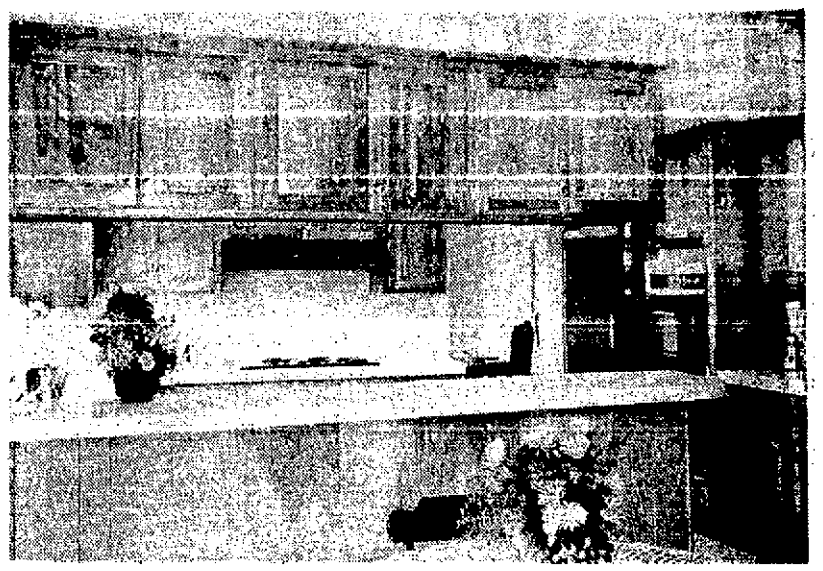

These planned kitchens have been laid out for maximum efficiency and beauty of surroundings. Proximity of cooking units, refrigerator and work areas cut down on extra steps in meal preparation and the oiled Birch cabinets will keep their lustre with a minimum of attention.

* * * *

THIS SECOND UNIT of eight completely air-conditioned Anaheim Estates homes is open every day from one to five and all day Sundays. Each two-story home, set on large pool sized landscaped lots, is designed to allow complete individual family flexibility.

Southland Realty is the sales agency for Anaheim Estates and Thomas T. Russell is contractor and builder.

The homes, located conveniently for shopping, business and quiet living, are offered in the higher price range. On-site sales offices are located at 2525 Orange Ave. between Magnolia and Brookhurst in Anaheim.

ATTRACTING HOME BUYERS
The fine cabinetry and all-electric equipment in the kitchens hold much appeal to visitors viewing the new offerings of Anaheim Estate homes.

New Neptune Unit of 91 Homes Is Opening Today

SPACIOUS HOME
Dramatic is the word for the spacious entries, large formal living area, and one and two-story exteriors at Neptune Homes near Orange County's Huntington Beach State Park. Priced from $26,700 to $32,550, the homes are available for as low as $795 down.

A new unit of 91 homes will open today at the Neptune Homes community in Fountain Valley with several new plan changes, new kitchens and other innovations added to the big one- and two-story homes.

Priced from $27,600, terms as low as $795 down will be featured at the new unit that is less than five minutes from Huntington Beach State Beach.

Spacious family rooms, deluxe kitchens, large formal living areas, fireplaces, big master bedroom suites, and smartly styled baths will combine with carpeting, landscaping, block wall and other Neptune features, according to developer, Roland Lagerloff.

* * * *

WITH CONSTRUCTION already under way, the new group of Neptune homes has been planned for completion at the start of the next school term, Lagerloff, long-time Orange County custom home builder, explained.

Buyers in the new group will have a wide selection in lot size, plan and exterior with designs ranging from contemporary, traditional, Old English and Hawaiian.

To visit Neptune Homes from Long Beach, take the San Diego Freeway to Hwy. 39; then go south to Warner Ave.; stay east on Warner to Brookhurst then south to the homes.

Showcase Homes New Unit Opening

Initial showing of houses in the new Showcase Homes development in Westminster is scheduled this weekend, it was announced by McFarland & Mattocks, sales agents.

One of the most popular features incorporated into several of the floor plans available at the community is the "growing room," an area which can be utilized in a variety of ways to suit the individual needs of a family.

The "growing room," officials pointed out, can serve as a two or three-bedroom suite, a spacious rumpus or hobby room, and can be changed to meet the requirements of a family over the years.

HAS CUSTOM COMPLETION PLAN
Showcase Homes in Westminster will be presented today for the first time with models such as this offered. Under a custom completion plan, buyers are given the opportunity to select many of custom details in the house.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the development is the "custom completion" plan, which gives buyers the opportunity to choose many of the custom details and planning of the house. Officials pointed out that an early selection insures the buyer a wider choice in selection of materials, etc.

The spacious homes in the new Medallion development on Hazard Ave. at Brookhurst, contain up to six bedrooms and range in price from $25,950. All-electric kitchens are fully equipped with a variety of built-in appliances and the homes contain numerous features, as approved by the buyer.

All utility lines in the development are underground.

Model homes and sales office are open daily from 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Homes Are Planned for Large Families

Floor plans designed for large families who like to combine their indoor-outdoor living at home, are attracting homebuyers to Barkley Square, according to Stanley W. Sampson, president of Barkley Development Co.

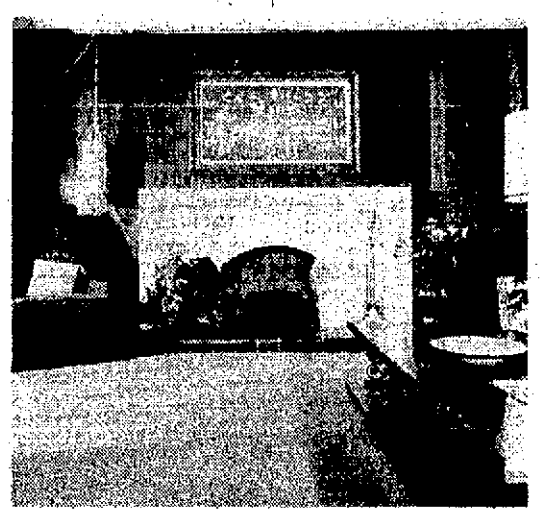

Large families show especially keen interest in the unique patio-kitchen which features a countertop on one wall that extends beyond the home's outer wall to form an outside snack bar near rear patio areas. Sliding glass windows above the counters, along with sliding glass doors provide easy indoor-outdoor access.

Located in Cypress, Barkley Square presents one and two-story residences in a choice of four floor plans and 11 exteriors.

More than 2400 square feet of living space is offered in three to four-bedroom models with two to three baths.

VA, FHA and conventional financing are available on homes priced from $27,950.

Models may be reached by driving east on Carson to Moody, then right to Barkley Square.

A CYPRESS OFFERING
Barkley Square homes in Cypress feature magnificent wood-burning fireplaces and raised or sunken living rooms in a choice of four floor plans and 11 exteriors.

Gas Co. Building Addition Finished

A $1¼-million addition to the Southern Counties Gas Co. base operating building in Orange County has been completed by the Kiely Corporation, Anaheim contractors.

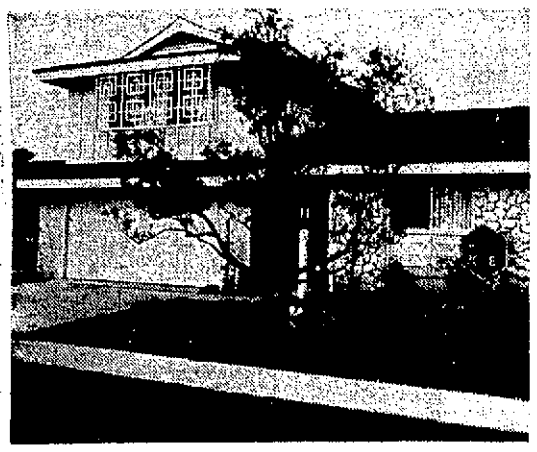

Supervisor of the project, which houses Southern Counties Gas Company's IBM Center at 1919 State College Boulevard, Anaheim, was Cliff Scioneaux.

ALMOST OVERNIGHT in 1900, indoor plumbing separated up-to-date homes from the out-of-date. In 1948, built-in kitchen appliances did likewise. Then, in 1964, Telephone Planning did it again. Be sure your next home or apartment has concealed wiring and sufficient outlets through Telephone Planning.

Big New City Park Boosts El Dorado

NEAR NEW PARK
Distinctive El Dorado Park Estates, Long Beach, offering homes like this, will be enhanced by the city's new municipal El Dorado Park East, now under construction nearby.

El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach were designed and planned with the neighboring new municipal recreation park in mind, according to Doreen Smith, project sales manager for the builders.

"The new El Dorado Park East as the city calls it, is now under construction, and will include 441 acres of "outdoor" type landscaping, and a stream connecting two lakes, all of which make a great recreation area, and increase the value of the homes," Mrs. Smith said.

S & S Construction Co., offers one-story, two-story and split-level models, with five, four and three bedrooms and luxurious living space. Electric kitchens include built-in range, double oven and dishwasher.

Conventional financing is offered, and prices start from $32,200. Visitors may see the furnished models on Spring St. west of Los Alamitos accessible via Long Beach Freeway to Studebaker Road off-ramp, then north to Spring and right to El Dorado Park Estates.

Japanese TV Exports to Hit Million

Japanese exports of television sets to the U.S. this year will reach the 1,000,000 mark for the first time according to Merchandising Week, McGraw-Hill publication.

Exports for the first four months of 1965 are running 63% ahead of comparable figures in the same 1964 period.

Through April, Japan has exported 272,338 sets, worth approximately $15-million dollars to the U.S. This compares to 166,270 sets, worth almost $9-million dollars, in the first four months of 1964. Last year, Japan exported a total of 770,255 sets to the U.S.

SLUM AREAS OFTEN LEAD TO POVERTY OF MIND FOR CHILDREN TRAPPED IN THEIR ENVIRONMENT.

. . . Our hope in this divided world lies with the education of our children. They must be less ignorant than we. Let's give them a fine start . . . a head start.

HEAD START... off to good start

By MARY NETH

Timmy joyously downed six sandwiches.

Marty couldn't be pried from the trike.

Raymie strutted from playyard to playroom with a big nervous grin. Debbie retreated to a corner and cried.

These were some of the vignettes enacted at nine brightly decorated nursery schools here the first of the month.

It was pre-school pandemonium but no one was panicking.

Project Head Start was off to a good start.

TO DATE 642 wriggly, wide-eyed four-year-olds are delving into the mysteries of kindergarten at nine city locations.

They're taking part in a program termed by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson as "the most exciting, productive and practical project any government can embark on." The goal: conservation of America's most valuable resource —our children.

The pre-schoolers eligible for Head Start are typical of their age group—restless, hungry for recognition.

Each child, of course, is unique. Some are brightly daring, some slow and cautious, some soak up affection like an eager sponge, some reject it with wary disdain.

WHAT DISTINGUISHES them as a group?

Each comes from an area having a generally lower income than surrounding neighborhoods.

Through just this circumstance alone the children can be noted as culturally deprived—hemmed in by an environment which fosters failure more frequently than success.

In Long Beach the plight of pre-schoolers from lower income areas might not be as severe as in big city slums but Head Start still is greatly needed.

Alvin L. Resnik and Mrs. Ruby Terry are certain of this.

RESNIK, principal of Bixby Elementary School, heads the school district's program which consists of morning and afternoon classes at eight Long Beach elementary schools.

Mrs. Terry is director of Long Beach Community Improvement League's program, 2222 Olive Ave.

The two Office of Economic Opportunity sponsored programs, separate but cooperative, provide similar sessions which include field trips, health services (complete check-ups), and daily lunches.

"Each year many children arrive at kindergarten totally unprepared — behind their classmates before they begin," says Resnik.

"Their parents have not been able to give them many things the majority of their classmates have taken for granted.

"FOR EXAMPLE, perhaps their mother supports them and several brothers and sisters. It's unlikely she's had time to give much individual attention or, for that matter, had the money to buy story books or toys."

"Many of the parents tell me how grateful they are for this extra chance for their youngsters," says Mrs. Terry. "They're pleased to know the community cares—they're eager to do all they can to cooperate."

"I'm glad to see this plan in action," says a local kindergarten teacher. "Each year I've had youngsters I wished I could keep just a few months longer.

"They were behind their peers when they entered kindergarten, I knew they'd still be behind when they entered first grade. As school grows more complicated they have less and less chance to catch up."

TO AN ADULT it seems amazing that a child could fail kindergarten but that's what in reality all too often happens, say educators.

Some children from culturally deprived areas already have suffered real deprivation and neglect by the time they are four.

The environment has so limited their experience that they don't know the simplest things—they may never have owned a toy, never turned the pages of a book. These children may have great potential but little chance of expressing it.

"In a city growing like Long Beach, Head Start provides a head start in coping with community problems," says Resnik. "We have a chance here of solving problems before they get out of hand."

ACCORDING to Martin Deutsch, Ph. D., co-director Institute for Developmental Studies, New York Medical College, the culture of the deprived child is different from the culture that molded the school. Result: the gap of understanding between a child and teacher is often too great for real communication.

The teacher is apt to assume the child understands much more than he does. Frustration can build on both sides.

Why must a community accept the responsibility of coping with these problems?

According to many educators and economists it's a matter of survival.

In tomorrow's world of atomation, atoms and yet undreamed of advances, the self-made uneducated man is bound to be as out of step as a slack-jawed stone ager would be today. They note that a strong country must be a well educated country—one with the ability to compete intellectually with other nations of the world—a country not handicapped by pockets of ignorance.

PRE-SCHOOL PAINTERS . . . Prevue Fall Classes program is so popular there is already a waiting list.

Casting some light on candle tricks

You can burn your candle and keep it, too!

That was just one of the many candle tips that came to light during an interview with Charmaine (Mrs. Donald) Clapp of the Candle Kitchen at Knott's Berry Farm. Charmaine has ideas galore to fire up the imagination of any housewife with a yen to decorate with candles.

Do you hate to touch a match to a fancy, big candle for the first time and watch it begin to melt away? Here's the clever "burn your candle, keep it, too" idea offered by Charmaine.

GO AHEAD and light with the aplomb of a millionaire. After it has burned about four hours (keep a miserly eye on it, however, it may take less time) there will be a well melted, just the right size to hold an insert candle—known as butter warmers or votives. From that day on, burn the little inserts and the big candle will appear to be burning but you won't be wasting a bit of it.

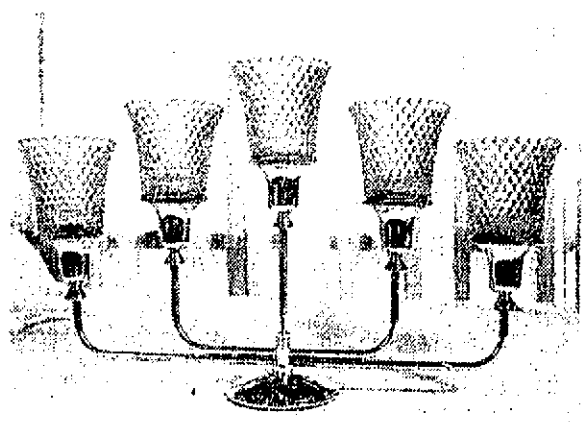

Charmaine, whose most recent speaking appearance was for Long Beach Yacht Club's ladies day, said she "fell" into the candle business through her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Flanders, owners of Candle Kitchen.

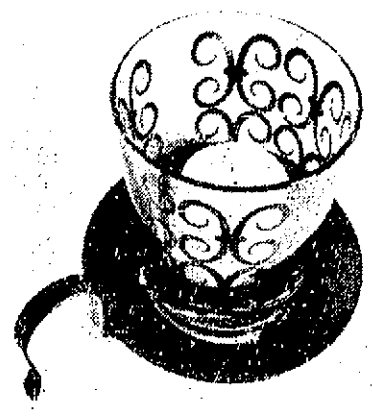

Expensive, glamorous candles are marvelous focal points for home decoration but there are many inexpensive ways to have your home glow with handsomely done candlelight. For instance, choose peg glass holders in a complementery shade for your home. The peg—or protrusion—of these glasses will fit any standard candelabra or candle holder. Here, again, the votive or butter warmer candle placed inside will cast glimmer with the color of glass selected.

ANOTHER handy hint she gave—use scented, squat candles in powder rooms. Especially appre-

THERE ISN'T a happier backyard in town than that at 3514 Heather Road every Tuesday and Thursday morning from 10 a.m. to noon. Nor is there a more imaginative or successful young school marm than Nancy Boyd, just 11, who is in business as a pre-school teacher. Nancy, the daughter of Lou and Jim Boyd, dreamed up the whole idea and operates her classes like clockwork (see photo right).

She copes magnificiently with her students, limited to five (although every kid in the block wants to enroll), namely Connie Gamage, 2½, sisters Lorrie and Jamie, Ellis, 4 and 2; Tammy McFadden, 5; and Nancy's own sister, Julie, 3.

Nancy charges 35 cents a student per week and from this buys all the craft materials (she plans a new craft for each session) and supplies the little ones with all the fixings for a "juice and cookie break" at 11 a.m.

Happy-to-pay parents (they deliver offspring with the biggest grins imaginable) are Herb and Pat Gamage, Gary and Darlene Ellis and Joan and Mike McFadden.

Nancy comes by her tendency to be a pre-school executive naturally. Mama Lou ran just such a school when she was 13; as an adult ran pre-schools here and in San Diego. About last Tuesday's class, Lou sighed, "it was almost too much." Nancy garnered together a bunch of bells, sticks, buckets, etc., and taught the small fry all about rhythm band music.

OUR ERUDITE, sparkly and utterly charming Washington, D. C., correspondent, Virginia Weldon Kelly, is in town. Regardless of the fact that Virginia moves in the upper echelon of government and international society in the capital, Long Beach feels a lot like "home town" to her.

She's staying in an apartment at the Lafayette Hotel in that part of the building which was the former Campbell Apts. where she lived in the 1930s as a young Navy bride (her husband is Rear Adm. Tom Kelly) and again during World War II.

EVEN IF the sun does break through the overcast Thursday there'll be a shower later on. Betty Bixby, Ruth Dougherty and Bea Hart are going to create one, the bridal kind, for Meredith Sawyer during a luncheon at Long Beach Yacht Club. Meredith and Tom Medanich will be married Aug. 21.

DELECTABLE vacation is fully blueprinted for Bill and Nancy Brooks and they'll lay their travel foundation Aug. 10 by flying polar route to Copenhagen. They'll do the "Fairy Tale Tour" of Denmark then cruise to Oslo, Norway, to boat through the gorgeous fjords.

After this, Scotland—Edinburgh to visit relatives of Nancy's and on to north Scotland to stay at Glen Eagles Country Club and play its famous golf course. Later London, on to Salsburg, tour the Alps by car, then Vienna. Next they fly to Athens to meet Rufus and Hart Davis (as Harts complete three months tour of Africa). The four will spend a week aboard the liner Stella Polaris cruising the Grecian islands before enplaning home Sept. 18.

ROARING excitement at Betty Barbee's home right now. Son, Bill, returned Thursday from Puerto Rico, where he trained for Peace Corps assignment. He'll be here just 10 days before going to Bolivia for two years. Friday Betty had a Spanish themed party for Bill, a real rock and roll session for his many friends.

Saturday she had a party for herself, a gay cocktails and dinner fun-fest.

ON A steady diet of anything but fish—in preparation for August—are Frank and Doris Dutcher and daughter, Leilla, 9. The three are going to spend the month in Colorado trout fishing in the mesa area above Grand Junction.

There are 200 lakes there on the western slope of the state and in one or the other of them you can catch every known kind of trout. They'll stay in lodges, some of which they'll have to pack in by horseback to reach. One of their favorites is a colorful, cozy lodge Teddy Roosevelt used to frequent. The fishing is so great and the country so magnificent Frank and Doris go almost every year.

HAWAII-BOUND will be Ed and Florence Iliff and children, going skyward on the Elk's Club special tour. Only be gone 10 days but they'll sop up Polynesia like foot-thick blotters.

IF YOU'RE out hunting for laughs today try a visit to Whaley Park about 4 p.m. The Bob Cat team of Kiwanis T-Shirt League will celebrate the end of their season with a picnic with parents—and, for laughs, will play three innings in competition with their moms. They'll also play three innings with dads. Could be pretty amusing, too.

Among parents who'll creak tomorrow will be Nancy Mallock, mom's team captain, her husband, Chuck, manager of the boys' team, Pat and Lucy Estes, Guy and Betty Mitchell, Ken and Flo Richmond, Barbara and Karyl Napper and Bob and Alicia Thon.

THURSDAY will be one long aloha day for Susan Shackelton. She'll say aloha in farewell to her parents, Jeff and Jayne, and again, five hours later, in greeting to a sorority sister with whom she'll be a houseguest in the island. Susan will return to mainland in time to resume teaching.

THERE ARE a jillion joys or jangles in July. One of the joys will be the party Marie (Mrs. James) Graham will have Monday in honor of Sally (Mrs. Charles) Kennedy. One of the jangles will be when Sally and Charles and sons leave us to move to Cincinnati end of the month—necessitated by a Procter and Gamble promotion, which, for leave-takers, is happy reason.

WHEN Lyle and June Huggins were in Japan a month ago they were graciously entertained by important Japanese insurance people. Now it will be the Hugginses' pleasure to reciprocate. From Tuesday through Saturday they'll have as houseguests K. Shirakawa, head of a large insurance firm in Japan and president of one of his country's biggest insurance associations. Also Ken Kuriyama, U.S. manager of a Tokyo insurance firm. Shirakawa is in the U.S. heading up a contingent of Japanese insurance men appearing at a U.C. Berkeley seminar.

On the 23rd, 36 of them will fly down from up north and Lyle and June will have a big party for them as well as take them on a bus tour of Long Beach show places, the harbor, Douglas, etc.

Why is no-trump trouble?

North would have no trouble making four spades. He would ruff the third heart and play three rounds of trumps. That would leave East with a good trump but North would lead out diamonds and clubs until such time as East chose to run.

Five diamonds would also make. North would have to play the king and ace of spades and ruff a low spade with one of dummy's high trumps before drawing trumps but this would not be too difficult.

Three no-trump would also have made except that the defense rattled off five heart tricks before South could gain the lead and each partner felt that the other was at fault for letting the hand play at three no-trump.

* * * *

WE HAVE been appealed to for a decision and must assess practically all the blame to South. He bid no-trump over his partner's spade and three no-trump over his partner's three diamonds. After that second no-trump bid North was surely entitled to credit his partner with at least one stopper in hearts.

Of course, South did have a difficult bid over three diamands but he could have solved his problem by bidding three spades. He would not expect North to go on to four spades without a good five card suit. Or South could have bid four diamonds which would have been all right.

Desk and Derrick to hear engineer

Donald D. Lloyd, petroleum engineer, will talk on aspects of mud drilling at Desk and Derrick Club's dinner meeting Wednesday, 6:30 p.m. in Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave.

Thelma Smith and Leta Donkle, president and arrangements chairman, will report on the regional meeting held here recently.

FOR DECORATION IMPACT . . .

She sheds light on candles

ciated by first time guests because the light is enough for them to find the electric light switch in a strange room.

Easiest trick of all for the hostess who feels she isn't artistic: Place floating candles, combined with plastic or fresh flowers, in a low bowl in a pool of reflecting water. A simple, effective conversation piece for any season.

Decorative, hollow plastic containers make great holders for insert candles. Just be sure the container is large enough so that the flame is not too close to the sides.

The illusion of a big, handsome candle is obtained but, again, you are simply burning the inexpensive insert. This is an especially good idea for outdoor patio tables. The container keeps the candle from blowing out.

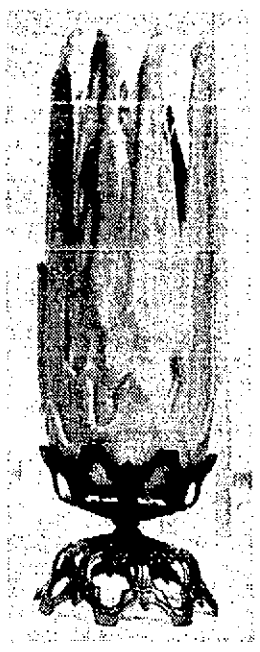

* * * *

ONE OF the prettiest coffee table candle holders shown by Mrs. Clapp was a varicolored glass mosaic bowl. It would fit any color theme and, with candle burning inside, gives the effect of stained glass on a sunny day.

Why can some candles burn (the big variety) to the base without melting into lopsided shapelessness? It depends on the grade of the petroleum wax used. There are 60 grades — ranging from very hard to very soft —and how the candle burns depends on the grade of wax employed.

Paraffin, the kind used to cover jams and jellies, has a very low melting point and, if used for homemade candles, burns too quickly.

Professionally made candles at the Kitchen are made in three pourings. Into a stainless steel mold the first third is poured after the wick has been secured. After this hardens the next layer is poured. For both these pourings the wax should be at a temperature of between 140 and 150 degrees. When the second layer is setting up the wick is pulled and twisted to insure that it is in true center position and also to loosen it slightly in event of any air holes which might have formed around it.

PLASTIC HOLDER
. . . ideal for patio

The third pouring is done with wax at 160 degrees—hot enough to melt down through the shaft of the wick to fill in air holes and solidify it in position.

WAX POURED too cold will form bubbles. Too cold is anything under 130 degrees. Special cotton braid is used for wicks and is available in various sizes from hobby shops. The size of the wick controls the size of the hole burned. Some braid has a wire insert interwoven which helps control the speed of burning.

Mrs. Clapp said that, as far as she knows, there are no schools for would-be candle makers. You do what she and her parents have done —learn through trial, error and the advice of others.

Specialty candles have become so popular, they are made for all seasons and occasions. Special birthday candles, different for each month, are in demand, Charmaine said. In fact, they create complete new designs twice a year for all specialty candles.

Brunch benefits visually handicapped

Delta Gamma Alumnae will launch their Sail Away Brunch for a See Worthy Cause July 29 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the home and garden of Mrs. Robert J. Ritner, 235 Claiborne Place.

The party will benefit the Delta Gamma Nursery School for the Visually Handicapped, 4129 Marathon St., Los Angeles, established in 1938 by Southern California alumnae chapters. A nautical and floral decor will be featured.

Mrs. Henry N. Johnston, alumnae president, and Mrs. Wilbur G. Hein, chairman of the event, invites members and friends to the buffet brunch. Members will model informal fashions from Town and Country.

* * * *

COMMITTEE members assisting Mrs. Hein are Mmes. Robert J. Tarpy, Donald Coscarelli, C. Roy Conn, Donald Berger, Keith Carey, Sheldon Gebb and Francis Deily.

Ticket information and reservations may be obtained from Mmes. James Epperson, 11345 Wembley Road, or Douglas Swift, 3272 Wendy Way, both of Rossmoor.

PRACTICING POSING AT POOL-SIDE
Model Delta Gammas are (seated) collegiate member Lou Ann LeLaucheur, Mrs. Alanson W. Green Jr., (standing) Phyllis Mouw and Mrs. Gayle Brandom, alumnae.

Why is no-trump trouble?

North would have no trouble making four spades. He would ruff the third heart and play three rounds of trumps. That would leave East with a good trump but North would lead out diamonds and clubs until such time as East chose to run.

Five diamonds would also make. North would have to play the king and ace of spades and ruff a low spade with one of dummy's high trumps before drawing trumps but this would not be too difficult.

Three no-trump would also have made except that the defense rattled off five heart tricks before South could gain the lead and each partner felt that the other was at fault for letting the hand play at three no-trump.

* * * *

WE HAVE been appealed to for a decision and must assess practically all the blame to South. He bid no-trump over his partner's spade and three no-trump over his partner's three diamonds. After that second no-trump bid North was surely entitled to credit his partner with at least one stopper in hearts.

Of course, South did have a difficult bid over three diamonds but he could have solved his problem by bidding three spades. He would not expect North to go on to four spades without a good five card suit. Or South could have bid four diamonds which would have been all right.

She sheds light on candles

ciated by first time guests because the light is enough for them to find the electric light switch in a strange room.

Easiest trick of all for the hostess who feels she isn't artistic: Place floating candles, combined with plastic or fresh flowers, in a low bowl in a pool of reflecting water. A simple, effective conversation piece for any season.

Decorative, hollow plastic containers make great holders for insert candles. Just be sure the container is large enough so that the flame is not too close to the sides.

The illusion of a big, handsome candle is obtained but, again, you are simply burning the inexpensive insert. This is an especially good idea for outdoor patio tables. The container keeps the candle from blowing out.

* * * *

ONE OF the prettiest coffee table candle holders shown by Mrs. Clapp was a varicolored glass mosaic bowl. It would fit any color theme and, with candle burning inside, gives the effect of stained glass on a sunny day.

Why can some candles burn (the big variety) to the base without melting into lopsided shapelessness? It depends on the grade of the petroleum wax used. There are 60 grades — ranging from very hard to very soft —and how the candle burns depends on the grade of wax employed.

Paraffin, the kind used to cover jams and jellies, has a very low melting point and, if used for homemade candles, burns too quickly.

Professionally made candles at the Kitchen are made in three pourings. Into a stainless steel mold the first third is poured after the wick has been secured. # Bridal pairs repeat vows

Hatfield-Haddock

Patricia Ann Haddock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Haddock, married Lowell E. Hatfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hatfield of Middletown, Ind., in a Saturday afternoon ceremony at East Side Christian Church.

The bride wore a gown of organza with Chantilly lace bodice and sleeves. Her bouffant veil was edged in lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Hatfield were honor attendants for the couple.

The bridegroom graduated from Indiana State University, where he affiliated with Theta Chi.

Following a Palm Springs honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in Long Beach.

Groves-Zawisza

Mary Beth Zawisza and Bruce Alvin Groves were wed Saturday at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Messrs. and Mmes. Leon J. Zawisza of Long Beach and Bruce Alvin Groves of Lakewood.

The bride wore a Chantilly lace gown decorated with seed pearls and sequins. A lace headpiece held her fingertip veil.

Mrs. John Costello attended her sister as matron of honor. Douglas Groves was his brother's best man.

Other members of the wedding party were Maureen Spencer, Paula Spuck, Dennis McConnell and Charles Meyer.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's parents.

The new Mrs. Groves is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School. Her husband graduated from Lakewood High School and Long Beach City College, where he affiliated with Chi Sigma.

Abla-Thompson

Brigitte Thompson, daughter of Mrs. James E. Thompson of Long Beach and the late Mr. Thompson, recited wedding vows with Vernie Wayne Abla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Wayne Abla of Lawton, Okla., Saturday at New Post Chapel, Ft. Sill, Okla.

The bride wore a gown of peau de soie and embroidered silk organza. Patricia Wathe was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sonja Thompson and Cynthia Williams.

Jack Abla served his brother as best man. Steve Abla and Donnie Conner seated guests.

The new Mrs. Abla graduated from Long Beach State College.

The couple will reside in Westminster.

Day-Watt

A silk taffeta empire gown with Alencon lace applique was worn by the bride. She was attended by Cece Kimes, maid of honor; Patti Wilkinson, Donna Laughlin, Margie Harvey, Kathy Turner and Mrs. Mike Grijalva, bridesmaids.

Michael F. Day served his brother as best man. Other members of the entourage included Michele Subnick, Dick Gallagher, Mike Graves, Don Brown, Joe Saylor, Steve Watt and Christopher Grays.

The former Miss Watts graduated from Wilson High School and is a student at Long Beach State College, affiliated with Delta Delta Delta. Her husband is a LBSC graduate, a Sigma Alpha Epsilon member.

The couple will live in Belmont Shore following a wedding trip to San Diego.

Gurley-Matson

Jane Ann Matson, daughter of Mrs. E. Leonard Wells, was married to Brian Keith Gurley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Gurley, Saturday afternoon at St. Barnabas Catholic Church.

An ivory satin formal gown embroidered with roses of crystals and pearls was chosen by the bride for her wedding. Janis Motshagen was maid of honor and Sharon Cook and JoAnn Kish, bridesmaids.

Tom Nevin served the bridegroom as best man. Tom Matson, Jerald Jackson, Dennis Gauhan and William Perone seated guests.

The couple graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bridegroom attended Long Beach City College.

The newlyweds will be at home after Aug. 1 in Belmont Heights on their return from Hawaii.

Hall-Tickle

Blessed Sacrament Church in Westminster was chosen for the ceremony uniting in marriage Barbara Jean Tickle and Robert Carlton Hall.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Howard Hall, formerly of Long Beach, and William F. Tickle, all of Westminster.

A white satin gown with Chantilly lace overblouse was worn by the bride. Mrs. Richard Tickle attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor.

Elwood Johnson served the bridegroom as best man. Other members of the bridal entourage were Bobbie Baur, Karen McGovern, Katherine Hunter, Kenneth Visser, Michael Paxton and Anthony Hunter.

The couple graduated from Westminster High School. On their return from a San Francisco honeymoon, they will live in Garden Grove.

Richardson-Goodman

Jordan High School graduates Troy Lynn Goodman and Ronald LeRoy Richardson exchanged nuptial vows Friday at Community Presbyterian Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Goodman, wore a gown of organza over taffeta appliqued with Alencon lace. Mrs. Gene Willen was her matron of honor. Janet Lee and Paula Marie Goodman, Carol Whyatt, Mmes. Robert Ellis and Edward Reddick were bridesmaids.

Larry Dean Richardson served his brother as best man. Larry Goldsmith, Philip Rodasta and Robert Ellis were ushers.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Goodman, is a student at Long Beach State College.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel, the couple will reside in Bellflower.

Root-Gribble

Judy Ann Gribble became the bride of Thomas Lawrence Root Saturday in Holy Innocents Church.

A graduate of Poly High School who attended Long Beach City College, BTC, the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry John Larsen, 2731 Golden Ave., and Marvin Gribble, Downey.

She wore a gown of silk peau de soie and was attended by Carli Macrate, maid of honor, and Nancy Nation, Gayle Harada and Kathy Storrey, bridesmaids.

Other members of the wedding party were Bill Crume, best man; Bruce Bramen and Grant Gribble, ushers; Sherri Hoover and Linda Rosales, flower girls.

Native daughter European hostess

New first lady of the largest U.S. Naval installation in Europe at Rota, Spain, is a Long Beach native daughter, Mrs. Jack C. Young.

The former Helen Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Wise, 13391 Danbury Lane, Seal Beach, as the wife of Commander, U.S. Naval Activities in Spain and Portugal, will have much of the responsibility for the social calendar for her husband. The calendar revolves around Spanish-American relations and includes a continual flow of visits by key American and foreign military and political figures.

* * * *

A city in itself, the naval base has nearly 5,000 U.S. military and civilian personnel and more than 3,000 dependents, plus about 1,300 employed Spanish nationals.

Captain and Mrs. Young have two daughters, Peggy and Pamela. Peggy, 16, lives with her parents at Rota. Pamela, 22, is employed by a Long Beach bank and resides with an aunt, Helen L. Kunz. She will join the family in the fall.

SOX SUN ARTS PG—Sculptor KENGIRO AZUMA, constructing sculpture for Long Beach State College symposium, says, "Aluminum is a lovely material but only when the sculpture is finished does the material take on life."

THEY CALL HIM 'DYNAMITE'

Sparks fly as sculptor works

By ELISE EMERY

When Kengiro Azuma visited Paramount Steel Company in Los Alamitos he saw the incandescent bands of sparks leaping from welders' torches, heard the screeching saws ripping metal, felt the vibrations of heavy steel being trucked in.

He smiled happily and said, "I want to work here."

For three generations the Japanese sculptor's family has owned a foundry in northern Japan and the sights and sounds and smells are home to him.

The energetic 102-pound, 5 feet 3 artist, here to take part in the International Sculpture Symposium at Long Beach State College, has been nicknamed "Dynamite" by his colleagues.

His sculpture, now rising in the foundry, is being made of vertical pieces of aluminum varying from three-sixteenths of an inch to more than an inch in thickness. The completed work will stand 12 feet 6 inches and will be placed near the Health Building on the lower campus of the college.

One assistant, Dale Hallberg, art teacher at Troy High School, Fullerton, speaks only English.

The other assistant, Marisa Wolinsky who will graduate this summer from LBSC, speaks English and Italian.

"We communicate with drawings, sign language, pointing and one syllable words and we understand each other perfectly," Hallberg explains.

Azuma, born in Japan in 1926, graduated from, then taught at the Academy of Arts in Tokyo. In 1956 he received a grant from the Italian government to study for four years in Milan with Marino Marini. Since he had his first one-man show in Milan in 1961 he has exhibited in Venice, Rome, Spoleto, Barcelona, Lausanne, Tokyo, Taipei, Stuttgart and Locarno.

THE SCULPTOR and painter took part in the 1964 Documenta III exhibition, the third International Biennial in Carrara and the seventh International Modern Art Biennial in Tokyo.

The motivation for his work is philosophical, a search for universal rhythm to explain the cycle of life.

"Sculpture is form and volume arranged in a certain way, but I want more than that. I want a spiritual quality, a sense of life in a continuous left to right, up and down, elliptical movement with a continuity you can detect from any point.

"All of my works signify three basic principles: earth, man and sky. They express the flux from earth through man to the sky.

* * * *

"I AM NOT concerned with the particular but with the universal. The arbitrary separation of countries by boundaries, having separate Italian, French, Spanish pavilions at World Fairs—such things are unnatural. There is but one man."

Azuma's previous sculptures have been cast bronze, aluminum, steel or silver. This is his first constructed work and will be joined with tack welding and bolts.

"There will be some external welding and needed bolts will be seen from the outside to give texture and make the work lose its rigidity, become more organic, more human.

"You must always follow nature, never fight it. Go along with what is needed, don't try to conceal."

* * * *

AZUMA WORKS intuitively, without a mock-up or pattern. "There is a spontaneous flow between me and the work."

Where two lines meet, edges of the aluminum will be painted black "to keep the eye jumping."

Some lines are quick and close together, others more serene, farther apart—"like a symphony with a long melodic line and variations in tempo — now staccato, now largo."

All of Azuma's works are titled "Mu." This sculpture will be "Mu 464."

"Mu, in Zen philosophy, means 'nothing.' Not in the English sense but meaning a meeting of opposites, things that compensate and eliminate each other. Black and white, good and evil, something and nothing. The dialectic concept.

"With my sculpture I want to tell the story of man. Life has started for man; we don't know where it will end."

Katims to direct in Bowl

American maestro Milton Katims will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra in concerts Tuesday and Thursday at Hollywood Bowl. The Saturday "Pops" concert will have Percy Faith conducting the Hollywood Bowl Pops Orchestra, and duo-pianists Ferrante and Teicher as soloists. All programs begin at 8:30.

Soloist Tuesday will be Rudolf Firkusny, Czech pianist, performing Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini." Katims, music director of the Seattle Symphony, will open the program with the Overture to "La Gazza Ladra" by Rossini. Also programmed are "Medea's Meditation" and "Dance of Vengeance" by American composer Samuel Barber, and Franck's "Symphony in D Minor."

* * * *

TWO YOUNG American-born artists will be soloists with Katims Thursday. Stephen Kates, 22-year-old cellist, will perform Tchaikovsky's "Variations on a Rococo Theme for Cello and Orchestra." Pianist James Fields, 17, will play Saint-Saens' "Concerto No. 2 in G Minor."

Both Kates and Fields have received the Young Musicians Foundation 1965 Debut Grant of $1000. Fields, born in Los Angeles, has appeared previously at the Bowl and with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Kates, born in New York, has been soloist with the New York Philharmonic, and last year toured in Europe and the Middle East with William Steinberg and the Pittsburgh Symphony. He came to California in 1964 to study in Gregor Piatigorsky's Master Class at the University of Southern California.

Minstrels head bill at Greek

One of the sprightliest, most audience captivating, wholesome singing groups today, the New Christy Minstrels, will perform Monday through next Sunday at Greek Theater. Woody Allen, comic monologist, will share the bill.

The Minstrels, first organized in 1961, were named after a company of pre-Civil War entertainers organized by Edwin "Pops" Christy. Under guidance of George Greif and Sid Garris, to whom Randy Sparks sold his share of the Minstrels for $2.5 million in 1964, the New Christy Minstrels have become leading international favorites.

Rounce, Coffin book exhibit at library

Notable examples of fine printing and craftsmanship may be seen at the second floor lobby of the Main Library in Lincoln Park where the 16th annual showing of the Western Books Exhibition of the Rounce and Coffin Club is on display.

This book show, inaugurated in 1938, was the first of the regional book exhibits in the United States. The 35 books chosen for this year's exhibit represent 19 Western publishers.

THE UNIVERSITY of Oklahoma Press takes the honors with seven entries. Among the selections from Norman, Okla., are "Continued Next Week," a history of the moving picture serial: "Seven Daughters of the Theater," where Marilyn Monroe keeps company with Sarah Bernhardt; and "Ballads and Folk Songs of the Southwest," which include more than 600 titles, melodies and texts collected in Oklahoma. The above three titles are also in the Long Beach Public Library collection. The Library owns ten other titles listed in the 1965 selections.

* * * *

SOME of the books are from limited editions not usually available in public libraries. One of the most charming of these is "Mark Twain Roughed It Here," by Frank J. Thomas (hand-printed by ten worn fingers) at the Tenfingers Press in Los Angeles. Mark Twain's description of Mono Lake is accompanied by six photographs by the author.

This outstanding exhibit will remain on view through July 30 when it will be forwarded to the University of California at Riverside.

KENGIRO AZUMA, constructing sculpture for Long Beach State College symposium, says, "Aluminum is a lovely material but only when the sculpture is finished does the material take on life."

THEY CALL HIM 'DYNAMITE'

Sparks fly as sculptor works

By ELISE EMERY

When Kengiro Azuma visited Paramount Steel Company in Los Alamitos he saw the incandescent bands of sparks leaping from welders' torches, heard the screeching saws ripping metal, felt the vibrations of heavy steel being trucked in.

He smiled happily and said, "I want to work here."

For three generations the Japanese sculptor's family has owned a foundry in northern Japan and the sights and sounds and smells are home to him.

The energetic 102-pound, 5 feet 3 artist, here to take part in the International Sculpture Symposium at Long Beach State College, has been nicknamed "Dynamite" by his colleagues.

His sculpture, now rising in the foundry, is being made of vertical pieces of aluminum varying from three-sixteenths of an inch to more than an inch in thickness. The completed work will stand 12 feet 6 inches and will be placed near the Health Building on the lower campus of the college.

'Mame' leading lady set

"Auntie Mame," adapted as a play from the novel by Patrick Dennis, will open Friday at Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. It will run Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays for seven weeks.

Laura Killingsworth, star of many Civic Light Opera roles and prominent in local musical activities, will play her first leading dramatic role as the sparkling, madcap Auntie Mame.

* * * *

THE DIRECTOR, Kathy Davis, originally was cast in the role, one she has performed in record runs locally and in Burbank. However, Actors Equity ruled that in her current status as a professional she could not play in a non-professional theater.

In the cast of 25 Jim Goodrich, ninth grader at De Mille High School, will play young Pat and Joe Bauguess of Orange Coast College will depict the nephew as an adult. Yvonne Ellis, a school nurse in Whittier, will play Mame's friend, Vera Charles.

Equity says 'no'

When Equity ruled Kathy Davis (right) couldn't play title role in "Auntie Mame" she turned part over to Laura Killingsworth.

Summer bill due at LBSC

"Dark of the Moon," drama department's summer production at Long Beach State College, will open Wednesday and continue through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Dr. David MacArthur directs.

A dramatization of the ballad "Barbara Allen," the Howard Richardson and William Berney production is a humorous folk-fantasy set in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina.

* * * *

IN THE PLAY, a witch boy falls in love with Barbara and pines to be human so he can marry her. Barbara and the boy are played by Bonnie Gallup and Roger Ernest. Preacher Haggler is portrayed by Dick Nevius.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the college box office between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and until curtain time on performance dates.

Melodyland

Jose Ferrer will make his debut as a comedian in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim, Tuesday through Aug. 1. The cast also includes Iggie Wolfington, Ben Lessy and Reginald Gardiner.

Summer Skin Care

It is easy to have a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin-coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion from harsh sun rays and will give the skin a cool, milky bloom even on the hottest days. Your druggist can supply you with oil of Olay for your personal needs.

Lakewood painter has Royce Gallery show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

It was a marvelous experience to have attended, purely by chance, the opening on the Sunset Strip of the first one-man show in this area by oil painter Thomas Zarroanandia. It was even more interesting to discover that the artist, his wife and four youngsters live in Lakewood.

The show will continue at Royce Gallery, 8702 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, through August. Viewing hours are 2 to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Zarroanandia, of Basque-American origin, had a four-year art scholarship at the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla., then went to the Basque country in Spain and France to continue his studies. He has previously exhibited in the southeastern United States.

* * * *

THESE WORKS are joyous and rhapsodic; the artist is a virtuoso in the handling of his paint. For instance, in "Bombay" amorphous forms of orange, blue and mustard blend into a hazy background. While it and others are highly glazed, "Bullrushes," for instance, is freely drawn on dry canvas.

The 40 works are almost equally divided between abstract and representational works. I personally prefer the former though the latter are decorative and look highly saleable.

* * * *

"BALBOA" is sail craft in the bay with the Corona hills in the background and is very stylish, done with palette knife and black overdrawing.

But the virtues in his particular work soar in an abstraction like "Ice Palace" which has some of the quality of shimmer of Monet's "Waterlilies." This is a very professional artist, subjective, sensitive, yet still seeking the form for the statement which is indelibly his own.

L.B. chorale will sing at college

The Chorale of Our Lady of Refuge Church, 5195 Stearns St., will sing a concert today at 7 p.m. at Mount Saint Mary's College, 12001 Chaton Road, Los Angeles.

Composed of the men's and women's choirs of the church, the Chorale has sung throughout Southern California.

The program will feature 16th century polyphonic music and will include works by Tomas de la Vittoria. Commentary will be by Father John Cremins, director of music for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.

Organ pieces by 16th century composers will be played by Mary Margaret Trousdale, organist of the church. The Chorale is directed by Charles and Mary Trousdale.

Artists awarded $7,200 at festival

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Forty-four artists Saturday received prize money totaling $7,200 for their entries in the 13th annual All City Outdoor Art Festival in Barnesdall Park, 4800 Hollywood Blvd.

Top winners are Max Finkelstein, $1,200 purchase prize for an aluminum relief; Robert Hansen, $900 purchase prize for a bronze; James Strombotne, $800 purchase prize for an oil; and Mrs. Ruth Rossman, $750 purchase prize for an oil.

The 2,700 entries were judged by Maurice Tuchman, curator of modern art for Los Angeles County, and artist-teachers Howard Warshaw and Frank Ackerman.

The free festival, which includes entertainment, closes today at 7 p.m. Free shuttle bus service is available from the Hollywood Boulevard entrance up to the grounds.

THE PERMANENT Art Collection of Newport Harbor Union High School District will be on display at Newport Beach City Hall during July and August. It may be seen daily except Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The collection regularly hangs in the three high schools of the district—Costa Mesa, Corona del Mar and Newport Harbor High—except during the annual Newport Harbor Art Exhibit when the entire collection is on display at Newport Harbor High.

During each annual exhibit, purchase awards are made for one oil and one water color judged by three outstanding art teachers, critics or painters.

There are now 40 paintings done by such artists as Jack Zajac, James Strombotne, Rex Brandt, Roger Kuntz, Frances de Erdely, Frederick Hammersley and Edgar Ewing.

THE MAN Time Magazine considers "the logical successor to Frank Lloyd Wright" has a major retrospective show in Los Angeles in California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park.

"The Work of Louis Kahn," co-sponsored by the Architectural Panel and the California Museum of Science and Industry includes 96 photographs, 47, original drawings and 5 models by this controversial and famous architect.

The Philadelphia-based Kahn executes planning and building projects on all continents. Current work includes designing the Salk Institute for Biological Studies at San Diego, the master plan for the capital of Pakistan at Dacca, and a hospital and school of tropical medicine there.

Kahn, a slightly-built man and acknowledged leader of the architectural rebels, violently criticizes "stunt architecture."

"A building is like a human; an architect almost has the same opportunity of creating life. I like my buildings to have knuckles; joints are the beginning of ornament."

The U. S. State Department has requested Kahn to give a lecture tour in Russia, his birthplace, on his approach to designing living structures.

Cal band sets date for concert

The University of California Band will perform in Municipal Auditorium Monday, July 26, at 8 p.m.

The Long Beach appearance is one of the concluding performances on the Berkeley band's nationwide tour.

While known as the University of California Marching Band, the group is versatile and the concert, "Total Band Entertainment," will include classical selections, jazz, vaudeville and precision marching.

'Mame' leading lady set

"Auntie Mame," adapted as a play from the novel by Patrick Dennis, will open Friday at Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. It will run Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays for seven weeks.

Laura Killingsworth, star of many Civic Light Opera roles and prominent in local musical activities, will play her first leading dramatic role as the sparkling, madcap Auntie Mame.

* * * *

THE DIRECTOR, Kathy Davis, originally was cast in the role, one she has performed in record runs locally and in Burbank. However, Actors Equity ruled that in her current status as a professional she could not play in a non-professional theater.

In the cast of 25 Jim Goodrich, ninth grader at De Mille High School, will play young Pat and Joe Bauguess of Orange Coast College will depict the nephew as an adult. Yvonne Ellis, a school nurse in Whittier, will play Mame's friend, Vera Charles.

Equity says 'no'

When Equity ruled Kathy Davis (right) couldn't play title role in "Auntie Mame" she turned part over to Laura Killingsworth.

Artists awarded $7,200 at festival

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Forty-four artists Saturday received prize money totaling $7,200 for their entries in the 13th annual All City Outdoor Art Festival in Barnesdall Park, 4800 Hollywood Blvd.

Top winners are Max Finkelstein, $1,200 purchase prize for an aluminum relief; Robert Hansen, $900 purchase prize for a bronze; James Strombotne, $800 purchase prize for an oil; and Mrs. Ruth Rossman, $750 purchase prize for an oil.

The 2,700 entries were judged by Maurice Tuchman, curator of modern art for Los Angeles County, and artist-teachers Howard Warshaw and Frank Ackerman.

The free festival, which includes entertainment, closes today at 7 p.m. Free shuttle bus service is available from the Hollywood Boulevard entrance up to the grounds.

* * * *

MORRIE SIMONS will exhibit a one-man show of seascapes by Robert Bloeser in his Upstairs Gallery, 2735 E. Carson St., Lakewood.

Simons, a resident of 3614 Bouton Dr., formerly taught interior design at Long Beach City College. The gallery also carries the works of Wade Reynolds, Charles Bragg, Tomayo, John Orth and others.

* * * *

THREE NEW members have been appointed to the administrative staff of California Institute of the Arts as part of a continuing expansion program.

Harold C. Friedly, former curator of education at Pasadena Museum of Art becomes assistant to the director of Cal Arts, which comprises Chouinard Art School and the School of Music. Donald E. Smith, former teaching assistant at Scripps College, will serve as director of admissions and Miss Elizabeth Eklund will be his assistant.

* * * *

THE PERMANENT Art Collection of Newport Harbor Union High School District will be on display at Newport Beach City Hall during July and August. It may be seen daily except Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The collection regularly hangs in the three high schools of the district—Costa Mesa, Corona del Mar and Newport Harbor High—except during the annual Newport Harbor Art Exhibit when the entire collection is on display at Newport Harbor High.

During each annual exhibit, purchase awards are made for one oil and one water color judged by three outstanding art teachers, critics or painters.

There are now 40 paintings done by such artists as Jack Zajac, James Strombotne, Rex Brandt, Roger Kuntz, Frances de Erdely, Frederick Hammersley and Edgar Ewing.

THE MAN Time Magazine considers "the logical successor to Frank Lloyd Wright" has a major retrospective show in Los Angeles in California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park.

"The Work of Louis Kahn," co-sponsored by the Architectural Panel and the California Museum of Science and Industry includes 96 photographs, 47, original drawings and 5 models by this controversial and famous architect.

The Philadelphia-based Kahn executes planning and building projects on all continents. Current work includes designing the Salk Institute for Biological Studies at San Diego, the master plan for the capital of Pakistan at Dacca, and a hospital and school of tropical medicine there.

Kahn, a slightly-built man and acknowledged leader of the architectural rebels, violently criticizes "stunt architecture."

"A building is like a human; an architect almost has the same opportunity of creating life. I like my buildings to have knuckles; joints are the beginning of ornament."

The U. S. State Department has requested Kahn to give a lecture tour in Russia, his birthplace, on his approach to designing living structures.

Lakewood painter has Royce Gallery show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

It was a marvelous experience to have attended, purely by chance, the opening on the Sunset Strip of the first one-man show in this area by oil painter Thomas Zarroanandia. It was even more interesting to discover that the artist, his wife and four youngsters live in Lakewood.

The show will continue at Royce Gallery, 8702 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, through August. Viewing hours are 2 to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Zarroanandia, of Basque-American origin, had a four-year art scholarship at the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla., then went to the Basque country in Spain and France to continue his studies. He has previously exhibited in the southeastern United States.

* * * *

THESE WORKS are joyous and rhapsodic; the artist is a virtuoso in the handling of his paint. For instance, in "Bombay" amorphous forms of orange, blue and mustard blend into a hazy background. While it and others are highly glazed, "Bullrushes," for instance, is freely drawn on dry canvas.

The 40 works are almost equally divided between abstract and representational works. I personally prefer the former though the latter are decorative and look highly saleable.

* * * *

"BALBOA" is sail craft in the bay with the Corona hills in the background and is very stylish, done with palette knife and black overdrawing.

But the virtues in his particular work soar in an abstraction like "Ice Palace" which has some of the quality of shimmer of Monet's "Waterlilies." This is a very professional artist, subjective, sensitive, yet still seeking the form for the statement which is indelibly his own.

Cal band sets date for concert

The University of California Band will perform in Municipal Auditorium Monday, July 26, at 8 p.m.

The Long Beach appearance is one of the concluding performances on the Berkeley band's nationwide tour.

While known as the University of California Marching Band, the group is versatile and the concert, "Total Band Entertainment," will include classical selections, jazz, vaudeville and precision marching.

L.B. chorale will sing at college

The Chorale of Our Lady of Refuge Church, 5195 Stearns St., will sing a concert today at 7 p.m. at Mount Saint Mary's College, 12001 Chaton Road, Los Angeles.

Composed of the men's and women's choirs of the church, the Chorale has sung throughout Southern California.

The program will feature 16th century polyphonic music and will include works by Tomas de la Vittoria. Commentary will be by Father John Cremins, director of music for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.

Organ pieces by 16th century composers will be played by Mary Margaret Trousdale, organist of the church. The Chorale is directed by Charles and Mary Trousdale.

Summer bill due at LBSC

"Dark of the Moon," drama department's summer production at Long Beach State College, will open Wednesday and continue through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

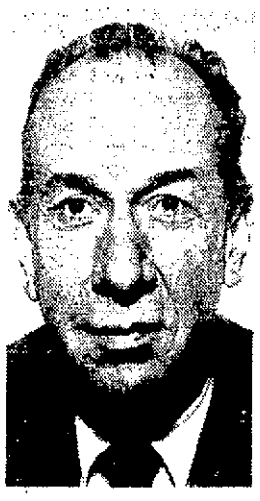

Dr. David MacArthur directs.

A dramatization of the ballad "Barbara Allen," the Howard Richardson and William Berney production is a humorous folk-fantasy set in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina.

* * * *

IN THE PLAY, a witch boy falls in love with Barbara and pines to be human so he can marry her. Barbara and the boy are played by Bonnie Gallup and Roger Ernest. Preacher Haggler is portrayed by Dick Nevius.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the college box office between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and until curtain time on performance dates.

Melodyland

Jose Ferrer will make his debut as a comedian in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim, Tuesday through Aug. 1. The cast also includes Iggie Wolfington, Ben Lessy and Reginald Gardiner.

Summer Skin Care

It is easy to have a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin-coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion from harsh sun rays and will give the skin a cool, milky bloom even on the hottest days. Your druggist can supply you with oil of Olay for your personal needs.

New York draws curtain on fashion showings, 1965

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
Director, Women's News

NEW YORK — Manhattan Island in July is hot, sticky and choked with cars, buses, taxicabs and trucks.

On a weekday, pedestrians seem melted together in their push down Fifth Avenue, Broadway, Wall Street, Harlem's 125th Street, and Seventh Avenue — more often called the Garment Jungle.

But the scene changes on a summer weekend. Every Friday night during the scorcher months, cliff dwellers—those who can afford it, at least, evacuate en masse.

Like a million ants, they start their crawl to the country, the seashore, or the mountain streams . . . leaving the city to tourists, tenement dwellers and lonely cab drivers.

* * * *

SPEAKING of cab drivers, that reminds me — the curtain has rung down on the New York Couture Group's semi-annual press week showings and, for me, that means two things: Poring over reams of notes to capsule fall fashion trends (later, this story) . . . and THEN hailing a cab for Kennedy International to jet back to California.

Now about those New York cab drivers. It's an accepted fact that most can talk faster than their meter clicks (almost, anyway . . . and can rattle off more scuttlebutt about places, people and things than Walter Winchell.

Now take my last driver (lives in Flatbush, been married 37 years, has two dogs and a backyard). He was most informative, spilling out details on New York's critical water shortage . . . expounding on Arthur's (current Number One New York discotheque haunt) and Sybil Burton, she owns it, her new shaggy haired husband plays guitar there. Meanwhile, he drove five miles out of the way to get me where I was going.

* * * *

IN CASE you haven't heard, New York is parched with the most serious water shortage in its history.

A glass of the stuff is considered pure gold, is not served with meals unless requested . . . and Gothamites are absolutely prohibited from watering lawns, trees or petunias.

Two blimps (only pair still operating in the United States) fly daily reconnaissance over the area, blinking signs that read: "Take brief showers instead of baths" . . . and "stop running hot water on dishes."

A sign on a skyscraper down the street announces, "We don't clean our building with water — we use steam." No fountains are spouting and air conditioning is ineffective — but Mayor Wagner issued this encouraging statement today: "I don't think anyone will have to go without a bath."

But out at the World's Fair (tramped all over it Thursday night), Oklahoma's modest exhibit is not without water. When we were there, 5,500 precious gallons were being pumped onto the yellowed grass, completely saturating shrubs and flowers. The wet stuff had traveled all the way from Oklahoma City (1,700 miles, 2 days) for the big drench.

* * * *

OTHER JOTTINGS from my notebook:

At Mr. John's champagne showing the Napoleon of chapeaux was looking very Mr. John in banana colored pants, pink and white striped seersucker jacket, a startling yellow shirt and bright red carnation.

He fancied the snood hat for fall, poufed at the back . . . also deep folded silk scarves and matching pillboxes for gala evening affairs.

Blond, glamorous Phyllis McGuire—tall, slim and elegantly in taste in a simple black dress — was flashing diamonds (but no hat) from the front row. "Probably gifts from her gangster boyfriend," said the lady in the next gold chair. "She's the reason the McGuire sisters aren't singing together anymore, you know."

Across the aisle from Phyllis sat a much less glamorous entertainer — Lisa Minelli, wearing a tired, floppy black hat over her long, choppy black hair.

* * * *

Here's a capsule of the new fall looks:

—Never have there been more silhouettes, more special occasion clothes, more different ways for a woman to look or dress.

—The suit softens . . . the jacket lengthens . . . the coat reverses . . . the strapless increases . . . the one-shoulder continues.

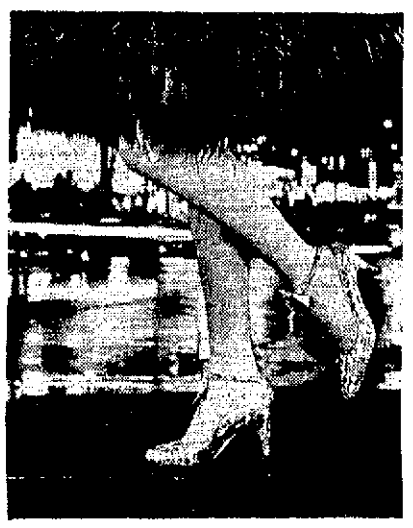

—The costume look is probably the greatest influence for fall. Every designer is putting things together. All coats have a companion dress, a shift, a dirndl or a bias swinger . . . most dresses are sheltered by coat or long jacket.

—Hats are soft, most often of fabric or leather. There are lots of patterns, big crushable berets, velvet printed like paisley. Newest looks: the capturban-tieup, easy in velvet . . . also the toque, most often tied on top.

UPDATING the under-fur dress, Anthony Biotta shows supple, creamy beige tweed . . . he shapes gentle but precise dress with contemporary look, loose-from-the-body fit, revealing figure but not clinging. (Hat by Emme; jewelry by Monet; natural mink stole by Ritter Brothers.)

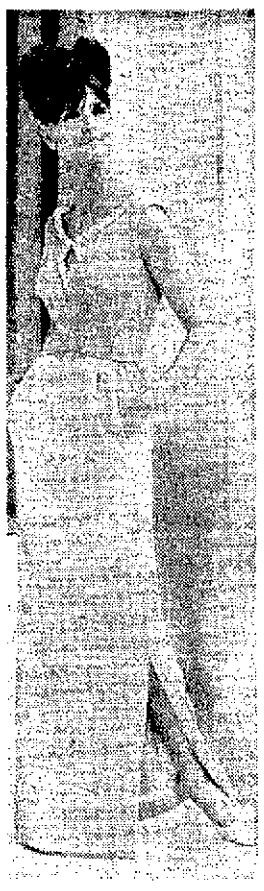

JEWELED key-hole motif accents silhouette of pale blue serge evening gown (right) designed by Gina for Gothe's Fall collection.

ELEGANT evening costume, created by Patullo-Jo Copeland (left) . . . a skinny dress and high-rising, double-breasted coat of orlon satin. Collar is lined in Emba pure white royal mink. High white mink pillbox is by Miss Alice.

STEPPING into fashion this season, shoes take on new meaning and purpose. The mules (above) are a strapping version in Terra Cotta calf designed for city streets and country walks. By Margaret Jerrold. For ultimate flattery, David Evins has designed a delicate dancing pump (left) of multi-color brocade rising on high heel and ankle strap.

Travel barometer shows 7.69% gain

Earlier predictions of a 10% gain in domestic travel this year are now considered conservative, barring a national emergency or prolonged bad weather, according to the National Association of Travel Organizations, leader in the "See the USA" campaign.

NATO's committee on attractions and sightseing reports that its U.S. travel barometer shows a gain of 7.69% for the first four months of this year, and an increase of 21.62% for the month of April over the same month in 1964.

The northwest region, comprising Alaska, Washington, Oregon and Idaho, had the greatest percentage of gain for the 4-month period — 12.85% — with the central Atlantic (Tennessee, Kentucky, the Carolinas, Virginia and West Virginia) and the south central (Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma) regions close seconds with 11.44% and 11.37% respectively.

* * * *

THE SOUTHWEST region (comprising California, Hawaii, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico) registered a 10.94% gain.

The only area to show a decline was the midwest (Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas) which had been plagued by floods and tornadoes.

Established five years ago to indicate trends in pleasure travel, the U.S. travel barometer now has over 330 reporting stations throughout the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is restricted to commercial travel attractions, sightseeing companies, museums, national parks and state park systems. The barometer is a feature of NATO's monthly Travel USA Newsletter.

Delta requests L.A.-Caribbean non-stop flights

Delta Air Lines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to give it authority to fly nonstop from Los Angeles and San Francisco to the Caribbean.

At present all Delta Caribbean flights, the only direct service from the West Coast to Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Venezuela, must stop in New Orleans.

T. M. Miller, Delta executive vice president for traffic and sales, told CAB examiner: "We believe, based upon current traffic developments and trends, that there will be a need for such nonstop services in the reasonably foreseeable future."

Delta Air Lines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to give it authority to fly nonstop from Los Angeles and San Francisco to the Caribbean.

At present all Delta Caribbean flights, the only direct service from the West Coast to Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Venezuela, must stop in New Orleans.

T. M. Miller, Delta executive vice president for traffic and sales, told CAB examiner: "We believe, based upon current traffic developments and trends, that there will be a need for such nonstop services in the reasonably foreseeable future."

Only gourmets can win jackpot on luxury ships

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

You don't have to be a gourmet to enjoy a cruise into the Pacific. It's just that you lose the jackpot if you aren't.

At least, that's how seasoned salts—those who will sail out over the Big Blue at the curl of a breaker—feel about it.

The uninitiated simply won't believe that gossip about the Captain becoming second best (well, almost) once the ship gets on its course.

And the man who becomes Number One is the Executive Chef.

But it's true.

* * * *

YOU SEE, the Executive Chef works hand in glove with that tangy Pacific sea air.

You hardly have time to take a turn around the deck until you are ready to meet him — and he's quick to make his presence known.

Strangely, you are hungry, and this VIP winks knowingly to his sauce cooks, roast cooks, barbecue cooks, soup and fish cooks, canape and aspic cooks, egg cooks, pastry chefs, bakers, pantrymen and other specialists on his big staff, even to the man specifically assigned to making coffee.

And out comes the fatted calf, an amazing array of fare that, in such out-of-this-world atmosphere, tantalizes every man, woman and child on board.

* * * *

A BEFORE-breakfast eye opener out on deck, if you are an early riser, consisting of tropical fruit and fruit juices, coffee and rolls. Then . . .

Breakfast (in bed, if you wish to be lazy), bouillon and sandwiches in midmorning, luncheon (often buffet style on deck), tea and cakes in the afternoon, cocktail hors d'oeuvres preceding an elegant seven-course dinner, and finally a midnight buffet supper.

And if the latter fails to hold back that craving, and you awaken at 3 a.m. feeling you could eat the lifeboat just outside your porthole, just call the deck steward for a prime rib with potatoes, salad and dessert.

* * * *

IT'S THE SAME aboard the luxury liners of all three trans-pacific steamship companies—American President Lines, Matson Navigation, and P&O-Orient.

Just about. Tantalizing gourmet adventures on each, naturally. But each Executive Chef has a few special tricks under his tall hat.

For instance, you can start the day on a Matson floating palace with sanddabs sauteed in lemon butter and dilled cucumbers; or a hunk of cold roast beef with chutney. Living it up with P&O, you might try a Scotch woodcock savoury or a Duck of Norfolk special. On APL's famed "Presidential style" dining, go to work on a braised Belgian hare with fried Polenta, or a golden pheasant Eugenie.

A SECOND helping any time? Naturally. A request for more always upgrades the Executive Chef's ego and his henchmen respond with pleasure.

If you lose your dieting discipline, and come home with a frightful bulge where bulges shouldn't be, don't blame the Executive Chef.

He was on your side. Remember?

And besides, wasn't it fun to experience, with the call of the dinner bell, the strange sights of the Orient, the tropical lure of Polynesia, the soft charm of Australia and New Zealand?

You have become a seasoned salt, and you have the middle to prove it.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

"I will have two weeks in Hawaii on business but with some time for 'touristing.' Could you recommend tours, points of interest, etc."

IF YOU GO single-o, the lively places are all along Waikiki—crowded and with a hungry building code that is making the whole thing a string of skyscraper hotels and some very cheap souvenir shops. But that's where the action is.

The outer islands are prettier—and you can see the beach. This island of Kauai is the best. And Hanelei Plantation House overlooks the bay where they made the movie "South Pacific." If you can only overnight, go to Coco Palms hotel.

The island of Maui has the best beach. Near the old whaling port of Lahaina. Newest development is on the island of Hawaii — the Big Island—at Mauna Kea. A luxury resort with beach, golf, hunting, fishing. It opens next week.

* * * *

"You advised a single girl not to go to Tahiti because of the 'brown' competition. We had a ball and could have danced all night with nice-mannered French sailors and soldiers. . . ."

ALL TOURIST girls please note. Since De Gaulle plans to pop a nuclear bomb on one of the French islands, a lot of Navy and Foreign Legionnaires have moved in. No mushroom cloud without its silver lining.

* * * *

"Where in Europe is the best place to buy binoculars? For bird-watching."

GERMANY is the binocular country. But you'll find Japanese binoculars in free airports like Shannon and Amsterdam. They're cheaper. You should get 7 x 35 wide angle glasses for about $25 or less.

* * * *

"My husband and I would like to buy a used car in Europe. What country has the least taxes?"

I'D LOOK into new cars. The used car was taxed when it was sold new and continues to carry the tax load. Whereas you buy a new car as a tourist without any tax at all.

You will find some tax-free tourist cars advertised in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune. Sold on tourist hotel newsstands all over Europe.

* * * *

"If we go to Hollywood can we see movies being made at one of the studios?"

UNIVERSAL City Studios is running a tour showing HOW they are made. They've put up a lot of famous sets on a 10-acre center. Stunt men working. An hour-and-a-half Glamortram tour. Prop men showing how props ars made. Any Hollywood hotel can give you directions.

* * * *

". . . If you could suggest a place for a honeymoon, outside the U.S. but not too expensive?"

MOST of the expense comes in the distance you go. Take a look at the Caribbean Islands. This is off-season and most places make special offers now to honeymooners. Start with a BOAC office. They have a honeymoon package to Bermuda, Nassau or Jamaica. Air fare, hotel and a lot of extras.

A CHILD'S WORLD is filled with wonders. Days are too short for the countless things to be discovered, for the indefatigable curiosity to be satisfied. Nicole, 3 years old, is no exception. Nicole lives in Lucerne, on Lake Lucerne, Switzerland, which will attract thousands of visitors from all over the world for the International Festival of Music Aug. 14-Sept. 9.

Greyhound parks tours to start

Greyhound plans a series of eight-day Grand Canyon-Utah Parks Escorted Tours from Southern California, each with a trained escort serving as guide.

Departures will be July 31, Aug. 14 and 28, and Sept. 4 from Los Angeles. Each tour will visit Utah's Cedar Breaks, Bryce Canyon, Zion National Park and the Grand Canyon. "Extras" will include a tour of Hoover Dam and overnight visit in Las Vegas.

Accommodations, Greyhound said, would be at top-rated hotels and resorts. The escort takes care of baggage handling and hotel porter tipping. Twin-sharing accommodations are $192.50 per person; single $211.40.

Excursion slated to Oceanside

A "Tan Your Hide in Oceanside" train excursion from Pasadena next Sunday will be sponsored by the Orange Empire Trolley Museum of Perris. The program will include an optional side trip to the Mission San Luis Rey Fiesta.

The excursion via Santa Fe Railway will begin at 8 a.m. (Daylight Time). Stops will be made for boarding and detraining at Pomona, Colton, Fontana, Riverside and Corona. The return to Pasadena will be made at 9 p.m. (Daylight Time) the same day.

Reservations may be made by writing "Beach Train," Box 548, Perris, Calif.

Setting the scene

Beach towels placed in each guest room at the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel opening this summer on Hawaii are printed with South Sea petroglyphs taken from ancient Hawaiian stone writings.

Hong Kong popular

Hong Kong welcomed a record 364,065 foreign visitors in 1964, not including 156,287 U.S military personnel that went on leave in the popular crossroads city.

Snowbirds race today at Newport

If you like to drive weekends, and see something worthwhile at the other end of the trail, these events might interest you.

Some 160 little sailboats called Snowbirds will race today at Newport Harbor in the annual Flight of the Snowbirds. One year the youngest skippers were twin girls aged 7.

More than 10,000 are expected to view the Chino Lions Club Rodeo July 25-26 at Chino Junior Fairgrounds. RCA performances start at 2 p.m. both days.

"Hawaiian Holidays" will be the theme of the Orange County Fair opening July 27 and continuing through Aug. 1 at the grounds in Costa Mesa. There will be a Polynesian village with Polynesian food and architecture. Four horse shows and four RCA rodeo performances are among the special events.

Del Mar horse racing opens July 27 and continues through Sept. 14.

Double check

The pilot and co-pilot of a modern four-engine jet airliner go through a check list of more than 200 items before they put the giant aircraft into the air at takeoff, according to United Air Lines.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

A man of multiple talents

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

Today's Chef of the Week William S. Reid Jr., an electrical engineer, is division director at Autonetics in charge of contracts and policy. In addition, words threaten to fail me when it comes to his achievements and versatility.

He pilots a plane, sails a boat, skis—both water and snow—and has been a member of the United States Olympic Championship teams in lacrosse, football and swimming. He is president of the Long Beach Museum Association, and co-chairman of the International Sculpture Symposium, currently in progress at Long Beach.

Reid is listed in both "Who's Who in International Commerce and Industry," and in "Who's Who of the West." He's a dynamic person with much organizational ability, yet he maintains a "gee whiz" flash of humor.

* * * *

BORN in Middleway, W. Va., Reid spent most of his early life in Baltimore, Md., and Alexandria, Va. He attended Baltimore Poly Institute, and graduated from Johns Hopkins University with a degree in electrical engineering.

A lieutenant colonel with the Army Corps of Engineers, he served from 1941 to '46 in both the Pacific and European theaters. Seriously wounded in Europe, he was given a full medical discharge and sent direct to McCormick General Hospital in Pasadena. It was there that the firm of Imagineering Association, Inc., was organized and he became its president.

While at Johns Hopkins, Reid was president of his senior class, pledged Delta Upsilon Fraternity, was a member of the Omicron Delta Kappa Honorary Society, and made Scabbard & Blade.

Reid and his wife, Sylvia, have two sons, Whitelaw, 8, and Malcolm, 7, and a little daughter, Alison, 20 months. As a family they sail and ski.

* * * *

PRIOR to his present position with Autonetics, Reid was with the Missile Division of North American Aviation. Professionally he belongs to the American Institute of Electric and Electronic Engineers, American Management Association, and the National Society of Professional Engineers. He's a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, Reserve Officers Association, Los Angeles World Affairs Council, and is an international traveler.

Socially they hold memberships in the Lido Isle Yacht Club, Balboa Power Squadron and the Pacific Coast Club. Southern California Symphony Association and the Viennese Waltz Club of Long Beach, claim them as members, also.

Our "Chef" has another talent, not already mentioned . . . he can cook! You'll like his recipe for Chicken with Wine.

CHICKEN WITH WINE

Chicken (2 fryers)
Few drops Tabasco
1 tblsp. butter
1 tblsp. honey
½ cup cream
2 tblsp. Sherry wine

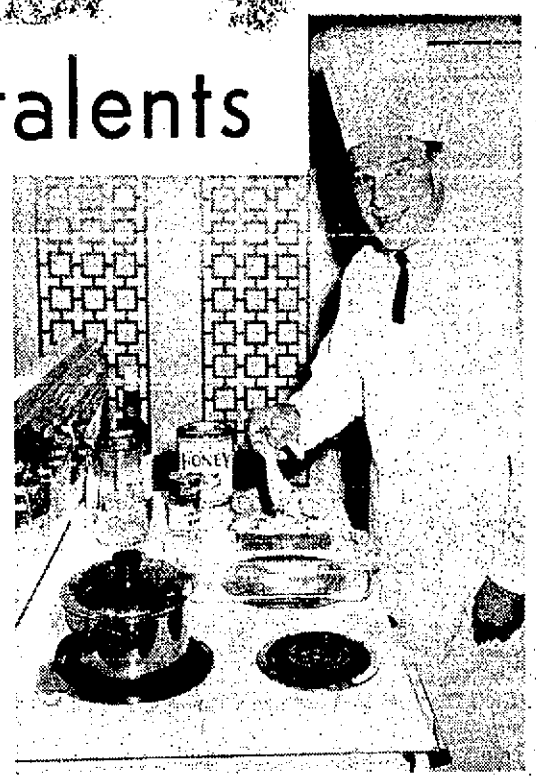

Cut up fryers and sprinkle with salt and Tabasco. Melt butter and honey and add cream to wine. Pour over chicken. Bake uncovered at 375° until chicken is tender. About 1 hour.

FRENCH RICE

1 cup uncooked brown rice
1 can consomme
2 tblsp. butter
½ can water

Melt butter in pan. Add uncooked brown rice and fry gently. Keep turning until all the rice has browned. Add consomme and water. Cover tightly and cook 45 minutes over low flame. Rice should absorb all liquid.

Serve with good Liebfraumilch or Bordeaux white wine.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Love without trust? Never

I have been married for almost two years and am about to get a divorce. I haven't lived with my husband for a year and a half. We just don't love each other.

For almost a year I've been seeing another man who is also married but getting a divorce. I love him very much and he tells me he loves me, but he lies to me so much it causes a lot of trouble between us. About two weeks ago he said we would be married as soon as his divorce was final.

I haven't seen or heard from him since and I'm wondering if he really meant it. If he lets me down, I think I'll kill myself.—NINETEEN.

DEAR NINETEEN: Married and divorced at 19 and about to go at it again. That's bad enough, but to consider marrying a liar to boot is just asking for trouble.

Whether he "meant it" or not is anybody's guess, but I wouldn't bet on it. There's a remote chance he is staying away until he is free, but he doesn't sound like that kind of guy. You'll just have to wait and see.

Kill yourself—that's ridiculous! Stop worrying about yourself and find something to occupy your time. It might be a lucky thing for you if he didn't come back. Surely you don't want to spend the rest of your life with a man you can't trust? —M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I've been dating a certain girl for a couple of weeks and have come to like her a lot. We see each other about twice a week.

Our problem is her father. He drinks too much and hates boys. He won't allow either of his daughters to go anywhere. They sneak in and out. Their mother knows they go out. She always tells them to get back before their father finds out.

The girls don't have a lot of dates because boys are afraid of their father. I've never met him. It's probably a good thing because I have a bad temper and if he sounded off at me, I just might hit him.

What can we do about this? The older sister has the same trouble trying to see her boyfriend. — BOYFRIEND.

DEAR BOYFRIEND:

What can be done depends a lot on the ages of the girls, on how soon they can leave home.

I doubt if anyone is going to change her father's ideas about boys—one can seldom discuss problems with a heavy drinker. Incidently, your temper will get you into trouble unless you get better control of it.

This is a problem between the girls and the parents—not for you boys to become involved in.—M. M.

MRS. KELLY HAS NEW SERIES

Questions answered on manners

Should you arrive at a party early or late?
What's a safe bet on dressing for a coffee?
Should a formal invitation always be engraved?

Have you been plagued by questions of everyday etiquette like these? Virginia Weldon Kelly, former Long Beach socialite and now a Washington correspondent for the Independent, Press-Telegram, has the answers to your questions on practical etiquette for today, and you can read them starting Monday, July 26, in the Independent, Press-Telegram women's pages.

Mrs. Kelly has written a new book called, "Modern Manners," and it will be published as a 15-part series in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

To write about manners for moderns you have to be in touch with what's going on in society today—every-day society as well as high society. Mrs. Kelly is uniquely qualified to tell you about both.

SHE IS a former resident of Long Beach, Hawaii, Panama, Seattle, Newport, New York City, and Annapolis, and she is now an experienced Washington hostess. She is a DAR, a member of the 1925 F Street Club, the Washington Club, the Women's National Press Club, the American Newspaper Women's Club, the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, and the Club of Colonial Dames, a Red Cross Gray lady, and a member of the Salvation Army Auxiliary.

Her husband is a retired admiral and a member of the New York Yacht Club, the Metropolitan Club, Cosmos Club, the 1925 F Street Club, and the Army and Navy clubs.

Mrs. Kelly is an intimate of Washington social circles and her anecdotes on modern manners are spiced with names like Jackie Kennedy, Pat Nixon, Perle Mesta, and the Duchess of Windsor.

AT THE same time, Mrs. Kelly is a working woman, and she knows how members of every-day society live, entertain, and enjoy life. Her advice on how to cope with the problems of today's etiquette is practical and down-to-earth.

"Modern Manners" is good reading, too, loaded with entertaining experience and counsel from dozens of international notables. Read it Monday through Friday starting July 26 in the women's pages of these newspapers.

Rose lunch planned by Delta Zeta

Long Beach alumnae of Delta Zeta Sorority will hold their annual Rose Luncheon Saturday at Ports O' Call Restaurant. Social hour at 11:30 a.m. will be followed by luncheon at noon.

Delta Zetas and their friends are invited to attend. Among guests will be members of Delta Alpha Mothers' Club; active chapter at Long Beach State College; and alumnae groups from Whittier, Downey, South Bay and Orange County.

Knit styles will be modeled by Gladdes Neff, Carolyn Ubben, Mmes. Charles W. Haney and George Lawrence.

Reservations may be made by Tuesday with luncheon chairman Mrs. Walter Adams, 2740 San Vincente Ave., or Mrs. Archie MacMillan, 1050 Ladera Drive.

Chi Omega lunch

Long Beach Chi Omega Alumnae will meet for luncheon and bridge Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Galloway, 158 Rivo Alto Canal. Mrs. Richard T. Crawford, 2894 Fidler St., co-hostess, will take reservations.

TWO-DAY VISIT

Buffums' to welcome noted face designer

Eyes will be focused on Buffums' Long Beach store Monday when Miss Terice DeVore, face designer for Elizabeth Arden, arrives for a two-day visit.

TERICE DeVORE

Miss DeVore will introduce a new compact of eye make-up called Shado Shades containing five colors of Ardena Cake Eye Make-up.

When presenting the new compact, she will give beginners three eye make-up basics for the most flattering of new outlooks. For the eye make-up sophisticate, she will be ready to discuss more elaborate plans.

The assortment of colors included in Shado Shades are white, turquoise, cardo, black and brown . . . putting the water color technique on a portable basis.

Miss DeVore will visit the cosmetics department of Buffums from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday and Tuesday.

Eye make-up is achieving a new status in the fashion world and becoming a vital accessory.

Assistance League debs to bow Saturday

the late Mrs. Peizer. A former student at LBCC, she will enter San Jose State College this fall. Her escort will be Baron Cutler Stenger.

SALLY Jean Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Scott and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rice Jenkins and Mrs. Henry Thomas Scott and the late Mr. Scott. Sally Jean will attend LBCC this fall. Her escort will be Gary Taylor Holmquist.

Kristen Andrea Wheaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Pangburn Wheaton Jr. and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sivert Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Pangburn Wheaton Sr. She will attend Chaffey Junior College this fall. Raymond William Kelso will be her escort.

Kappa Phi Sigma units to meet at Edgewater

Tenth annual covention of Kappa Phi Sigma Sorority will be held Saturday at Edgewater Inn. Hostess chapter will be Alpha Sigma, which has chosen an oriental theme.

Mrs. Dowie Crittenden is chairman of the event. Committee members include Mmes. Harvey Sandford, Herman Dieters, Evert Saari, Elis Edmundson, Ron Razzini, Art Halliday, Karl Warren, Ray Heideman, Joe Metza, Earl Fox, Tom Bisson, William Jones and Tom Steele.

All members of Kappa Phi Sigma are invited. The sorority was founded in 1954 for cultural, social and philanthropic purposes.

Following a day of varied activities, a dance will be held with Roger Bacon's Orchestra on the band stand. Door prizes will be awarded.

Members of the decorating committee are Mmes. Charlotte Halliday, chairman, June Tapparao, Thelma Train and Rita Sandford.

Kristen Andrea Wheaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Pangburn Wheaton Jr. and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sivert Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Pangburn Wheaton Sr. She will attend Chaffey Junior College this fall. Raymond William Kelso will be her escort.

Kappa Phi Sigma units to meet at Edgewater

Tenth annual covention of Kappa Phi Sigma Sorority will be held Saturday at Edgewater Inn. Hostess chapter will be Alpha Sigma, which has chosen an oriental theme.

Mrs. Dowie Crittenden is chairman of the event. Committee members include Mmes. Harvey Sandford, Herman Dieters, Evert Saari, Elis Edmundson, Ron Razzini, Art Halliday, Karl Warren, Ray Heideman, Joe Metza, Earl Fox, Tom Bisson, William Jones and Tom Steele.

All members of Kappa Phi Sigma are invited. The sorority was founded in 1954 for cultural, social and philanthropic purposes.

Following a day of varied activities, a dance will be held with Roger Bacon's Orchestra on the band stand. Door prizes will be awarded.

Members of the decorating committee are Mmes. Charlotte Halliday, chairman, June Tapparao, Thelma Train and Rita Sandford.

Rose lunch planned by Delta Zeta

Long Beach alumnae of Delta Zeta Sorority will hold their annual Rose Luncheon Saturday at Ports O' Call Restaurant. Social hour at 11:30 a.m. will be followed by luncheon at noon.

Delta Zetas and their friends are invited to attend. Among guests will be members of Delta Alpha Mothers' Club; active chapter at Long Beach State College; and alumnae groups from Whittier, Downey, South Bay and Orange County.

Knit styles will be modeled by Gladdes Neff, Carolyn Ubben, Mmes. Charles W. Haney and George Lawrence.

Reservations may be made by Tuesday with luncheon chairman Mrs. Walter Adams, 2740 San Vincente Ave., or Mrs. Archie MacMillan, 1050 Ladera Drive.

Chi Omega lunch

Long Beach Chi Omega Alumnae will meet for luncheon and bridge Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Galloway, 158 Rivo Alto Canal. Mrs. Richard T. Crawford, 2894 Fidler St., co-hostess, will take reservations.

TWO-DAY VISIT

Buffums' to welcome noted face designer

Eyes will be focused on Buffums' Long Beach store Monday when Miss Terice DeVore, face designer for Elizabeth Arden, arrives for a two-day visit.

TERICE DeVORE

Miss DeVore will introduce a new compact of eye make-up called Shado Shades containing five colors of Ardena Cake Eye Make-up.

When presenting the new compact, she will give beginners three eye make-up basics for the most flattering of new outlooks. For the eye make-up sophisticate, she will be ready to discuss more elaborate plans.

The assortment of colors included in Shado Shades are white, turquoise, cardo, black and brown . . . putting the water color technique on a portable basis.

Miss DeVore will visit the cosmetics department of Buffums from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday and Tuesday.

Eye make-up is achieving a new status in the fashion world and becoming a vital accessory.

OUR COVER

A West German Republic motorship discharges a big load of Volkswagen automobiles in the port of Long Beach. The harbor imported 30,000 of the small German cars from West Europe last year. In turn, the Germans bought tons of California citrus, other food products and manufactured goods. The Europe-West Coast trade, one of the newer and faster growing, is but one of the "trades" in which the twin world ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles play a part. For the story of this "global swap shop" see maritime writer Lou Jobst's story on Page 9.

NEWS WEEK

Californians who delight in the majestic beauty of Yosemite owe much to the vision and energy of the Golden State's great naturalist, John Muir. It was he who, by furious and persistent efforts, preserved the great valley for this and future generations. For more about this interesting man see next week's Southland Magazine and "The Man Who Matched Our Mountains," by Tim St. George.

Variety Marks a Terrace

Scene at home of Mr. and Mrs. James Rusk where mountains, tropics and desert provide items of interest—all combined in a terraced landscape.

By Vera Williams

MOUNTAINS, tropics and desert all may be visited in the terraced yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Rusk, 2780 Montair Ave., enthusiastic nature lovers and rock hounds.

Water tumbles down a 6-foot fall past lavender lepidolite from the old Himalayan mine in San Diego County, petrified wood from Arizona and the Eden Valley in Wyoming, jade boulders from Willow Creek south of Monterey, an orbicular rhyolite boulder from Yuma, pieces of opalized cinnabar, rose quartz, onyx, barite, obsidian, chysoprase, a piece of quartz with a garnet, several geodes, marble, granite, fire agate and flourite. Toadstools are sand spikes found near the Mexican border. Ferns, succulents, grass and flowers add beauty to the waterfall.

GRANITE boulders, petrified wood and ironwood were used to terrace the rock garden on each side of the waterfall.

A wall of petrified wood and ironwood, with pieces of jade for color, surround a thriving pine tree.

An 8-foot ironwood tree, dead of course, but upright, its weatherworn trunk and branches gnarled and twisted, came from the Kofa mountain range near Yuma, as did another ironwood tree which lies at its feet.

A tall Hawaiian tree fern is surrounded by a jade boulder, pieces of granite and a huge piece of petrified wood that once was the bark of tree. A split-leaf philodendron, bird of paradise, and azaleas add to the tropical effect.

AN OLLA once used by Indians for carrying water, and a matete and mano for grinding corn came from the desert, as did items of lavender and purple glass, colored by lying years in the desert sun.

Succulents grow in a pair of battered old leather cowboy boots, and a Christmas cactus flourishes in an old ore bucket brought from the North Star mine in the Kofa mountains. The cactus will be in bloom at Christmas.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglas FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach Area.

Cal-Tex has been selected as the exclusive franchised contractor of FLEXON in Southern Calif. You can obtain free information or have a free home demonstration without obligation. The low cost will surprise you and terms can be arranged to suit your pocket book.

Letter from pool buyer cites fast construction schedule

"Mr. Phil Anthony:
Recently our pool was completed by you and we wish to take this opportunity to compliment you and your organization on the fine job you did. From start to finish it was handled with speed—(17 days)—and efficiency.

All of the various crews who did the construction work were efficient and courteous. We would not hesitate to wholeheartedly recommend "Anthony" to anyone who is considering a pool."

Sincerely,
Gilbert and Betty Harris.

The recommendation of pool owners, such as Mr. and Mrs. Harris, is one of the reasons far more pool buyers continue to pick Anthony. In the first three months of 1965, in all of Southern California where competition is keenest, Anthony built almost four times as many pools as the largest other single builder.†

Compare this pool's value! For only $27.93 a month you can give your family this beautiful Anthony Constellation pool. Complete. Ready for a summer's fun. Nothing else needed. And what a pool! You will enjoy the sweep of its dramatic curves, the elegance of its broad steps. Deck, electric and everything you'll need has been combined into one low package price. This is a deluxe pool, now priced lower because of Anthony's greater summer volume. Compare. You'll find the Constellation is larger (389 sq. ft.); has a host of quality features. Ask for a free sketch showing this pool in your yard.

How Anthony gives greater value. By building almost four times as many pools as any other single builder in Southern California,† Anthony's overhead per pool is less. This is one way prices can be cut without cutting value—and only Anthony—the worlds' largest pool builder—can do it. Call today. There's no obligation.

The Anthony Constellation, style 290, is 16' x 30', 389 sq. ft., 3' to 8' deep; has 88' perimeter. Lifetime structural guarantee. Long Beach Sixth Graders get an outdoor education at the lofty Camp Hi Hill

Nature's Children

By RUSS LEADABRAND

Pictures by Ben Sewell

Classroom session (above) on the rocks of Camp Hi Hill area affords children a demonstration of how lichens act on granite boulders. Students are from Clara Barton School, the teacher is Shirley Abercrombie. Left, the teacher points out Mt. Wilson to Linda Goldstine, Paula Vogt and Chris Haecker.

"I'VE GOT TWO blisters on my hand already and I'm getting another one, I think," a sixth grade girl student explained to her teacher in class the other day. The little girl had not been exercising on the parallel bars. She had been using a shovel. During class. And at this school there is nothing unusual about running a shovel during class. It is expected.

The little girl was a student at Camp Hi Hill, the outdoor education adjunct of the Long Beach Unified School District. It is located in the San Gabriel Mountains near Red Box on the old West Fork Road and under the shadow of Mt. Wilson. Each sixth grade student in the Long Beach School System spends a week at the mountain camp and in many instances the week in the out-of-doors has changed an entire life.

Camp Hi Hill, for those more familiar with the nearby mountain country, is the famous old resort of Opid's Camp, a delightful mountainside retreat at the 4,000-foot level, on a slope that catches a fantastic amount of rain. As a result it is well wooded in conifers and oaks, many types of chaparrel and poison oak. It rarely knows smog but by deep winter can chalk up as much as four feet of snow. This past year it had 26 inches of snow in one storm. But school is rarely interrupted.

FOR THE CITY students it is often their first experience with outdoor living in any form. For most, it is their first experience in snow. For many, it is their first night away from home alone. For all, it is an introduction to the outdoors on an educational level. Clouds, rocks, dirt, plants —all have a special meaning, an importance after the week-long experience.

The program starts in the sixth grade classroom three or four weeks before the mountain outing. The home-room teacher starts introducing the students to the type of material they will receive at the outdoor education session. Natural history subjects are studied. The students learn such things as how a tree functions; what is soil erosion; what is the water cycle of ocean, cloud, rainstorm, rivers and runoff. The life of Camp Hi Hill is spelled out in detail so the edges of strangeness have been polished off long before the student gets on the bus on Monday morning for the ride into the San Gabriel Mountains. During this period the principal of Camp Hi Hill visits.

The outdoor education aspect of the activity starts as soon as the bus enters the mountains. Already the home-room teacher —who accompanies the students on the week-long trek—is pointing out examples of fire erosion, specific plants and trees, how the Angeles National Forest is managed by rangers and other experts.

AT RED BOX the buses stop. The youngsters hike the mile down the West Fork dirt road to Hi Hill. They have already met Principal Andrew Allegretti. He visited the home room class during the days preparatory to the outing.

The students are billeted in small, comfortable cabins, with about eight to 10 youngsters to a structure. Each cabin has an older, college-age counselor, usually a student teacher on assignment from his university, who acts as adviser, room mother or father, pal and confidant.

Principal Allegretti came to Southern California from Cicero, Ill. He received his M.A. in education at Northwestern and is working now on his Ph.D. He pioneered in an outdoor education program in Illinois, and after he came to Long Beach, and taught in the 5th and 6th grades here, was selected to head Camp Hi Hill because of his experience and background. He is a dedicated conservationist.

In addition to Allegretti there are three full-time teachers—Karl Rohnke, Patricia Clark and Shirley Abercrombie. Rohnke is married, his wife and two children live "on the hill." Allegretti, likewise married and with two small daughters, lives at the camp.

THE YOUNGSTERS are given as much responsibility in this program as possible. Personal cleanliness and hygiene is stressed. So is cooperation. The youngsters share in serving food, wash dishes, care for bedding and clothing, keep the camp clean. They work on trails and roads, carry firewood, experience a true rural existence.

But most important is the communion with nature. There is one session that sees the children camped on a scattering of rocks, alluvial washed down by rains from the steep slope above camp. Here the youngsters are studying the action of lichen, simple plant forms that grow on rock and eventually eat away at the granite and sandstone. Another session might find them in the dark, studying the stars. There are campfire evenings where the students sing—there is a lot of singing at Camp Hi Hill—and staring into the flames, listening to accounts of nature. There are unexpected meetings with deer and raccoons and squirrels. The students learn the comings and goings of birds and their calls.

Reveille at Camp Hi Hill is at 7 a. m. After cabin cleanup there is family-style breakfast from 8 to 9. This is followed by a morning-long field trip. Lunch is from noon to 1 and is followed by an hour-long "quiet hour." Students can nap if they are so inclined. Then there is another field trip in the afternoon.

THE EVENING meal is at 5 p. m. Free time for the students is from 6 to 7:30 p. m. This is followed by one of three night activities. A night hike, a star study or a campfire program. Lights out is at 10 p. m.

The students range as far as possible from the Hi Hill base. They climb nearby Mt. Disappointment, clamber down into the West Fork as far as Valley Forge and beyond. They get to know the trails, the stream, the places where nettles grow and where rattlesnakes have been seen. They learn the three-leafed poison oak and know how to avoid the sharp spines on the yucca leaf.

But more, they learn in detail about nature. They see the insects, watch the bird take the insects and the hawk hunt.

They see the damage of erosion, the avenues of attack by insects on a damaged or weakened tree. They learn the hazards

Long Beach Sixth Graders get an outdoor education at the lofty Camp Hi Hill

Classroom session (above) on the rocks of Camp Hi Hill area affords children a demonstration of how lichens act on granite boulders. Students are from Clara Barton School, the teacher is Shirley Abercrombie. Left, the teacher points out Mt. Wilson to Linda Goldstine, Paula Vogt and Chris Haecker.

"I'VE GOT TWO blisters on my hand already and I'm getting another one, I think," a sixth grade girl student explained to her teacher in class the other day. The little girl had not been exercising on the parallel bars. She had been using a shovel. During class. And at this school there is nothing unusual about running a shovel during class. It is expected.

The little girl was a student at Camp Hi Hill, the outdoor education adjunct of the Long Beach Unified School District. It is located in the San Gabriel Mountains near Red Box on the old West Fork Road and under the shadow of Mt. Wilson. Each sixth grade student in the Long Beach School System spends a week at the mountain camp and in many instances the week in the out-of-doors has changed an entire life.

Camp Hi Hill, for those more familiar with the nearby mountain country, is the famous old resort of Opid's Camp, a delightful mountainside retreat at the 4,000-foot level, on a slope that catches a fantastic amount of rain. As a result it is well wooded in conifers and oaks, many types of chaparrel and poison oak. It rarely knows smog but by deep winter can chalk up as much as four feet of snow. This past year it had 26 inches of snow in one storm. But school is rarely interrupted.

FOR THE CITY students it is often their first experience with outdoor living in any form. For most, it is their first experience in snow. For many, it is their first night away from home alone. For all, it is an introduction to the outdoors on an educational level. Clouds, rocks, dirt, plants —all have a special meaning, an importance after the week-long experience.

The program starts in the sixth grade classroom three or four weeks before the mountain outing. # Global Swap Shop

Products of the world are passed from one people to another as the cargoes of oceanic highways are loaded and unloaded in Long Beach-Los Angeles harbors 7 days each week.

By LOU JOBST

NOTHING, not even automation and electronic wizardry, can rob the "trades" of their ageless glamour and appeal.

The "trades" are the oceanic highways along which goods, commodities and ideas are passed from one people to another.

These historic routes of maritime commerce are as old as man's dual interest in wealth and adventure and include in their purview both purple dye stained Phoenicians setting out for the Gates of Hercules and modern seamen sailing from Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbors for ports throughout the world.

LB-LA, an international harbor complex handling more than 36 million tons of cargo and 5,000 foreign ships a year, is an important part of this global swap shop.

ALL NINE of the world's major trade routes begin or end at the local waterfront.

"Long Beach traded with 92 nations throughout the world last year," explains bespectacled Cliff Thurston, traffic analyst for the Harbor Department and the man in charge of keeping track of the myriad cargoes on the move across the wharves here.

Unlike "trade tenders" or traffic men of the past, who painstakingly entered cargo manifests by hand in huge worn logs, Thurston directs an automated statistical center that uses a giant electronic brain to keep tabs on what the world is buying and selling.

With this equipment Thurston's department is able to keep an elaborately detailed record of each ship trading with the port, including an item-by-item breakdown of cargoes, minute-and-hour of arrival and department, inbound-outbound destinations and even the name of the pilot who sailed the vessel in or out.

MORE THAN 5,500 separate commodities are entered into this voluminous trading record each month.

And although the Harbor Department has more than 6,500 different world commodities coded and placed on IBM punch cards. Thurston and his team occasionally run into a product so unusual or exotic it has failed to make the list.

These are gladly entered by hand.

These elaborate statistical records, Thurston says, are an invaluable tool for trade promotion and development, giving the ports and area traders and businessmen a crystal-clear picture of what is being bought and sold, and where.

From far ports of the world ships come to the Long Beach-Los Angeles area to trade cargoes for the return voyages. Top, Princess Sophie carries oil from Middle East to Southland refineries; center above, general merchandise from Europe is swung ashore, and, left, a French vessel unloads Paris-made automobiles alongside pier stacked with Canadian lumber.

They also make something of a global semanticist of the traffic man.

YOU LEARN a lot about the world from these cargoes and you pick up a little vocabularly, says Thurston, who has worked as a Harbor Department statistician since 1952.

You not only recognize such out-of-the-way places with strange sounding name as Sierra Leone, the Antilles, Surinam, and Kuwait, you learn kipskins are baby sheep pelts, fritt is sheet glass and traster ground up citrus fruit peels, he says.

Countries become easily recognizeable by national products and their trades.

France sends French movies, wines and brandies to Southern California and buys oranges, lemons and drilling mud.

Germany ships in beer, cuckoo clocks and surgical equipment and, this year, unloaded at Long Beach enough Christmas decorations to fill the inside of a six-story building.

Denmark, little tinned meats; Britain, scotch; Norway, fish; Italy, spaghetti, marble and grave markers; India, kapok; Spain, olives and umbrellas, and Finland, tons of newsprint.

TRADITION controls many of the trades.

Southern California gets green coffee beans and bananas from Central and South America and sends hundreds of items of manufactured and consumer goods there.

Forested Canada ships lumber and paper to the fast growing megalopolis while taking out chemicals, tinned food and machinery.

Almost every country takes more from LB-LA than is sent (South America as much as 7-1), Europe (almost on parity), Asia (3-1) and Africa (2-1).

While the "trades" are a billion-dollar business for Southern California, it is still a market that has barely been touched.

While LB-LA may handle up to 7,000 to 8,000 various commodities, the U. S. Department of Commerce world trades commodity index lists 250 pages, or about 50,000 exchangeable products.

PROJECT TUTOR
Springboard to Tomorrow

By Elizabeth Edwards

SINCE summer vacation began, 230 excited youngsters have swarmed into the headquarters of the Long Beach Community Improvement League at 2222 Olive Ave. to sign up for Project Tutor.

They are eager to attend this unique school, where there is a teacher for every student, and the students learn an important lesson—someone really cares about them.

These young people need to know this as much as they need to know the arithmetic, spelling and reading offered, for most of them are Negroes and their area has been defined by the United States government as one of the 13 poverty zones in Los Angeles County. One-third of the residents have incomes of less than $3,000 a year; two-thirds have not finished high school. Because of these economic and social conditions, the people who live in this district long have felt a sense of isolation from the rest of Long Beach.

LAST SUMMER a group of young people in the community decided to try to end the isolation and transform their neighborhood into a well-informed and fully participating part of the city.

To accomplish this, they formed the Long Beach Community Improvement League, and launched Project Tutor as a pilot program to provide individual tutoring for children often below grade level in school subjects. During the summer 153 youngsters benefitted from this individual attention and Project Tutor was made a continuing program.

An ambitious project of this nature needs a dynamic and qualified director. Earnest Preacely, 28-year-old graduate of California State College at Long Beach, provides the needed guidance.

This personable young man works for the federal government as program supervisor for the Neighborhood Adult Participation Project—and at night, without pay, he directs not only Project Tutor but many other projects of the League including Project Headstart, Project Self, Project Friend and Project Clean-Up. Preacely feels that Project Tutor is particularly important because through their youngsters parents often are drawn into community affairs.

TUTORS, the backbone of Project Tutor, represent many occupations. Housewives, retail clerks, assembly line workers, teachers, and high school and college students enlist as teachers. Tutors and pupils, many of whom are meeting in their first interracial situation, benefit by gaining understanding of each other as individuals.

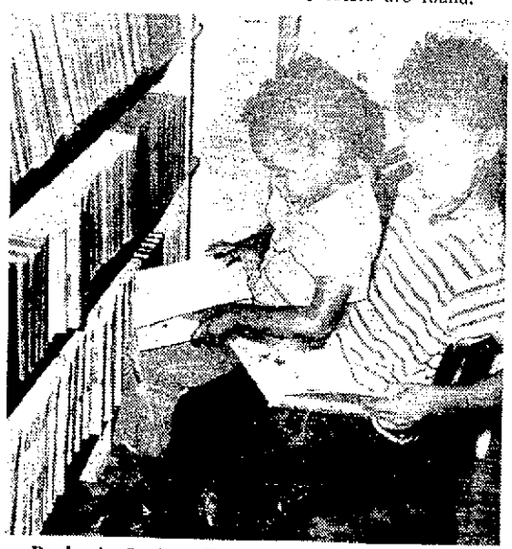

A tutor has the pleasure of watching a child's face light up when he suddenly understands something, of seeing a child gain confidence, and knowing a child is learning to trust him as a friend.

Preacely stresses that a tutor must not be disappointed if a child's school grades don't immediately improve. A major goal of Project Tutor is to change poor attitudes toward school, and these attitudes almost always improve because of the personal interest of the tutors.

Earnest Preacely heads Project Tutor, a move toward betterment for Long Beach youngsters.

So far, only 75 tutors have signed up for this non-paying, sometimes frustrating but always highly rewarding job. Therefore, only 75 of the 230 eager and interested students can go to school this summer unless more tutors are found.

Books in Project Tutor's library draw many youngsters who, by browsing, become readers.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

With Honors to Heirlooms

By Stella George

MANY HOMEMAKERS have family heirlooms and treasures which they would like to display but are reluctant to do so because such items frequently lead to clutter if they are not exhibited with restraint and good taste. Mrs. Gladys Bravender, 725 Bixby Road, had many such treasures, and when she decided to redecorate her home she employed Doris Austin, a skillful interior designer, to assist.

The result is a most attractive home with places of honor for heirlooms.

Each room is an entity and wide open areas (one room becoming part of another) are lacking as such. Even the entrance hall has its own individuality, with doors leading to bedrooms at the left and the living room at the right. And here clues to the interior decorating in the rest of the home are evident. A small prayer book with a history all its own ornaments the hall table. Framed mirrors (also treasures) are placed above the table.

A FIREPLACE at the far end of the room has a bookcase at one side and a window at the other. Mounted heirloom pieces, which include watches owned by Mrs. Bravender's mother and father, and a lavabo which was created by Mrs. Austin decorate the area above the mantel.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

With Honors to Heirlooms

By Stella George

MANY HOMEMAKERS have family heirlooms and treasures which they would like to display but are reluctant to do so because such items frequently lead to clutter if they are not exhibited with restraint and good taste. Mrs. Gladys Bravender, 725 Bixby Road, had many such treasures, and when she decided to redecorate her home she employed Doris Austin, a skillful interior designer, to assist.

The result is a most attractive home with places of honor for heirlooms.

Each room is an entity and wide open areas (one room becoming part of another) are lacking as such. Even the entrance hall has its own individuality, with doors leading to bedrooms at the left and the living room at the right. And here clues to the interior decorating in the rest of the home are evident. A small prayer book with a history all its own ornaments the hall table. Framed mirrors (also treasures) are placed above the table.

A FIREPLACE at the far end of the room has a bookcase at one side and a window at the other. Mounted heirloom pieces, which include watches owned by Mrs. Bravender's mother and father, and a lavabo which was created by Mrs. Austin decorate the area above the mantel.

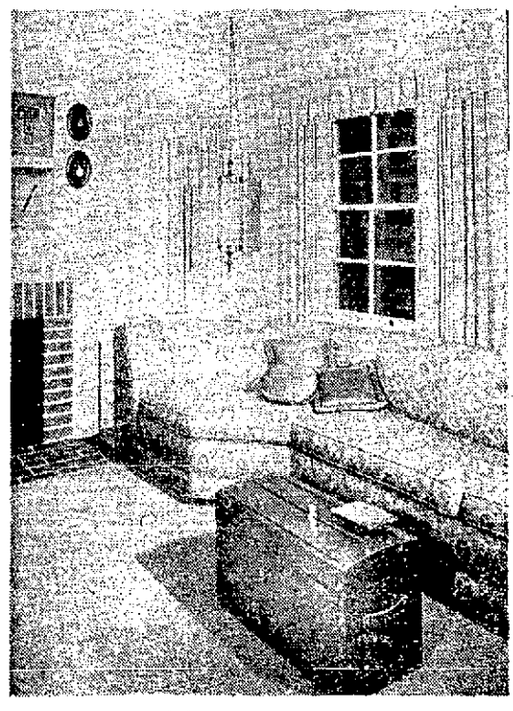

The decor of the home is contemporary and "turn-of-the-century." The modern green sofa faces a coffee table crested from an old Saratoga trunk, an heirloom, that is now lacquered in rich gold. Beside the sofa a polished walnut cedar chest serves as a large end table. A small sewing cabinet ornaments one end of the chest, a tall lamp the other.

An upholstered contemporary chair in pale gold faces a sofa across the room. On one side of the chair a marble-topped antique wash cabinet is at home serving its modern purpose. black and with a new multi-colored cushion (predominately red) is at the far end of the room from the fireplace. A black lamp which was especially designed for Mrs. Bravender by the decorator is at the end of the sofa. A portion of the lamp itself serves as a tiny end table.

IN THE SMALL dining room which is adjacent to the living room the dining table and chairs are pine. A new buffet lines one wall. The buffet has a marble top and ample storage for dining accessories.

A small, intimate, and very attractive dinette adjoins the modern kitchen. Table and chairs are maple. Built-in open shelves on either side of the room hold knickknacks. Below the shelves are storage cupboards. The colorful shutters which lend so much atmosphere to the little room were custom designed by the decorator. The actual shutters in the center of the frames were removed and a gay blue green fabric was inserted. A ruffled valance along the top of the window matches.

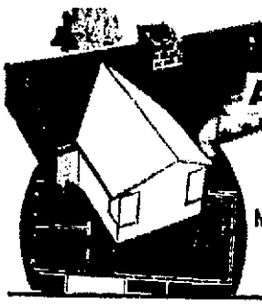

The master bedroom is done in Early American. A focal point of interest is a framed copy of Mrs. Bravender's parents' wedding certificate which hangs above the dresser. The second bedroom is furnished as a combination den-bedroom.

THE THIRD bedroom in the home is actually a part of the main living quarters, yet can be made completely private. It is two steps down from the dining room. Half of one wall is lined with closets and built-in drawers, units found in abundance throughout the entire home, and furnishings include a bed-sofa, contemporary chests of drawers and a high-backed wicker chair. The green carpeting extends down the stairs and into the room.

The home has a warm, old-fashioned quality which radiates through the modern, up-to-date planning that makes it comfortable and livable.

Intimate dinette enjoys pleasant decor, with colorful shutters and own items of interest.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on NICHOLAS, NICHOLS, NICKELSEN, NICKERSON.—R. N., P. C., D. N., Long Beach; K. N., Westminster.

NICHOLAS and the related NICHOLS and NICKERSON originated in both England and Scotland in the Middle Ages. NICKELSEN is a Danish formation of "son of Nicholas." All these names commemorate an ancestor baptized Nicholas meaning "Victorious warrior." The English armorial shield is blue, crossed by a chevron emblazoned with a gold lion between two gold eagles. The Nichols shield has two ermine stripes below three gold suns on a blue background. Early American forefathers include William Nichols born in England in 1599 and Anna Nickerson of Chatham, Mass., married in 1747.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please identify BRAMER, BRAMMER.—M.B., Anaheim; B.W., Compton

M.B., B.W.: BRAMER and BRAMMER, German surnames, began as Brehmer, indicating "man from the town of Brehm." In ancient medieval Germany "Brehm" described "on the marshy riverbank." The Bramer coat-of-arms from Vienna, Austria, is blue, crossed by a silver diagonal stripe on which are engraved three mulberry buds. Above and below the stripe are two halves of a golden wheel.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on BONNELL and BONELLI. — K.B., El Monte

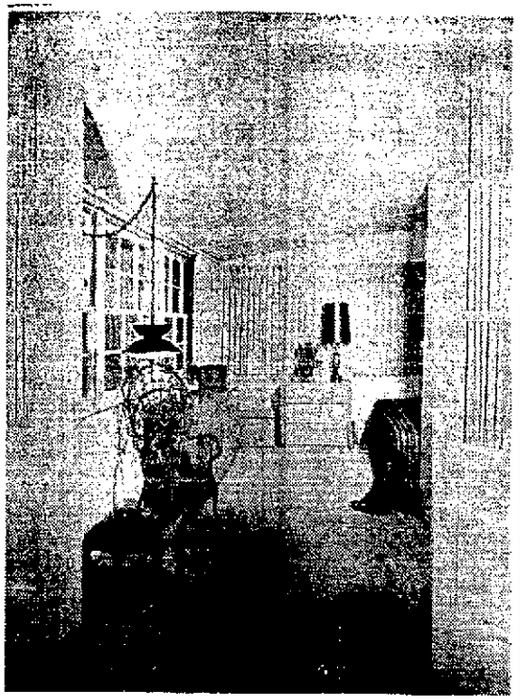

K.B.: BONNELL originated in France as "Bunel," a 13th century term for "young and good man." When brought to England it developed as Bonel, then Bonnell. Bonelli from Italy had the same meaning. The Bonnel French armorial shield is red, crossed by a silver chevron below two gold stars. Below the chevron is a silver crescent. Nathaniel Bonnell Jr. was an Essex, N.J., resident as early as 1670.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain OTEY.—R.O., Long Beach

R.O.: OTEY is a variation of the French surname Otet meaning "young and wealthy." No armorial shield is accessible for this lineage.

A Pinch of Imagination

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

WHETHER IT BE a family supper or a buffet for a crowd, easy-to-prepare go-togethers are packaged pre-cooked rice with tasty gelatin salad molds. And, there's great variety in each.

Colorful and excitingly different meals can be created easily with a pinch of imagination and a measure of convenience foods. Simplicity is the keynote and the right salad and one-dish entree is the formula for down-to-earth good eating—whether it be a family supper or a buffet for a crowd. Try this Patio Molded Salad and Shrimp Rice Al Fresco real soon. Warm corn sticks, fresh fruit and mugs of hot coffee will complete your menu.

Patio Molded Salad

1 package (3 oz.) celery or mixed vegetable flavor salad gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons vinegar
½ tray (7 to 10) ice cubes
1 cup unpeeled cucumber slices, cut in half
1 cup tomato wedges
2 teaspoons grated onion
½ teaspoon salt

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add vinegar and ice cubes, stirring constantly until thickened—about 3 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice. Combine cucumber tomatoes, onion, and salt; fold into gelatin. Pour into a 3-cup mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. If desired, serve with mayonnaise. Makes 3 cups or 6 servings.

COIN ROUNDUP

Aussie Boom

By Maurice M. Gould

AUSTRALIA is joining the United States and Canada with an unprecedented boom in coin collecting.

D-Day for the new decimal currency will be Feb. 14, 1966. The banks will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 9, and reopen for the new decimal currency on Feb. 14. The Perth and Melbourne Mints have already struck 50,000,000 1-cent pieces, and when the new Canberra Mint goes into full production, the three mints should have a combined production of more than 10,000,000 coins a week.

The Australian government has also ordered 90,000,000 5, 10 and 20-cent copper-nickel coins from the Royal Mint in London.

COIN AUCTIONS, which have been extremely successful, are held very frequently in Sydney. There are now three auctions per month, three or four in Melbourne, and Adelaide has two.

At one of the sales held in Melbourne recently, a 1937 Pattern Penny was sold to an American collector for the grand sum of more than $2,000.

There was a fantastic publicity campaign on television, radio and the newspapers, and the unusual thing about this publicity was that it brought three new specimens of this rare coin on the market. There are only four 1937 regular pennies known to exist, and there is no doubt that these will bring close to $5,000 each when they are offered for sale.

IN THE RECENT Sydney sale, a 1930 penny brought more than $300, and some of the scarcer pieces have doubled their value in the past six months.

With several new Australian catalogs on the market and coin boards now available for these coins, there will be a mad scramble to obtain the scarcer material before the price is out of the reach of the average collector.

The regular series of these coins were first struck in 1910.

HISTORICALLY, the Washington Funeral Medal could take its place beside the Gilbert Stuart portrait of the Father of our Country.

These medals were issued at the time of George

Washington Funeral Medal.

Washington's death and were worn in the funeral procession.

The front, or obverse, of the medal bears the inscription, "He Is in Glory, the World in Tears," with a bust of Washington inside the wreath.

THE REVERSE side shows a Funeral Urn, with the date, "1732-1799," and a rather long inscription.

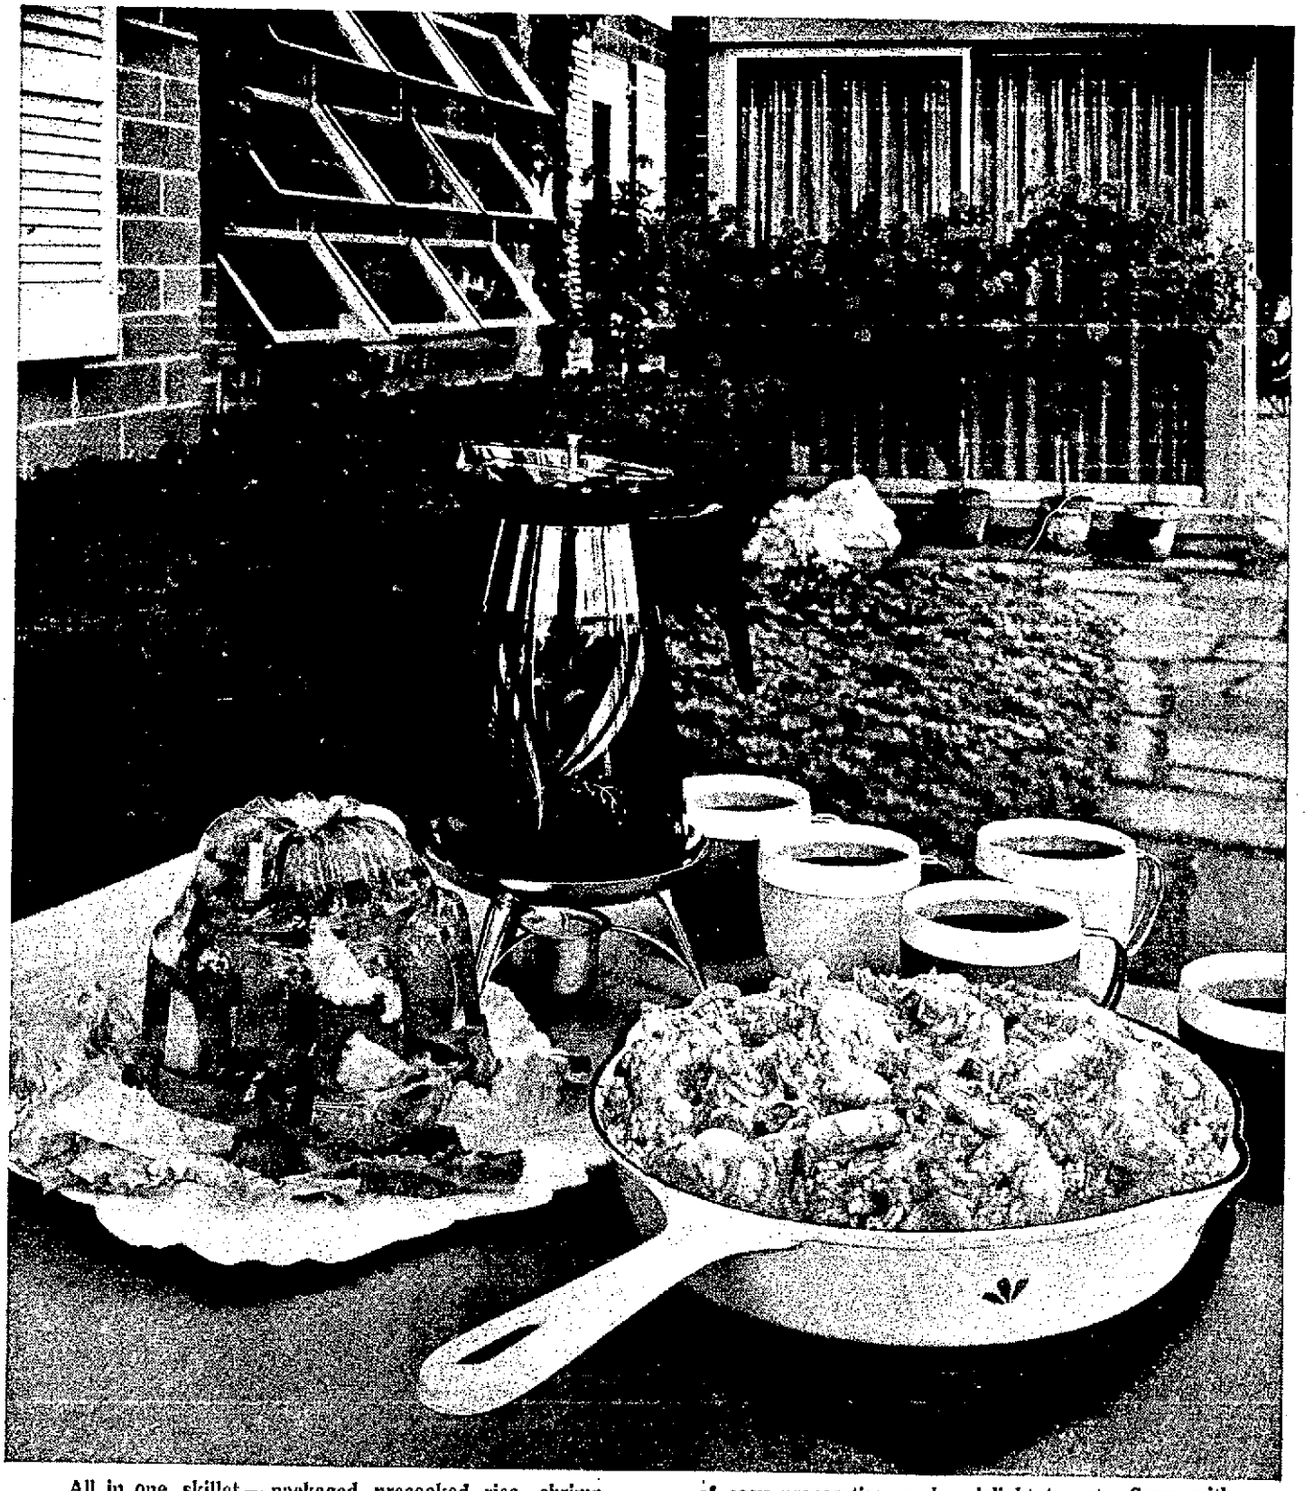

Almost all of these medals come with a small hole to facilitate wearing. They are much sought after by collectors. A few specimens are known in gold and are extremely rare; the silver pieces are scarce and very desirable. Some pieces were struck in other metals and are usually found in collections of Colonial coins, especially where the collector could not catalog or classify the item.

There will now be a great deal of renewed interest in all medals and tokens pertaining to Washington since the famous classic reference by Baker has now been reprinted. The book is being distributed throughout the country.

ANY WASHINGTON pieces were struck in England after the conclusion of the Revolutionary War. Some of these are beautifully engraved and they are listed in the Colonial section of the Guide Book of United States Coins.

Some Washington pieces bring as little as $10, while others run into the thousands.

COIN ROUNDUP

Aussie Boom

By Maurice M. Gould

AUSTRALIA is joining the United States and Canada with an unprecedented boom in coin collecting.

D-Day for the new decimal currency will be Feb. 14, 1966. The banks will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 9, and reopen for the new decimal currency on Feb. 14. The Perth and Melbourne Mints have already struck 50,000,000 1-cent pieces, and when the new Canberra Mint goes into full production, the three mints should have a combined production of more than 10,000,000 coins a week.

The Australian government has also ordered 90,000,000 5, 10 and 20-cent copper-nickel coins from the Royal Mint in London.

COIN AUCTIONS, which have been extremely successful, are held very frequently in Sydney. There are now three auctions per month, three or four in Melbourne, and Adelaide has two.

At one of the sales held in Melbourne recently, a 1937 Pattern Penny was sold to an American collector for the grand sum of more than $2,000.

There was a fantastic publicity campaign on television, radio and the newspapers, and the unusual thing about this publicity was that it brought three new specimens of this rare coin on the market. There are only four 1937 regular pennies known to exist, and there is no doubt that these will bring close to $5,000 each when they are offered for sale.

IN THE RECENT Sydney sale, a 1930 penny brought more than $300, and some of the scarcer pieces have doubled their value in the past six months.

With several new Australian catalogs on the market and coin boards now available for these coins, there will be a mad scramble to obtain the scarcer material before the price is out of the reach of the average collector.

The regular series of these coins were first struck in 1910.

HISTORICALLY, the Washington Funeral Medal could take its place beside the Gilbert Stuart portrait of the Father of our Country.

These medals were issued at the time of George

Washington Funeral Medal.

Washington's death and were worn in the funeral procession.

The front, or obverse, of the medal bears the inscription, "He is in Glory, the World in Tears," with a bust of Washington inside the wreath.

THE REVERSE side shows a Funeral Urn, with the date, "1732-1799," and a rather long inscription.

Almost all of these medals come with a small hole to facilitate wearing. They are much sought after by collectors. A few specimens are known in gold and are extremely rare; the silver pieces are scarce and very desirable. Some pieces were struck in other metals and are usually found in collections of Colonial coins, especially where the collector could not catalog or classify the item.

There will now be a great deal of renewed interest in all medals and tokens pertaining to Washington since the famous classic reference by Baker has now been reprinted. The book is being distributed throughout the country.

ANY WASHINGTON pieces were struck in England after the conclusion of the Revolutionary War. Some of these are beautifully engraved and they are listed in the Colonial section of the Guide Book of United States Coins.

Some Washington pieces bring as little as $10, while others run into the thousands.

IN "NOW WAIT A MINUTE, CASEY!" (Doubleday, $4.50) the hero is Casey Stengel and his legions are the New York Mets. With that combination, you don't even need a plot. But sportswriter and author, Maury Allen, has followed them from the day Casey was fired by the Yankees, through the day he left his bank vice presidency to become first manager of the Mets, to the end of the 1964 season. Above, Casey is pictured with his wife Edna riding down Fifth Avenue on their 40th wedding anniversary, a year ago.

JOHN LE CARRE'S first novel of intrigue was so good that it moved Graham Greene, master of that genre, to call it "the best spy story I have ever read." Le Carre's subsequent thrillers evoked similar praise. The new Le Carre book, "THE LOOKING GLASS WAR" (Coward-Mc Cann, $4.95) moves to a different level of literature. It loses not one smidgen of power, suspence, ability to make your hair stand up; but Le Carre has meant it as a "nightmare expressed in the Kafka tradition, in terms of coldest reality." Don't let that scare you off if you're a spy story afficionado.

The world of Intelligence is again chosen by Le Carre. Four men dominate the book; Leclerc, "empire builder, intriguer, persuader, the insufficient, plausible man of energy to whom, in the war, all was forgiven because he got results;" Haldane, "the failed don," Woodford, "blunt enthusiast, the soldier at home in the trenches." The fourth, Avery, young, unhappy, is a man who banishes doubts with action.

Murder, deliberate ambiguities in the plot, deep studies of human nature all combine to make a top-notch thriller.

AN ENGLISH political journalist on holiday in Greece gets caught in a three-cornered fight among France, the Arab front and the Secret Army in "THE FALSE BEARD," by Alan Williams (above), published by Harper & Row, $4.95.

BETWEEN 1750 and 1760, England and France struggled for the ownership of the vast continent of North America. The outcome of the struggle was to determine the fate of empires, for the French and Indian Wars were the opening skirmishes in the Franco-British conflict that ended with the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo.

Crucial and dramatic episodes of the wilderness wars were fought at the forks of the Ohio River, where the French Fort Duquesne held off the British armies for close to a decade, thereby controlling the entire Ohio and Mississippi Valleys.

The story of the building of Fort Duquesne and the ensuing decade of frontier ending with the building of the British Fort Pitt on the site of what is now Pittsburgh is told by Walter O'Meara in "GUNS AT THE FORKS" ($6.95), opening salvo in Prentice - Hall's "American Fort Series."

Others in the series will be "Fortress Louisbourg," Fairfax Downey; "Sutter's Fort," Oscar Lewis; "Forts of the Upper Missouri," Robert G. Athearn; "Fort Laramie," Remi Nadeau; "Fort Niagara," Robert West Howard; "The Forts of Mackinac," Walter Havighurst; "Vincennes," August Derleth.

WHO HAS NOT heard of phantom ships and ghostly sailors who endlessly ply the seas?

Separating what he believes is fact from fiction, former newspaperman and part-time magician Vincent Gaddis records some of the more exciting and incredible great sea mysteries in INVISIBLE HORIZONS, True Mysteries of the Sea" (Chilton, $4.25).

While many of the stories strain the most flexible credibility, there are others . . . such as the coffin of a man buried in Texas, washed from its grave by a hurricane and floated 2,000 miles to the shore of the tiny village where he was born, a ship that makes its way through the fabled Northwest Passage decades after all aboard have been frozen to death and the ship that reappeared 23 years after being lost.

That makes you wonder.

"EASTWARD THE CONVOYS" by William G. Schofield (Rand McNally, $4.95) is the true story of one man's experiences as an officer in the World War II Armed Guard. The Guard was made up of naval gun crews on board merchant ships sailing the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the dangerous Murmansk run to Russia. Schofield tells of his training, his men and ships, of the enemy above and below, ports visited. The book is warmly sentimental, but never maudlin.

Objets d' Art in Macaroni

By J. Gordon

MACARONI, as defined by most dictionaries, is dried flour paste to be cooked as food. Mrs. Alice Martin, 64, of Hawthorne, disagrees. In the last three months she has used more than 1,000 pounds of the staple but not one ounce was eaten. Mrs. Martin uses macaroni as the artist uses paint; she creates with it.

At the beginning of the year Mrs. Martin and her husband, John, became interested in the design of local churches. They drove to St. Vincent's Church in Los Angeles and sketched it on paper. Martin, working from the sketch, patterned the church to scale on a sheet of styrafoam. After he had cut it out, he and Mrs. Martin pieced it together with adhesives. Then Mrs. Martin, using fancy macaroni of varying sizes and shapes, began her art. Working with tweezers and incredible patience she carefully inlaid each piece. The columns, stairs and walkways were made up of elongated noodles, twisted, gnarled and accordion shaped.

Model in macaroni: St. Matthew's of Munich.

THE WALLS and roofs were covered with small macaroni pinwheels, seashells, butterflys and ribbons. When every piece was in place Mrs. Martin sprayed with a mother of pearl effect, then with gold. She picked up her tweezers and placed a synthetic pearl in each seashell and a glass jewel in the center of each pinwheel. The result was a new kind of art.

With her first church completed, Mrs. Martin looked around for another challenge. Again she found it in a model church. This time it was bigger and more difficult. She continued building and decorating, each new model being larger and more detailed.

St. Vincent's Church inspired a new hobby.

She learns about the churches she models and tells their stories. The largest of her models is the Church of Notre Dame in St. Omer, France. "This beautiful structure," she said "was ordered demolished during the French Revolution but was preserved undamaged by being converted to a storehouse for forage."

SHE ALSO MADE a model of St. Matthew of Munich, Germany. She tells how the church was destroyed in 1938, " . . . because an aid misunderstood Hitler when he ordered a pile of paving stones removed."

Mrs. Martin displayed her craft at the recent Long Beach Hobby Show. She has also been asked to display the models at Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona and at the World's Fair in New York. Declining these offers, she plans to donate the models to local churches.

Ministers and pastors of various denominations have asked Mrs. Martin to build models of their churches. She has agreed and is currently working on this project.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Smoker History

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

MEDICAL historians wonder if antitobacco campaigns will be effective in view of what has happened in the past.

In a special report in Modern Medicine they cite the following instances:

Czar Mikhail Feodorovich of early 17th century Russia proclaimed smoking to be a deadly sin. Dealers or persons possessing tobacco were flogged and exiled to Siberia.

In Turkey, also in the 17th century, Sultan Murad the Cruel imposed the death penalty on users of tobacco. Thousands were tortured and killed. The ruler confiscated their property.

Despite all these excesses, the use of tobacco not only persisted but increased.

A MEDICAL consultant says the most effective beard softener in preparation for shaving is water.

Dr. Herbert Mescon, Boston, says that beard hair usually takes 1½ to 2 minutes of contact with warm water to become softened. This includes washing time as well as the time that the shaving cream has been applied to the wet skin. Increasing the temperature of the water will decrease the time necessary for softening.

Chemicals added to water, soap or shaving cream that might shorten this time are usually irritating to the skin, he says.

One of the functions of the shaving cream applied to the wet skin is to keep the beard in the softened state, according to the report in AMA Journal.

EVEN A HOME washing machine can be used as an artificial kidney, a Cleveland Clinic physician says.

"It can launder blood as effectively as it does underwear," says Dr. Yukihiko Nose.

He began four years ago in his native Japan to cleanse the blood of uremic patients by installing cellophane coils in their home washers.

The treatment was given as an emergency measure in cases of acute kidney failure. The blood of the patient is circulated through the coil immersed in a bath containing a special solution. Impurities diffuse through the coil into the solution. The report is in Medical World News.

A LOS ANGELES physician, who took physical measurements of U. S. and Soviet track stars, found the Americans broader chested, taller and lighter in weight.

Comparison of 1964 measurements of the U. S. group with earlier measurements of athletes—1940 and 1949—showed that Americans are growing taller and developing broader, flatter chests. The report is in California Medicine.

A SHIP AT SEA, using the Early Bird satellite, has successfully transmitted an electrocardiogram (heart-action tracing) of a passenger.

The transmission was accomplished from the SS France, more than 2,000 miles at sea, to Paris, France.

Dr. Jean Lenegre, professor of cardiology at the University of Paris, was able to make a precise interpretation of the tracing and report his analysis to Dr. Albert Monnier and his medical staff aboard ship.

A LOW CARBOHYDRATE diet plus adrenal cortical extract can sometimes be beneficial in Meniere's Disease, an ailment marked by dizziness, ear noises and hearing loss.

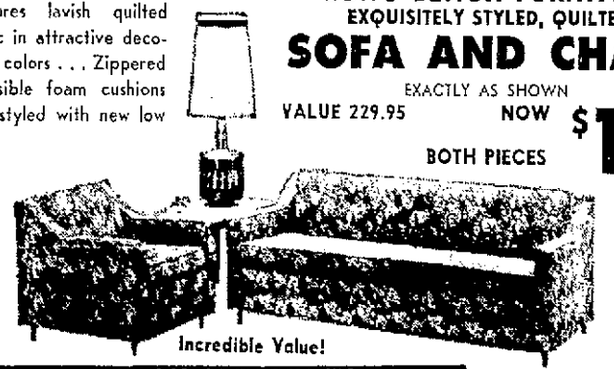

Dr. Herbert B. Goldman of New York contends the disease is a metabolic condition like diabetes.

He recently reported to a medical meeting that some mild or early Meniere's victims have been cured by diet alone.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Old Bridge That Waits

By Enola Chamberlin

DURING the heavy rains at Christmas time, 1964, water was held behind the partly completed Oroville Dam on the Feather River. This temporarily covered the Curry-Bidwell Park at Bidwell Bar. A preview of what will become permanent when the dam is completed in 1967.

But the bridge that once spanned the South Fork of the Feather at the Bar will not drown with the picnic grounds. It has been taken down, hauled away to higher ground, to be perserved for posterity.

In 1849, people stalked across the plains, fought their way over mountains, thirsted and starved across deserts, fretted around The Horn, to reach the Golden State. To such people, anything that stood or ran between them and their goal — gold — must be pushed aside, crossed, climbed over or demolished. The South Fork of the Feather River was such an obstruction.

Bidwell Bar bridge is reflected in the river it spanned in photo before the bridge was removed and set aside to await new site.

IN SCOUTING the river, the men found but one place where a bridge would be feasible. This spot was Bidwell Bar, named in honor of a man prominent in early Northern California history.

At first, because the building of a bridge seemed an impossibility, a ferry was installed. Flood waters kept it tied to the bank while men fumed and swore. Heavy floods washed it away completely. Low water snagged its bottom on rocks or stalled it in midstream.

A cry to build a bridge went up from lone miners, from big mining corporations. From all who wanted to get across the stream.

So, "Messers Jones and Murray, Old Fletcher River Contractors" took over the job of building a bridge. The river bottom being a bar is solid rock. A pier bridge could not be built. The contractors had to settle for a suspension span. They had to send east for everything they needed.

AND THIS "everything" struggled around the Horn in a sailing vessel, crept through the Golden Gate, came up the Sacramento River to Chico and lurched its last lap over rough roads behind mules.

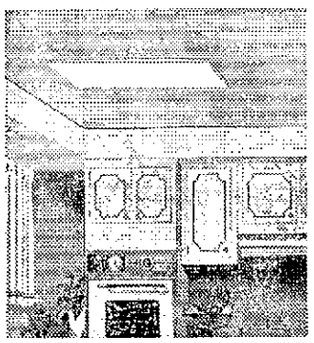

Once on the spot the bridge material filled the men with feverish activity. The bridge was finished and in use in 1850.

A good bridge, it was still in use more than 104 years after its completion. Finally, however, a new bridge was installed downstream. For safety's sake the old bridge was closed to all but foot traffic.

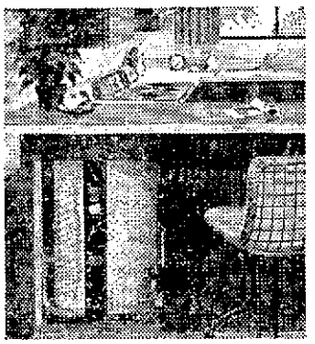

It rests on dry, solid ground now, waiting until a decision is made as to where it is going to be placed. It will probably be set up in one of the parks which will spring up on the shore of the lake which, building up behind the dam, will cover where the bridge once spanned a turbulent stream, and carried miners following the lure of gold.

STOLEN:

remodelling ideas taken from the newest, all-electric homes

New radiant heating panels mount on the ceiling: clean, flameless, easy way to add electric heating to your home. 120 or 240 volts.

New electric water heaters install in any out-of-the-way spot: flameless, need no flues or vents. Last 3 to 4 times longer than others.

New "4-in-1" bathroom fixture: heater, circulating fan, exhaust fan and light all built into the ceiling. They operate alone or together.

New built-in ranges with easy cleaning features: self-cleaning ovens, removeable elements, wipe-clean surfaces, automatic controls.

New "furniture front" room air conditioners and electric heat pumps. Heat pumps cool and heat. Handsome "furniture fronts" match your decor.

New "remote control" lighting: master dial controls all lights in your home. A comfort at night. Convenient, too.

Really bring your home up to date. Put in the latest all-electric features. It's the next best thing to a new, Gold Medallion home.

Even flameless electric heating can be built in at surprisingly little cost. Ask your appliance dealer or building contractor to show you all the newest ideas in electric remodelling.

You're years ahead when you remodel all-electric.

Recipe of the Week

PORK AND RICE are principal ingredients of this week's prize recipe for which Jean Fleming, 1739 Appleton St., Apt. 5, Long Beach 90802, receives $5. The recipe:

Cold Pork Loaf

1 lb. lean pork (ground fine)
1 egg beaten
1 cup cooked rice
1 tsp. salt
Small jar of pimientos
Milk

Arrange pimientos in strips in buttered loaf pan (pyrex). Mix other ingredients well, pat into pan and cover with milk. Bake in moderate oven (350°) for hour and a half. Cool and place in refrigerator for two hours or more. Turn out on platter garnished with parsley. Most attractive for a buffet meal and it has a very different taste.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Smoker History

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

MEDICAL historians wonder if antitobacco campaigns will be effective in view of what has happened in the past.

In a special report in Modern Medicine they cite the following instances:

Czar Mikhail Feodorovich of early 17th century Russia proclaimed smoking to be a deadly sin. Dealers or persons possessing tobacco were flogged and exiled to Siberia.

In Turkey, also in the 17th century, Sultan Murad the Cruel imposed the death penalty on users of tobacco. Thousands were tortured and killed. The ruler confiscated their property.

Despite all these excesses, the use of tobacco not only persisted but increased.

A MEDICAL consultant says the most effective beard softener in preparation for shaving is water.

Dr. Herbert Mescon, Boston, says that beard hair usually takes 1½ to 2 minutes of contact with warm water to become softened. This includes washing time as well as the time that the shaving cream has been applied to the wet skin. Increasing the temperature of the water will decrease the time necessary for softening.

Chemicals added to water, soap or shaving cream that might shorten this time are usually irritating to the skin, he says.

One of the functions of the shaving cream applied to the wet skin is to keep the beard in the softened state, according to the report in AMA Journal.

EVEN A HOME washing machine can be used as an artificial kidney, a Cleveland Clinic physician says.

"It can launder blood as effectively as it does underwear," says Dr. Yukihiko Nose.

He began four years ago in his native Japan to cleanse the blood of uremic patients by installing cellophane coils in their home washers.

The treatment was given as an emergency measure in cases of acute kidney failure. The blood of the patient is circulated through the coil immersed in a bath containing a special solution. Impurities diffuse through the coil into the solution. The report is in Medical World News.

A LOS ANGELES physician, who took physical measurements of U. S. and Soviet track stars, found the Americans broader chested, taller and lighter in weight.

Comparison of 1964 measurements of the U. S. group with earlier measurements of athletes—1940 and 1949—showed that Americans are growing taller and developing broader, flatter chests. The report is in California Medicine.

A SHIP AT SEA, using the Early Bird satellite, has successfully transmitted an electrocardiogram (heart-action tracing) of a passenger.

The transmission was accomplished from the SS France, more than 2,000 miles at sea, to Paris, France.

Dr. Jean Lenegre, professor of cardiology at the University of Paris, was able to make a precise interpretation of the tracing and report his analysis to Dr. Albert Monnier and his medical staff aboard ship.

A LOW CARBOHYDRATE diet plus adrenal cortical extract can sometimes be beneficial in Meniere's Disease, an ailment marked by dizziness, ear noises and hearing loss.

Dr. Herbert B. Goldman of New York contends the disease is a metabolic condition like diabetes.

He recently reported to a medical meeting that some mild or early Meniere's victims have been cured by diet alone.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Head Off the Heat

Beverly Adams smiles her pleasure over two heat-protective awnings.

By Steve Ellingson

ONE THING'S certain. If you think it's warm now, remember it can be hotter in the weeks to come. And when temperatures rise (along with tempers!) it's good to recall that there are ways to beat a heat wave.

Awnings have been in existence for thousands of years and are probably the oldest method for keeping cool. But never before have awnings been so attractive, economical and practical — or so popular. Bright colored awnings add neatness and distinction to exteriors. Whether you now use air conditioning, or are determined to survive without it, awnings can help you save money.

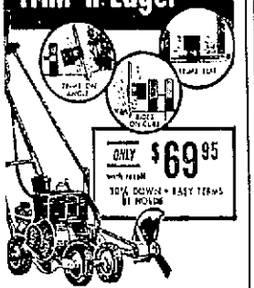

Windows unprotected by awnings heat up, putting added stress on cooling units. After awnings are installed, tests indicate, the operating efficiency of an air conditioner may increase as much as 28%. A house without air conditioning will be substantially cooler when awnings catch the sun that would otherwise stream into your rooms. They also keep windows cleaner.

TWO AWNINGS are shown on this page. The one on the left has vertical slats, these keep out the sun's warmth and at the same time permit hot air to rise and escape when the window is open. The door awning, also shown, protects against the hot sun on bright days and the rain, on rainy days.

Both the door the window awnings are easily built, when you use the full size patterns. The patterns show how to make them fit any size window or door. Simple tools are all you need. Once built, the awnings can be installed in minutes. The cost is slight, when you make these yourself.

To obtain the window awning pattern No. 259 for 50 cents or the door awning pattern No. 324 for 50 cents, send coin, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Paddle Tennis, Anyone?

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE average tennis player, on becoming "thirty-ish," finds that he reaches the far corners of the court a step or two after the ball gets there; running to the net to play a drop-shot he sees the ball bounce dead before he can reach it. An afternoon's tennis is no longer fun.

Today many "thirtyish" and ex-tennis players, as well as thousands of younger people and others who have never played tennis, are finding paddle tennis the answer to their problems. Begun officially as a sport in 1898 by Frank Peer Beal, now a New York minister, paddle tennis has only in recent years caught the fancy of sports-loving Americans.

BENEFITS of paddle tennis are obvious to those who are old enough to realize they're not young any more. Look first at the court: It's 44 feet in length as compared to the 79-foot tennis court; in a run from baseline to net, therefore, the paddle tenniser sprints 22 feet to the 39 feet run by his tennis counterpart. Paddle-tennis courts are 20 feet wide, regular tennis courts, 36 feet. Tennis nets are 3-feet high. Paddle tennis nets measure 2½ feet up, insuring fewer "net balls" on low smashes.

The ball used is the regulation tennis ball in west coast play; a similarly-sized, but sponge rubber, ball seems preferred in the east. The paddle is a cross between a regular tennis racket and ping-pong paddle in size (see picture).

THE ECONOMY of the game is reflected in the fact that the paddle face itself is made of hard, perforated woods which, of course, doesn't need restringing and doesn't wear out as occurs in tennis rackets.

Court markings and rules of paddle tennis are the same as regular tennis, with the variations so slight that one who can play tennis can become accustomed to paddle tennis in a few minutes. Those who take up the game, thinking it will be breezily easy, however, are rudely surprised. Experienced players make the game fast and rugged. Gone only are those long, long runs and periods of gasping for breath.

The American Paddle Tennis Association estimates that more than 6 million Americans play paddle tennis at some time or another. During his recent campaign, Sen. Murphy was photographed playing the game on the court at his home. Tennis great, John Kramer, several years ago established a spacious set of courts at the Portuguese Bend Club and last year held there the first annual State Paddle Tennis Tournament.

PUBLIC paddle tennis courts are springing up everywhere! Long Beach has long had six fine courts at Ocean Blvd. and 54th Pl.; a solid core of about 12 local players use these Sunday mornings (when you can observe paddle tennis played at its best) and hundreds of others use the courts year 'round as well. Local high schools have now established paddle tennis courts and students are finding the game "more fun, more action" than large-court tennis.

Long Beach paddle tennis is actually older than any of its courts. Alamitos Bay/Peninsula residents can recall, many years ago, the blocking off of side streets, setting up nets and playing the game all day. Fortunately the game "caught on," thus forcing the establishment of city-run courts with high fences. This spared the oldtimers the hazards of chasing stray balls on busy Ocean Boulevard.

PLAYERS seen on the local courts on any given day may range in age from 10 to 70. After playing the game for many years I have personally observed that our best local players are in the 45-55 age group. their habits of placing their shots with finesse and pacing themselves seem to pay off against younger foes who eventually run out of wind and power. So that everyone can play, it is the custom to play doubles rather than single-type matches when a group gets together.

Paddle tennis, anyone? Promise yourself to try the game. You'll find it's not only fun-and-action but may be adding a few years to your life rather than taking them off as long-court tennis does for one who refuses to admit he's "too old."

Paddle tennis devotees, Miles Sines and Bob Wenke rush the net to take short return volley in a doubles match on Long Beach's Bayshore Courts.

Comparative sizes of ping pong and paddle tennis equipment and tennis racket are shown here.

Paddle Tennis, Anyone?

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE average tennis player, on becoming "thirty-ish," finds that he reaches the far corners of the court a step or two after the ball gets there; running to the net to play a drop-shot he sees the ball bounce dead before he can reach it. An afternoon's tennis is no longer fun.

Today many "thirtyish" and ex-tennis players, as well as thousands of younger people and others who have never played tennis, are finding paddle tennis the answer to their problems. Begun officially as a sport in 1898 by Frank Peer Beal, now a New York minister, paddle tennis has only in recent years caught the fancy of sports-loving Americans.

BENEFITS of paddle tennis are obvious to those who are old enough to realize they're not young any more. Look first at the court: It's 44 feet in length as compared to the 79-foot tennis court; in a run from baseline to net, therefore, the paddle tenniser sprints 22 feet to the 39 feet run by his tennis counterpart. Paddle-tennis courts are 20 feet wide, regular tennis courts, 36 feet. Tennis nets are 3-feet high. Paddle tennis nets measure 2½ feet up, insuring fewer "net balls" on low smashes.

The ball used is the regulation tennis ball in west coast play; a similarly-sized, but sponge rubber, ball seems preferred in the east. The paddle is a cross between a regular tennis racket and ping-pong paddle in size (see picture).

THE ECONOMY of the game is reflected in the fact that the paddle face itself is made of hard, perforated woods which, of course, doesn't need restringing and doesn't wear out as occurs in tennis rackets.

Court markings and rules of paddle tennis are the same as regular tennis, with the variations so slight that one who can play tennis can become accustomed to paddle tennis in a few minutes. Those who take up the game, thinking it will be breezily easy, however, are rudely surprised. Experienced players make the game fast and rugged. Gone only are those long, long runs and periods of gasping for breath.

The American Paddle Tennis Association estimates that more than 6 million Americans play paddle tennis at some time or another. During his recent campaign, Sen. Murphy was photographed playing the game on the court at his home. Tennis great, John Kramer, several years ago established a spacious set of courts at the Portuguese Bend Club and last year held there the first annual State Paddle Tennis Tournament.

Paddle tennis devotees, Miles Sines and Bob Wenke rush the net to take short return volley in a doubles match on Long Beach's Bayshore Courts.

PUBLIC paddle tennis courts are springing up everywhere! Long Beach has long had six fine courts at Ocean Blvd. and 54th Pl.; a solid core of about 12 local players use these Sunday mornings (when you can observe paddle tennis played at its best) and hundreds of others use the courts year 'round as well. Local high schools have now established paddle tennis courts and students are finding the game "more fun, more action" than large-court tennis.

Long Beach paddle tennis is actually older than any of its courts. Alamitos Bay/Peninsula residents can recall, many years ago, the blocking off of side streets, setting up nets and playing the game all day. Fortunately the game "caught on," thus forcing the establishment of city-run courts with high fences. This spared the oldtimers the hazards of chasing stray balls on busy Ocean Boulevard.

Comparative sizes of ping pong and paddle tennis equipment and tennis racket are shown here.

PLAYERS seen on the local courts on any given day may range in age from 10 to 70. After playing the game for many years I have personally observed that our best local players are in the 45-55 age group, their habits of placing their shots with finesse and pacing themselves seem to pay off against younger foes who eventually run out of wind and power. So that everyone can play, it is the custom to play doubles rather than single-type matches when a group gets together.

Paddle tennis, anyone? Promise yourself to try the game. You'll find it's not only fun-and-action but may be adding a few years to your life rather than taking them off as long-court tennis does for one who refuses to admit he's "too old."

You Make It

Now is the time to think about the right fence to harmonize with your home. Whether you build it yourself or hire someone to do the job, Pattern 386 gives sound advice about your choice as well as details of post-setting and construction for each type. our family history please give data on THOMPSON.—D.G., Garden Grove; J.T., D.M., Long Beach

THOMPSON was recorded in Britain as early as 1200, and means "son of Thomas." The Biblical "Thomas" deciphers as "twin." The Thompson armorial shield is silver on the upper half, black on the lower half. On it are three black and silver hunting hawks or falcons. The ancient Thompson motto portrays them as aggressive instead of pacifists, for it is the French phrase, "Je veux bonne guerre" translated as "I prefer war." Descendants of John Thompson, Gentleman, of Preston Cape, Northumberland, England, settled in Massachusetts before 1635.

Cherry Festival

The thousands of visitors from over the Southland have just about picked clean the abundant cherry crop in the Beaumont area. An exception is the Mile High Ranch, eight miles north of Beaumont, where big Lambert cherries will be available until the end of the month, growers said Saturday.

Mile High Ranch is reached by driving north on Beaumont Ave. and Vineland, and then following La Mesa Mira Villa. Visitors may pick their own cherries or buy the fruit.

Film Competition

Students in accredited or approved college, university, or photography school courses in cinematography—or those out of such schools for less than one year—are eligible to enter films in a special competition being held in connection with the 36th annual cinema competition sponsored by the Motion Picture Division of the Photographic Society of America (PSA).

The film judged best among those entered by students will receive the Motion Picture Division's Student Film Award plaque. The award is sponsored by Harris B. Tuttle, Rochester, N. Y., an honorary member and a fellow of PSA.

Competing films may be on any subject, in black-and-white or color, sound or silent, any length, and any width.

Closing date for the contest is July 31. The winning film will be announced and shown during the PSA International Convention in Denver, Sept. 14-18.

Additional information and entry forms are available from George W. Cushman, P. O. Box 4034, Long Beach, Calif. 90804.

Dogs on Duty

By Eleanor Avery Price

PICTURED with this article is a little toy dog, a Silky terrier, who, despite an injury that sluffed off part of a foot, recovered and went merrily on in obedience work to become the ninth Silky in the country to obtain a C. D. (Companion Dog) degree. "Cindy" is owned and trained by Dorothy Huber, wife of the president of the Long Beach Obedience Club.

The Long Beach group has tried unsuccessfully to obtain a training area for advanced obedience in Long Beach and it appears members may have to go to another city for the needed training area. Then they may as well change the club's name, to Long Beach's loss.

OBEDIENCE people do not train their dogs to be attack dogs. They train them to be well behaved citizens. Of course, any dog worth his measure of dog food will try to protect his owner and property if the need arises. I personally know of two women in autos, in separate night incidences—one on a local market parking lot and the other stopped for a traffic signal—who were frightened by intruders forcing their way into the cars. The intruders had not seen the dogs on the back seat of the cars. Both men were lucky to escape with only a few nasty nips of protest. Here are incidents where the obedience trained dogs were trained to lie quietly on the seat instead of taking over the whole car and leaping about yapping annoyingly out the windows. But they roused quickly enough when they sensed trouble.

True, a dog is not bullet-proof, and one shot can silence him. But usually a thief will think twice before he enters a home where he knows one or more dogs are living. And in many cases he does know. He often prowls around at night "casing" homes. He may stand on a dark corner or slip silently through alleys. He may even come close to a house. When he hears a dog, or has spotted one in the daytime, he may look for easier hunting grounds.

THERE IS a story that came recently to my desk. One day the front door of a home became unlatched. No one was at home except two Great Danes, both obedience trained. But with the door open, both dogs strolled out and visited various shrubbery in their own yard. Then one took a nap while the other walked to the corner and back. Neighbors, well known by both dogs, tried to get them into their own back yards, but neither dog would permit anyone to put a foot on the lawn. For three hours they guarded their property. When the owner's son, aged 7, came home, the two dogs, at his command, followed him quietly into the house. Next day the dogs were as friendly as ever to the neighbors.

GERMAN Shepherd Dog Club of Los Angeles has a sanctioned match today at North Hollywood Park. Entries close at 11 a.m. Southwest Obedience Club has a trial July 24 at Rosecrans Park, 149th Street and Vermont Avenue, Gardena.

Make Gardening Hard Work?

Some gardeners make gardens a lot of work—others never seem to get excited, yet their places are the pride of the neighborhood. The secret lies in good planning and good equipment, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

The routine jobs are mainly lawn maintenance, pest control and feeding. With good equipment, these chores can be accomplished with dispatch.

A good power mower will make lawn mowing a lark rather than labor. Sprinkling systems have reached a stage whre a simple set of fittings can be installed on a do-it-yourself basis. Efficient lawn fertilizer spreaders take the sting out of feeding lawns.

With daylight saving running concurrently with lawn care, most gardeners take advantage of the opportunity to get a little exercise by spreading lawn maintenance over several evenings a week. They also find they have a better lawn and use less water when they feed consistently.

Feeding of plants, trees and shrubs can be done with the watering, just like it is done in most nurseries. Nurserymen use a proportioner to siphon the water from a bucket of concentrate into their hose or root feeders. Better results are obtained when the plants are given plain water first, then watered a second time with the food included. This gets the food to the roots and reduces the possibility of burning.

Most gardeners find the hose-end sprayer the easiest to use and most efficient device for killing pests. It throws a misty solution under pressure and insures good coverage without carrying a lot of weight.

D. (Companion Dog) degree. "Cindy" is owned and trained by Dorothy Huber, wife of the president of the Long Beach Obedience Club.

The Long Beach group has tried unsuccessfully to obtain a training area for advanced obedience in Long Beach and it appears members may have to go to another city for the needed training area. Then they may as well change the club's name, to Long Beach's loss.

OBEDIENCE people do not train their dogs to be attack dogs. They train them to be well behaved citizens. Of course, any dog worth his measure of dog food will try to protect his owner and property if the need arises. I personally know of two women in autos, in separate night incidences—one on a local market parking lot and the other stopped for a traffic signal—who were frightened by intruders forcing their way into the cars. The intruders had not seen the dogs on the back seat of the cars. Both men were lucky to escape with only a few nasty nips of protest. Here are incidents where the obedience trained dogs were trained to lie quietly on the seat instead of taking over the whole car and leaping about yapping annoyingly out the windows. But they roused quickly enough when they sensed trouble.

True, a dog is not bullet-proof, and one shot can silence him. But usually a thief will think twice before he enters a home where he knows one or more dogs are living. And in many cases he does know. He often prowls around at night "casing" homes. He may stand on a dark corner or slip silently through alleys. He may even come close to a house. When he hears a dog, or has spotted one in the daytime, he may look for easier hunting grounds.

THERE IS a story that came recently to my desk. One day the front door of a home became unlatched. No one was at home except two Great Danes, both obedience trained. But with the door open, both dogs strolled out and visited various shrubbery in their own yard. Then one took a nap while the other walked to the corner and back. Neighbors, well known by both dogs, tried to get them into their own back yards, but neither dog would permit anyone to put a foot on the lawn. For three hours they guarded their property. When the owner's son, aged 7, came home, the two dogs, at his command, followed him quietly into the house. Next day the dogs were as friendly as ever to the neighbors.

GERMAN Shepherd Dog Club of Los Angeles has a sanctioned match today at North Hollywood Park. Entries close at 11 a.m. Southwest Obedience Club has a trial July 24 at Rosecrans Park, 149th Street and Vermont Avenue, Gardena.

Make Gardening Hard Work?

Some gardeners make gardens a lot of work—others never seem to get excited, yet their places are the pride of the neighborhood. The secret lies in good planning and good equipment, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

The routine jobs are mainly lawn maintenance, pest control and feeding. With good equipment, these chores can be accomplished with dispatch.

A good power mower will make lawn mowing a lark rather than labor. Sprinkling systems have reached a stage whre a simple set of fittings can be installed on a do-it-yourself basis. Efficient lawn fertilizer spreaders take the sting out of feeding lawns.

With daylight saving running concurrently with lawn care, most gardeners take advantage of the opportunity to get a little exercise by spreading lawn maintenance over several evenings a week. They also find they have a better lawn and use less water when they feed consistently.

Feeding of plants, trees and shrubs can be done with the watering, just like it is done in most nurseries. Nurserymen use a proportioner to siphon the water from a bucket of concentrate into their hose or root feeders. Better results are obtained when the plants are given plain water first, then watered a second time with the food included. This gets the food to the roots and reduces the possibility of burning.

Most gardeners find the hose-end sprayer the easiest to use and most efficient device for killing pests. It throws a misty solution under pressure and insures good coverage without carrying a lot of weight.

Cannas Offer Long Range Color

Cannas bloom over a long season and the color range is such as to meet most garden designs.

By Joe Littlefield

CANNAS, growing to five feet tall, with wide leaves of tropical effect, provide abundant color throughout the summer growing season. They flower in the manner of gladiolus, a few blooms opening at base of the long stalk, a few more later, continuing thus for many days. Meanwhile, other blooming spikes develop and this continues throughout the summer season where plants have been in the ground for two years or longer.

Cannas have a wide range of colors, principally yellow, orange, red, rose, and two-tone shadings.

A large wholesale grower in San Marcos, San Diego County, has introduced a strain of Pfitzer's dwarf cannas in colors of yellow, red, salmon, Chinese coral, or striped beauty. They appear well in sunny flower beds; as edging plants along a walk or driveway; in narrow spaces between a driveway or walk and wall; as container specimens for summer color in patios or porch; or as informal summer hedge planting.

ONE OF THE specific planting areas that sometimes are problems to gardeners are outdoor planters that are joined to house walls. The problem is what to plant for color, yet survive sun and fast drying soil conditions.

A cement-lined planter must have drainage. It never should have been cement lined in the first place. Drainage for such a planter means drainage holes must be made through the front planter wall flush with the inside planter bottom. Excess moisture seeps through the drainage holes.

Planters without bottoms are best because water eventually drains into the ground.

Soil in planters must contain organic matter to hold the moisture longer. Mix two parts of organic mulch material with three parts of soil. The mulch material may be leaf mold that is like soil, compost soil, premoistened peat moss, or one of the prepared mulch materials for outdoor garden use.

THERE IS a wide range of planter items to choose from for year-round color. They may be shrubs, perennials, or ground covers.

Felicia, or agathea, growing to about 18 inches tall and wide, yields small, daisy shape, blue flowers just about the year around. Cistus cobariensis, "white rock rose," with sage green foliage and mounding form two feet or more tall and wide, is a long blooming plant that requires less watering than some others. Hybrid gazanias to around foot high and same spread, with single daisy-like flowers in colors ranging from white, pink, bronze, and shades of orange and yellow blossom just about the year round. Plants love heat, don't need as much water as other perennials, and bloom more if kept on "hungry-side."

Of the ground covers there's sand verbena that flowers six months and longer. The attractive feathery green foliage and puff-ball small blossoms in colors of white, lavender-purple or magenta, furnish an attractive and colorful planter box planting. Prostrate rosemary spreading branches, too, hang down over planter wall. The pale blue color blooms in winter attract bees, later birds like the drying seeds.

Shrubs that fit such planter conditions are raphiolepis, the "Indian hawthorne," polygala dalmatiana, and lower growing abelia gaucheri.

Garden Tips

Now's the time to choose hibiscus in bloom, for exciting flowering shrubs to plant in a warm protected spot. Choose from double or single flowers in white, pink, scarlet, yellow, orange and variations thereof.

For cool summer green, add ferns in variety to your shady spots. Ajuga is attractive with ferns, so is Baby's Tears, and you can add complimentary color with any of the bright new fuchsias.

of forest fire and how to prevent fire. They learn that nature is something with which man can live in harmony, not in fear or suspicion.

Sixth grade students in the Long Beach area come from as far away as Catalina Island to attend Camp Hi Hill. These students are flown from the island to the mainland and then board a bus for the trip to the San Gabriel Mountains. The sessions at the mountain classroom, called by Allegretti "Camp Hi Hill Outdoor Education Center for Science and Conservation Studies," is made possible by the City of Long Beach, the Long Beach Unified School District, the Long Beach PTA, and the parents and pupils.

CAMP HI HILL has operated locally since 1948 when the City of Long Beach acquired the 14 acres of mountain property from the Opid family. It is operated by a special long-term use permit with the Forest Service. Today, with its improvements, it is a quarter of a million-dollar investment. (The Long Beach Unified School District and the City of Long Beach operates two other mountain schools, Camp O-Ongo School and Camp Alpine School in the San Bernardino Mountains.

There are 54 elementary schools in the Long Beach district so it means that between 60 and 80 youngsters a week visit the mountain school.

Seventeen school districts in Los Angeles County, 200 in the state have an outdoor education program similar to the Camp Hi Hill activity. Some 30,000 students a year receive the important conservation and ecology training each year in the Golden State.

A Pinch of Imagination With Food

Shrimp Rice Al Fresco

¼ cup bacon drippings or butter
1 medium onion, thinly sliced (about ½ cup)
½ medium green pepper, diced (about ⅓ cup)
2 cups packaged pre cooked rice
*2 cups hot water
*2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ teaspoon prepared mustard (optional)
1½ cups canned or cooked shrimp

Or use 4 cups canned stewed or solid-pack tomatoes and omit the water.*

Heat drippings in saucepan or skillet. Add onion, green pepper, and rice. Cook and stir over high heat until lightly browned. Add remaining ingredients; mix well, and bring to a boil. Then reduce heat, and simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

I SUPPOSE we're all guilty guilty of it at times. We put together what we think are facts—and then leap very agilely to the wrong conclusion.

I'm quite certain scores of motorists driving on Atlantic Avenue make a logical but false assumption as they pass Welch's Restaurant. Noting the generous proportions of the building, its graceful modern lines and location on a prime corner at Atlantic and San Antonio Drive, they're bound to comment: "What a beautiful place! I'd sure like to dine there sometime, but I'll bet the prices are sky high."

Welch's appearances are definitely deceiving, as hundreds of enchanted diners discover daily and Sundays. This top quality restaurant serves outstanding foods amid glamorous surroundings at prices which are deliberately low. A prime rib au jus dinner, featuring marvelous, fine-grained tender beef, is only $1.95, including appetizing soup or a big fresh salad, whipped potatoes, baked potato or French fries; Yorkshire pudding (which resembles a bun or biscuit), beverage and hot, light rolls. This is unquestionably one of Long Beach's most exceptional dining out values.

Manager Bill Welch and his pleasant, personable maitre d's, Tony Gentile and Al Cordero, also offer their guests these dining treats, at equally popular prices: grilled swordfish steak topped with delectable melted lemon-butter, $1.75; Boston scallops with crisp bacon, $1.75; deviled northern crab en casserole, $1.50; mahi mahi Tahitian (an island fish), $1.75, and chopped sirloin steak, $1.50.

BILL WELCH
Wrong Conclusion

The latter is so attractive it never fails to surprise persons ordering it for the first time. It consists of a steak served on an oak plank accompanied by an array of fresh vegetables surrounded by an artistic border of whipped potatoes.

SUNDAY TREATS—Will you be going for a drive down the coast today, enjoying the fresh air and boating sights? When you grow hungry, there's a perfect place to stop — Sam's Sea Food Restaurant and Hawaiian Village, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., on the Long Beach side of Huntington Beach. Sam's is a large place with seating for hundreds of persons. Its hosts, the Nick Katsaris family, feature large complete sea food dinners in the $2-3 range. Offered are albacore, swordfish, salmon, halibut, barracuda, deep sea bass, rock cod, sand dabs, shrimp, crab and many others.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

If Anyone Steps on Bug, Aneta Corsaut Screams

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

IT IS TRUE THAT Aneta Corsaut, the teacher on CBS-TV's "Andy Griffith Show," really owns five cats.

"But I'm not really a cat lady. I'm just an animal person," said the vivacious brunette.

"If anybody steps on a bug, I just scream."

Apparently realizing that her built-in affinity for "living things" might seem extreme to others, Aneta humorously added:

"I figure insects will take over the world some day and I want them to known I'm their buddy."

Her compassion for living things was implanted in her by the example of her father, the late Jess Corsaut.

"I once saw him gently pick up a rattlesnake on a pitchfork and carry it five blocks to a safer place," she said. "I thought that was great.

"As long as something is not threatening your life, there's no excuse for killing anything."

HOWEVER, her doctor did find another excuse. Until the time she was in her teens, Aneta was a vegetarian. Her doctor ordered her to eat meat.

There were times, after her teens, when Aneta didn't have enough meat or vegetables to eat.

For she left her home town of Hutchinson, Kansas, to go to New York and become an actress.

In the process of becoming an actress, there were many days when the meals were few and sparse.

"I knew, when I decided to be an actress, that I was giving up a certain amount of security. I knew I was foregoing any number of years of comfortable living."

WHAT SHE DIDN'T KNOW, until she experienced it, was the sense of rejection that lived with the fledgling actor.

It was hard to disassociate the feeling that there wasn't something wrong with her when she was told she wasn't right for a certain part or there simply was "nothing today."

"There are years and years of rejection," said Aneta. "Even after we make it in show-business, most of us still live in a shadowy world or rejection."

But there could be no other world—rejection shadows to the contrary—for Aneta.

Her feeling about her profession is expressed by her admiration for Julie Harris.

"Being an actress," said Aneta, "is defined by being a Julie Harris who is concerned about making her craft an art."

Aneta shares that concern.

Russian Children Visit U. S.

How two Russian children react on a visit to the United States will be shown during "Discovery '65" at noon today (Sunday) on channel 7.

The children, 14-year-old Yuri Popov and 13-year-old Irena Tolstikova, were the English-speaking pair that guided the "Discovery" crew when they went to Russia.

Included in today's program, first of two, will be an exchange of views with American students.

If Anyone Steps on Bug, Aneta Corsaut Screams

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

IT IS TRUE THAT Aneta Corsaut, the teacher on CBS-TV's "Andy Griffith Show," really owns five cats.

"But I'm not really a cat lady. I'm just an animal person," said the vivacious brunette.

"If anybody steps on a bug, I just scream."

Apparently realizing that her built-in affinity for "living things" might seem extreme to others, Aneta humorously added:

"I figure insects will take over the world some day and I want them to known I'm their buddy."

Her compassion for living things was implanted in her by the example of her father, the late Jess Corsaut.

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "CBS Reports" presentation of "The Rating Game" last Monday on channel 2.

Two guys are sitting at a bar. One of them says, "Do you think that Rex Harrison is his real name?" The other one replies, "Do I think that Rex Harrison is whose real name?"

I don't know why exactly, but this story always reminds me of the television rating system — it seems to make the same kind of sense. And "CBS Reports" program about video ratings only bolstered this view of a splendiferous fantasy of a system — one that embraces to death sachems, poets and peasants alike at the three networks that comprise the most massive communications force in the history of the human race.

Critic Rick Du Brow of UPI

I came away from this excellently documented special with two major impressions.

The first: Ratings, within a reasonably small margin of error, are accurate — even though you and I have never been contacted by a ratings service.

The second: Programming at CBS-TV (and I assume at the other two networks) includes 18% public-service shows. They all, according to CBS President John A. Schneider, "lose money."

Among the losers, financially and ratings-wise, was "CBS Reports," the hour airing the documentary. Consistently, ratings-wise, it has been topped by "Ben Casey" and "Alfred Hitchcock."

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

What must have stirred the lookers at that late hour was a speech made some time ago by AB-PT prexy Leonard Goldenson. It had nothing to do with ratings. Said he, "there's too much copying the other fellow's success. We're not daring enough. We're stuck in a rut and we'd better get out." It would have made a better subject and sent fewer watchers to other channels.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

My brother says the "Bonanza" series which shows weekly at 9 p.m. on Sundays used to be aired on Saturday.

I say it has always been a Sunday show.

Could you please clear this up?

Gerry Courtis, Long Beach

Your brother is right. In 1959 "Bonanza" aired on Saturdays for 10 weeks. At that time, it was competing with "Perry Mason" and was taking a beating in the ratings race.

Because it was being beaten, NBC decided to move it to Sundays.

Interestingly, the pair will compete against each other again in fall. CBS-TV is moving "Perry Mason" to its 9 p.m. time-slot.

* * * *

How long have Sonny and Cher been married and how old are they?

Also, where can I write for their pictures?

John Evans, Long Beach

Sonny is 24 years old and Cher is 19. They've been married about 1½ years.

You can write to "Greene - Stone Productions, 7715 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles 46, Calif." for pictures.

The pictures cost a quarter and you're asked to enclose return postage.

* * * *

What happened to Steve Ellis, sportscaster for channel 11?

Eleanor Pierson, Long Beach

* * * *

I would like to know why there aren't any good shows on Tuesday night? The same on Friday and Saturday nights.

I wish there could be more shows for pre-teens.

Could you ask the networks to please try to balance the schedule better for kids so that all the shows that children like to watch aren't on the same nights.

Try to mix adult and kid shows.

I like "The Farmer's Daughter" but it's on too late. Also "Bewitched" is on too late.

I think "Shivaree" and "Shebang" are junk.

If these were eliminated, we'd have more time for good shows.

Trudy Squires, Los Alamitos

They may be junk to you, Miss Pre-Teen, but not to teenagers.

'Hercules'

The projected "Hercules" adventure series, prepared by movie tycoon Joseph E. Levine with his vast resources, failed to sell to a network and will wind up as a one-shot, one-hour epic on ABC on Sept. 12.

No Antennae

Ray Walston, star of "My Favorite Martian," is often approached on the street by youngsters who, he says, "beg me to raise my antennae."

Stuntman

Steve Raines, Jim Quince stunt man-actor in a number on "Rawhide," appeared as a ber of Western movies.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 10 a.m., ch. 8 (San Diego, has Dizzy Dean at Yankee Stadium as New York faces the Washington Senators.

CBS BOWLING Classic, 2 p.m., ch. 2, has a first semi-final round teaming Dick Wever and Bob Strampe against Carmen Salvino and Glenn Allison.

CBS TENNIS Classic, 3 p.m., ch. 2, finds Pancho Gonzales meeting Rod Laver in the first semi-final.

NBC SPORTS in Action, 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color, has Jim Simpton with highlights of the annual Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) air show, and the airboat grand trophy race through the wilds of the Florida Everglades.

SPECIAL

HAWTHORNE FAIR PARADE—Jack Smith is host for a 90-min. telecast of a celebrity-studded parade celebrating the 25th anniversary of the city's Kiwanis Club. The 18th annual parade is seen at 4 p.m., ch. 5.

CHANGING MATILDA: The New Australia — Chet Huntley takes a look at the dynamic, fun-loving, industrious people who inhabit the small down-under continent, at its land, its surge of European immigrants (non-whites may visit, but not stay), its barren interior and its relations with the exploding Asia which surrounds it. Repeat hour is at 5 p.m., ch. 4, in color, on "Sunday Encore."

A CONVERSATION with Sol Hurok—The impressario looks back at his early days in showbusiness, and at his association with such stars as Arturo Rubinstein and Isadora Duncan. During the 5:30 p.m., ch. 7 chat with William Stargove, Hurok tells of the problems of establishing a ballet company in this country.

CAPTIVE NATIONS RALLY—Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-Ill.) addresses a rally at Pasadena. Dancers from European nations take part at 6:30 p.m., ch. 13, as do refugees from Hungary, East Berlin and North Korea.

SPECIAL

5 COLLEGE PRESIDENTS — Presidents of Princeton, Carnegie Tech, Wesleyan, CCNY and Sarah Lawrence discuss the functions of today's university, and the problems in carrying out these responsibilities, during a special hour at 8:40 p.m., ch. 28.

GLYNIS — The happily-defunct mystery-comedy series of the scatterbrained whodunit writer, who gets involved in her research for story material, begins a series of return repeats for the summer in Lucy's 9 p.m. slot, ch. 2. Opener guests Eddie Foy Jr. as a henpecked husband who tricks Glynis into helping plan the "perfect murder"—the death of his overbearing wife. (There's always "Andy Williams" at this hour.)

150 LIRE ESCAPE — The low-budgeted Italian film spectacles, rarely seen in U.S. movie houses (though sometimes on TV), are explored by Charles Collingwood during a repeat hour at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Film traces the preparation of "The Last Gladiator" through every stage of its production to its showing in a small Italian village.

SPECIAL

TONIGHT — Joey Bishop, recovered from a slipped disc which kept him off the show last week, steps in at 11:15 p.m., ch. 4, in color, for the remaining 3½ weeks of Johnny Carson's working vacation at Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel. Sammy Davis Jr. joins the comedian during his first two nights, as Joey returns, like a yo-yo, in a new format to the network which pink-slipped him prior to his later reprieve, and release, by CBS. Also guesting tonight are Frank Sinatra, Corbett Monica and Michele Lee.

JANIS Paige plays a singer during "The Fugitive" repeat at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 7.

TONIGHT — Joey Bishop, recovered from a slipped disc which kept him off the show last week, steps in at 11:15 p.m., ch. 4, in color, for the remaining 3½ weeks of Johnny Carson's working vacation at Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel. Sammy Davis Jr. joins the comedian during his first two nights, as Joey returns, like a yo-yo, in a new format to the network which pink-slipped him prior to his later reprieve, and release, by CBS. Also guesting tonight are Frank Sinatra, Corbett Monica and Michele Lee.

Lloyd Bridges Swaps Swim Fins for Saddle

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lloyd Bridges is exchanging his barnacles for saddle sores.

After starring successfully for four years (156 episodes) in "Sea Hunt," Bridges has come up for air and a cowboy hat in a new CBS television series titled "The Loner."

In between he bombed in a fanciful production titled "The Lloyd Bridges Show."

Having taken an oath never to work in a series again, Bridges has an explanation for reversing his field.

"This new show is being written and produced by Rod Serling," he explained. "Any actor who wouldn't jump at the chance to work with Serling is out of his mind.

"He will write at least 85% of the scripts. The first 16 have already been completed and they are simply great."

HORSE OPERAS are making a comeback this year. In the past half-dozen seasons, westerns have bleached their bones in the ratings race. Last fall, for instance, "Bonanza," "Gunsmoke," "The Virginian" and "Rawhide" were the only sagebrush sagas of the air.

"Branded" came along in mid-season, prospered, and proved to be a harbinger of things to come.

In addition to "The Loner," such other entries as "Wild West," "Jesse James," "Shenandoah," "F Troop" and "The Big Valley" will make their debuts in the autumn.

Bridges' attitude is cautious.

"Westerns deal with basic emotions, and they appeal to most people," he said. "My show is a dressing for what Serling has to say.

"PERSONALLY, I find it difficult to accustom myself to all the dust after the fresh air and salt water of my old series. But I like to think of 'The Loner' as a series of little 'High Noons.'"

Bridges appeared in a role with Gary Cooper in the movie, "High Noon." He believes his series has the same quality.

Bridges said his new characterization differs only slightly from his role as Mike Nelson, the intrepid guy with the scuba equipment and swim fins.

"They are both heroes who stand for justice," he said. "But the new character, Bill Colton, has some frailties. He's human.

"He moves from place to place. Colton isn't a drifter. He's a seeker, and the characters he encounters are well delineated. And there's plenty of action and excitement to go along with suspense."

Bridges was somewhat hazy as to what Colton is seeking. But, clearly, the actor is seeking an opportunity to get back into the water.

"I still have a house at Malibu for weekends and vacations," he said wistfully. "And I just finished a movie titled 'Around the World Under the Sea.'"

SPECIAL

LUCY GOES TO MEXICO —Maurice Chevalier helps Ricky Ricardo with a show for the crew of a carrier in San Diego harbor during the "Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour" repeat at 10 p.m., ch. 2, then becomes involved with U. S. Customs when he pursues bargain-hunting Lucy into Tijuana. Arnaz and Richard (Little Ricky) Keith join Chevalier in singing French, Cuban and rock 'n' roll versions of "Valentine."

HARLEM: SUMMER '65 —The mood of Harlem a year after the riots is explored at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, as "ABC Scope" tries to capture the attitudes and feelings of the average Negro there toward the white world surrounding them. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N. Y.) is interviewed by Edward P. Morgan, and Muslim leader James Shabazz explains his doctrines. Cameras go to Afro-House, a teenage nightclub at 125th Street and 7th Avenue where a Black Nationalist rally is being held, and to Harlem's Mt. Morris Park where a teenage Negro cadet corps is performing.

Lloyd Bridges Swaps Swim Fins for Saddle

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lloyd Bridges is exchanging his barnacles for saddle sores.

After starring successfully for four years (156 episodes) in "Sea Hunt," Bridges has come up for air and a cowboy hat in a new CBS television series titled "The Loner."

In between he bombed in a fanciful production titled "The Lloyd Bridges Show."

Having taken an oath never to work in a series again, Bridges has an explanation for reversing his field.

"This new show is being written and produced by Rod Serling," he explained. "Any actor who wouldn't jump at the chance to work with Serling is out of his mind.

"He will write at least 85% of the scripts. The first 16 have already been completed and they are simply great."

HORSE OPERAS are making a comeback this year. In the past half-dozen seasons, westerns have bleached their bones in the ratings race. Last fall, for instance, "Bonanza," "Gunsmoke," "The Virginian" and "Rawhide" were the only sagebrush sagas of the air.

"Branded" came along in mid-season, prospered, and proved to be a harbinger of things to come.

In addition to "The Loner," such other entries as "Wild West," "Jesse James," "Shenandoah," "F Troop" and "The Big Valley" will make their debuts in the autumn.

Bridges' attitude is cautious.

"Westerns deal with basic emotions, and they appeal to most people," he said. "My show is a dressing for what Serling has to say.

"PERSONALLY, I find it difficult to accustom myself to all the dust after the fresh air and salt water of my old series. But I like to think of 'The Loner' as a series of little 'High Noons.'"

Bridges appeared in a role with Gary Cooper in the movie, "High Noon." He believes his series has the same quality.

Bridges said his new characterization differs only slightly from his role as Mike Nelson, the intrepid guy with the scuba equipment and swim fins.

"They are both heroes who stand for justice," he said. "But the new character, Bill Colton, has some frailties. He's human.

"He moves from place to place. Colton isn't a drifter. He's a seeker, and the characters he encounters are well delineated. And there's plenty of action and excitement to go along with suspense."

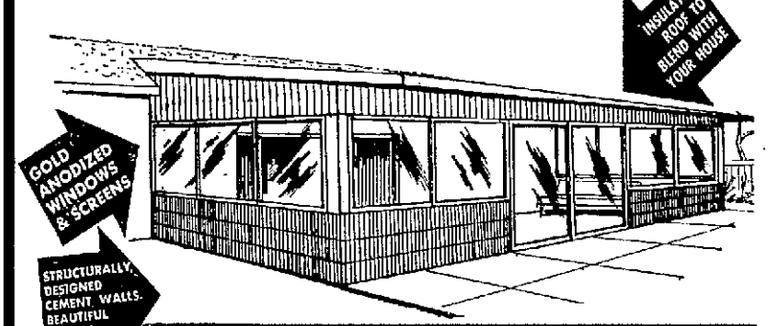

Bridges was somewhat hazy as to what Colton is seeking. But, clearly, the actor is seeking an opportunity to get back into the water.

"I still have a house at Malibu for weekends and vacations," he said wistfully. "And I just finished a movie titled 'Around the World Under the Sea.'"

Video Veteran Recalls 'Silent Television'

By JOAN CROSBY

NEA (New York) — Ed Binns is a veteran of what he calls "the days of silent television."

"In those days," says Binns, who did about 300 live shows, and a like number of filmed shows, "we would be paid $15 for a full-hour show."

Now Binns lives in Hollywood ("Every time I vote as a California citizen I feel as if I'm lying"), but maintains an apartment in New York.

* * * *

A VETERAN of series (he starred as Brenner, the show that began the whole older man-younger man format, and had a running role in (The Nurses), he might accept another one if—

"Television acting is pretty dull. And I can't take Hollywood seriously. I feel I am serving out time there."

Binns takes his work seriously, but without any pomposity. "After 25 years as an actor, I'd starve to death if I had to work at another profession. So I have too much of an investment not to take myself seriously.

* * * *

"BUT I consider myself 100% professional. I give the best I can, I'm not late and I know my lines. I have been too hungry and poor not to treat acting with respect."

Binns' face, if not his name, is very familiar to the public. "I have made a collection of what's-your-name-again stories. My favorite happened when I was working on location in a film. A woman came up to me and said very politely that she had been an admirer of mine for years. Then she added, 'But I don't know your name,' I told her, and even spelled it out. Then she said, 'I never heard of you.' "

SPECIAL

OPERATION TEEN-AGER: Crime & the Student—"It's hard to build a good life but almost impossible to rebuild a wrecked one." This is the advice given students at a Houston high school by one of four Texas state prison inmates, whose sentences total 751 years, as they relate their own teen-age experiences and the behavior that ultimately led to prison. Appearances by the anonymous convicts before school and church groups, seen at 7:30 p.m., ch. 9, is part of Houston's crime prevention program called "Operation Teen-ager," conceived by a convict and sponsored by the Texas Board of Corrections.

CAMBRIDGE CIRCUS — Satirical views of budget problems, weather reports, law courts, radio and TV newscasts, popular songs, hospitals and spies make up an unInhibited revue, produced by Robert Herridge in a shortened version of last year's Broadway presentation. Original music and the eight sketches of the 8 p.m., ch. 11, hour were written by the players themselves — five young graduates of Cambridge University plus deadpan comedienne Jo Kendall.

Video Veteran Recalls 'Silent Television'

By JOAN CROSBY

NEA (New York) — Ed Binns is a veteran of what he calls "the days of silent television."

"In those days," says Binns, who did about 300 live shows, and a like number of filmed shows, "we would be paid $15 for a full-hour show."

Now Binns lives in Hollywood ("Every time I vote as a California citizen I feel as if I'm lying"), but maintains an apartment in New York.

* * * *

A VETERAN of series (he starred as Brenner, the show that began the whole older man-younger man format, and had a running role in (The Nurses), he might accept another one if—

"Television acting is pretty dull. And I can't take Hollywood seriously. I feel I am serving out time there."

Binns takes his work seriously, but without any pomposity. "After 25 years as an actor, I'd starve to death if I had to work at another profession. So I have too much of an investment not to take myself seriously.

* * * *

"BUT I consider myself 100% professional. I give the best I can, I'm not late and I know my lines. I have been too hungry and poor not to treat acting with respect."

Binns' face, if not his name, is very familiar to the public. "I have made a collection of what's-your-name-again stories. My favorite happened when I was working on location in a film. A woman came up to me and said very politely that she had been an admirer of mine for years. Then she added, 'But I don't know your name,' I told her, and even spelled it out. Then she said, 'I never heard of you.' "

If Baldness Ached You'd See Us Mighty Fast!

S. I. TUROFF, Director of Turoff Clinics

If your hair started HURTING as it withered and fell from your scalp, you would rush to see us because you wouldn't accept such a condition and endure the pain. The fact that falling hair is not accompanied by pain should not deceive you. No general, good-for-everybody treatment can produce results. Our entirely different, personalized treatment cannot be compared with "assembly-line" methods. If you are growing only short, soft hairs; if there is excessive dandruff, excessive oiliness or dryness, excessive hair in the combings, these may be Nature's own warnings of impending baldness! Don't delay. Get a comprehensive hair and scalp examination today or tonight, absolutely free! Find out why hundreds of your friends and neighbors are telling others about us. We accept ONLY cases we CAN POSITIVELY IMPROVE.

- ★ No guesswork!
- ★ No experiments!
- ★ Personalized treatment!
- ★ Quick relief from scalp worries!
- ★ Visible benefits!
- ★ Reasonable fees!

DON'T RESIGN YOURSELF TO BALDNESS

Certain things can and cannot be done. The important thing is to come in fast, without delay; the examination is FREE. No matter where you've been or what you've tried, spend 15 FREE minutes with us. If nothing else comes of it we guarantee you will learn a lot. No appointment needed for free consultation-examination.

OPERATION TEENAGER: Crime & the Student—"It's hard to build a good life but almost impossible to rebuild a wrecked one." This is the advice given students at a Houston high school by one of four Texas state prison inmates, whose sentences total 751 years, as they relate their own teen-age experiences and the behavior that ultimately led to prison. Appearances by the anonymous convicts before school and church groups, seen at 7:30 p.m., ch. 9, is part of Houston's crime prevention program called "Operation Teen-ager," conceived by a convict and sponsored by the Texas Board of Corrections.

CAMBRIDGE CIRCUS — Satirical views of budget problems, weather reports, law courts, radio and TV newscasts, popular songs, hospitals and spies make up an uninhibited revue, produced by Robert Herridge in a shortened version of last year's Broadway presentation. Original music and the eight sketches of the 8 p.m., ch. 11, hour were written by the players themselves — five young graduates of Cambridge University plus deadpan comedienne Jo Kendall.

SPECIAL

FDR—A worn and wearied President vacations at Warm Springs, Ga., when on April 12, 1945, just 83 days after taking office for a fourth term, he slumps over his desk and dies. The shock of a nation, while champagne pours in Berlin and Tokyo broadcasts a surprising message of sympathy, is detailed in the series' 26th and final show at 8 p.m., ch. 7. HST is seen taking over the mourning nation, and specially-filmed sequences feature Roosevelt's son Elliott, his daughter Anna, his maternal aunt Laura Delano and former Vice President Henry A. Wallace. This series, like "Profiles in Courage," was planned for a single season run only, but unlike the JFK series will continue throughout the summer in repeats. (The complete set of prints of the series have been deposited at the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N.Y.)

Television Bring

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Old television stars don't fade away; when their shows bomb out, they bounce into a new series.

Like the movies, television is calcifying.

New faces are becoming less apparent on the tube with each passing year. The networks and production companies are disinclined to gamble on unknowns when they have proven stars looking for work.

JUNE LOCKHART
"Lost in Space"

Apparently viewers will accept a video star in the role of a cowboy one season and welcome him back as a detective or playboy in a subsequent series. That old bugaboo type-casting has diminished in the minds of producers as well as performers.

Thus, June Lockhart, the homespun ranch wife of the "Lassie" series can move to the role of space girl in "Lost in Space" next season without traumatic manifestations to herself or her fans.

The coming year in television will see a record number of stars returning to the tube in new surroundings.

A prime example involves Efrem Zimbalist Jr. and Roger Smith. For years they co-starred in "77 Sunset

SPECIAL

FDR—A worn and wearied President vacations at Warm Springs, Ga., when on April 12, 1945, just 83 days after taking office for a fourth term, he slumps over his desk and dies. The shock of a nation, while champagne pours in Berlin and Tokyo broadcasts a surprising message of sympathy, is detailed in the series' 26th and final show at 8 p.m., ch. 7. HST is seen taking over the mourning nation, and specially-filmed sequences feature Roosevelt's son Elliott, his daughter Anna, his maternal aunt Laura Delano and former Vice President Henry A. Wallace. This series, like "Profiles in Courage," was planned for a single season run only, but unlike the JFK series will continue throughout the summer in repeats. (The complete set of prints of the series have been deposited at the Franklin Delano Ronsevelt Library at Hyde Park, N.Y.)

Television Bring

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Old television stars don't fade away; when their shows bomb out, they bounce into a new series.

Like the movies, television is calcifying.

New faces are becoming less apparent on the tube with each passing year. The networks and production companies are disinclined to gamble on unknowns when they have proven stars looking for work.

JUNE LOCKHART
"Lost in Space"

Apparently viewers will accept a video star in the role of a cowboy one season and welcome him back as a detective or playboy in a subsequent series. That old bugaboo type-casting has diminished in the minds of producers as well as performers.

Thus, June Lockhart, the homespun ranch wife of the "Lassie" series can move to the role of space girl in "Lost in Space" next season without traumatic manifestations to herself or her fans.

The coming year in television will see a record number of stars returning to the tube in new surroundings.

A prime example involves Efrem Zimbalist Jr. and Roger Smith. For years they co-starred in "77 Sunset

'Em Back Magic Formula: Old Faces Are Best New Faces

EDMOND O'BRIEN
"Hot Summer"

Strip," a hokey private eye series. This fall they will be back in different series. Smith will play the title role in "Mr. Roberts" while Zimbalist essays the hero in "The FBI."

Ben Gazzara, who only last year starred in "Arrest and Trial" as a cop, will be seen in September as a man dying of an incurable disease in "Run for Your Life."

His partner in the defunt show, Chuck Connors, is already on the air in his new series, "Branded." Connors originally found stardom in the old western hit "The Rifleman."

And Edmond O'Brien, unsuccessful as a lawyer in "Sam Benedict" a couple of season ago, will be looking for the golden ring in "The Long Hot Summer" as a big-shot in a small southern town.

The fact that these stars, and others, are returning in new vehicles is added insurance for a long run. But there are no guarantees.

EFREM ZIMBALIST
"The FBI"

While televiewers generally are loyal to their favorites, the characters and stories must be attractive, according to one producer.

But no matter how popular the star, he cannot transfer his following to a second rate effort.

Ask Robert Young. He was a national father image for years in "Father Knows Best." But when he attempted a return in "Window on Main Street" his fans looked in for a while and then tuned out.

The same circumstances surround John Forsythe. He, too, was a paternal figure in "Bachelor Father." Next season he will be seen as the owner of a girl's school in "The John Forsythe Show." Will he be accepted in the new environment? Forsythe hopes so.

But there are as many failures as success stories.

Eve Arden, Robert Cummings, Ann Sothern, Dennis Weaver and a score of others have clunked out the second or third time around.

Walter Brennan was beloved as the old goat in overalls on "The Real McCoys." But the public wouldn't buy him this year as a business executive in "The Tycoon."

On the other hand, David Janssen, who scored in "Richard Diamond," has topped himself in "The Fugitive," one of the most popular shows on the air.

Sometimes second bananas move up to stardom in new series. It happened to Robert Vaughn in "The Man From UNCLE" after he went down the drain in a secondary role in "The Lieutenant." Bob Denver, the beatnik in "Dobie Gillis," is riding high in the title role of "Gilligan's Island."

William Self, chief of 20th Century's-Fox's television production is gambling next season on a number of retread stars.

Why, Self was asked, is he going with so many familiar faces?

"The basic reason is that they are all good actors," Self said.

"A fine performer is accepted in many different roles. A TV personality who isn't a top performer has a tough time getting connected with a second series.

SPECIAL

JAPAN: A New Dawn Over Asia—In an hour-long David Wolper documentary, narrator Richard Basehart traces the impact of world forces on the island empire of Japan, and how the old feudal kingdom emerged from centuries of isolation to take her place as a modern, industrialized democracy with a major voice in world affairs. Highlight of the 9 p.m., ch. 11 film is the visit on Sept. 27, 1945, of Emperor Hirohito breaking all precedent by calling on Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the occupation forces. (Hour will be repeated Aug. 2.)

MISS UNIVERSE Beauty Pageant — John Daly and Sally Ann Howes are co-hosts for a 90-min. telecast of the finals of the 14th annual contest, with Jack Linkletter serving as on-stage emcee at Miami Beach's Convention Hall. Pat Boone is special guest during the 10 p.m., ch. 2 coverage (by 3-hour delayed tapes), as the reigning Miss Universe, Corinna Tsopei of Greece, turns over to her successor the crown and scepter. Sue Downey of Columbus, Ohio, will represent the USA against delegates from some 70 nations. (Though Miss U is in black and white, color will be used for NBC's coverage of our IBC finals, as well as for KTTV's parade telecast.)

'Em Back Magic Formula: Old Faces Are Best New Faces

EDMOND O'BRIEN
"Hot Summer"

Strip," a hokey private eye series. This fall they will be back in different series. Smith will play the title role in "Mr. Roberts" while Zimbalist essays the hero in "The FBI."

Ben Gazzara, who only last year starred in "Arrest and Trial" as a cop, will be seen in September as a man dying of an incurable disease in "Run for Your Life."

His partner in the defunt show, Chuck Connors, is already on the air in his new series, "Branded." Connors originally found stardom in the old western hit "The Rifleman."

And Edmond O'Brien, unsuccessful as a lawyer in "Sam Benedict" a couple of season ago, will be looking for the golden ring in "The Long Hot Summer" as a big-shot in a small southern town.

The fact that these stars, and others, are returning in new vehicles is added insurance for a long run. But there are no guarantees.

EFREM ZIMBALIST
"The FBI"

While televiewers generally are loyal to their favorites, the characters and stories must be attractive, according to one producer.

But no matter how popular the star, he cannot transfer his following to a second rate effort.

Ask Robert Young. He was a national father image for years in "Father Knows Best." But when he attempted a return in "Window on Main Street" his fans looked in for a while and then tuned out.

The same circumstances surround John Forsythe. He, too, was a paternal figure in "Bachelor Father." Next season he will be seen as the owner of a girl's school in "The John Forsythe Show." Will he be accepted in the new environment? Forsythe hopes so.

But there are as many failures as success stories.

Eve Arden, Robert Cummings, Ann Sothern, Dennis Weaver and a score of others have clunked out the second or third time around.

Walter Brennan was beloved as the old goat in overalls on "The Real McCoys." But the public wouldn't buy him this year as a business executive in "The Tycoon."

On the other hand, David Janssen, who scored in "Richard Diamond," has topped himself in "The Fugitive," one of the most popular shows on the air.

Sometimes second bananas move up to stardom in new series. It happened to Robert Vaughn in "The Man From UNCLE" after he went down the drain in a secondary role in "The Lieutenant." Bob Denver, the beatnik in "Dobie Gillis," is riding high in the title role of "Giligan's Island."

William Self, chief of 20th Century's-Fox's television production is gambling next season on a number of retread stars.

Why, Self was asked, is he going with so many familiar faces?

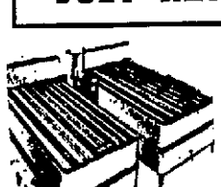

"The basic reason is that they are all good actors," Self said.

"A fine performer is accepted in many different roles. A TV personality who isn't a top performer has a tough time getting connected with a second series.

Q. I understand that in the film Lady L, Sophia Loren ages from 20 to 80. Who was responsible for the make-up in this movie? Can you show us photos of the transformation?—Helen Mosher, Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Bill Tuttle, head of the MGM make-up department, was responsible for the superb job.

Q. What was the scandal hushed up by the press about Queen Elizabeth and the Mayor of Hamburg when the British Queen visited Germany?—Robert Lawson, Seattle, Wash.

A. The wife of Hamburg's Lord Mayor, Dr. Paul Nevermann, refused to meet the Queen "because my husband is having an affair with another woman." As a result Nevermann asked the wife of his deputy to stand in as a substitute, later he resigned as Lord Mayor, also gave up his seat in the city senate.

Q. When Pierre Salinger was given a job in Hollywood, his salary was announced as $50,000 a year. Wasn't that an inflated figure? Can you give me the truth?—J. G., San Bernardino, Calif.

A. $28,000.

Q. Michael Chaplin, son of Charles Chaplin—has he finished his autobiography yet? — E. R., Hartford, Conn.

A. Yes, with the assistance of several writers, he wrote it in 14 days.

Q. This year's leading dress designer is André Courrèges. Can you tell anything about him?—Nora Robertson, New York, N.Y.

A. André Courrèges, 40, an engineer by training, raised in southern France, designs geometric clothes, is fiercely guarded by a cropped-haired young woman in his Paris apartment. Her name is Ariane Breuer. In three years Courrèges has become the rage of the fashion world.

Q. A funeral director told me that in this state embalming is required by law. Is this true? If so, in what states does it hold true?—K. I., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. Embalming is not required by any federal, state, or municipal law.

Q. Who is the man who owns the Eiffel Tower in Paris?—Frank Helm, Bridgeport, Conn.

A. The Eiffel Tower is owned by the city of Paris but operated by a private concessionaire, Société de la Tour Eiffel.

Q. Most of the new TV shows—aren't they specifically aimed at teenagers?—H. L. Olson, Provo, Utah.

A. Yes, the idea is to produce a show which will appeal to the 12-17 age-bracket.

Q. Does screen star Tony Curtis own two Rolls-Royces?—Mary Jane Bliss, Hendersonville, N.C.

A. Yes, he is wheel-happy.

Q. General MacArthur's first wife, the late Louise Brooks—did she ever finish her book of memoirs in which she planned to tell the whole truth about MacArthur?—D. E., Washington, D.C.

A. She did not.

Q. Is Ann-Margret worth anything at the box office? —Diane Hirsch, Jersey City, N.J.

A. Very little.

Q. Now that we've all fallen in love with Marni Nixon's voice — she sang for Audrey Hepburn in My Fair Lady*—how about seeing a photo of her?—Mrs. Martin L. Kisner, Fargo, N.D.*

Q. Who on the White House staff has taken the place of Walter Jenkins?—D. T. S., Baltimore, Md.

A. Two Texans, Marvin Watson and Jake Jacobsen—both dedicated, anonymous, and publicity-shy, the kind of men President Johnson likes to surround himself with.

Q. How much older is Sybil Burton than her new husband, Jordan Christopher? By getting married to Christopher, does she give up all the loot she got from Richard Burton?—Paulette Dwyer, Miami, Fla.

A. Sybil Burton, 36, is 12 years her husband's senior. Her marriage does not affect the financial settlement she worked out with Burton so that he could be free to marry Elizabeth Taylor.

Q. About McGeorge Bundy —is he an American citizen? Is he an ex-college professor? — Has he ever worked for a living or just taught? — Ross Whetsel, Denver, Col.

A. McGeorge Bundy, born March 30, 1919, youngest son of five children of Harvey Bundy, Boston lawyer and close friend of late Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. Bundy grew up in Boston, was educated at Groton and Yale, collaborated on memoirs of Stimson, taught government at Harvard, later became dean of arts and sciences, has worked for a living, teaching, writing, lecturing, advising, working from 12 to 18 hours a day for his government.

Q. I would like to know if famed Negro opera singer Marian Anderson is married to a white man or a Negro?—C. L., Richmond, Va.

A. Marian Anderson, 63, is married to white architect Orpheus Fisher.

Q. A truthful answer to this one: What is the exact relationship between President Johnson and an English woman, Lady Jackson?—B. C., Washington, D.C.

A. Lady Jackson is Barbara Ward, attractive writer on economics and politics. She is one of President Johnson's favorites, with her husband, frequently visits the White House.

Q. Dean Rusk, our Secretary of State, recently said that the major lines of U.S. policy are simple and easily understandable. "I am pretty certain," he declared, "that the majority of high school students could describe them accurately." I would like to know if Dean Rusk was sick or under the influence of a martini when he made that statement.—Mrs. R. L. Chase, Chapel Hill, No. Carolina.

A. No. Just brave, hopeful, and deluded.

Q. Who said: "The reason women do not love one another is men."?—Claire Mullen, Oakland, Calif.

A. Jean de La Bruyère, 1645-1696, French writer.

There's more than one easy way to make a Dole Pineapple sundae!

Easiest of all is the old favorite on your left—just drained Dole crushed pineapple. Or try the festive new idea in back. Simply combine equal measures of drained Dole crushed pineapple with mint jelly—heat, stirring until the two are well blended. Right, another easy surprise! Mix one cup of undrained Dole crushed pineapple with 1 package of instant butterscotch pudding. (Use more pineapple if you like.) Stir until blended. Dole pineapple is always a special treat, because it's always Hawaiian pineapple. The soil and climate of Hawaii put something into Dole's flavor that pineapple from other parts of the world just never has!

A SPECIAL PARADE REPORT ON WAR BRIDES

HOW DID THEIR MARRIAGES REALLY TURN OUT?

by ROSALIND MASSOW

Whatever happened to World War II brides?

Twenty years ago, when the fighting men came back to the U.S., they brought with them a whole contingent of foreign wives. More than 100,000 European and Asian women entered the U.S. as mates of GIs. Congress passed special legislation allowing them into the country outside the immigration quota restrictions. And the female "invasion" touched off a wave of grumbling and dire prediction.

War brides skimmed off the cream of America's eligible men, many girls on the home front complained. Others contended that the women had only married GIs to get a free passport out of war-torn lands abroad. Sociologists and marriage experts pondered the durability of the marriages. Many predicted dourly that they would founder because of differences in background, outlook, language—and because the women were being transplanted to a new, and sometimes hostile, society.

What has happened to these war marriages since the end of the war? Have they collapsed as so many persons predicted they would? Or have they managed to survive the difficulties and obstacles? Is their split-up rate any worse than that of other marriages? Which predicted difficulties came true, and which did not?

To find out, PARADE has polled a group of World War II brides. With the assistance of the American Council on Nationality Service; the Italian Welfare Council; and Cosmopolitan Associates, a nation-wide club of foreign-born women, questionnaires were sent to women living in all parts of the U.S. Follow-up interviews were held with many women and their families. And here is the picture of war brides, 1965, that emerges:

Nine out of 10 wives who answered the questionnaires say they are happy, consider their marriages successful and would marry the same man again if given another chance.

The majority have grown fond of the United States, consider themselves wholeheartedly American, but still miss their relatives and homelands.

More than half said they and their husbands had had problems of adjustment, but that difference in national background was only one of these.

Many said that although their problems of acceptance had lessened with the years, they still were considered "foreign" by their in-laws and their local communities. A few said, pathetically, that they were most looked down on by their children, who were fully Americanized and regarded their mothers as strange.

Nearly half said they had been disappointed in America in one way or another. Some said they had found the nation less prosperous than they had been led to believe; others said they had been shocked by American manners, the frivolity of American housewives and the lack of respect children had for their parents.

Almost all felt that American wives could learn something from the success of the war bride marriages.

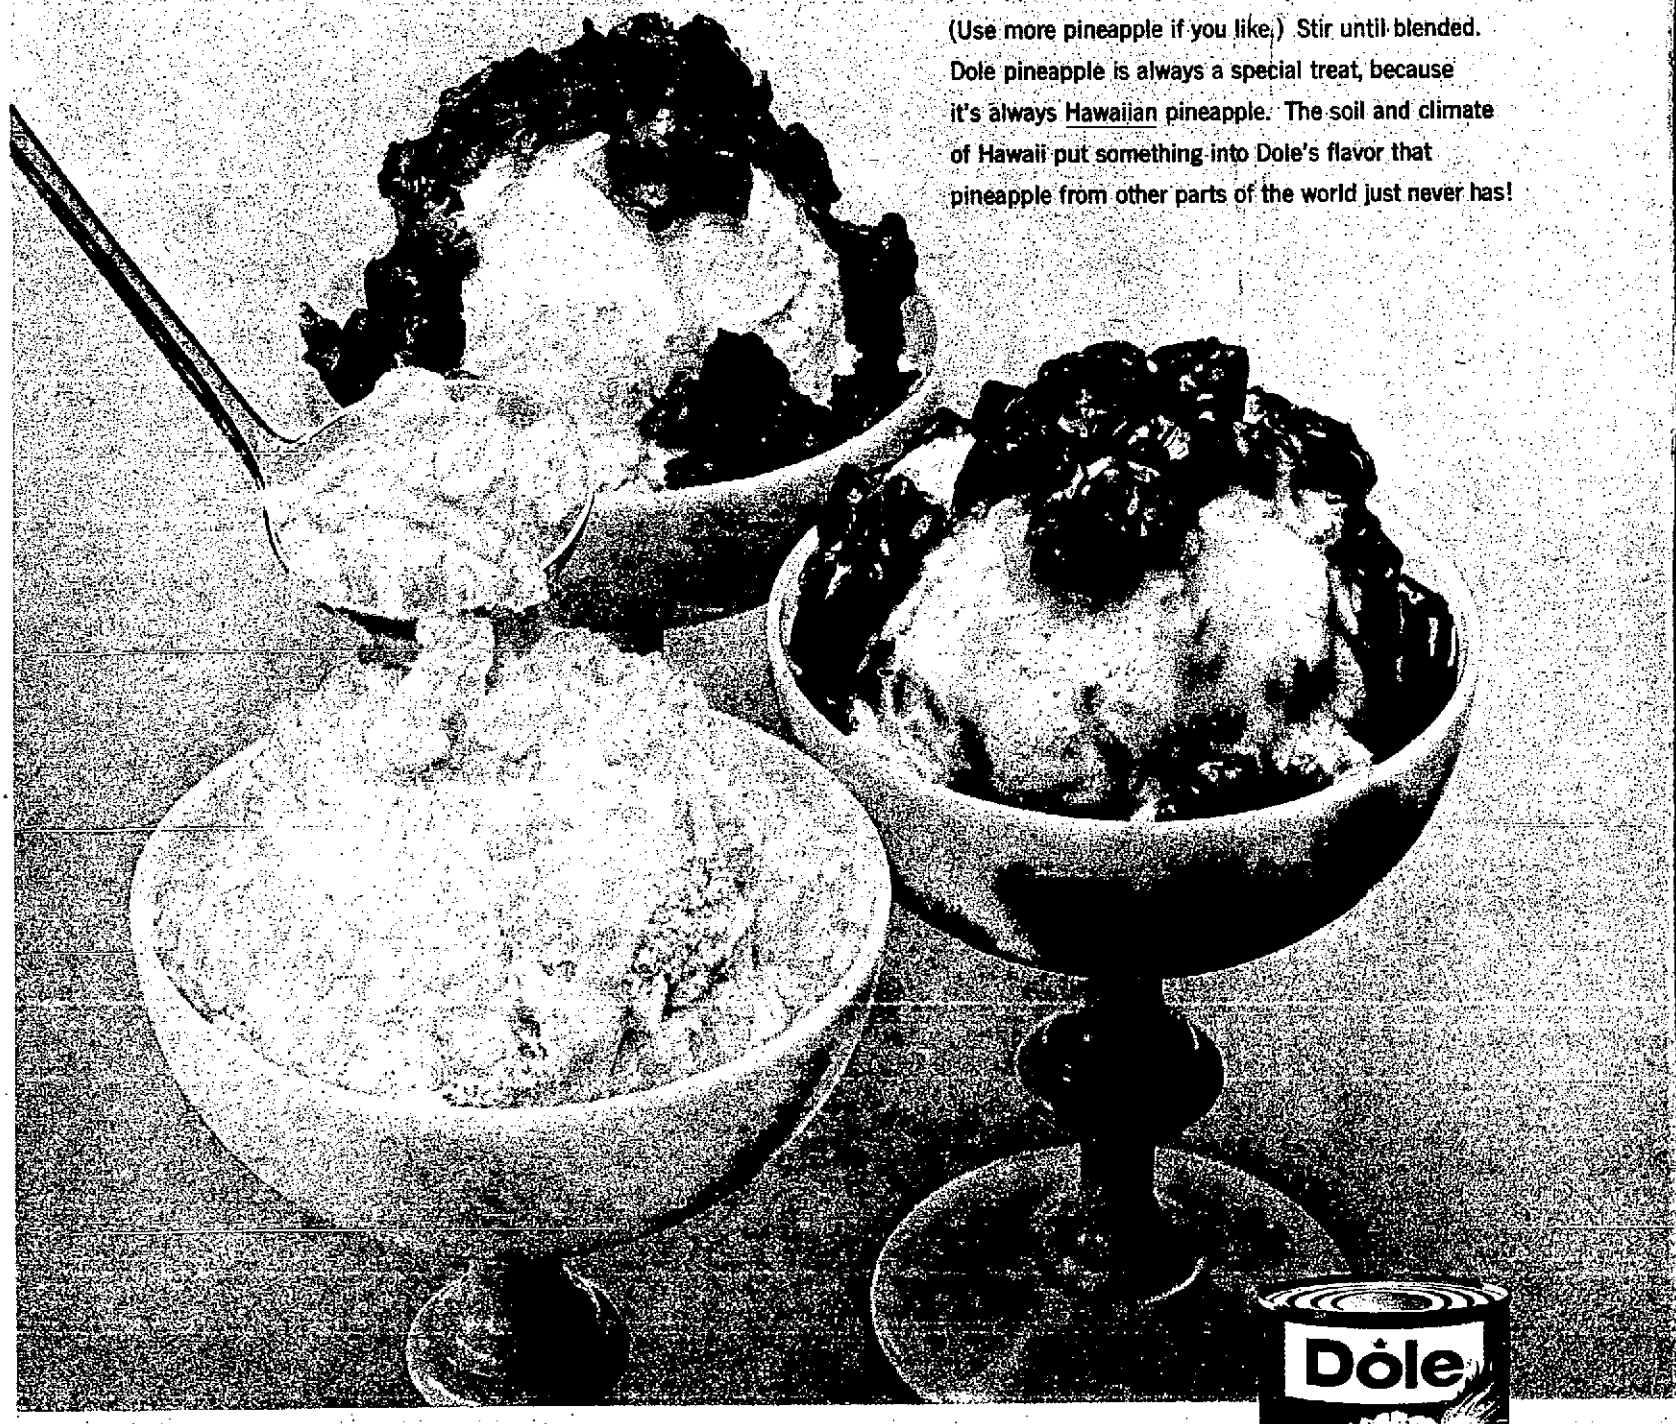

"Women from my country," said a Japanese who had married a GI in 1947 and came to the U.S., "are more adaptable and adjustable, and put their husband's wishes first." Said a German war bride: "European women are more interested in the home than American women. They do not have all these other things that take them away from the home and family." An Australian war bride said distance itself was an important factor in the success of her marriage: "It isn't easy for a girl living in Arizona to run home to mother in Melbourne. You and your husband must work out your problems together, for you have no one but your husband to turn to."

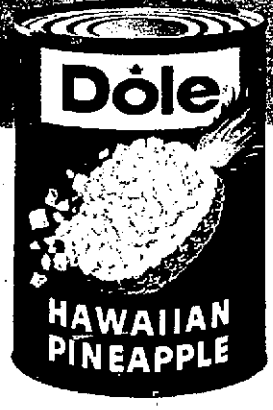

Of course, many of the women noted that the survey could not give a completely accurate picture of the wartime and postwar marriages. Many of the most disastrous, it was said, had collapsed a long time ago, and the bride had gone back to her homeland. Others said that although their marriages still functioned, they could hardly be called successful. A third faction said that while the marriages were successful there had been some pretty tough sledding in previous years.

One Englishwoman now living in Pennsylvania suggested that the measure of a successful marriage was whether the wife had applied for citizenship. She herself had been married since 1948 but had never taken out naturalization papers. She considered her

Others said that although their marriages still functioned, they could hardly be called successful. A third faction said that while the marriages were successful there had been some pretty tough sledding in previous years.

One Englishwoman now living in Pennsylvania suggested that the measure of a successful marriage was whether the wife had applied for citizenship. She herself had been married since 1948 but had never taken out naturalization papers. She considered her marriage a disaster and the American dream a myth.

"The high cost of living makes even a decent salary a mere pittance," she commented bitterly. "And when my husband courted me, I didn't know about his narrow-minded mother. She still hasn't accepted me as her son's wife after 17 years, and she's still muttering under her breath about those foreign girls who marry American men for their $10,000 GI insurance. If I had to do it over again, I'd never marry a man from a different country."

But this woman was an exception. According to the survey, most war brides have found the U.S. prosperous and a good place to live. The majority of them and their families enjoy better than average incomes; they have two or more children (a few even have grandchildren), live in small towns or suburbs and have been fully integrated into the community. Many have contributed a great deal to America and are active in civic and educational affairs. The survey also indicated that the success of the marriage varied according to the background of the bride. Women from the British Isles, Australia and New Zealand, who had no language barrier (although many reported they were ribbed about their "veddy-veddy" accents), adjusted most easily; women from Asia and from former enemy nations had the most difficulty.

Typical of the crop of war brides is English-born Rose Durman Clingerman, 40, who 21 years ago last April married Staff Sgt. Arthur Clingerman of the Army Air Force and now lives in Findlay, O., with her bricklayer husband and six children. Mrs. Clingerman was welcomed to the U.S. by hostility, financial insecurity, loneliness and in-law problems, but today, she says, she is surrounded by love and devotion and considers herself happy and contented.

Early in the marriage, Mrs. Clingerman recognized that if adjusting was to be done in the marriage, she must be the one to do it. Neither her husband nor his family were likely to change their ways to suit her. She also learned to be philosophical when neighbors called her a "foreigner" and even when some asked, "Why don't you go back where you came from?" However, she has not completely outgrown her homesickness, and has been scrupulously saving her money for a year for a visit back to the British Isles. She has also never been able to swallow certain features of U.S. life—for instance, the lack of respect American children give their parents. Mrs. Clingerman's own children are forever gibing at her British-isms. Not long ago, she asked her daughter Susan to buy some press studs. "Oh, Mother!" said Susan. "You mean snap fasteners!"

A less typical war bride is Anne Slack, born in Algeria of French parents and now a resident of Marblehead, Mass. Mrs. Slack, wife of a General Electric sales engineer, is one of those who has contributed a good deal to the U.S.; she originated the children's educational TV program, Parlons Français, now seen by two million U.S. school children. Mother of a 17-year-old son, she has thoroughly adopted the United States although she still loves France and returns for visits whenever possible.

"I think many of the war bride problems came from the girls themselves," Mrs. Slack says. "Many I knew well in the period right after the war were unwilling to let go of their ties to their home country. They felt they were somehow betraying France if they really allowed themselves to like the United States. They had a general attitude of arrogance and superiority.

"I still find that today with some who teach my French classes. They say, 'Mrs. Slack, why do you do it this way? That's not the way we do it in France.' And I say, 'But this isn't France, it's the United States.' And they say, 'But if it's good enough for France, surely it ought to be good enough for this country.'

"Of course, some of the marriages failed just because the girls were too young and immature. They expected to be entertained and wined and dined and they thought it would be all hearts and flowers. When you're older you learn that these are not the important things. The important things are the stability that comes from a husband you love and who loves you, a child in good health, a comfortable home and the surroundings of people you like and who respect you."

Mrs. Mercedes McElwain, an Italian wife who this year celebrates 20 years of marriage to William McElwain, a Pittsburgh public relations executive, has almost forgotten how it felt to be a stranger in the U.S. Attitudes, she has found, have changed dramatically in those two decades.

"The first 8 or 10 years," she recalls, "the first thing people asked when they met me was, 'Where are you from?' Right away, they made me feel like a stranger. Then when I said 'Italy,' I could see them look down on me. They thought that all Italians were poor, penniless, ignorant immigrants.

"Now it is very different. People have traveled so much and learned so much about other countries that they don't feel that way. They still know that I am Italian, my accent still shows, but now they make me feel more interesting because I am."

In 20 years, however, Mrs. McElwain has not gotten used to several features of American life. She was raised with the idea that the man is the head of the house, and she does not approve of the way American husbands are belittled by their wives. She also thinks American women work far too hard. In Italy, she says, almost every family has some domestic help. Here in the U.S., even upper-income housewives must do everything themselves.

Moreover, Mrs. McElwain admits there are certain differences in outlook between her and her husband that will probably never be bridged. "We have learned to live with each other's way of thinking, but we know that neither will ever change," she says. "The only thing you can do is rely on love and understanding and forget about these differences."

And Mrs. McElwain's husband isn't surprised that war bride marriages worked out so well. "Most of us have forgotten how much red tape the Army put in the way when you wanted to marry a foreign national," he says. "It was tough to get permission. You had to really want to do it. You couldn't just meet on a weekend and get married. I think the disaster rate was lower than for quickie wartime marriages in this country."

This thought was echoed by one sociologist consulted by PARADE. "I think a lot of experts were impetuous in predicting failure for these marriages," he says. "Many who entered into them were mature people and gave it a lot of thought. A marriage that proceeds from that kind of beginning is bound to succeed."

Mrs. McElwain, the Italian bride, put it this way: "There are a lot of obstacles to a marriage between people from different countries. It is very difficult and you both have to work at it, particularly at the beginning. If I had it to do over, I don't think I would ever marry a man from another country again.

"Of course," she added, "I would marry Bill again in a minute!"

Jacqueline Fernandez, French, Paterson, N.J.: "Everyone has been so friendly I have hardly missed Paris."

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

PROBLEMS. A recent public opinion survey of Americans and their problems reveals that alcoholism ranks near the top. At least 34% of the public knows a friend or a relative who has a drinking problem, and approximately one in five American adults is suffering from a condition approaching alcoholism. In California alone there are 886,000 alcoholics, and alcoholism in the state is growing faster than state agencies can keep up with it.

UNFAITHFUL WIVES. According to the Napoleonic code of law, French wives who are unfaithful to their husbands can be jailed. Husbands who commit adultery, however, are not. This inequality of the sexes has bugged the modern Frenchwoman to the point where she is now sponsoring legislation which makes adultery a crime for both wife and husband with equal fines, ranging from $50 to $1,000, and equal jail sentences of three months to two years for "the other man" or "the other woman."

French bride Anne Slack, Marblehead, Mass.—with husband Ray, son Larry—is a celebrity on educational TV.

marriage a disaster and the American dream a myth.

"The high cost of living makes even a decent salary a mere pittance," she commented bitterly. "And when my husband courted me, I didn't know about his narrow-minded mother. She still hasn't accepted me as her son's wife after 17 years, and she's still muttering under her breath about those foreign girls who marry American men for their $10,000 GI insurance. If I had to do it over again, I'd never marry a man from a different country."

But this woman was an exception. According to the survey, most war brides have found the U.S. prosperous and a good place to live. The majority of them and their families enjoy better than average incomes; they have two or more children (a few even have grandchildren), live in small towns or suburbs and have been fully integrated into the community. Many have contributed a great deal to America and are active in civic and educational affairs. The survey also indicated that the success of the marriage varied according to the background of the bride. Women from the British Isles, Australia and New Zealand, who had no language barrier (although many reported they were ribbed about their "veddy-veddy" accents), adjusted most easily; women from Asia and from former enemy nations had the most difficulty.

Typical of the crop of war brides is English-born Rose Durman Clingerman, 40, who 21 years ago last April married Staff Sgt. Arthur Clingerman of the Army Air Force and now lives in Findlay, O., with her bricklayer husband and six children. Mrs. Clingerman was welcomed to the U.S. by hostility, financial insecurity, loneliness and in-law problems, but today, she says, she is surrounded by love and devotion and considers herself happy and contented.

Early in the marriage, Mrs. Clingerman recognized that if adjusting was to be done in the marriage, she must be the one to do it. Neither her husband nor his family were likely to change their ways to suit her. She also learned to be philosophical when neighbors called her a "foreigner" and even when some asked, "Why don't you go back where you came from?" However, she has not completely outgrown her homesickness, and has been scrupulously saving her money for a year for a visit back to the British Isles. She has also never been able to swallow certain features of U.S. life—for instance, the lack of respect American children give their parents. Mrs. Clingerman's own children are forever gibing at her British-isms. Not long ago, she asked her daughter Susan to buy some press studs. "Oh, Mother!" said Susan. "You mean snap fasteners!"

A less typical war bride is Anne Slack, born in Algeria of French parents and now a resident of Marblehead, Mass. Mrs. Slack, wife of a General Electric sales engineer, is one of those who has contributed a good deal to the U.S.; she originated the children's educational TV program, Parlons Français, now seen by two million U.S. school children. Mother of a 17-year-old son, she has thoroughly adopted the United States although she still loves France and returns for visits whenever possible.

"I think many of the war bride problems came from the girls themselves," Mrs. Slack says. "Many I knew well in the period right after the war were unwilling to let go of their ties to their home country. They felt they were somehow betraying France if they really allowed themselves to like the United States. They had a general attitude of arrogance and superiority.

"I still find that today with some who teach my French classes. They say, 'Mrs. Slack, why do you do it this way? That's not the way we do it in France.' And I say, 'But this isn't France, it's the United States.' And they say, 'But if it's good enough for France, surely it ought to be good enough for this country.'

"Of course, some of the marriages failed just because the girls were too young and immature. They expected to be entertained and wined and dined and they thought it would be all hearts and flowers. When you're older you learn that these are not the important things. The important things are the stability that comes from a husband you love and who loves you, a child in good health, a comfortable home and the surroundings of people you like and who respect you."

Mrs. Mercedes McElwain, an Italian wife who this year celebrates 20 years of marriage to William McElwain, a Pittsburgh public relations executive, has almost forgotten how it felt to be a stranger in the U.S. Attitudes, she has found, have changed dramatically in those two decades.

"The first 8 or 10 years," she recalls, "the first thing people asked when they met me was, 'Where are you from?' Right away, they made me feel like a stranger. Then when I said 'Italy,' I could see them look down on me. They thought that all Italians were poor, penniless, ignorant immigrants.

"Now it is very different. People have traveled so much and learned so much about other countries that they don't feel that way. They still know that I am Italian, my accent still shows, but now they make me feel more interesting because I am."

WHERE THE W.W. II BRIDES CAME FROM

| CHINA | 5,099 |
| JAPAN | 752 |
| ALL OTHER COUNTRIES COMBINED | 27,786 |

In 20 years, however, Mrs. McElwain has not gotten used to several features of American life. She was raised with the idea that the man is the head of the house, and she does not approve of the way American husbands are belittled by their wives. She also thinks American women work far too hard. In Italy, she says, almost every family has some domestic help. Here in the U.S., even upper-income housewives must do everything themselves.

Moreover, Mrs. McElwain admits there are certain differences in outlook between her and her husband that will probably never be bridged. "We have learned to live with each other's way of thinking, but we know that neither will ever change," she says. "The only thing you can do is rely on love and understanding and forget about these differences."

And Mrs. McElwain's husband isn't surprised that war bride marriages worked out so well. "Most of us have forgotten how much red tape the Army put in the way when you wanted to marry a foreign national," he says. "It was tough to get permission. You had to really want to do it. You couldn't just meet on a weekend and get married. I think the disaster rate was lower than for quickie wartime marriages in this country."

This thought was echoed by one sociologist consulted by PARADE. "I think a lot of experts were impetuous in predicting failure for these marriages," he says. "Many who entered into them were mature people and gave it a lot of thought. A marriage that proceeds from that kind of beginning is bound to succeed."

Mrs. McElwain, the Italian bride, put it this way: "There are a lot of obstacles to a marriage between people from different countries. It is very difficult and you both have to work at it, particularly at the beginning. If I had it to do over, I don't think I would ever marry a man from another country again.

"Of course," she added, "I would marry Bill again in a minute!"

recognized as leading manufacturers of camera equipment. In the past four years, however, Soviet Russia has secured a strong position in the British camera market. Last year 1 in every 20 motion picture cameras sold in London was Russian. The Soviets produce excellent research microscopes which they sell for one-third less than the German or Japanese models. Their business in Great Britain is run by an Englishwoman, Mrs. Fay Janes. She toured Moscow a few years ago, bought a few Russian cameras, took them home. She then decided to become the sole agent for Russian camera equipment in Britain. She set up a one-room office in London with two packing cases, one telephone, one nephew to take orders. Business has prospered ever since.

FRAGRANT MEN. American men are becoming more fragrant. So at least claim the cosmetics manufacturers. Louis Zahn, Chicago cosmetics king, declares that one fifth of all the cosmetics now purchased in this country go to men. Within five years the figure will jump 50%. Supposedly men spend more than $70 million per year on toilet water, perfumes, skin creams, bath oils, etc.

UNSTABLE COUNTRIES. The Agency for International Development (AID) refuses to guarantee American investment against revolution, war, or insurrection in the following countries: El Salvador, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Iran, Malaysia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Spain, Uruguay, and Yugoslavia.

MULTIPLE BIRTHS. In the past year there has been a rash of multiple births throughout the world—quadruplets, quintuplets, even sextuplets. The cause for these multiple births in previously sterile women has recently been revealed: they've been given gonadtrophin, a hormone which reacts on the sex glands, causing the maturation of several ova at the same time. All mature ova can be fertilized and frequently are. In Munich recently quintuplets and sextuplets were born within a period of three weeks. Sextuplets were born in Sweden last February. Until doctors began administering gonadtrophin, quintuplets were born only once in every 40 million births. Childless women undergoing treatment with gonadtrophic hormones should keep in mind the risk of eventual multiple births.

SUPER SERVICE STATIONS. Remember what supermarkets did to the neighborhood grocery store? Does a similar fate await the neighborhood service station? A few weeks ago Shell Oil opened a $750,000 "motorlab" in Redford, a suburb of Detroit, and Socony Mobil Oil opened a similar facility at East Meadow, Long Island. Is it just a question of time before automotive supermarkets, offering everything from car washes to complete motor overhauls, dot the landscape? They are spreading most quickly via discount houses in southern California, where they sell gas one penny cheaper.

SWITCH. Irony of ironies! Germany has turned to the Jews in an effort to learn how to organize a truly democratic army. Vice Admiral Hellmuth Heye, leading strategist of the German navy in World War II, has been sent to Israel by the Bonn government to determine the secret of the Israeli esprit de corps. With a population of 2 million Israel has no officer class but subjects all men and unmarried women to military training of 20 to 26 months. Surrounded by Arab states with a population of 50 million, ever threatened by war, the Israeli army is a citizens' army of men and women prepared and determined to fight for the preservation of their sovereignty. Heye has discovered in Israel that there is no military tradition to halt or impede the march of progress. No one is born into the army, or is there an officer caste which looks down upon the civilian authority.

Camping, the great vacation favorite of thousands of families, has been made easier by state park facilities, portable camp stoves and an infinite variety of canned and packaged foods. This meal in a skillet features nonperishable foods and is designed for quick, easy campsite preparation.

CAMPFIRE SKILLET

1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes
3 cups water
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon basil leaves
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
dash pepper
8 ounces medium egg noodles
1 can (10 or 11 oz.) frankfurters
¼ cup grated American cheese

In large skillet, combine undrained tomatoes, water, parsley and seasonings; bring to boil. Add noodles gradually; cook, covered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add frankfurters. Sprinkle with cheese. Heat gently. Makes 4 servings.

HERE ARE NEW IDEAS FOR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

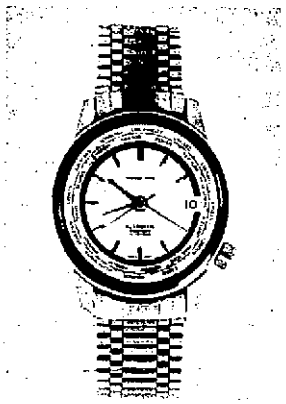

Gutter screen

For uncluttered gutters: Easy to install on any rain-carrying system, this new aluminum expanded metal gutter screen keeps out leaves, twigs, dirt. You can cut it with household scissors, fit it neatly over top of gutter, tuck it under roofing shingles on one side, under outside lip of a box-type gutter on other side. It also bends easily over lip of a round gutter and locks in place. 6" wide, it comes in 25' rolls at $2.98 in stores. Metalex Corp., Dept. PP, Libertyville, Ill.

Memo light

Memo light: Useful on a bedside table as night light and for recording middle-of-the-night ideas, this handy device can also serve as family message center at the telephone, in the kitchen, at an entranceway. Press button and 7-watt bulb lights under black writing surface. Write with the mechanical marking pencil and, when light is left on, memo glows to attract attention, day or night. Writing can be erased with tissue. 8½" x 6" x 1½", with 6½' cord, frame of white, beige or green. $5.95 in stores. Convex Corp., Dept. PP, Box 36094, Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

World time watch

World time watch: Here's a watch that shows local time on a standard 12-hour dial and world-wide time on a 24-hour dial. The 17-jewel, self-winding movement also includes an automatic calendar, is shock-resistant, waterproofed. $59.50. Seiko Time, Dept. PP, 9 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y. 10020.

Pedal lights

Pedal light: New idea for bicycle safety is a pedal with built-in, battery-powered warning lights. The red and white lights, mounted front and rear, also show through red translucent panel at the side—and, when bicycle is moving and pedal is revolving, make a continuous circle of light visible ¼ mile away. Fits any domestic or foreign-made bicycle. $4.95. American Safety Equipment Corp., Dept. PP, 261 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Sweeping combination

Sweeping combination: Here's a broom that has a dustpan riding on it piggyback — always handy. The flared broom also is designed so you can use one side for the brisk sweeping needed for a carpet, the other side for soft sweeping of smooth surfaces. $2.70 postpaid (25¢ additional in West). *Broom-mates, Dept. # CAMPUS FASHIONS WITH ZING

by VIRGINIA POPE
PARADE FASHION EDITOR

There's a new dimension in campus co-ordinates this fall. As the photos on this page and today's cover show, the focus is on the legs—with leotards, stockings and knee socks designed to match, zig for zag and tone for tone, the dizzy designs and riotous colors of the season's new stretch tops and sweaters. Made of stretch materials—Helenca, Banlon, Acrilon, nylon—the new legwear comes in abstract designs, bold stripes, plaids, starlike flake patterns and small checks, all in the brightest, most smashing autumn shades. But wild as they seem, the three-piece ensembles give an over-all co-ordinated fashion look. The skirt, which ends above the knees, is solid color and matches a shade in the top-and-stocking combination. Comfortable and casual, the stockings and tops appeal to preteens as well as high school and college girls. And the boys agree, this style has lots of zing.

CAMPUS FASHIONS WITH ZING

by VIRGINIA POPE
PARADE FASHION EDITOR

There's a new dimension in campus co-ordinates this fall. As the photos on this page and today's cover show, the focus is on the legs—with leotards, stockings and knee socks designed to match, zig for zag and tone for tone, the dizzy designs and riotous colors of the season's new stretch tops and sweaters. Made of stretch materials—Helenca, Banlon, Acrilon, nylon—the new legwear comes in abstract designs, bold stripes, plaids, starlike flake patterns and small checks, all in the brightest, most smashing autumn shades. But wild as they seem, the three-piece ensembles give an over-all co-ordinated fashion look. The skirt, which ends above the knees, is solid color and matches a shade in the top-and-stocking combination. Comfortable and casual, the stockings and tops appeal to preteens as well as high school and college girls. And the boys agree, this style has lots of zing.

Photos by Ray Solowinski. Ensemble shown on cover by Jeanne Campbell for Sportwhirl: wool knit top ($15), stockings ($8), skirt ($14). Shoes courtesy of A. S. Beck; costume jewelry by Coro. Why did this PIA airliner crash? Because of international red tape we may never know.

THE DANGEROUS LOOPHOLE IN AIR SAFETY

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

A few months ago, a U.S.-built Pakistani International Airlines Boeing 707 jetliner crashed and burned on landing at Cairo airport in the United Arab Republic. One hundred twenty-one persons were killed, six of them Americans. There was speculation that the pilot misjudged his altitude, or that the wing flaps failed to function properly.

Exactly what happened, however, Americans are likely never to know. For although the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board Bureau of Aviation Safety, the foremost air crash investigators in the world, volunteered to go in and probe the cause of the crash, the Pakistani and UAR governments stalled for 48 hours before acting on the offer—and then invited a CAB representative only as an "observer." By that time, desert tribesmen had rifled the wreckage, scattered the parts and made further investigation pointless.

The State Department has been negotiating foreign air service treaties, covering rights to operate to this country, for 21 years. These treaties cover everything from frequency of flights to the cities served. Yet they say next to nothing about the right—indeed, necessity—to investigate why a U.S.-made airplane crashed abroad. The result has been a deadly loophole in aviation safety.

Closing this loophole is vital to airlines and passengers everywhere. When an airliner crashes in the U.S., government, airlines and manufacturers routinely undertake an exhaustive investigation to find out why. If the cause can be pinpointed, it can be eliminated as a source of future crashes. When an American-built airliner crashes outside the U.S., the cause is of equal concern, since the U.S. builds most of the free world's commercial aircraft. Yet in many such cases our government, airlines and manufacturers can only stand by and wonder what happened.

Other Disasters

The Pakistani crash was only the most recent example. Also consider:

On June 3, 1962, another foreign-operated 707 crashed and burned on take-off at Orly Field, Paris, killing 130 persons, including 120 prominent residents of Atlanta, Ga., on an art tour of Europe. The U.S. was not invited to participate in the accident investigation. A report on the accident was received in this country—in French, which presented a serious problem in translation of highly technical matter—in January 1965. U.S. authorities won't say so publicly, but they are highly skeptical about the report's conclusions.

On November 27, 1962, a foreign-operated Douglas DC-8 crashed in Latin America, killing all 97 persons aboard. When CAB investigators arrived to examine the wreckage they could only conclude that evidence had been destroyed to keep the true cause from being known.

The CAB safety bureau is one of the most dedicated and productive investigative bodies in the world. It ferrets out the true facts of 95 per cent of the airline accidents it handles. It keeps a 10-man investigating team on round-the-clock alert to go anywhere a plane crashes.

Yet the only way these investigators can probe a foreign accident is by invitation of the foreign government. When the government is co-operative—as the British, Australian, Canadian, Irish and Italian are—this works fine. When the government balks, it does not.

CAB officials concede privately that the situation is "appalling," but say there is little they can do about it. The agency is not anxious to buck the State Department, and even the more outspoken CAB investigators only shrug their shoulders about the overseas picture.

U.S. airline officials point out further that foreign airlines do not have to follow U.S. safety regulations even when flying U.S.-built aircraft—and when competing against U.S. airlines.

The Federal Aviation Agency annually issues more than 200 safety regulations called airworthiness directives. These notices go to all U.S. airlines and manufacturers and usually require some modification in an aircraft mechanism. The airlines must comply no matter how costly or time consuming. Foreign airlines flying the same type of aircraft to this country need not.

Cracks in Wings

Foreign governments are supposedly notified of these directives through their diplomatic air attachés. What happens after that is anybody's guess. Last year Australian aviation officials grounded their Lockheed Electras after finding suspicious cracks in the wings. Three months earlier the FAA had issued an airworthiness directive which prescribed a means of repairing these cracks. Somehow the Australian government never got the word.

It is one of the unfortunate facts of aviation life that safety is tied directly to the dollar. An airline making money has no wish to cut corners and spends willingly for the little safety "extras." An airline losing money does not. Many foreign airlines lose small fortunes on service to the U.S. but their governments don't care—they're primarily interested in getting the U.S. tourist and his dollars to their countries. Thus, in all air service treaties, the U.S. has the upper hand. It would be a simple matter in negotiating these treaties to demand a provision that U.S. investigators be allowed to take part in accident investigations involving U.S.-built aircraft.

Many U.S. aviation officials now feel it is time for the State Department to negotiate new agreements—and tie them to cold cash. If an airline wants to fly to this country, they reason, it should be willing and should be made to meet the same standards as our own airlines. Such an approach might cost us a few fair-weather friends, but if it saved several hundred lives it would be worth it.

my favorite jokes

by Louis Quinn

EDITOR'S NOTE: Louis Quinn, born in Chicago but raised in Los Angeles, is a man of many talents—a skilled emcee, a dramatic actor, a disc jockey, and a gag writer who several years ago decided to become a comedian. Quinn, who appeared as Roscoe, the bookie in the 77 Sunset Strip TV program, has subsequently appeared as a comic in night clubs, state fairs, and half a dozen films. He is married to Christine Nelson, a night club entertainer he met while both were working in the Ray Bolger show. For a time Quinn starred on a 4-hour interview program from the Copacabana Lounge in New York. His interviews were always interspersed with jokes. They were so well received, Quinn decided to turn to comedy for a living. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

Remember, men, that your wife still likes candy, flowers, and perfume. Let her know you haven't forgotten. Mention them occasionally.

---

The current parking problem in big cities makes me think with nostalgia of the good old days—when the only tough thing about parking your car was getting your girl to agree to it.

---

A panhandler walked up to a man and begged for a dime for a cup of coffee, which was promptly given. Next day the man ran into the panhandler again and inquired, "Did you enjoy the coffee?"

"Drop dead!" the bum yelled, looking the man straight in the eye. "It kept me awake all night!"

---

Joey's mother had a luncheon and one of the ladies asked the boy how he liked his new baby sister.

"Oh, she's all right," replied Joey, "but there are a lot of things we needed worse".

---

A young debutante was enthusiastically describing her new boy friend, Bob, to her father.

"He sounds very nice, dear," said the father, "but does he have any money?"

"Oh, you men are all alike," answered the girl. "Bob asked me the same thing about you."

---

One of my friends is an unusual guy. He calls himself a police reporter because every month he has to report to the police.

---

My wife found a new way to save her money—she uses mine.

---

A visitor asked the little girl if her baby brother cried very much.

"Yes, he does," replied the girl. "He cries when you stick pins in him, he cries when you make faces at him, and he cries when he doesn't get his meals on time. But you really can't blame him for crying—he's too young to swear!"

---

Vacation: Two weeks in which you learn where to stay away from next year.

---

Husband to wife as they leave baby sitter with young son and start out for the evening: "I still say that when they begin asking for a blonde instead of a brunette, they're old enough to stay alone!"

---

Interior decorator: Someone who tells you what kind of furniture to buy, what kind of drapes to hang, what colors to use around your house—sort of like a mother-in-law with a license.

my favorite jokes

by Louis Quinn

EDITOR'S NOTE: Louis Quinn, born in Chicago but raised in Los Angeles, is a man of many talents—a skilled emcee, a dramatic actor, a disc jockey, and a gag writer who several years ago decided to become a comedian. Quinn, who appeared as Roscoe, the bookie in the 77 Sunset Strip TV program, has subsequently appeared as a comic in night clubs, state fairs, and half a dozen films. He is married to Christine Nelson, a night club entertainer he met while both were working in the Ray Bolger show. For a time Quinn starred on a 4-hour interview program from the Copacabana Lounge in New York. His interviews were always interspersed with jokes. They were so well received, Quinn decided to turn to comedy for a living. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

Remember, men, that your wife still likes candy, flowers, and perfume. Let her know you haven't forgotten. Mention them occasionally.

---

The current parking problem in big cities makes me think with nostalgia of the good old days—when the only tough thing about parking your car was getting your girl to agree to it.

---

A panhandler walked up to a man and begged for a dime for a cup of coffee, which was promptly given. Next day the man ran into the panhandler again and inquired, "Did you enjoy the coffee?"

"Drop dead!" the bum yelled, looking the man straight in the eye. "It kept me awake all night!"

---

Joey's mother had a luncheon and one of the ladies asked the boy how he liked his new baby sister.

"Oh, she's all right," replied Joey, "but there are a lot of things we needed worse".

---

A young debutante was enthusiastically describing her new boy friend, Bob, to her father.

"He sounds very nice, dear," said the father, "but does he have any money?"

"Oh, you men are all alike," answered the girl. "Bob asked me the same thing about you."

---

One of my friends is an unusual guy. He calls himself a police reporter because every month he has to report to the police.

---

My wife found a new way to save her money—she uses mine.

---

A visitor asked the little girl if her baby brother cried very much.

"Yes, he does," replied the girl. "He cries when you stick pins in him, he cries when you make faces at him, and he cries when he doesn't get his meals on time. But you really can't blame him for crying—he's too young to swear!"

---

Vacation: Two weeks in which you learn where to stay away from next year.

---

Husband to wife as they leave baby sitter with young son and start out for the evening: "I still say that when they begin asking for a blonde instead of a brunette, they're old enough to stay alone!"

---

Interior decorator: Someone who tells you what kind of furniture to buy, what kind of drapes to hang, what colors to use around your house—sort of like a mother-in-law with a license.

---

8 times more power to stop pain of HEMORRHOIDS!

Soothing Nupercainal concentrates on pain! Prolonged relief of pain, burning and itching starts in minutes.

If you suffer the almost unbearable misery of hemorrhoids, remember this about remedies you can buy for temporary relief. The leading "shrinking" preparation contains no anesthetic to relieve that pain.

No wonder so many doctors recommend Nupercainal Ointment. Soothing Nupercainal stops pain, itching, burning fast . . . gives prolonged relief . . . because it has over eight times more pain-killing power than the other most commonly-used topical anesthetic!

Nupercainal quickly puts raw nerve ends to sleep . . . thus puts pain to sleep. Lets you go about your business . . . relieved of the stabbing pain, burning and itching torment of hemorrhoids. Get Nupercainal Ointment today—handy applicator with each tube. Start to live again, in comfort!

Nupercainal® OINTMENT

Helps Solve 3 Biggest FALSE TEETH Worries and Problems

A little FASTEETH sprinkled on your dentures does all this: (1) Helps hold false teeth more firmly in place; (2) Holds them more comfortably; (3) Lets you bite up to 35% harder without discomfort. FASTEETH Powder is alkaline (non-acid). Won't sour. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling! Avoid embarrassment. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.
